Producer Dick Wolf, who has a history of treating his actors like props (he also fired Chris Noth from Law & Order), has issued a statement reading, "I see the changes for New York Undercover as a necessary step in broadening the show's appeal, and to push the show in a new direction, in the same way that Law & Order expanded its audience when we added two female characters in the fourth season."

Q: In the middle to late '70s, I saw a TV movie starring Alan Arkin as a recently committed mental patient who eventually escaped from the institution with damaging video evidence showing the cruel treatment of patients. I think it was called Escape From Hell, but I've never seen it listed. My friends are considering having me committed. –Thomas Garcia in Florida.

A: Actually, Thomas, Escape From Hell was one of the titles being considered for the NBC movie that eventually aired on Jan. 17, 1978, as The Other Side of Hell. Besides Arkin, the large cast also included Morgan Woodward and Roger E. Mosley, and the plot was just as you described. So loosen those straitjackets, guys!

Q: I recently caught a reference to a movie with Julie Andrews as a violinist battling multiple sclerosis. Being a violinist myself, I would like to find the movie, but I can't recall the title. –S.F. via e-mail.

A: Andrews gave a powerful performance in Duet for One, a 1986 drama based on the real-life tragedy of cellist Jacqueline du Pre, the late wife of conductor Daniel Barenboim.

Rupert Everett, currently stealing the show in My Best Friend's Wedding, co-stars.

Q: Are Jim and Timothy Hutton related? They look just alike. –Gail Buckbee, Burton, Ohio.

A: Timothy is the son of the late Jim Hutton.

Q: In the movie Tombstone, who played the character of Johnny Ringo? –Amanda Newnham, Erie, Mich.

A: That was Michael Biehn playing Ringo.

IN FOCUS

Gene Shalit, film critic for NBC's Today, hosts a tribute to movie music in "Star Wars and the Hollywood Sound," an episode of Evening at Pops airing Monday, Aug. 11, on PBS (check local listings).

Laureate conductor John Williams leads the Boston Pops through a performance of dynamic scores from such movies as Raiders of the Lost Ark, Lawrence of Arabia and Schindler's List. Soloists include Itzhak Perlman and Grover Washington Jr.

Elvis Presley made 33 movies between 1956 and 1972, keeping up a pace of two to three films a year in the 1960s.

Though sharks can live up to 100 years, they never need dentures. They lose and regrow thousands of teeth in a lifetime.

Trail of Hope traces Mormons' passage

By Suzanne Gill

Note to Mr. Dennis Rodman: If there's one must-see film for you this summer, it's Trail of Hope: The Story of the Mormon Trail, airing Sunday, Aug. 10, on PBS (check local listings).

Besides explaining that the Mormons, or Latter-day Saints, are indeed a religious group, Trail of Hope offers an inspiring look at the courageous pilgrimage of a people both forced and called to settle a new land.

Established in 1830 in New York, Mormonism moved west to Nauvoo, Ill. There, in 1844, founder Joseph Smith was murdered, and church elder Brigham Young decreed the Saints would migrate to the valley of the Great Salt Lake.

The parallels of this story to the biblical exodus of the Israelites from Egypt were as clear then as now. The travelers were organized under the same system the Israelites used. Once, when it appeared they were facing starvation, quails flew into camp, as they did in the biblical tale. And Young, who is likened to Moses by scholar Harold Bloom, almost died a few miles short of the goal, just as Moses died before his people crossed the Jordan.

Bloom describes both movements as "a religion that became a people."

"It just goes to prove that when a people have a common vision and all work together, something can be done," notes Hal Holbrook, the film's narrator. "I think it's a lesson for the country today."

Trail plays down the controversial aspects of Mormonism, including the early practice of polygamy, but it captures a rare spirit of determination and brotherly love that does credit to the memory of the pioneers.

Trail of Hope: The Story of the Mormon Trail* traces the Mormons' exodus to Utah in the mid-19th century. The film airs Sunday on PBS (check local listings).

New Horizons Submits 1997 Final Report

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College recently submitted its final for fiscal year 1997, completing 17½ years of program operation at GCC. New Horizons is a program that provides special services to single parents, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant women. The program provided services during FY97 to 127 individuals. Services included peer and career counseling, decision making, career testing, skills identification, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in both credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

A total of 70 unduplicated program participants were enrolled in educational classes, which is 55.1% of total participants served in FY97. Forty-four program participants, or 34.6% of total participants, enrolled in credit college studies at GCC or other higher education institutions. Thirty-four program participants, or 26.8% of total participants, enrolled in non-credit training.

New Horizons helped participants meet training costs with tuition/book assistance made available to qualifying participants. Thirty-two participants in non-credit vocational classes received financial assistance, which is 94.1% of those enrolled in non-credit. Twelve participants enrolled in vocational credit classes received financial assistance, which is 27.3% of those enrolled in credit. Thirty-nine program participants, or 88.6% of those enrolled in credit courses, qualified for financial aid through Pell Grants. Child care and transportation subsidies enabled 31 program participants, or 24.4% of total program participants, to receive child care/transportation assistance while enrolled in training. Five program participants enrolled in credit programs completed AA degrees and four completed certificate programs. Of those enrolled in noncredit programs, three completed Geriatric Aide certification, five completed Employment Skills Training in Small Business or Office Skills to receive certification, eight completed Training of the Child Care Worker for certification, and 19 completed Career Planning and received certificates.

New Horizons program staff referred eight program participants to GCC's Job Placement office for assistance in job placement. Thirty-four program participants became employed either full-time or part-time during FY97.

Persons interested in learning more about the New Horizons Program and eligibility requirements are encouraged to call New Horizons at 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3102 Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 89.5% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,300, which is 10.5% of the total budget.

EXPANDING CHILDREN'S HOME - Construction began recently at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust near Grantsville. The project underway is expansion of the smallest children's residence, the Thomas House. The project has been undertaken by FoxCraft Home Builders of LaVale. FoxCraft is asking of companies to join in by donating time, equipment, and services. Mallow Landscaping, Inc., Cumberland, donated the equipment and services of employees. They are pictured above as they begin the earthmoving portion of the project. Below is a sketch of the Thomas House as it will look with the new addition on the left.

BITTINGER

The Bittinger volunteer firemen and the Women's Auxiliary will hold the last chicken barbecue dinner of the season and the Annual Bittinger Picnic at the fire hall on Saturday, August 16, beginning at noon. Everyone is welcome.

Shirley O'Brien continues to be a patient at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh.

The next meeting of the Bethesda Church of the Brethren youth group has been scheduled for September 6. The time for the meeting will be 3 to 6 p.m.

W.O.W. Lodge 68 held its regular monthly meeting with the president, Joseph Buckel, presiding. Bill Emory reported that repairs had been made to the playground equipment at the fire hall. A bill for materials used was presented and approved. Possibilities for future projects were discussed.

Ralph and Ethel Buckel went on a bus trip to Romney where they boarded the Potomac Eagle for a three-hour train ride along the South Branch of the Potomac. Points of historical interest were explained. Deer and bald eagles were seen as well as floaters on the Potomac. Lunch was served on the train. On Monday they attended a picnic and square dance at the home of Donna and Jim Carney of Terra Alta, W.Va.

Alexanders Meet At Accident Park

Accident Community Park hosted members and friends of the Alexander family Saturday, July 26, for a family reunion. Twenty-five family members and three family friends attended the event and shared a meal together. Five of the eight families were represented.

Another reunion was scheduled for Saturday, July 25, 1998.

New Horizons Now Accepting New Applications

The New Horizons Displaced Homemaker's Program of Garrett Community College is now accepting new program participants for FY98. New Horizons is the center for single parents, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant women and is designed to help program participants to access training so that participants will have the necessary job skills to make them self sufficient.

Eligible for the program are: single parents who are unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and have sole or joint custody of a minor child or children, or are currently pregnant; displaced homemakers who are adults with diminished job skills, who have lost their primary source of income through divorce, death, or disability of a spouse, and who are unemployed or underemployed; and homemakers who lack marketable job skills because they have been caring for their family and home without salary.

New Horizons can offer program participants the following services: counseling and support, which includes career exploration, goal setting, and action plan; Career Planning class, a five-week, 10-session of self evaluation and career exploration; tuition assistance for credit and non-credit vocational classes at GCC; child care and/or transportation assistance while attending college; and referrals to community agencies for additional services.

New Horizons can help program participants to: obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options; identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college; and review employment options.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3102 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total budget for New Horizons, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,300, which is 10% of the total budget for New Horizons.

LITTLE BROTHERS AND SISTERS GO SWIMMING - The Garrett County branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters recently provided lessons for children in the program interested in learning to swim. The participants learned a wide variety of strokes, floating, and treading skills. The instructors were Big Brother Ed Hill, Big Sister Sandy Wilson, and Kerry Graybill. The lessons were made possible by a donation from the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland.

Lucas Attends PartyLite Conf.

A local resident and independent consultant with PartyLite, Ruth Lucas, attended the annual PartyLite National Conference in Cincinnati July 30-August 2. PartyLite Gifts, Inc., is the leading direct sales marketer of candles and candle accessories.

The conference, themed "Power of the Dream," was attended by more than 6,000 independent consultants from across the nation--an increase of nearly 2,000 over the previous year. As part of the group, Ms. Lucas participated in daily business training seminars, recognition for outstanding performances, a formal awards banquet, live entertainment, and announcements of new products and incentive contests.

A resident of Oakland, Lucas began her career with PartyLite 1½ years ago as an independent consultant. Managing a personal business, she not only provides customers in the Oakland area with decorating advice, but also provides training for new consultants.

PartyLite brand products are sold exclusively via in-home demonstrations by more than 14,000 independent consultants nationwide.

PartyLite Gifts, Inc., based in Plymouth, Mass., is a subsidiary of Blyth Industries, Inc., the nation's largest manufacturer of candles for home and commercial use.

St. John's Church Project Completed

St. John's United Church of Christ, Salisbury, Pa., announced recently that the project of re-pointing the brickwork of the 102-year-old church building has been completed. Colonial Waterproofing Company performed the work, courtesy of a gift to St. John's from the estate of Margaret Lowry, according to Rev. Raymond Brown, pastor.

Maryland Sells GO Bonds Worth $250 Million

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor Parris N. Glendening, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer Richard N. Dixon, sold $250,000,000 in General Obligation (GO) bonds for a low interest bid of 4.639684% on Wednesday, July 30.

A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers submitted the winning bid for the state's largest General Obligation bond sale since October 1993, when $283,170,000 in bonds were sold.

The board reviewed these bids. The bonds had been rated Triple A, the best possible rating, by Moody's Investors Service, Inc., Standard & Poor's Corporation, and Fitch Investors Service, Inc., the three major bond rating agencies. The Triple A rating means the state pays lower interest costs.

Proceeds from the $250 million bond sale will be used to fund a variety of loan authorizations, including general state construction, higher education facilities, water quality and Chesapeake Bay projects, and a variety of local cultural and jail projects.

In assigning the Tripie A rating, Fitch noted the state's strong reserves and wealthy, diversified economy. Moody's cited the state's healthy revenue growth and careful monitoring of debt burden. Standard & Poor's pointed to Maryland's high wealth and income indicators and the state's sound financial performance and position.

Governor Glendening said, "The cooperation of the General Assembly, our financial stewardship, and the continuity of the efforts of prior administrations make it possible for us to retain the Triple A bond rating."

Comptroller Goidstein added, "The fact that there were three strong bids separated by five one-thousandths of one percent is an indicator of how highly sought after Maryland's General Obligation bonds really are."

"Maryland has had the Triple A rating from the three major bond rating agencies longer than any other state in the union," said Treasurer Dixon.

Maryland is one of only seven states in the nation to retain the coveted Triple A rating from all of the major bond rating agencies. These 15-year bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the state, are sold in denominations of $5,000. They are available to the public from brokers and bond dealers.

Maryland last sold General Obligation bonds in February 1997, when $240 million in bonds were sold for a low interest bid of 4.9026%.

Awarded Degree At Wesleyan

A local resident has graduated from West Virginia Wesleyan College, announced Dean G. Thomas Mann.

Sean Gregory, son of Gary and Patricia Gregory, Oakland, is a 1993 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. Gregory graduated with a bachelor of science degree in engineering physics and economics.

West Virginia Wesleyan College, located in Buckhannon, offers more than 40 academic majors in the liberal arts and career-related fields of study including four bachelor degrees and the master of business administration degree. Affiliated with the United Methodist Church, Wesleyan has an enrollment of approximately 1,600 students.

Stephens Reunion Held July 26

The 33rd annual reunion of the Peter J. Stephens family was held Saturday, July 26, at the Grantsville Community Park, with 27 members and friends present.

Members were present from Maryland, West Virginia, and Virginia.

The meal blessing was given by Grace Trost, Pinto.

President Ruby Collins presided over the business meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Don Jenkins II will be serving as co-presidents in the coming year. Family members deceased since July '96 were: Denzil Stephens, Clarksburg; Don Broadwater, Frostburg; Reid King, Swanton; Bob Jenkins, Grantsville; Jesse Kimble, Barton; and G.C. (Slim) Alexander, Edgewater, Fla.

Prizes were awarded to Josh Jenkins, Frostburg, youngest boy, 6; Ashley Jenkins, Frostburg, youngest girl, 4; Margret Knox, Grantsville, oldest woman present, 86; Richard Stephens, Westernport, oldest man, 74; Lulu Smith, Winchester, Va., traveled farthest; Hazel Jenkins, Potomac Park, most family members present.

Next year's reunion will take place on Saturday, July 25.

Accident Car Wash To Benefit House Of Hope

A car wash will be held this Saturday, Aug. 9, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Hartman's Amoco Station, located along Rt. 219 in Accident. All proceeds generated for the day will be donated to the House of Hope in Oakland.

The House of Hope is a network of caring individuals working together to provide short-term emergency assistance to those with a legitimate need, when no federal or state agency can help or when those agencies have exhausted their resources. In addition to emergency services, the House of Hope also operates four food pantries throughout the county.

This event is being sponsored by Carol Slawson and Brenda Rafferty of Just Us Styling & Tanning Salon in Accident and Rick Hartman, owner of the Amoco station. The car wash will be manned by several students from Northern High School.

"By supporting the House of Hope," Miss Slawson said, "we are helping Garrett County people who are in need."

There will be no set price for the car washes, but donations are requested. Those wishing to contribute directly to the House of Hope may do so by mailing their donations to P.O. Box 24, Oakland, MD 21550, or by calling 301-334-2357.

Temporary Roadway For Route 219 Open

PennDOT (the Pennsylvania state transportation department) announced that a temporary roadway was placed in service yesterday, Aug. 6, near the site of the former IGA Market just south of Meyersdale, Pa.

According to Thomas Helsel, PennDOT's project engineer for the Meyersdale Bypass, the temporary roadway is necessary in order for the contractor to construct a large box culvert, which will eventually carry Miller Run under the existing Route 219.

Helsel said because the box culvert will be constructed very near the entrance to Industrial Park Road (Township Road 706), that entrance off Route 219 will be closed and traffic from the industrial park will be diverted behind the schools to Shaw Mines Road (Township Road 825).

Route 219 traffic will use the newly constructed temporary roadway.

The new box culvert will be 116 feet in length, 15 feet wide, and five feet high, and will be a cast-in-place, reinforced concrete structure.

Helsel said it will be seven to eight weeks until the structure is completed and Industrial Park Road reopened.

The work is part of the $53.1 million construction of the Route 219 bypass of Meyersdale.

Local Group To Build Bolivian Rehab Center

Plans underway by a local group involve a flight to Sucré, Bolivia, to build a drug rehabilitation center.

This will not the first such trip made by members of this group, which is organized under the auspices of the Assemblies of God. The individuals involved with the team have varied somewhat over the last seven or eight years, but the core of workers on the mission have remained dedicated to the cause.

Each year the team solicits volunteers, funds, and materials for its Bolivian project. These solicitations are currently underway with this year's target for departure being the end of December.

According to Garland Maust, a five-year veteran of the group, the mission planning committee estimates 18 to 20 people will make the trip this year. "Right now we have 10 to 15 people who are fully committed to the trip," he said.

Other than rounding up a group of capable volunteer workers, the greatest task facing the team is funding. "We're getting estimates on funding needs right now," Maust explained, noting that the fund-raising effort for the Bolivian mission is an ongoing concern. "We have a few people who choose fund-raising projects. The rest of us show up and help. We'll have some hoagie and pizza sales," he noted as examples.

The volunteers who head off to Bolivia each winter are not all members of the Assemblies of God. Maust said that last year eight different churches were represented on the work crew.

Prados, the name of the rehabilitation center that is planned, is the main focus of this year's trip to South America. But, should time allow, Maust said, the North American visitors will also do some maintenance or remodeling work on two homes for orphans in Bolivia.

A previous project of the group, a seminary college in Sucré, is currently undergoing finish work by a Bolivian construction crew.

Maust said that anyone who is interested in donating time or funds to the Bolivian mission work may call him at 301-245-4216, Carl Fike at 301-334-4840, or Roger Skipper at 301-387-5227.

St. Paul's Will Host Jubilators

The Jubilators Gospel Quartet from Cumberland, will be in concert at St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland, on Aug. 9 at 6:30 p.m.

The group began singing in April of 1966. Appearing at approximately 100 engagements a year at churches, civic organizations, and fairs, the group travels 10,000 miles or more a year. The spouses of the members travel with them as much as possible.

The quartet consists of: Jim Glover, first tenor; Gene Streett, lead; Delford Crowe, baritone; Pete Pritts, bass; Dottie Streett, pianist; and Keith Miller, bass guitar.

St. Paul's is located on the corner of 4th and Oak streets in Oakland and is handicapped accessible. A free will offering will be taken and the public is invited to attend. For more information, persons may contact the church office at 301-334-2391.

AVFD RECEIVES DONATION - The Accident Volunteer Fire Department received a donation of $160 recently from a town business. The Thrift Shop and More, owned by Al Herman, held a hot dog sale during Accident's 4th of July Homecoming to help raise money for the Aident VFD's new fire truck. To the $60 proceeds of the sale, Herman added a $100 personal donation. Other recent contributions from the shop have gone to the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library and the Greater Laurel Women's Club. Pictured above, Rhonda "Cricket" Bowes presents the check on behalf of The Thrift Shop to Steve Wendling, vice president of the Accident VFD.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(Special) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis" ® and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis ® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis ® is guaranteed to work or your money back .

An American Hero
by Dr. Robert B. Pamplin, Jr. and Gary K. Eisler

JONAS SALK

Is there any love higher than that of a parent for a child? Can a parent feel any greater sorrow than when a child suffers?

Of course not, and that is why the man who dried up a river of tears will forever be an American hero. Dr. Jonas Salk did more to alleviate suffering _ particularly among the young _ than perhaps any other American.

Salk led the team that developed the first vaccine against the dreaded polio virus. The summer of 1952 was the worst year on record for polio _ with nearly 60,000 new cases. Parents kept their children away from swimming pools for fear they would contract the virus.

Often, polio led to death. But more often, it caused paralysis and withered arms and legs _ victims hobbled about in steel leg braces or wheelchairs. In extreme cases, the victim lost the ability to breathe, and survived in a contraption called an "iron lung."

Overcoming this disease was the dream of generations. What makes Salk a hero is the adversity he faced to do so, and his generosity with the cure he developed. Professional jealousy led some other scientists to oppose his work. There were those who spread the fear that the Salk vaccine could actually cause the disease. Salk had to prove the new vaccine was safe. He decided to inoculate not only himself, but his three small sons and his wife. "I wasn't going to inoculate anybody else without first inoculating myself and my own children," he said.

In 1955, anxious parents greeted with joy the announcement of the success of the clinical trials. All over the country, they stood in line with their children at clinics and schools _ wherever the vaccine could be administered.

Such a wonderful cure could yield the developer billions of dollars. But Salk never received a dime for the vaccine. Edward R. Murrow asked Salk about patenting the medicine, and Salk replied that it "belonged to the people. Could you patent the sun?"

Salk died in 1955 at the age of 80, still seeking cures for cancer and other diseases.

Home Tips

QUICK FIND — To be able to find the right earrings at all times, I place my post earrings on a foam (paper) plate.

All pairs are together and there's no more searching! Diane M., W. Hempstead, N.Y.

OOPS! — My husband and I cleaned our car interior with a commercial preparation before reading the instructions. When we sprayed the clear plastic that covers the speedometer, it left the plastic fogged, making it hard to see through.

No amount of washing would fix our mistake but a little cooking oil on a paper towel removed the fog and brought back the shine. It's as good as new! J.P., Flin Flon, Manitoba, Canada

LAUNDRY TIP — Before putting soiled clothing in the laundry hamper or down the chute, check each garment for stains. Highlight each stain with a small safety pin for pre-spotting before washing, thereby saving laundry-day time, but most importantly, eliminating the chance of overlooking a stain. Florence H., St. Clair Shores, Mich.

INSTANT BREAKFAST — My kids love pancakes and would eat them every morning if I let them. One day, instead of throwing out the extra batter, I made up extra pancakes and wrapped them up with plastic wrap, two or four in each wrap.

I put them in the freezer, and the next time they want pancakes, all I have to do is reach for the freezer and microwave what they want. You can use a toaster too. It's fast and easy. Jill H., Redmond, Wash.

WATER DISPENSER — Instead of discarding your empty dish-soap bottle, use it to water your small potted plants. It is quick and easy and keeps your plants from drying out or getting overwatered.

And for those empty coffee cans, decorate them with leftover wallpaper or fabric and pot them with beautiful flowers. Gina V., Brookfield, N.H.

Names often become part of our language, and the words can develop meanings that are far removed from their origins.

The fourth Earl of Sandwich liked taking quick snacks at the gambling table. His name came to mean a special kind of food.

Moxie Nerve Food was first served in 1876 in Salem, Mass. By the 1880s, it was added to a carbonated soda and offered in drug stores.

When Moxie stock was offered for sale to the public, the soda was still a new product, and it was a high-risk investment for the time. Only daring investors bought the stock. It was said that such people had "a lot of stock," later meaning "a lot of nerve."

People collect the many Moxie advertising items, including paper fans, postcards, signs, bottles, trays and clocks.

One of the most expensive pieces of Moxie memorabilia is the Moxie advertising clock made in the early days of the company. It carries the slogans, "Compound for the nervous system," "Also a delicious and healthful beverage" and "Only in bottles — never drawn from soda fountains." The clock is worth more than $7,500.

Moxie is still being made and is sold in New England.

Q. My drop-front desk is made of oak. It's just 23 inches wide and 13 inches deep. There's a 7-inch-high beveled mirror on the top. The front of the drop lid is decorated with scroll carvings. Can you tell me how old it is?

A. Your description matches the Lady Washington Boudoir Desk advertised in the 1908 Larkin catalog. Customers could have the desk in exchange for five certificates obtained by buying Larkin beauty products.

Those "giveaway" desks are now in demand. They sell for about $750.

Bridgewater College Honors Spoerlein Family

SPOERLEIN LECTURE HALL is the name of a new building on the campus of Bridgewater College, which was made possible via a major gift to the college by the Randall Spoerlein of New Windsor. The building is also in honor of the Ernest Spoerlein family of Oakland, of which many members are Bridgewater alumni. Ernest, who is a nephew of Randall Spoerlein, is also a 40-plus year member of the Bridgewater College board of trustees. Pictured above in front of the new lecture hall are: Christa Updyke Knotts, Brenden Updyke, Alice Spoerlein, Carolyn Spoerlein Updyke, and Ernest Spoerlein. See story for details.

Four generations of the Spoerlein family of New Windsor and Oakland have been recognized at Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., for their support and friendship.

The Spoerlein Lecture Hall was dedicated July 22 on the Bridgewater campus in tribute to the late Randall Spoerlein of New Windsor and the Ernest Spoerlein family of Oakland. The lecture hall is the major auditorium in the McKinney Center for Science and Mathematics, the college's new 75,000-square-foot classroom and laboratory building that is named for another western Maryland benefactor, the late Robert M. McKinney of Westminster.

At a brief ceremony and luncheon, Bridgewater President Phillip C. Stone noted the leadership Ernest Spoerlein has given the college as a member of the board of trustees since 1956. Until his retirement, Spoerlein was a math teacher and guidance counselor in the Garrett County public schools and served as director of federal programs for the Garrett County Board of Education. He has served 10 terms on the board of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren and twice has been moderator of the West Marva District of the Church of the Brethren.

Ernest Spoerlein is a 1933 graduate of Bridgewater, and his wife, the former Alice Tucker, is a 1931 alumna. Their daughter, Carolyn Spoerlein Updyke, Oakland, is a 1964 alumna, and her son, Brenden Updyke, who now lives in McGaheysville, Va., is a 1993 graduate.

Ernest Spoerlein is a nephew of Randall Spoerlein, who did not attend Bridgewater, but was classified as an alumnus because he attended Blue Ridge College in New Windsor, which later merged with Bridgewater. Randall Spoerlein, a dairy farmer and, for 22 years, the mayor of New Windsor, died in 1991 and left the college more than $1.1 million.

The Spoerlein Lecture Hall seats 116 and is used for large classes, for faculty meetings, and for community gatherings. It features built-in access to electronic teaching aids, including the World Wide Web.

President Stone noted that a permanent plaque marks the entrance to the Spoerlein Lecture Hall. It reads: "This room is dedicated in honor of the Spoerlein family of Oakland and New Windsor, Maryland, and in appreciation for the family's long and generous support of Bridgewater College."

Those attending the dedication included Ernest and Alice Spoerlein, D.C. "Buzz" and Carolyn Updyke, and Douglas and Christa Updyke Knotts, all of Oakland, and Brenden Updyke, McGaheysville, Va.

Bridgewater College, founded in 1880, is located in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley. Co-educational since its founding, it is affiliated with the Church of the Brethren and has an enrollment of more than 1,000 full-time undergraduate students.

Planning Meeting For Social Work Caucus Is Set

A planning meeting to develop a local social work caucus has been scheduled for Aug. 25 at Garrett Community College. The meeting is set to run from 9:30 a.m. until noon.

The purpose of the meeting is to explore the feasibility of a county caucus that would provide local meetings to keep the public informed of legislative issues and to promote professional education opportunities. All social workers, especially those licensed to provide services in Maryland, are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Nancy Forlifter will be at the meeting to review the organizational process of forming a caucus. Technical assistance is being provided by the Area Health Education Center (AHEC).

For more information, persons may contact Susan Athey-Oxford at 301-334-1189 or Donna McClintock at 301-334-8113.

Steyer Named To Who's Who

Melissa Steyer, a senior at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Her overall achievements contributed to her selection for this honor, as well as her ranking in the top five percent of her high school class. Melissa will be eligible for a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

At Southern High School she is a member of the Christian Club and is also a member of the youth group at the Crellin Assembly of God. She has performed in dramatic productions.

Throughout her school career, Melissa has had perfect attendance. As a result of her achievements she has also earned a Success in School plaque.

Melissa, the daughter of David and Linda Steyer of Oakland, plans to attend Garrett Community College after graduation and then continue her education at Frostburg State University.

Four Young Women Prepare For Garrett Co. Farm Queen Contest

Four young Garrett County farm women were honored last Wednesday night at the Point View Inn, McHenry, by members of the Farm Bureau Women's Committee. These four young women will be contestants in the 1997 Garrett County Farm Queen Contest to be held Sunday, August 10, at the Garrett County Fair beginning at 8 p.m. The winner of the county contest will represent Garrett County Farm Bureau and agriculture throughout the year and will compete in the Maryland State Farm Queen Contest at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. This year's four contestants are: Jennifer Linn Barnard, Amanda Louise Hinebaugh, Susan G. Mayfield, and April Leigh Enlow.

Jennifer Linn Barnard, the 18-year-old daughter of William and Debra Barnard, lives on an extended family farm near Swanton. The family owns approximately 300 acres, and Jennifer's uncles rent several hundred additional acres. Jennifer, her mother, father, and two younger brothers live on the farm, in addition to her three uncles, their families and her grandmother. Many farming enterprises are practiced on the farm, including dairy cattle, sheep and a few beef cattle.

Her farm responsibilities include the family garden with 104 tomato plants, cleaning barns, yard maintenance, and caring for her 4-H and FFA project animals. Indoors, she cleans, does laundry, cooks and helps when canning time rolls around.

Jennifer recently graduated from Southern High School and will be entering the University of Maryland this fall. During her high school career, she was an honor roll student and maintained a grade point average of 3.8. She received the Soil Conservation Scholarship, a private scholarship endowment from the University's Agriculture Department and a State of Maryland scholarship.

While a member of the Southern Garrett FFA, she served as president. She is also a member of the FFA meat, livestock, agriculture business management and dairy foods judging teams. She has participated in public speaking, and will be representing the state of Maryland in Kansas City at the National FFA Convention as leader of the parliamentary procedure team. She was selected as the agricultural student of the month at Southern High School. She participated in the Food For America Program in the local public elementary schools, and started a petting zoo for the Autumn Glory Festival last fall. During her years in FFA and 4-H she carried beef, swine, sheep and veal animal projects.

Jennifer's other school activities included the National Honor Society, where she served as secretary/treasurer. She was a member of the Southern Garrett Marching Band and Concert Band for four years, and was drum major for two years. She has been a 4-H member for 11 years, and has served in all the officers' positions as well as representing the Western Region eight times in the public speaking contest. She represented Garrett County four years in the State Dress Revue, participated on the Nutrition Bowl team, and won a trip to Reno, Ne., with the Make-it-Yourself-with-Wool Program. She represented the state of Maryland in the National 4-H Fashion Revue in Memphis, Tenn., at 4-H Club Congress and at the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C.

She attends the Deer Park United Methodist Church, where she accompanies the choir and acts as a substitute piano player for congregational singing.

This fall at the University of Maryland, Jennifer will major in animal and veterinary science. After finishing eight years of schooling she hopes to live in a small, rural area and have her own veterinary practice.

Amanda Louise Hinebaugh, the 16-year-old daughter of Rodney and Nancy Hinebaugh of Red House, lives on a 150-acre beef and sheep farm. Amanda is a four-year member of the Red House 4-H Club, where she has held the position of secretary for two consecutive years. She owns and raises her own market lamb and market swine.

On the farm, her outdoor responsibilities are to help maintain the yard by keeping it mowed, help in the garden, and take care of her market lamb and swine for the fair. She makes sure they are fed twice a day and always makes sure they have water. She walks her lamb everyday and tries to bath her once a week.

Her home responsibilities are to keep her bedroom clean and help clean the rest of the house, wash dishes, help with laundry, and help with canning.

Amanda will begin her junior year at Southern High School and is entered in two career pathways. One is accounting and the other is business data processing. She has achieved honor roll and distinguished honor roll so far through her high school career. She was student of the month for driver's education for the month of May in 1997.

Some of her ag activities at home are stacking hay on the wagon, helping unload hay, and helping grind feed. She also cleans animal pens in the barns, and spreads sawdust and straw in the clean pens.

She participates in several community activities, such as working at a day care center helping children, working at a volunteer fire department during a ramp dinner, and helping maintain a grave yard for community service hours. She has also participated in concert band at Southern High School.

Amanda has many special interests and hobbies. She has an interest in playing softball, and loves watching small children, swimming, and sewing. She likes making outfits to model in the fashion revue at the fair.

After she graduates from high school in two years. Amanda plans to go on to Garrett Community College to complete her general studies, then transferring to Frostburg State University to complete accounting classes. She plans to work at an accounting firm close to home, marry and begin raising a family soon after.

Susan G. Mayfield, the 16-year-old daughter of Hugh (Butch) and Debra Mayfield, lives with her father, mother, older brother and younger sister on a small farm on Fingerboard Road, near Oakland. Her family also owns and operates a 415-acre farm in Preston County, W. Va. On the nine-acre farm where she lives, the family has a few Jersey cows that fulfill their milk needs, a llama, and the steers and hogs she and her siblings raise for the fair. The livestock also includes her sister's 90-chicken FFA project. On this farm, she and her sister each grow 125 strawberry plants. Susan raises a few rabbits as a 4-H project, too.

The larger farm that her family operates is a Hereford/Angus beef cattle operation. In addition to the beef cattle, the Mayfields also raise Belgian draft horses. The crops grown on this farm by the family are corn, oats, and hay.

Susan's outdoor responsibilities are many. She feeds, prepares for show, and cares for her fair steer and hog. She also helps with the milking and care of the cattle. It is her responsibility to keep her strawberry plants weed free, help in the family garden, and mow the lawn. Most orphaned animals also become Susan's responsibility, and she is currently bucket feeding a Hereford calf. One of her main summertime jobs is helping with haymaking, where she usually stacks bales and helps unload the wagons. Some of her main wintertime jobs are helping feed the cattle and vaccinating and banding newborn calves.

Her home responsibilities include helping with the housecleaning, cooking, dishwashing, laundry, and feeding the cat and dog.

This year, Susan will be a junior at Southern High School, where she is taking honors and college prep classes. She is an active member of the Oakland FFA chapter, where she currently holds the office of treasurer. She is also president of the Shepherds 4-H Club. In FFA she helps with fund-raisers and is actively involved in many judging contests. She is currently a member of the first-place Maryland FFA Parliamentary Procedure Team and will be competing on the national level in Kansas City in November.

In her leisure time, Susan enjoys swimming and exploring the Internet. Her future plans include attending West Virginia University where she will major in agricultural engineering. Susan then plans to attend law school and pursue a career as a lawyer.

April Leigh Enlow is the 17-year-old daughter of William and Kristen Enlow and has one brother, Charles. Her family owns and operates a 120-holstein dairy farm near Friendsville. Over the years, April's own herd has grown to 12 dairy animals. Her family has been active members in Farm Bureau for three generations, and she and her brother are the fifth generation to continue the dairy business at the original Enlow farm.

Outdoor responsibilities for April are feeding calves, cleaning the barn, milking, baling hay, field work, gardening and mowing the lawn.

Her home responsibilities include helping with the dishes, laundry, cooking, cleaning, making jelly and canning. April has won the Ball Canning Award three times and several best-of-show ribbons.

April attends Northern Garrett County High School, where she maintains a B+ average and is a member of Who's Who Among High School Students. She will be a senior this year.

She is a six-year member of the North Star 4-H Club where she has held the offices of president, vice president, secretary and recreation leader. She is also a member of the Livestock Association and FFA. The 4-H projects she has carried are steers, hogs, lambs and Junior Leadership. She has won numerous awards for her animals and other entries, including the Agriculture Award, Citizenship Award, Teen Leadership Award and the Baity Ridder Rotary Award for Outstanding Fair Exhibitor.

One accomplishment April is very proud of is being the first girl to win the intermediate tractor operators contest in Garrett County.

She has also participated in the 4-H Nutrition Bowl and public speaking at the county and district levels.

In school April is involved in FFA and Honor Chorus, and is a three-year member of the varsity track team. She has received the most valuable hurdler award twice and the student athlete of the month award. She is involved with the tobacco-free campaign, food drive for the House of Hope, fair clean-up, and fund-raising for the fire department.

Her hobbies and special interests are skiing, swimming, walking in the woods and video archery.

April's future plans include attending Garrett Community College and then transferring to a four-year college such as the University of Maryland, majoring in agriculture.

EQIP To Offer Cost-Share Funds To Area Farmers

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has a new program, the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) for the Upper Potomac River Watershed, which includes Garrett and Allegany counties.

This five-year USDA program is targeted toward helping farmers with: ag waste systems, cropland management plans, riparian forest buffer establishment, pastureland management, forestry practices, cropland erosion control practices and practices for water quality protection.

Cost share funds can be as much as $50,000 spread over five years. The conservation districts and NRCS will give technical assistance for installing needed conservation practices and management plans. EQIP offers 5- to 10-year contracts. All major conservation concerns should be addressed. Money will be awarded for applicants whose contracts offer the best environmental benefits for the least cost.

The first EQIP sign-up period is July 14 through August 8, 1997. Those interested should contact one of the following offices: Garrett County NRCS Office, 301-334-6950; Garrett County Soil Conservation District, 301-334-6951; or Garrett County FSA Office, 301-334-6954.

In Allegany County calls should be made to: Allegany County NRCS Office, 301-777-1494; Allegany County Soil Conservation District, 301-777-1747; or Allegany County FSA Office, 301-777-1536.

Gov. Parris Glendening Asks For Disaster Relief For State Farmers

Governor Parris N. Glendening has formally asked U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman for disaster relief for Maryland farmers suffering from this summer's drought.

"The excessive heat and the prolonged dry spell in many key agricultural regions of the state, particularly in Central Maryland and portions of the Eastern Shore, are costing Maryland farmers millions of dollars in losses. These losses are mounting each day," Governor Glendening said.

"In my travels around Maryland, I have seen the stress the heat and lack of rain have caused on many of our farms. Therefore, I have requested that the Clinton Administration include Maryland farmers in all existing federal agricultural disaster assistance programs," said Governor Glendening.

The governor made the request in letters he signed last week and forwarded to President Bill Clinton and Secretary Glickman.

Governor Glendening and Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley were in Cecil County last week, where they met with farmers and discussed the statewide implications of the drought. The governor said now that we have made the request, a county-by-county assessment will be conducted to decide which counties will be eligible.

Preliminary surveys made by the Maryland State Consolidated Farm Service Agency show large losses in corn for grain and soybeans ranging from 25 to 50 percent. They estimate pasture losses in some counties as high as 80 percent. Particularly hard hit were agricultural operations in Frederick, Carroll and Washington counties.

During the next couple of weeks the Farm Service Agency will be preparing in-depth damage assessment reports for U.S. Department of Agriculture officials. A disaster designation makes farmers in high drought areas eligible to apply for any of the few remaining low-interest emergency loans from the Farm Service Agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Maryland farmers last qualified for disaster assistance during a severe drought in 1995.

GOVERNOR GLENDENING SEEKS FEDERAL RELIEF FOR MARYLAND FARMERS HURT BY DROUGHT--Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening (right), joined by Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis Riley, recently inspected some of the crops damaged by this summer's drought. Although Garrett County has not suffered drought conditions, Central Maryland and portions of the Eastern Shore have suffered severe drought. On Wednesday, July 30, Governor Glendening wrote to U.S. Department of Agriculture Dan Glickman, formally seeking federal disaster relief for those Maryland farmers who have suffered significant crop loss as a result of the drought.

Southern States Annual Meeting Set In Aurora

"Seventy-four years ago, farmers organized Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," stated Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Southern States: The Cooperative Advantage," the theme of this year's local annual membership meetings, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improving farm inputs and services," added Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Eglon Farm Service, Inc.

Board nominees are John W. Allman, Dave Harsh, Stanley Harsh, Terry Hauser, and Robert Strawser.

The FHAC slate consists of Betty Bolyard, Jill Hauser, Lois Strawser, and Ladeana Teets.

A taped report from Wayne A. Boutwell, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, will discuss the co-op's supply and marketing operations for the last fiscal year.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed. Local FHAC and board members completing terms will be recognized.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday, August 19, United Methodist Fellowship Center, Aurora, W.Va.

Southern States Cooperative, headquartered in Richmond, Va., operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products, and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in West Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The cooperative's membership totalled about 190,000 and the annual volume was more than $1.1 billion last year.

Late Blight on Tomatoes

Late blight, a fungus disease, is now taking its toll on tomato plants. Several folks had perfectly healthy tomato plants one day and the next day the plants were nearly dead. That's the way late blight affects a plant. The first symptoms may be black areas on the leaves, followed by wilting and the tomato fruit turning brown. Unfortunately, there is nothing you can do to save the crop. Late Blight has been a serious problem in tomatoes and potatoes for the past three or four years. Next year, plan to be on a preventive spray schedule using a preventive fungicide such as Bravo 720 or Manzate 200.

Do You Have Hay for Sale?

Farmers in Central Maryland have suffered crop losses from the recent drought. Many are looking for sources of hay. I have been keeping the county agents in those drought areas posted on who has hay to sell in our area. If you have hay for sale, call my office with the following information: Name, telephone number, kind of hay, and kind of bale.

Maryland Gets Spotty Rain But Drought Persists

Rain showers improved moisture conditions in some local areas throughout Maryland last week. However, dry soil conditions continued to hamper crop development in many areas, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. At the beginning of the week starting on August 4, 57% of the field corn was in either very poor to poor condition, while only 43% was in good to excellent condition.

The potato crop harvest progressed well, but was still behind the previous year's average.

Soybeans showed a little progress in condition, and are still slightly behind the previous year's average. Soybeans showed the conditions of 19% very poor, 18% poor, 25% fair, 35% good, and 3% excellent. Spider mites continue to be a problem in the soybean crop in Wicomico County. In some areas of Maryland, the drought continued to take a toll on corn and soybeans.

The sorghum crop was in 35% very poor, 6% poor, 14% fair, 37% good, and 8% excellent conditions.

Pastures showed a decrease in conditions with its percentages being 43% very poor, 22% poor, 20% fair, and 15% good. Looking around the state, hay supplies were 24% very short, 27% short, 48% adequate and 1% surplus.

Moisture conditions continued to deteriorate in many localities. Topsoil moisture was 43% very short, 30% short, and 27% adequate. Subsoil moisture was 40% very short, 32% short, and 28% adequate. There was an average of 6.7 days suitable for fieldwork.

The precipitation in Garrett County for the month of July was 3.1 inches, or 1.6 inches below the 4.7 inch normal. Allegany County was also 1.6 inches below the 4.1 normal, receiving 2.5 inches in July. The hardest hit areas in the state were Baltimore County which received 1.7 inch, or 2.2 inches less than the 3.9 inch normal. Montgomery County received 0.9 inch, or 2.8 inches less than the 3.7 inch normal. Howard County rainfall was 1.4 inch in July, or 2.2 inches less than the 3.6 inch normal. Prince George's County received 2.0 inches, or 2.0 inches less than the 4.0 inch normal. Anne Arundel County received 1.6 inch, or 2.1 inches less than the 3.7 inch normal usually received in July.

Grantsville High School Grads Of 1947 Reunite, Reminisce

The members of the Grantsville High School Class of 1947 observed the 50th anniversary of their graduation with a reunion at Holiday Inn, Grantsville, on July 26. Reminiscence and renewing acquaintances highlighted the social hour, which began at 6:30 p.m.

An autograph sheet was signed by class members as they arrived, and copies were made for each. The ladies were given corsages, and the men received boutonnieres of pink carnations, the class flower.

Greetings and a welcome were extended by the class president, Dale Kinsinger. The invocation was given by Leota Baker.

A dinner was served and group pictures were taken by Ken Specht Photography.

A memorial service was held to commemorate the lives of the following deceased classmates: Robert Beachy, Kenneth Crowe, Leah (Hetrick) Campbell, Eva (Blocher) Bittinger, and Edison Weimer. Joan Resh lighted five tall white candles as a tribute to the memory of the five classmates, as Leota Baker read the poem "Touching Shoulders." The candles burned throughout the evening.

Dale Kinsinger presided over the business meeting. The minutes and treasurer's report were read by Betty Jo Swauger, who also reported the statistics of past reunions. Mr. Kinsinger expressed gratitude and commended Mrs. Swauger for her continual participation in planning the reunions, which have been held since graduation.

William Durst, vice president, served as master of ceremonies for the program. He read a letter written by a classmate, Willis Durst, and gave a reading, "A Child's View of a Retired Life."

Marvin Broadwater reminisced about the past years, and extended congratulations to the three classmates and their husbands who are also celebrating the 50th year of marriage this year: Marcella (Wampler) and Lawrence Groer; Lillian (Baker) and Harold Crowe; and Joan (Butler) and Kenneth Resh.

Kermit Failinger also spoke to the group briefly.

Fred Wagner presented a reflection on the prices of automobiles, homes, and numerous other items that were prevalent in 1947, and related events in history occurring 50 years ago.

Mr. Wagner led a sing-a-long, consisting of songs sung in a minstrel show performed in high school. He also presented a vocal solo, "Ol' Man River," which he had sung in the minstrel show.

Martha Sebold presented each of the graduates with a gift of a 50¢ piece, minted in 1947.

A certificate of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Grimm was on display, to be sent to them, as they were unable to attend the reunion. Mr. Grimm was the sophomore class advisor, boys' athletic coach, and science teacher at Grantsville High School. Mrs. Grimm was the third grade teacher to members of the class who had attended Grantsville Elementary School.

A gift of appreciation was presented to Jean Richardson, who served as pianist for the singing and played several selections during the evening.

Betty Turner gave out copies of "A Life Lived and Shared," written by a fellow classmate.

Leota Baker presented certificates, which she had designed, to members of the class who were present. The certificate awarded a "master's degree" for a 50-year course of study in the "School of Experience and Hard Knocks."

The highlight of the reunion was the group's participation in singing "God Bless America," led by Mr. Wagner, and "How Great Thou Art," led by the trio of Dale Kinsinger, Fred Wagner, and William Durst.

Aside from spouses of classmates, visitors included Louise Vought, Brenna Mackell, and Kenneth Bittner, all former members of the class, who had moved from the area prior to graduation; and Twila McKee and Charles Gray.

All officers were retained for another term. A planning committee was selected, consisting of the class officers and Fred Wagner, Kermit Failinger, Marvin Broadwater, Jo Ann Bowser, and Martha Sebold.

The next reunion will be held in three years.

BITTINGER

Martha Glotfelty was visited by Miss Emily George Friday afternoon and on Saturday she was visited by Maxwell DeWitt, son of A.T. DeWitt.

Betty Broadwater celebrated her 75th birthday Sunday with a dinner at her home. In attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grout, Mrs. Molly Wiley, Delmas Broadwater, and Alice Jackson, all of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Resh, Tracy and Brian Resh, Jane Wiley, and Mike and Ethan Broadwater, all of Grantsville; Margaret Miller, Accident; Sharron, Danny, Mark, Amy, and Sarah Shawley, Bittinger; Joe Maust, Salisbury, Pa.; and Rick and Donna Broadwater, Swanton.

The next meeting of the Bethesda Church of the Brethren youth group will be a "Hallelujah Hop" on September 13. The time for the meeting will be 3 p.m. and the public is welcome.

STANDING IN THE SHADOW OF THE PAST, a gathering of young people for the 23rd annual Awareness Week for Forestry and Natural Resource Careers learn about the future of natural resources management, and perhaps something of their own future as well, while trolling the waters of the Casselman River for trout. As part of a practical experience in fisheries biology, the participants surround Al Klotz, DNR fisheries specialist, while he uses an electric prong connected to a battery-powered backpack to deliver a mild electric shock that temporarily stun fish in the immediate vicinity. The immobilized but unharmed fish were then netted by the teens and studied before being gently released back into the water.

Forestry And Citizenship Among Lessons At DNR Awareness Camp

by David Foster

Classrooms can come in many shapes and sizes, even with walls of trees and a ceiling of sun and blue sky.

A group of teens sloshed through the Casselman River last Wednesday, in the shadow of the old Casselman Bridge. Armed with nets and buckets, they were on the prowl for fish, brought to the surface by a Department of Natural Resources (DNR) fisheries specialist carrying a battery backpack with an electric prong he dipped into the water close to an unsuspecting trout. "There he is! Get him!" A mild pulse of electricity painlessly immobilizes the 12-inch rainbow trout, which is netted by the teens, brought into a bucket, and measured, weighed, and categorized.

The group was part of the 44 young people on hand for the annual Awareness Week for Forestry and Natural Resource Careers camp, held at the Garrett County Board of Education's Hickory Environmental Center recently. Two high school students were selected from each county of the state and Baltimore City for the camp, which brought participants together from the flatlands of the Eastern Shore to the peaks of western Maryland for a week of study and fieldwork on natural resources careers.

Contributions from local forestry boards and private businesses around the state covered each camper's tuition, and transportation costs were covered through a grant from the Chesapeake Bay Trust.

Here in the classroom of Garrett County's outdoors, the young people spent a week of their summer vacation learning and working. Besides fisheries management, the young people worked side by side with DNR personnel on topics as varied as forestry and wildlife management, geology, maps and compassing, and land use planning, among others.

"This isn't a play camp," said Adam Kaminski, a Cecil County native who returned this year as a junior counselor after participating as a student last year. "There's a lot of work involved. You gain knowledge about the natural resources and the issues and tools involved in their management, then you have the chance to apply what you've learned. It's a very different style of learning than what I've been used to in school," the college freshman said.

"We aren't a 'fun in the woods' camp," concurred camp Executive Director Mike Grant of the Forest Service. "We purposely keep the camp educational and regimented, to maximize participation and learning. Every year we come up here it gives us hope for the future of these young folks. The first day it's like any other camp, no one wants to talk, but by the second day you start seeing light bulbs go on, and they get interested and start participating," he said.

"DNR Secretary John Griffin is very into education," Grant continued. We're here to teach the kids how to think, not what to think. For instance, a lot of country kids might grow up with the notion that timber clearcutting is acceptable, as their families may have to make a living from the woods. Suburban kids may be raised with the opinion that clear cutting is strictly a bad thing. We want kids to learn that both sides have points to make, and that kids need to weigh the issues, and think, discuss, and judge for themselves."

"We try to present an unbiased and balanced portrait of natural resources," said Jim Mallow, director of the state Forest Service. "We want to equip these young people with the tools they'll need to take a leadership role in natural resource management, as well be responsible and aware citizens participating in decisions that will affect them as well as any natural resources they may be dealing with in the future," he said.

Mallow went on to point out that "the real world is not black and white, there is a lot of gray in between. When you're dealing with natural resources, you're mixing in the needs of people with the existing resource, and you have to take a balanced approach to the issues."

While balance is important in making decisions regarding the proper use of natural resources, Mallow also stated that the camp tried to apply the same approach to citizenship as well. "It's part of becoming an educated citizen who can participate in a democracy, knowing that a balanced discussion of issues is required. Our forefathers set up the Constitution with that in mind, and we set the camp up so kids can experience democracy for themselves, not just hear someone else telling them about it," he said.

The rainbow trout and other fish were released gently into the waters of the Casselman to return to their habitat, swimming free and growing stronger as the years go by. The teens left Garrett County on Friday, returning to their homes across the state, with a new understanding of our natural environment and their role in it. They also took with them a new understanding of what a democracy is, and their role in it, too.

SOME OF THE STAFF WHO MAKE AWARENESS WEEK HAPPEN are, left to right, Mike Grant, executive director of the Maryland Association Forest Conservancy District Board, which co-sponsors the camp along with the State Forest Service; Jim Mallow, director of the State Forest Service; Adam Kaminski, who returned this summer as a junior camp counselor after participating as a student last year; and Dave Reinecke, curriculum director for the Wicomico Demonstration Forest on the eastern shore. Not pictured is local DNR forest ranger Louise Upole, who was described by these staffers as "the glue that holds the camp together."

CRIME SOLVERS

The case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers involves the theft of cash from a McHenry business last month.

On July 1 at approximately 4:40 p.m., two white females in their early 20s came to the Interior Expressions Gift Shop, located along Deep Creek Drive in McHenry. They were driving a green older model car with a Maryland license plate.

When they came into the shop, one of the women distracted the sales person while the other apparently located a cash box and removed the money from inside.

One woman had dark hair which was pulled back in a ponytail. She weighed approximately 125-130 pounds. The second woman was blonde and very petite. Her hair was described as bushy, according to the report. A loss estimate was not reported.

Persons who have information about this or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 301-334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available.

GCC Foundation Holds Annual Board Meeting

The Garrett Community College Foundation, Inc., recently held its annual meeting.

Ann M. Smith, president, announced that the foundation has experienced significant growth in its portfolio during this fiscal year. The GCC Foundation has nearly $900,000 in assets. This portfolio is managed by First United National Bank and Trust, Oakland.

Susan Case, scholarship committee chair, reported that scholarships valued at $28,450 were awarded to students for the 1997-1998 academic year. "The Garrett Community College awards scholarships on the basis of merit as well as need to GCC students every academic year," she stated.

This year, Frank and Linda Lancelotta, McHenry, established the Lancelotta Family Scholarship.

The Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship was awarded for the first time this year. This is a $50,000 endowed scholarship.

Colleen G. Nordeck, finance committee chair, reported that the foundation made several contributions to benefit GCC and its students. The GCC library, which community members are invited to use, was given $5,000 for the purchase of hardbound books.

The contribution to the co-curriculum program was $4,000. Community members are also welcome to join GCC students at these events, which may include visiting the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C., attending theater productions at West Virginia University, or visiting the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The amount of $3,000 was designated to be awarded as women's athletic scholarships at GCC.

Smith noted the foundation's gratitude to in-dividuals, civic, and service organizations, and small and large businesses that have donated to the GCC Foundation this year.

The current foundation officers, besides Smith, are: William G. Weissgerber Jr., vice president; Colleen G. Nordeck, treasurer; and Susan W. Case, secretary.

In addition to these officers, other community members who serve on the board of directors of the foundation include Barbara A. Briggs, Virginia M. Clutter, James M. Cornelius, Jeffrey S. McCauley, Donna G. Sites, Walter E. Schoenian, Phyllis K. Vitez, and Dr. William R. Yant. Earl J. Clark Sr. represents the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees. All individuals serve in a volunteer capacity on the board of directors.

The Garrett Community College Foundation, Inc., is located on the GCC campus on Mosser Road in McHenry. The telephone number is 301-387-3056.

NEW MEMBERS JOIN GCC FOUNDATION - The recent annual meeting of the Garrett Community College Foundation was attended by new two new board members. They are Phyllis K. Vitez, pictured left, and Jeffrey S. McCauley, right, with Ann M. Smith, board president. Board members heard financial and scholarship reports, as well as words of thanks to the community for its support of GCC.

Honor Graduate At Western Md.

Alison C. Winters, daughter of Joseph and Alana Winters, Oakland, recently graduated summa cum laude (with highest honors) from Western Maryland College, Westminster. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in psychology, with a minor in elementary education.

Miss Winters has accepted a teaching position with the Carroll County Board of Education. She will begin teaching fourth grade this fall at the Westminster Elementary School.

While in college, she was awarded an academic scholarship from WMC, a Maryland State Scholarship, and a Maryland Independent College Scholarship.

Miss Winters was a member and co-group manager of STAY (Students Teaching America's Youth), a member of Capboard, and was inducted into "Psy Chi," a psychology honor society, for which she served as treasurer for one year. She was also inducted into Kappa Delta Pi, the education honor society.

She is the granddaughter of Betty D. Evans, Cumberland, and the late Melvin T. Loar, as well as the late Alma C. and J. Edwin Winters.

Students Awarded GCC Scholarships

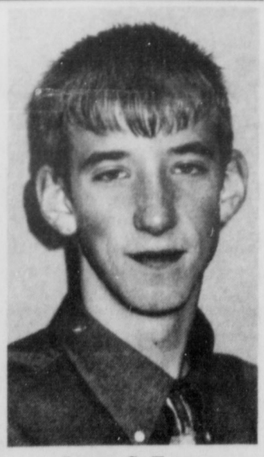
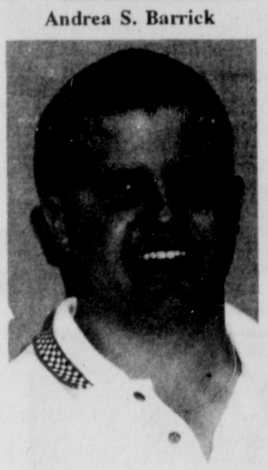
Andrea S. Barrick



James S. Evans



Albert John Fleming, II

Holly Gwynn Wilson

Among the students who received scholarships awarded by the Garrett Community College Foundation this year were five 1997 high school graduates who are recipients of the Westvaco scholarship. All five students will be attending GCC this fall.

Thomas S. Broadwater, son of Wilbert and Brenda Broadwater, Frostburg, is a graduate of Northern High School, where he was a member of FFA and the Sentinel staff. At GCC he will major in national resources and wildlife technology and hopes to pursue a career in that field. His interests include archery, hunting, fishing, riding and repairing motorcycles, and hunting ginseng. He and his brother have both won national archery tournaments.

Andrea S. Barrick, daughter of Howard and Karen Barrick, Keyser, is a graduate of Keyser High School, where she played basketball, was captain of the volleyball team, a member of the H-Y, Science Club, Key Club, Mu Alpha Theta, and National Honor Society. At GCC she will major in criminal justice and play volleyball. In the future she hopes to be an FBI agent or undercover detective.

James S. Evans, son of Jim and Rosalee Evans, Oakland, is a graduate of Southern High School, where he was a member of the golf and tennis teams, the ski patrol class, and the ski club. He was also an office aide and he competed in FFA events.

Albert John Fleming II, son of Albert and Linda Fleming, Swanton, is a graduate of Southern High School, where he was fly tying club instructor, a youth entrepreneur for fly tying, and a volunteer for various service projects. At GCC he is majoring in business administration and has already started his own business, AJ's Spinners and Flies, making spinners and flies, teaching fly fishing, and conducting guided fishing tours. After he receives his A.A. degree from GCC, he plans to transfer to Frostburg State University and eventually to have a career in marketing. In addition to the Westvaco scholarship, he received the Lancelotta Family Scholarship. He was also the recipient of the Maryland Youth Entrepreneurial award in 1996 and 1997.

Holly Gwynn Wilson, daughter of David and Mary Lou Wilson, Swanton, is a graduate of Southern High School, where she was a member of the honors chorus, an FFA student advisor, greenhouse manager, member of the Maryland State Agribusiness second place team, a member of the Eastern Division Agribusiness second place team, and a member of the ecology class that developed the Southern High School wetlands. At GCC she will enroll in the general studies program and hopes to pursue her interest in music. In addition to the Westvaco scholarship, she has received the Charles Briner Memorial Scholarship.

would like to thank everyone for the cards, prayers, flowers, food, monetary donations and thoughtful words extended to us during our time of sorrow at the loss of our dear husband and father.

Your kindness is much appreciated and will long be remembered.

A Message to all Garrett County Medicaid Recipients

In the near future, you will be asked to select a managed care organization through which you will receive your healthcare benefits. There are currently four managed care organizations approved by the State of Maryland in Medicaid's HealthChoice program.

At the present time, the FreeState Health Plan is the only managed care organization that will pay for inpatient and outpatient services for Medicaid recipients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Until you are enrolled in a HealthChoice managed care program, the availability of inpatient and outpatient services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital will remain unchanged.

4-H Club News

BITTINGER

Blakely Glotfelty, Reporter

The Bittinger 4-H Club conducted a tour of members' farms and homes to see their projects on July 7. The homes of Dawn Lohr, Jordan, Ryan, and Jolene Brenneman, Cody and Brooke Brenneman, Andrew Hady, Travis Klawonn, Blakely and Robbie Glotfelty, Claire Sussman, and Jason, Brian, and Eric Beitzel were included on the tour. Following the tour, Gail Beitzel hosted a cookout. The club then conducted a routine meeting.

Club members Jackie Brenneman, Brooke Brenneman, Dawn Lohr, Micah Plevyak, and leaders Don Sealing, Vicki Teets, and Patty Lohr participated in the Adopt-A-Highway program on June 16. Trash was cleaned up along a 1.5-mile section of Route 495. Those participating felt the project was very worthwhile. The fair booth committee members also met on June 16 and reported on their progress.

Patty Wells was the guest speaker following the business meeting. She led an interesting program on pet grooming and care.

The next meeting was scheduled for August 4.

This Sunday, Aug. 10, following Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and worship service at 11 a.m., there will be a congregational meeting. Clean-up day at the church will be Saturday, Aug. 16, starting at 9 a.m. at Rush Baptist Church.

Plans are being made for the annual Rush Baptist Church Homecoming set for Sunday, Aug. 24, with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m., service at 11 a.m., picnic dinner at noon, and a program at 2 p.m. with special music.

Pastor Steven Rose officiated at a baptism in Bear Creek Sunday afternoon for Doreen Kisner, Melissa Collins, and Jennifer La Masters from the Rush Baptist Church. Members of the congregation attended.

ASHER GLADE

Members of Asher Glade Church of the Brethren attended the campfire services and roasted hot dogs at Camp Galilee, Terra Alta, W.Va., Saturday evening. They attended the worship service Sunday along with congregations of Gortner and Brookside Churches, and there a baptism, followed by a carry-in dinner.

GRACE LUTHERAN

Seven members and one guest attended the WELCA Monday at the church with Geraldine Turney, president, in charge of the business session. Plans were made for the "Street Fair" on Saturday, Sept. 6, starting at 9 a.m. Members gave a donation to the Summer Reading Club Program at the library.

REUNIONS

The Shultz Family Reunion will be held at Town Park this Saturday, Aug. 9. The cost is $10 per family, and each should bring a covered dish.

The family of the late Bruce and Minnie Friend will have a reunion on Sunday, Aug. 10 at Grantsville Town Park with dinner at 1 p.m.

The Rev. S.E. Ryan family reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 10, at the Pisgah Methodist Church grounds. A worship service will be at 11 a.m., picnic dinner at noon, and a program at 2 p.m.

DELEGATE TO CONVENTION

Mary Frantz returned home from the WOW National Convention in Orlando, Fla., from Sunday to Wednesday, as a delegate for the state of Maryland. Her two sisters, Dorothy Riebau, Pasadena, and Carolyn Friend, Summit, Ill., accompanied her on the trip to Florida.

WOW TO MEET

WOW Lodge 45 will meet at Town Park on Thursday, Aug. 21, at 6:30 p.m. for a meeting, barbecued ribs, and covered dish dinner.

CLASS TO MEET

The class of 1951 of Friendsville High School will meet for dinner at 6 p.m. and a meeting at Lone Star, Rt. 40 on Sept. 6.

LIBRARY NEWS

The last story hour at the library will be held Aug. 14 at 10:30 a.m. This will be set up for a "fun day," with games, refreshments, McDonald certificates, and prizes.

The July 31 story hour theme was "Christmas In July." The pine tree on the lawn was decorated with ornaments the children made. "How The Grinch Stole Christmas" was read by Janis Afable while Kody and Clint Suter wore the striped "Cat In The Hat" hats. A Christmas video was shown, and popcorn and drinks were shared.

A program for older children will be held Thursday, Aug. 14, at 3 p.m. The ending party will feature displays of photographs, artifacts, musical instruments, and lists of all the books read over the summer by the group. There will be a story reading and refreshments.

ROTARY NEWS

The Friendsville Rotary Club held its regular meeting at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant Monday evening. The success of Friendsville Days was discussed, as well as plans to increase membership.

The two youths in the Rotary sponsored Youth Employment Program are doing well, and the reading program Rotary is sponsoring at the Friendsville Library has been very successful.

Bodyworks

Bodyworks is the area's newest and only complete full-service family salon. Conveniently located 1/2 mile south of Deep Creek Lake bridge on Rt. 219 at Trader's Landing, it is the only salon accessible by boat.

Owned by Denny Savage, Bodyworks employs a professional staff who are all licensed in the state of Maryland with educational training received from International Beauty School of Cumberland. The stylists are Shelly Yoder of Accident and Billie Jo Umbel of Oakland. The nail technician is Lisa Parrack, also of Oakland.

Bodyworks features a variety of services which include family hair care, the latest trends in nails, tanning, facials, waxing and ear piercing. Special features at Bodyworks include European body wraps, sauna massage, Swedish and deep tissue massage and tanning available 24 hours.

Extended summer hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Appointments are recommended, but walk-ins are welcome. Interested persons may call 301-387-9422 for appointments or more information.

The owner and employees of Bodyworks feel there is a need for a shop like theirs at Deep Creek, offering a large selection of services and longer than usual hours. "We are here for the local people all year round, and for the summer vacationers, who until we were here had to travel to Oakland for the services we offer or get them done before they came here on vacation," the owner stated.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Lance Cpl. Tony R. Murray, son of Thomas P. and Daisy M. Murray, Shreve Road, Oakland, is halfway through a six-month deployment with the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU), embarked aboard the ships of the USS Kearsarge Amphibious Ready Group.

Early in the deployment, Murray's unit conducted the evacuation of 2,500 American citizens from Sierra Leone. The evacuation was conducted jointly with French, Nigerian, and Sierra Leone surface ships.

Equipped with the 22nd MEU landing force, helicopters, Harrier attack jets, high-speed assault hovercraft, landing craft, tanks, and armored and amphibious assault vehicles, the 22nd MEU provides theater commanders with a wide range of capabilities.

The 22nd MEU can evacuate civilians, rescue downed pilots, conduct reconnaissance, and serve as initial landing force ashore.

Murray, a 1993 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, joined the Marine Corps in June 1995.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT
AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS
City of Oakland

The Purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Oakland.

On or about August 22, 1997, Oakland will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project.

Name of Project: Overlook North.
Purpose of Project: Acquisition of site and structures known as High View Apartments by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., for the purpose of reconstruction of rental housing and single-family building lots.
Location: High Street, Oakland.

Notice of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the Town of Oakland has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said project will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of Overlook North is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following: The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of Overlook North is available for public examination at the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee during the time from 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. Mondays thru Fridays.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the Overlook North to the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than August 22, 1997, at the Garrett County Community Action Committee Offices at 104 East Center Street in Oakland or the Department of Housing and Community Development offices in Crownsville, Maryland. All comments will be considered and the Town of Oakland will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the project prior to this date.

GARRETT COUNTY PLANNING ZONING OFFICE
Old Courthouse, Rm. 307
313 E. Alder Street
Oakland, Maryland 21550
PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on August 21, 1997, at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission Meeting Room (Third Floor Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following Docketed cases:

I) Docket VR-402; an application made by Mr. Ronald C. Pulliam for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the side yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow an existing detached garage to be attached to his residence, leaving a set-back of 6.6 feet from the side line instead of the required 15 feet. The property is located on Mayhew Inn Road (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-403; an application made by Mr. Harry G. Kesecker for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard set-back requirement for detached garages. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow the construction of a garage which would extend to within 5 feet of the front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located at 952 Thousand Acres Road (Zoned LR).

3) Docket VR-404; an application made by Mr. Randolph MeLeod for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirements for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow an existing residence to remain at a set-back of 36.59 feet from the rear line instead ofthe grandfathered 37.67 feet. The property is located on Shingle Camp Terrace (Zoned LR).

4) Docket VR-405; an application made by Mr. Kazerm Mahdavi for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of a residence which would extend to within 20 feet of the front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Ridgewood Drive (Zoned LR).

5) Docket VR-406; an application made by Mr. James Knowles for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to his residence which would extend to within 1 foot of the rear property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Harvey's Peninsula Road (Zoned LR).

6) Docket VR-407; an application made by Dr. Stephen Valenti for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition which would extend to within 20 feet of the rear line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Meadow Mt. Lane (zoned LR).

7) Docket SE-274; an application made by Dr. Steve Herman on behalf of GCC for a Special Exception permit to allow the expansion of the GCC complex by installing two temporary classroom structures adjacent to the Continuing Education Building. The property is located on Bumble Bee Road (zoned LR).

8) Docket INTP-10; an application made by Mr. Joida Sherwood for an appeal from the decision of the Zoning Administrator regarding an "Order" to abandon the Snowy Creek personal water craft sales office on the Quality Marina Company property located on Deep Creek Drive in McHenry. The appeal also requests an interpretation regarding, the "Order" to establish a parking area exclusively for use by customer vehicles (Zoned TC).

HUD To Give Flood Relief Grant To County

Secretary Andrew Cuomo has announced the allotment of $469,601 in grants to communities in Maryland under the new Department of Housing and Urban Development Disaster Recovery Initiative. The grants will help communities in Garrett, Allegany, and Frederick counties recover from Tropical Storm Fran, which brought severe storms and flooding to the state last September.

The grants were authorized under the disaster relief legislation signed into law by President Bill Clinton in June.

"No amount of money can erase the terrible devastation caused by Tropical Storm Fran in Maryland, but this assistance can help speed recovery efforts to create stronger and better communities," Cuomo said. "The Clinton Administration and all Americans stand with the people of Maryland in our determination to rebuild from the damage caused by this disaster as completely and quickly as humanly possible."

The HUD assistance will supplement aid from the Federal Emergency Management (FEMA) and other federal agencies.

Flooding from Tropical Storm Fran damaged homes, businesses, roads, bridges, and the historic C&O Canal. The disaster came less than nine months after a flood disaster in January 1996.

Maryland will use HUD's disaster assistance to help

LIFE AT THE MOMENT CAN SEEM IN DISARRAY, but hindsight often provides us with a view of orderliness, sense, and perhaps even predestination. This thought is well illustrated in the image captured by John McEwen, staff photographer. Garrett County is having a good corn harvest, despite a wet spring that delayed planting and perhaps led farmers to fear a bad season. Most of the surrounding counties have experienced drought-like conditions and crops are unfortunately not doing nearly as well in those places. The sweet corn is ready for eating and roadside stops are open for business. County-grown corn can also be obtained at the farmers' tailgate market, operated each Wednesday and Saturday at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Get the water boiling.

Garrett Awarded Grants To Help Reduce Crime

Two Garrett County offices were named among others throughout Maryland as recipients of crime prevention grants. Funding of the statewide neighborhood crime prevention program will be awarded to Garrett County Health Department for community activities and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for senior programs.

Known as the Governor's Neighborhood Crime and Substance Abuse Prevention Grants Program, the project will provide seed money to citizen groups for community initiatives. The goal of the program is to reduce criminal activity through intervention of citizens of the community. These local volunteers may assist law enforcement officers with patrolling or may provide summer camps, after-school activities, post prom parties, conflict mediation, anti-drug clubs, and mentoring activities.

This neighborhood grants plan was funded in addition to the HotSpot program which targets a specific area in a community that has been noted for its rate of crime.

Anyone who is interested in getting more information about accessing grants for community projects may contact Ann Sherrard at the health department, 301-334-8122. For information on senior programs, persons may contact Patrick Kelly, GCSO, at 301-334-1911.

THE NEW GARRETT COUNTY FARM QUEEN, April Enlow, was crowned by 1996 Farm Queen Laah Broadwater during ceremonies last Sunday at the Garrett County Fair. Miss Enlow was crowned after winning a very close contest. Scoring for the contest is broken down into four divisions: 25 percent on farm responsibility, 25 percent on public speaking, 25 percent on the contestant's knowledge of Farm Bureau, and 25 percent on appearance, friendliness and personality. The new Farm Queen's court includes other contestants Susan Mayfield, Amanda Hinebaugh, and first runner-up Jennifer Barnard. April, who is the daughter of William and Kristen Enlow of Friendsville, will reign this week at the fair and represent agriculture throughout the coming year. Photo by John McEwen.

Artists Street Fair Scheduled For Aug. 29-30

The Greater Oakland Business Association and WKHJ Radio will present the second annual Artists Street Fair '97 in downtown Oakland August 29-30, in front of the Oakland Railroad Station on Liberty Street. This event is designed to showcase local artistic talent in the visual and performing arts.

Plans For Grantsville "HotSpot" Program Reviewed At Local Meeting

State and local officials and agency representatives met last week in Grantsville to discuss implementation of HotSpot funding.

Indentified as the area in Garrett County most in need of increased measures to reduce crime, Grantsville was named previously as the local jurisdiction to received HotSpot grant money. The purpose of this statewide initiative is to increase programs that address the specific crime prevention needs of that community.

Lt. Ray Milburn, Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, will be the county coordinator for the effort. He will oversee the funding of programs developed by the combined work of about 18 local agency representatives.

Gov. Parris Glendening's office issued a strategy summary for the program that included five key elements, the suggested action in each area and the dollar amount provided for each.

Community mobilization, community policing, community probation, youth prevention, and community prosecution are the components of the project.

Mobilization is described as the strengthening of community relationships through activities involving youth. A grant of $2,500 will go directly to the town to develop and implement these projects. A plan for the year that includes a minimum of five activities must be submitted to the state prior to funding.

Additional policing will be provided in the Grantsville area through cooperative efforts of the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The amount of $6,000 will be available to help provide this extended patrolling.

Community probation will receive a $10,000 grant to divide between juvenile and adult agents in the HotSpot program.

Activities targeting prevention of crime among the youth of the community will received a total of $18,000 to develop and staff an af-

Tanker Mishap On I-68 Causes Traffic Detours

An accident last Thursday on I-68, which involved a tanker truck hauling hazardous materials, led to the closing of sections of the highway and the detouring of traffic.

The incident, which occurred around 2 p.m. in the westbound lane of the interstate, at the 27-mile marker, west of Finzel, did not injure the driver.

According to Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, John R. Bryant, 52, Avenel, N.J., experienced a vehicle malfunction, which caused him to go off the right side of the road and overturn.

The material being transported when the truck flipped onto its side was benzyl chloride.

Eastern Garrett and Northern rescue squads, Frostburg Ambulance, Maryland State Highway Administration, Deep Creek VFD, Maryland State Police, Maryland Department of the Environment, and the Spill Team from Harrisburg, Pa., were among the respondents to the incident.

Columbia Gas To Host Mtg. About Supplier Choice

Columbia Gas of Maryland's supplier choice community education program will begin next month with public meetings throughout Western Maryland. The program will permit Columbia's customers to choose their natural gas suppliers in the way that they choose long-distance telephone companies, a spokesperson explained.

The local meetings will be held at Southern High School on Tuesday, Aug. 19, at 2 p.m., and on Thursday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. There will also be sessions held at Frostburg State University on Aug. 19 and 21, and Sept. 3, at 7 p.m. in Room 201 of the Lane Center.

All of the gas company's residential customers have until Sept. 30 to decide if they want to purchase natural gas from any of the six suppliers that have qualified to participate in Columbia's program. Participation is voluntary and customers may choose to continue purchasing gas from Columbia of Maryland.

April Enlow Crowned 1997 Garrett County Farm Queen

April Leigh Enlow was crowned the 1997 Garrett County Farm Queen Sunday at opening ceremonies of the 41st Annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair in McHenry. April is the 17-year-old daughter of William and Kristen Enlow of Friendsville. Her family owns and operates a 120-cow Holstein dairy farm, and April's own herd has grown to 12 dairy animals. Her family has been active members in Farm Bureau for three generations, and she and her brother Charles are the fifth generation to continue the dairy business at the original Enlow farm.

Before a large crowd, in a very close contest, April answered questions and discussed everything from conservation methods, Farm Bureau, and estate tax exemptions as a way to preserve family farms. She said she was "shocked" when the winner was announced. "I didn't think I'd get it," she said, but is determined to use the opportunity to talk to as many individuals and organizations as she can about agriculture in the upcoming year.

April's answer to a contest question about farmers' responsibilities to the soil detailed a needed awareness of the environment and the farmer's own land. She explained that using cover crops, buffer strips, no-till, and nutrient management assures that the soil will not wash away, that by caring for the soil on one's own farm, the farmer is preserving the environment as well.

Her answer to the "fish bowl" question about the importance of Farm Bureau stated that Farm Bureau was a worthwhile organization that helped farmers with many issues, especially legislation. "Farm Bureau is the voice of the American farmer," she said.

On Tuesday, April traveled to the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium for orientation before the State Farm Queen Contest, which will be held during the Maryland State Fair. Farm queens from all counties in Maryland were instructed in the different phases of the state contest, the rules, and how to walk and sit. They were video taped while speaking and given pointers on speaking before a crowd. They were given the background of Farm Bureau, and advised to "always wear a smile when representing farmers and agriculture."

As a dairy farmer's daughter, April takes an

World Talent To Take Stage As Symphony Opens

Music made by some of the world's top musicians can be heard this weekend and next as Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's ever-popular Symphony at Deep Creek returns to the Garrett Community College stage. Grammy Award winner Erick Friedman, world renowned violinist and Symphony at Deep Creek musical director, has announced that pianist Dr. Robert Blocker, dean of the Yale Department of Music, will appear as a soloist during the series, which is slated for August 15, 16, 22, and 23 in the Garrett Community College theatre.

Friedman will also perform as soloist, as will violinist and concertmaster Boris Kucharsky and euphonium maestro Dr. Neal Corwell. Additionally featured for the second consecutive year will be Lanfranco Marcelletti Jr., conductor of the Naugatuck Youth Symphony in Waterbury, Conn., as guest conductor. Several returning members of the symphony will perform as well, including pianists Nancy McDill and Heawon Stuckenbruck, violinists Dale Stuckenbruck, Gabriel Schaff, and Lu Sun; violists Veronica Salas, K.C. Still, and Jill Pellett; cellists Steven Thomas and Stan Orlovsky; bassist Rick Ostrovsky, percussionist Dean Borghesani; and several more woodwind, string, and brass players. Throughout the four-concert festival they will be presenting the music of Mendelssohn, Bizet, Stravinsky, Haydn, Beethoven, and others. A commissioned work by Corwell, titled Black Moon Rising, will be premiered.

Dr. Blocker will present Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3 in c minor, Op. 37, during the August 22 concert.

Blocker began his musical studies with Louise Mathis in Charleston, S.C., at the age of 5. His debut came 10 years later with the Charleston Symphony Orchestra in the historic Dock Street Theater. In the ensuing years, he has presented concerts throughout the United States, Europe, Mexico, China, and several Pacific Rim countries.

Blocker has received critical acclaim for his performances, with recital appearances and orchestral engagements winning him a large and devoted audience. According to critics, he pos-

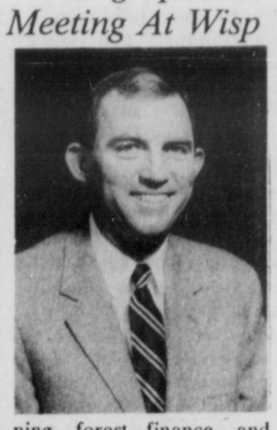
WHAT THE BIRDS ARE SEEING IN McHENRY this week are strange contraptions and many, many people swarming about them, all part of the 41st annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair. The yearly event has been underway all week, complete with livestock competitions, canned and baked goods contests, a variety of specialty food booths, nightly stage entertainment, Gambill Amusement rides, and other traditional fun. This picture was taken by staff photographer John McEwen as he flew through the air -- in an airplane, of course. The ride was offered to him by Plane Aviation, a company based at the Garrett County Airport, which offers 25-minute rides for adults and children. Persons can contact the company by calling 301-387-4100. McEwen wished to say thanks to pilot Tim Yommer for the great aeronautic jaunt around the county. The fair will be in progress throughout Saturday, with the annual parade slated for this evening and the popular demolition derby on Saturday's schedule.

Dr. Haney To Be Among Speakers At MFA Annual Meeting At Wisp



Dr. Harry Haney of Virginia Technical Institute will be the featured presenter at the Saturday morning session of the Maryland Forests Association's (MFA) 1997 annual meeting set for September 26 and 27 at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. The weekend program is geared for forest landowners, loggers, and foresters. A line-up of speakers will explore the topic of "The Challenges of Logging in the 21st Century."

"The forest products industry is the leading industry in Western Maryland, and second only to agriculture on the Eastern Shore," stated MFA Administrator Karin Miller. Nearly 42% of Maryland is forested, and approximately 90% of this land is privately owned. In Allegany and Garrett counties, the percentage of land that is forested rises to 70 and 75 percent, respectively. The purpose of this year's discussions is to help both the landowner and the land managers, the foresters and loggers, to understand the importance of sustainable forestry practices."

Dr. Haney's one-hour presentation is titled "Income Tax Implications of Selling Timber." Dr. Haney, a renowned expert in the field of timber taxation issues, has served since 1975 as Garland Gray professor of forestry at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Va. Dr. Haney has organized and taught over 410 short courses, seminars, and workshops on timber taxation, estate planning, forest finance, and management of private timberlands. He has also written over 135 technical publications on forestry. His consulting experience includes investment analysis, forest finance applications, timber income tax, estate planning, and service as an expert witness.

The event will begin Friday, Sept. 26, with the awards banquet and silent auction, presentation of the 1997 Logger of the Year Award, followed by storyteller and balladeer Ray Owen and his performance of "From Buffalo Chips to Micro Chips."

Highlights of Saturday's session will include updates on forestry issues of concern by state agency representatives, Dr. Haney's presentation, and a five-member panel discussion of "The Business of Logging in the 21st Century." Panelists will be representing the interests of the forest landowner, logger, forest products industry, government agencies, and educational institutions. Dr. Harry V. Wiant Jr., national president of the Society of American Foresters (SAF), will top off the first half of the day as the luncheon speaker. A special spouse's tour of northern Garrett County has also been arranged for Saturday morning. MFA will conduct its annual business meeting following the luncheon.

The Maryland Forests Association, headquartered in Grantsville, is a statewide, non-profit citizens' organization with a 20-year history of promoting the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base through forest conservation education. This year marks the first time that Western Maryland will host the annual event.

Saturday's session has been awarded 3½ CFEs for foresters and has also been designated as a CEC for Maryland Master Loggers. Meeting registration packets have been mailed to members. The event is open to the public. For ticket information, persons contact MFA at 301-895-5369 or write to P.O. Box 599, Grantsville, MD 21536.

TO SPONSOR BLOODMOBILE - There is a critical need for blood, especially this time of year, and in order to help satisfy that shortage, the Garrett County Farm Bureau will sponsor a visit by the American Red Cross Bloodmobile to Oakland on Friday, Aug. 22. Above, Art Lake, membership chairman for the bureau, presents a check to Elizabeth Huxford, Garrett County blood services chairman for the ARC, to cover the expenses of the canteen at the Aug. 22 visit. The bloodmobile will be at the National Guard armory in Oakland on that date and will receive donors from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. All persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health may give blood.

Special Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 59 Units

The Garrett County American Red Cross noted its appreciation to all those who donated at the July 25 visit of the bloodmobile at the American Legion in Oakland. This drive, added because of shortage of O positive and O negative, collected 59 units of blood.

Those donating for the first time were: Joyce R. Andrews, Mtn. Lake Park, Norma Dawson, Deer Park, and Cheryl Feather, Oakland.

George Schroyer, Mtn. Lake Park, donated for the eighth time to reach the one-gallon mark, Amelia Petersheim, Oakland, reached the three-gallon milestone, and Mary B. Harvey, Oakland, donated for the 56th time to reach the seven-gallon mark.

Those volunteers making the bloodmobile possible were: Artie Dixon and Rosalie Baker, greeters; Don Forrester and Barb Sweitzer, registration; Anne Forrester, walker; and Ethel Cosner and Mary Rodeheaver, canteen.

"We would also like to thank the Proctor Kildow American Legion Post for lending us the use of their facilities and Garrett County Memorial Hospital for giving their employees time to donate," stated Elizabeth Huxford, local ARC blood services chairperson.

Those unable to get to the bloodmobile will have another chance to help end the blood shortage on Friday, August 22, at the Oakland Armory from 11:30 to 5:30. To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals can give blood every 56 days, so those who gave at the July 25 visit will not be eligible to give next Friday. Those with questions about donating may call 1-800-54-BLOOD.

Violinist And Pianist To Play At Penn Alps

The Music at Penn Alps (MPA) series will continue its series of concerts the 11th program on Saturday, Aug. 16, featuring artists José Miguel Cueto, violin, and Nancy Roldán, pianist. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Penn Alps, located just outside Grantsville.

Cueto was born in Puerto Rico, where he received his early musical training, graduating in 1994 from the Conservatory of Music with a diploma in violin performance. Upon graduation he was awarded scholarships from the Institute of Culture of Puerto Rico and the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, where he completed bachelor and master of music degrees.

During his studies, Cueto was concertmaster of the Peabody Conservatory Orchestra and was chosen to perform the Vivaldi Triple violin concerto with Bert Senofsky and Ruggiero Ricci in the "Masters of Today and Tomorrow" concert series.

In addition to his solo work, Cueto is in great demand as a chamber musician, with participation in the Kennedy Center Chamber Players, the Washington Chamber Society, and the Casals Festival Chamber Music Series. He has premiered several contemporary compositions. He is currently concertmaster for the Kennedy Center Opera Orchestra, the Concert Artists of Baltimore, and the Baltimore Opera Orchestra. He is Artist in Residence at St. Mary's College and lecturer for the Elderhostel Program at the Peabody Institute of the Johns Hopkins University.

Nancy Roldán has concertized in Europe, North and South America, and the Caribbean. Her performances have been broadcast in the United States and abroad. In 1996, she played the world and Argentine premiere of Tango Triste, a work dedicated to her by American composer Tom Benjamin. Recent recordings include the album "On Wings of Angels" with violinist José Miguel Cueto.

Roldán has earned degrees from the Universidad Nacional de Cuyo in Argentina, and master and doctor of musical arts degrees from the Peabody Conservatory. She maintains an active teaching career in addition to her performance schedule. Besides her private studio Ms. Roldán has taught at the University and Conservatory of Puerto Rico, Hood College, and, until 1994, headed the piano department at the University of Maryland-Baltimore County. She has been on the teaching faculty of the Peabody Conservatory since 1977.

Roldán lectures and offers workshops on performance stress, movement and the performer, and the importance of music in society. She is a specialist in the prevention and rehabilitation of performance injuries.

In addition to their performances on Aug. 16, Cueto and Roldán will perform as part of the Windemere Ensemble on Aug. 23 in the final concert of MPA. For more information or to reserve tickets persons may call Trish Morgan at Spruce Forest Artisan Village, 301-895-3332.

Nominations Due For "Md., You Are Beautiful"

"Maryland's Most Beautiful People" will be selected over the next several weeks, as the nominations are due on August 15. Any resident can nominate another resident for his or her contributions to the state, specifically in the areas of volunteerism and tourism.

The theme for the program this year is: "Everyone Promotes Tourism: Recognize Those Who Make Maryland a Better Place To Live and Visit." Nomination forms are still available at several local sites. For information about the forms, persons may contact Pat Light at 301-334-8970. (See related advertisement in today's issue of The Republican.)

The local committee will meet soon to select the local winner, with that announcement to be given in mid-September. Governor Parris Glendening will host a reception and awards ceremony in Annapolis on Tuesday, Nov. 4, to honor all recipients.

Hockman Named For Exemplary School Service

A 21-year veteran teacher for Garrett County public schools was honored recently for her work with children. Maggie Hockman, who has taught for two years in the STAR (Students Taking Active Responsibility) program, received the 1997 award for Exemplary Service to Children's Mental Health in School Settings.

Presented by the Center for the Study of Troubling Behavior at the University of Maryland, College Park, the award recognizes Hockman's contributions to the STAR program. This program provides support for youth at risk of and with emotional or behavioral disorders in the regular education settings.

At the Tuesday night meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education meeting, Wilda Massi, director of pupil services, presented a plaque from the University of Maryland to Hockman.

Massi noted the prestige of this honor. She explained that of the 350 or so people who participated in similar programs statewide, only three were singled out for their excellent achievement.

"I am receiving this on behalf of the STAR program," Hockman said when she accepted the award from Massi. She stated that all those involved in the efforts of STAR are responsible for the success and deserving of recognition.

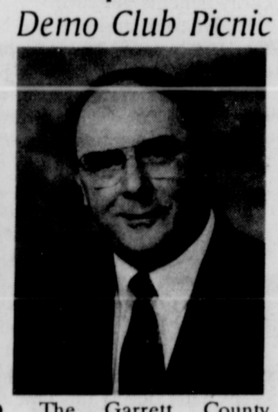
In her capacity, Hockman works with children and teaching staff of 12 elementary schools. She works directly with troubled and at-risk youth and holds training for staff and teaching teams on methods of dealing with difficult behavior in the classroom.

Massi also informed the board members of a grant for $50,000 for STAR. "This is a discretionary grant. It will mostly be used to provide staff development in the middle and high schools," she said. The goal is to expand the classroom support services for troubled youth to the secondary level of the county schools.

She also explained that a portion of the money would fund an evaluation and update of the current program to address the needs of emotionally disturbed youth.

AWARD PRESENTED - Garrett County teacher Maggie Hockman was recently honored by the University of Maryland, College Park. At the board of education meeting Tuesday night, Wilda Massi, director or pupil services for the public school system, presented Hockman with the 1997 award for Exemplary Service to Children's Mental Health in School Settings. Hockman, left, is pictured as she received the plaque from Massi.

Casper Taylor Will Speak At Demo Club Picnic



The Garrett County Democratic Club announces that the Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, Casper R. Taylor Jr., will address assembled Democrats at the Democratic Club's annual chicken barbecue and picnic on Friday, Aug. 22, at the fairgrounds in McHenry.

Taylor, a native of Cumberland, was first elected to the House of Delegates in 1974. He has served as the speaker of the house since 1994. Prior to this, his leadership positions in the house included serving on and chairing the Economic Matters Committee. In the 1980s he served as the chair of the Western Maryland Delegation.

The Democratic Club's picnic will include barbecued chicken served with an array of late summer garden produce and homemade desserts. The club welcomes all who wish to attend. The evening will begin with a social hour at 5:30 p.m., dinner will be served starting at 6:30, and speech-making will follow the dinner. Tickets are $10 and are available from club members or by calling Marilyn Moors in Friendsville (301-746-4057), Don Fratz in Accident (301-746-8279), Bruce Opel in the eastern part of the county (301-689-2063), Joan Raynovich in Oakland (301-334-3434), or Jackie Brady in Kitzmiller (301-453-3280).

Domestic In Sky Valley Ends In Chase, Arrest

In Garrett County Sheriff's Office news recently, a domestic altercation ended in the arrest of a man at a Sky Valley residence early this past Friday morning.

Timothy David Hare, 26, of Sky Valley Drive, faces charges of two counts of second-degree assault and one count each of disturbing the peace, failing to obey a lawful order, and escape.

According to the police report, Hare's girlfriend called the sheriff's office for assistance shortly after midnight, expressing fear for her safety. When the deputy and a backup unit from the Maryland State Police arrived on the scene they reportedly found Hare assaulting his girlfriend while she lay on the ground outside a residence several houses away from his own. Hare was immediately subdued with handcuffs, and after the officers spoke with him and the victim they placed Hare into the backseat of the deputy's vehicle and seatbelted him in place.

The deputy, with Hare in custody, drove the victim back to Hare's residence so that she could retrieve some belongings. While the deputy was waiting outside his vehicle for the victim to return from inside the residence, Hare reportedly loosened his seatbelt and was able to escape from the vehicle. He was apprehended after a short footchase through a nearby wooded area, and subsequently transported to the Garrett County Jail.

Hare has since been released after posting a $5,000 bond.

FTA AND CDS ARRESTS

Two men were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this week after they were located at the scene of a what appeared to be a semi-permanent campsite in a wooded area off Maryland Highway in the vicinity of Turkey Neck Road.

Robert Lee Stark, 31, Mtn. Lake Park, faces a charge of failure to appear (FTA) as subpoenaed by the circuit court, and David Richard Armstrong, 24, Swanton, faces a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). The pair were apprehended after deputies received an anonymous tip that Stark, who was wanted on a warrant issued by the circuit court, was at the camp. Deputies checking the area and found Stark in the company of a small group of adults and two children, and placed him under arrest.

During a routine safety patdown of the subjects on the scene, deputies reportedly located a baggie of suspected marijuana in Armstrong's front pocket. Upon further questioning, Armstrong then produced a suspected marijuana cigarette as well. He was arrested and charged with CDS possession.

Armstrong was released on his own recognizance. Stark was subsequently released after posting 10% of a $1,000 bond.

WARRANTS SERVED

Several subjects were arrested by sheriff's deputies recently as part of their warrant service duties.

Arrested on bench warrants that charge violation of probation were Darrell Alfred Friend Jr., 41, Oakland, Phillip Allen Hebb Sr., 36, Bayard, W.Va., and Chris Alan Glotfelty, 24, Oakland.

Arrested on bench warrants for failure to appear were Patrick Edward Cooper, 37, Frostburg, and Robert Lee Stark, who was mentioned at the beginning of this column.

DWI ARRESTS

Arrested by sheriff's deputies recently and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) were Robert Merle Gindlesberger, 41, Oakland, and Rex Allen Guthrie, 37, Kitzmiller. Guthrie faces an additional charge of driving on a suspended license.

CORRECTIONS

Two items that appeared in last week's sheriff's news column require correction.

Regarding the single-vehicle accident with injury that occurred on Gorman Road on Aug. 3, the passenger in the vehicle was Jessica Lin Paugh, 14, Kitzmiller. The vehicle's owner was Jackie Paugh of Oakland. No charges have been filed against the driver, George White, who continues to recuperate at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown.

Regarding the report on the arrest of Devon Diana Mayne, 18, Old Crellin Road, the event that precipitated the incident was when her 8-year old brother touched her husband, John Mayne, on the arm. John Mayne responded by kicking the boy in the chest, which sparked a family fight culminating in Devon Mayne's arrest on a charge of second-degree assault on her mother.

Two Sex Offense Cases Heard In Circuit Court

Garrett County Circuit Court Judge James Sherbin last week presided over two criminal cases involving sexual offense charges. Presentence investigations were ordered in both.

Richard Wolf Jr., 46, Oakland, pleaded guilty to the charge of third degree sexual offense. Sherbin accepted the plea and ordered the pre-sentence investigation. The judge also revoked Wolf's bond and remanded him to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff pending sentencing.

Wolf incurred the charge following an investigation into a case of possible child abuse involving an 11-year-old girl. She was allegedly sexually assaulted by the defendant on numerous occasions over a period of two years. The court document indicates the victim's assertion that he threatened to kill her should she report the incidents.

Charges of child abuse, fourth degree sexual offense, and second degree assault were not prosecuted.

Daniel R. Orendorf, 29, Accident, entered a guilty plea to the charge of third degree sexual offense. Sherbin accepted the plea and ordered the pre-sentence investigation. Bail was revoked for the defendant and he was placed in custody of the sheriff pending sentencing.

Orendorf is accused of repeatedly engaging in sexual intercourse with a 27-year-old woman who has developmental disabilities. In her statement to the investigating officers in the case, she indicated that the defendant had engaged in the activity against her will and would punch her with his fists to force her to submit.

Charges of second degree rape, third and fourth degree sexual offense, and third degree assault were not prosecuted.

Sentencing dates for either of these cases were not noted in the court documents.

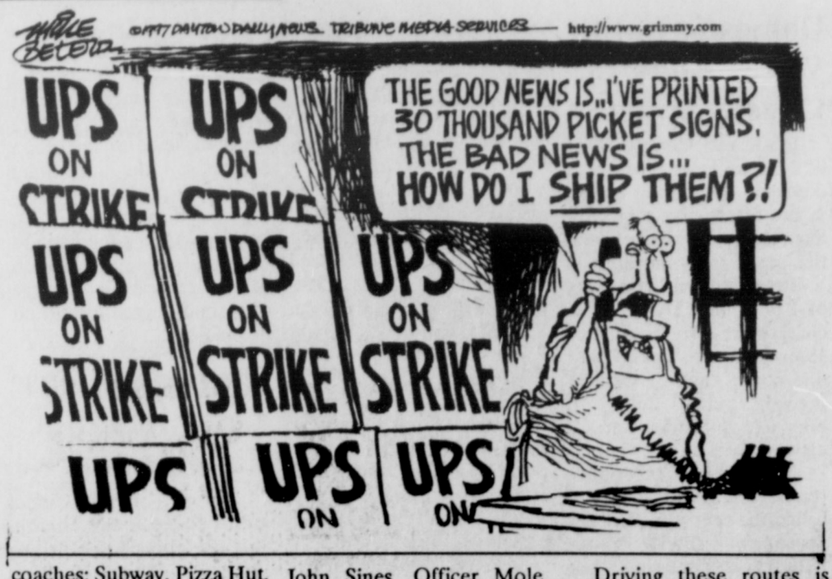
The Line-Item Veto...

History, mixed with a bit of irony, was made this past week when President Clinton exercised his new power of line-item veto, awarded him by a Republican Congress. Every president since the last century, and particularly the immediate Republican predecessors of Clinton, have wanted this authority, which was repeatedly denied by Democrat-controlled Congresses.

It has been particularly needed since 1974 when a Democrat Congress passed the Budget Act, which basically stripped the president, then Watergate-weakened President Nixon, of all participation in the federal budget process. Since that time, Congress has been on a wild spending spree, passing legislation that, in and of itself, may be most worthy, but is laden with dozens of totally unrelated, special-interest projects that up the spending by millions of dollars. Not only is it expensive, but it encourages support or lack of support for legislation that is based on politics and not on the merits of the original bill. It is these "amendments" that the president may now red-line if he chooses to do so, and only a two-thirds vote of Congress can override his veto.

There is a good chance that the Supreme Court will rule the presidential line-item veto unconstitutional, as many opponents believe that it upsets the balance of power in our three-pronged system. We have supported the presidential line-item veto in this column, on several occasions, but we do recognize that there is some room for concern. Suppose we get a president who x's out each and every item that is proposed by an opposing-party member of Congress, regardless of the merit of the item.

If, in fact, the Supreme Court takes the line-item veto power away from the president, then we should scream for Congress to pass some new laws that regulate and restrict this tacking-on of extraneous, expensive, self-interest, highly political pet projects of our legislators. It should be required that each and every bill must be presented separately and allowed to stand entirely on its own merits.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In the Baltimore Sun of 4 Aug. '97, a front-page story was headlined, "School labels difficult for multiracial children." A sub-heading on the inside story continuation said, "Parents unhappy with ethnic labels required by schools." Of course the parents are unhappy. They are forced to apply false labels to their children.

Libertarians believe that the government of a country dedicated to liberty and equality under the law has no business asking Americans about their race. That is why Libertarians have initiated our "Say No to Racial Classifications" campaign and are asking all Americans to join in.

In three years when the 2000 census begins, we are encouraging all Americans to boycott the system by refusing to disclose their race. However, you should know that you risk a fine of $100 for boycotting the census race question. The fine has rarely been imposed, but the fact it exists at all is offensive to Libertarians and just about anyone else.

These federal government classifications - White, Black, American Indian/Eskimo, Asian/Pacific Islander and Hispanic - were imposed by the office of Management and Budget in 1977. Many famous Americans such as young golfing champion Tiger Woods, fit none of them. In this matter of racial classification, the United States is the laughing stock of the world.

So when the year 2000 rolls around, let those fill-in-the-blank bureaucrats know your race is none of the government's business. We're all Americans - what else does the government need to know?

Mountaintop Soccer Association recently hosted the fourth annual Major League Soccer Camp at Southern High School. Over 100 youth from age 4 through 17 participated in the camp. This camp would not have happened without the coordination of several persons. Thanks to Ron Petrella, MSA president, and his wife Patty for helping with the welcome dinner for the coaches and attending the camp each evening.

The British coaches were extended hospitality by the following host families: Kevin and Martha Kidd, Bill and Carole Ann Lovett, and Tom and Susan Potts. These families provided meals, entertainment, and transportation for the four coaches. Danny, the captain of the coaches, in speaking with the campers and their families, stated that they would not like this summer job as much if they had to stay in hotels. The host families play a very vital part in these camps and MSA appreciates their generosity.

MSA would also like to thank the following restaurants for their generosity in providing meals to the coaches: Subway, Pizza Hut, Silver Tree Inn, Arby's, and Red Run Lodge.

A very sincere thank you to all these folks who made the 1997 soccer camp a great success!

Yours truly,
Nancy Pagenhardt
MSA Camp Coordinator

To the Editor:

I would like to thank everyone who helped with the SOS Music Fest '97, live teen band concert held last Friday, August 8, in Oakland. Ninety-six teens attended, plus 17 teen band members. We had youngsters from 3 to 10 years of age and various adults and chaperons whose ages aren't for publication.

Special thanks to: our Planning Committee, the chaperons, Oakland's Town Council, Mayor Asa McCain, the staff at Town Hall, Rita Powell (band organizer), Penny, Drew and Brandon Proudfoot (refreshment crew), Sheila Reeves and Kathy Shaffer (decorations), Shaffer Ford (popcorn and flags), WKHJ & J.J. Devine, The Republican/Mary McEwen, Amy Rudy, Donna Durst, Bart and Holly Shaffer, Annie Neville (the "pool"), Chief John Sines, Officer Mole Alexander, Adam Durst (our one-man tech crew), and our bands: Cordial, Klove, Feedback, and Bulging Burritos.

This was a successful endeavor for the Save Oakland Station Project and for our teens. Due to the positive reactions from the teens and the adults, we hope to repeat this activity in the fall. Watch for it, and be sure to join us at our next teen concert!

With thanks,
Donna Cook

To the Editor:

A friend of mine is moving from New Jersey to Greenbrier County, W.Va. He is moving away from rural N.J. because it is getting too over-developed, fast-paced, and hectic. He bought a farm for a more peaceful, cleaner environment.

I offered to help him move. I drove to N.J. on I-68, I-81, and I-78. I drove to his place in W.Va. on I-78, I-81, and I-64. I used these routes because they were the fastest, most convenient way to get from "A" to "B" to "C." I stopped for fuel at truck stops.

Driving these routes is like being in some gladiatorial race "to the death." "Packs" of heavy haulers bull through at 70 mph plus. "Would be" race car drivers weave through traffic right and left. It is a stressful and dangerous traveling experience. The eyes begin to burn from the diesel fumes after four or five hours.

Just north of Hagerstown in Pennsylvania farm country, I noticed homemade signs by the highway that read, "No Exit 7 - We Don't Want It !" Kind of makes you wonder, doesn't it?

After unloading at my friend's place. I drove home on Rt. 219. This was a totally enjoyable driving experience. The scenery was beautiful, the pace easy and relaxing. In each little town I went through, I was able to wave at folks walking or sitting on their porches. I talked to people about the proposal to make Rt. 219 a four-lane interstate. All I talked to thought it was a bad idea. All thought it would be better to give Rt. 219 scenic highway status, and add some passing lanes.

The "dangling carrot" here has "jobs" written on it, but the downside realities of a four-lane interstate are many, and should be weighed against the possible gains.

Sincerely,
Jaime Alvarez

Senior Assisted Housing residents and staff bid a fond farewell to a true humanitarian, Reverend Harold Harman, who passed away July 26, 1997. Reverend Harman and his wife Emagene had been volunteers at the two Community Action Committee owned, Area Agency on Aging operated, group model assisted homes (Truesdell and Rose Terrace) since August 1987. Both Reverend Harman and Emagene gave generously of their time.

Senior assisted housing staff and residents became familiar with Reverend Harman and Emagene when they were invited to attend the annual July picnic (1987), hosted by the Truesdell Home for Seniors. Noticing that most of the residents were unable to attend church, the Harmans began to visit the Truesdell Home twice monthly, offering a service for those who wished to participate. Soon, Reverend Harman's parents, as well as other members of the New Life Christian Church, began accompanying Rev. and Mrs. Harman. Bi-monthly visits have continued faithfully for ten years.

Following the opening of Rose Terrace, the Harmans and members of the church began bi-monthly visits to its residents. During the holidays, the church's Sun-

View From My Window

"RIGHTS OR WRONGS?"

A friend of mine, a fellow Presbyterian minister, is serving time in a federal prison camp in Minnesota. The reason for his incarceration is that he violated the FACE (Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances) Act, which has as its sole purpose the precluding of demonstrations in front of abortion clinics (so-called).

I am not against laws that forbid trespass or harassment. What distinguishes the FACE Act is that it forbids one class of person (anti-abortion protesters) with respect to one class of action (being within 50 feet--not necessarily trespass since the area may be public space, e.g., a sidewalk) near one class of property (abortuaries).

It does not apply to atheists protesting against Christianity within 50 feet of a church, nor to burglars waiting on the sidewalk to climb through your window, nor to animal rights protesters outside laboratories that experiment on animals, nor to stalkers pursuing the objects of their obsessions. It is the singling out of the one class of person in one class of activity with respect to one class of property which makes violation of the FACE Act a political crime.

Speaking of animal rights protesters, I noted recently that Kim Basinger was not arrested when she turned up at a laboratory, and offered to adopt one of the beagles raised there for the express purpose of breaking its legs. Let me say that I am a confirmed carnivore, but I am with Kim on this one.

What would happen if Kim Basinger went every day to that laboratory? What if she blocked the entrance to the lab, say, by chaining herself to the doors? Would Kim Basinger be sentenced to federal prison camp? I do not believe she would.

Even on the abortuary front, judges are selective about whom they send to prison. A journal of Catholic opinion, First Things, reports that "The elderly Bishop George Lynch and...a young Franciscan monk...sat quietly in the driveway of a Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., abortuary, praying the rosary. Judge John Sprizzo of the U.S. District Court had earlier ordered them not to do that kind of thing. They were arrested and charged with contempt of court."

Did the bishop and the Franciscan go to jail? Were they even found guilty? They were not, because the judge could not bring himself to deem their conscientious objection to be criminal. My guess is that he did not want a headline that might have run "Judge Sends Bishop to Jail."

It occurs to me that perhaps the only thing that needs to happen to end abortion on demand in the USA is for a half dozen cardinals and another 20 or 30 Catholic bishops to announce that they are going to have a sit-in in front of abortion clinics every day until either abortion ends or they are all in jail.

It would be interesting to see the headlines and to monitor public opinion as the red- and purple-capped gentlemen are handcuffed and hustled into paddywagons. Maybe such a tactic wouldn't work, but the experiment is worth trying.

While real-world news reports come in, I have been re-reading John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, a work he wrote while imprisoned in 17th century England. He violated a law very similar to the FACE Act. His crime was that he preached the evangelical gospel in the open air, in a day when preaching was to be done in state-sponsored ecclesiastical edifices.

It is interesting how we use the word "conviction" in two radically different ways. The word means both "a life-changing belief" and "a prison sentence." What is more interesting is how the one kind of conviction can lead to the other.

The legislators who created the FACE Act and the judges who are now finding it "good law" should beware. Sending people to jail for their beliefs is a dangerous thing. Like John Bunyan, they might just write a book which will change the world.

LOOKING UP
By Peggy Santamaria

I like riding through old towns and cities. Riding, not driving. When behind the wheel it is necessary to keep eyes on the road and on the other guy. That is boring.

No, I prefer to be the passenger -- free to look around and, more specifically, to look up. Tops of older buildings that line narrow streets or wide avenues attract my eye and entice my senses.

Whether it is upper Connecticut Avenue in Washington, D.C., with its apartment buildings that go back lots of years, or the square in Hagerstown enclosed by commercial buildings, I love them.

From Boston to New Orleans the architecture of parts of cities that grew many generations ago speak of a time when design was careful and aesthetic. There are scrolls and frill and gargoyle things. There are names of long-gone merchants built into the facades of shops in colored brick. There are windows of colored glass.

Was life so different then, that people did look up when traveling down the streets of our commerce centers? Would the designers and construction workers who built these structures have labored over these details if they were to be overlooked? I think not.

Today's structures are impressive. Yes, they gleam and reflect, and boast sharp, strident lines. And, yes, I can surely appreciate them. But always, I enjoy the meanderings that allow me to glance up and see these anachronisms. In a time when function is the be-all, I am delighted to see a totally unnecessary feature like a gargoyle or an eagle watching over today's busy marketplace.

Operation Dash For Cash

by Craig Speicher, Jaime Alvarez, and Larry Hensley, for CARE

As local members of Conservative Action for a Rural Environment (CARE), we are writing to shed more light on the proposed "Continental One," the international trade corridor freeway from Miami to Toronto (being built principally for the benefit of Miami and Toronto and a few select points in between) that will literally split Garrett County wide open for horrendous secondary and tertiary development.

This freeway is being sold and pushed locally as "only a concept." However, "Operation Dash for Cash" is far more than a "concept" for the contractors and developers who will make fortunes from this federal pork. And after this project, costing a documented $400 million for Garrett County alone, is milked dry, the profiteers will vanish, seeking more green growth to grind for greed. (These people HATE the color green, unless it's on treasury paper, to which they are addicted. Even the Betty Ford Clinic readily admits it can't rehabilitate these people.)

The local population will be left to cope with:

1) Crime increases even the politicians don't deny.

2) Invisible, but deadly accumulations of nitrogen oxides from combustion reacting with lower atmosphere ozone, and particulates trapped in Deep Creek and Savage River humidity. "Air pollution kills about 50,000 people in the U.S. each year," and dramatically precipitates cases of asthma, bronchitis, and pneumonia, says Consumer Reports (Aug. 1997). Air pollution in central Maryland is especially severe, and is progressing westward towards Frederick County, according to an EPA map.

3) An embarrassment of scores of small businesses and jobs wiped out by chain stores, as seen in Allegany County where the economy has shifted from Cumberland to LaVale (with Wal-Mart and Country Club Mall, where the "country" is buried beneath asphalt.)

4) Higher taxes to fund, maintain, and plow snow from the new freeway, which the state cannot afford to build in the first place. If the state can't afford it, how can the federal government, with a trillion-dollar-plus debt? (And then angry people wonder why Medicare and Social Security benefits get cut.)

5) Heavier strain on the Northern Rescue Squad (not that we are speaking for them; we're not) which is already spread perilously thin during day hours.

6) Heavier drain of local volunteer fire fighting dollars to wipe up freeway hazardous material spills and other disasters like the benzyl chloride tanker crash that closed both lanes of I-68 for hours on Thursday, Aug. 7, at Finzel.

7) An easily-predictable boom of population attracted to a re-discovered Deep Creek.

And we can go on and on, but wolves in sheepskins approach.

A letter writer last week wondered why no hearings have been held for the public on this specific issue. (It's because no one "wants to get involved.") It is very clear to us that if no hearings are held, and everybody politely keeps quiet during this rape of Garrett County's progressively eroding natural resources, rural beauty, and relatively tempered way of life, Congress can do the dirty deed of mandating a superhighway in Garrett County without any say whatsoever from residents who may not want one.

Operation Dash for Cash does not require and shall not involve a local vote on the issue, because federal legislation authorizes Congress to create national highways for fun and political profit, without any consideration for those who must pay for and tolerate them (the politicians).

Anyone who DOES want to get involved with this issue has three avenues for doing so: 1) Contact CARE, P.O. Box 780, Grantsville, MD 21536; telephone 301-334-8842 or 1-800-735-2258: ext. 301-895-5615. Your support of CARE will be represented in Congress. 2) Advise your federal senators and representatives of your wishes. If you don't know who they are, call 202-224-3121 and ask. 3) Pray like Heaven.

Once the taxes come due, cancer rates escalate, the bulldozers land on your property, Miami's designer drugs hit home, and Social Security and Medicare get cut again, you will be 100% involved with Operation Dash for Cash.

You have our word on it.

Editor's note: CARE is a not-for-profit organization.

The Bittinger volunteer firemen and women's auxiliary will hold the last chicken barbecue dinner of the summer and the annual Bittinger Picnic at the fire hall this Saturday, Aug. 16, beginning at noon.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

The Christian Motorcyclists Association will hold a West Virginia rally Aug. 15-17 at Mission Farms, Fairmont, W.Va. For information on accommodations and fees, persons may call Tom Roberts at 304-727-8821.

The Mountain Dale Church of the Brethren, near Hazelton, W.Va., will hold a revival from Monday, Aug. 18, through Friday, Aug. 23, at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Donald Matthews, Oakland, will speak and there will be a special music presentation. For more information, call 304-379-6424.

A Gospel Sing is scheduled for August 22, from 7 to 10:30 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on the Paul Friend-Joni Miller roads, reached from U.S. 219 south of Oakland. Soloists and groups welcome. Free admission and refreshments. Professional P.A. system set up. Everyone welcome. For more information contact Frank or Helen West at 301-334-9465.

There will be an All Day Meeting at Mt. Zion United Methodist Church Sunday, Aug. 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be a church service at 10 a.m. and a covered dish dinner at noon. Gospel singing will continue all afternoon. Everyone is welcome.

REUNIONS

The Annual Deal Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 31, at the Grantsville Community Park, Grantsville. Persons are asked to bring a covered dish for the lunch to be held at 1 p.m. All relatives and friends are invited to attend.

The 63rd reunion of the Joel B. Miller family will be held on August 31 at the Oak Dale Mennonite Church, Oak Dale Road, near the village of St. Paul. The event will begin at 1 p.m. The Oak Dale Road intersects with Rt. 669. Family members are asked to participate in the "carry-in" lunch, some group singing, and an introduction to the newly revised book of the Miller genealogy and historical events, which will be available at the reunion.

The Wakefield Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Laurel Run Church of God beginning at 1 p.m.

The John C. and Homa A. Sweitzer Family Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Swanton Community Center. A covered dish lunch will be shared at 12:30 p.m. For information call 301-729-3275.

First Haskiell Reunion: Family and friends of George and Juanita Haskiell, originally from Turner Douglas, are invited to attend the first Haskiell Family Reunion, to be held at Deep Creek Lake on Saturday, Aug. 23, beginning at noon. For more information persons may call Tony Haskiell at 304-789-5303.

The 24th Annual Wilt Family Reunion will be held on Sunday, Aug. 17, at Big Bear Lake Campground, Hazelton, W.Va. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring an item for auction.

The 40th Annual Miller Reunion of the late Geo. Miller Clan will be held at the Zion Lutheran Church Pavilion, Accident, with a 12:30 p.m. meal, on Sunday, Aug. 24. All family and friends are welcome.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of Aug. 18-22 is as follows:

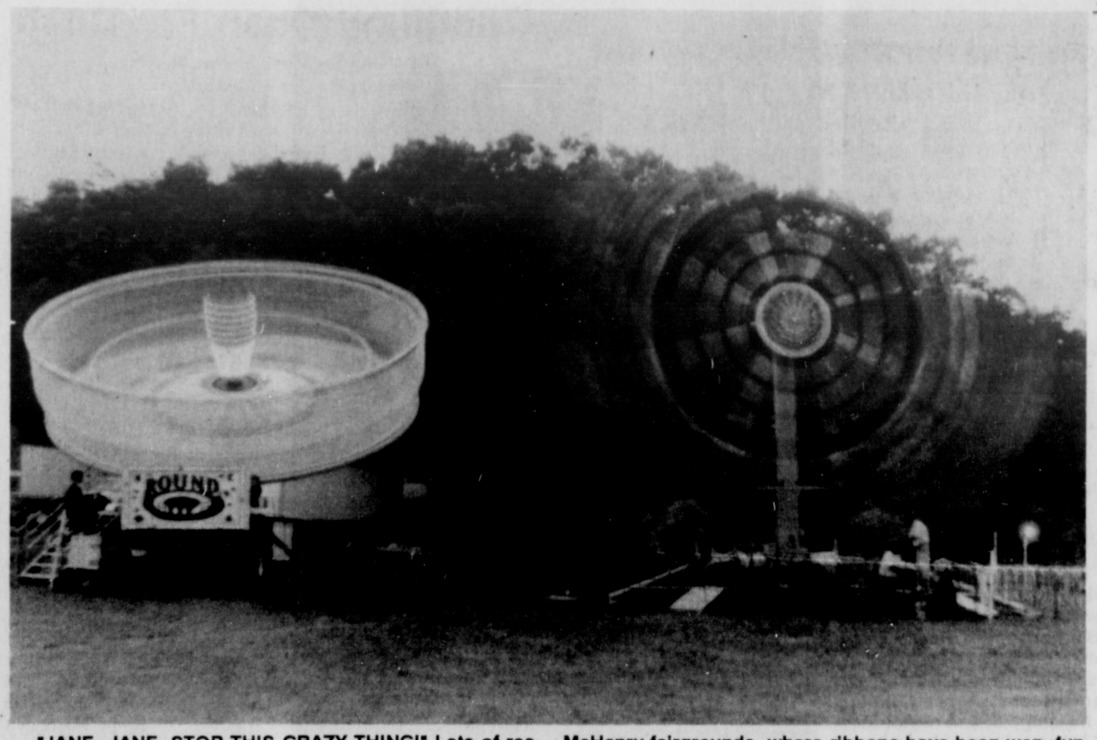
Two Men Charged With Felony Theft From B&L Plant

Two West Virginia men face felony theft charges after being arrested for allegedly stealing a copier from the former site of the Bausch & Lomb plant this past week.

Lynwood Carlton Sharpless, 40, Mt. Storm, and Stanley Vanmeter, 32, Elk Garden, were members of a construction crew working in an interior shipping area of the plant building, located at 265 Bausch & Lomb Drive. At noon, a B&L manager leaving for lunch observed several copiers packed in a box and sitting on the building's interior shipping dock. The manager secured the shipping dock by setting the alarm when he went to lunch. When he returned, the copier was missing, but the alarm had not gone off, which indicated that no one had left the premises through the shipping doors.

The investigating deputies called to the scene questioned the construction crew members, who had remained on the scene throughout the manager's absence. None of the crew expressed any knowledge of the whereabouts of the missing copier, valued at $500. The deputies subsequently discovered the copier in some boxes into which the construction crew members were loading copper pipes.

Sharpless and Vanmeter were both arrested and each faces charges of felony theft. Both subjects were subsequently released on a $500 bond that each of them posted.



"JANE, JANE, STOP THIS CRAZY THING!" Lots of residents and visitors alike are standing line this week to put their bodies through some serious spinning, lurching, and tugging at the 41st annual Garrett County Fair. Of course the Gambill Amusements don't go quite as fast as the photo might imply -- time-lapse work on the part of John McEwen had something to do with it. All the fun and tradition of the annual county event is in full swing at the McHenry fairgrounds, where ribbons have been won, funnel cakes are being served, and old friends are reuniting. Many local non-profit groups work hard at their respective booths to raise funds for their various causes, and young people put their year-long agricultural labor on the line in judged contests. The price to enter is $6 per person, which allows the entrant to ride the rides, attend the stage entertainment, and go to the race track events.

Price Changes For School Meals Are First In Five Years

After remaining steady for five years, the cost of meals in the Garrett County public schools will increase this year.

When classes resume this year, elementary school children, those in kindergarten through 5th grade, will pay $1.35 for lunch. At the secondary level, grades 6-12, students will be charged $1.50.

Breakfast, which is available for elementary school students, will see a rise in cost for the first time in 12 years. The price of breakfast will be $.75 this year.

Students who qualify based on federal income guidelines will receive reduced price meals: lunch for $.40, breakfast for $.30.

Meal tickets will still be available in advance or for daily purchase.

Don Knode, director of food and nutrition services for the school system, said this increase became necessary because the cost of providing meals has risen over the years.

Aside from the greater expense of goods and services, Knode noted that there is greater cost involved in developing more nutritious meals that align with USDA standards. He explained that progress has been made in that area. He noted that meals at the elementary level have 28% of calories from fat. "That is right on target with USDA standards," he said.

Knode said similar standards are almost met at the high school level. He also stated that there are many other elements to the nutrition guidelines that the school system is striving to incorporate in the food service program.

Midnight Bicyclist Arrested At New Germany Park

An eastern shore man faces several charges after being arrested at the entrance to New Germany State Park late this past Saturday night, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

David Allen Fairbanks, 33, Tilghman Island was apprehended by DNR rangers after they received a complaint that a person on a bicycle was acting disorderly and creating a traffic hazard at the entrance to New Germany State Park. He was charged with second-degree assault, drunk and disorderly conduct, and failure to obey a lawful order of a police officer.

Fairbanks was transported to the Garrett County jail and subsequently released on his own recognizance.

GCSO Seeking Leads In Several Recent Thefts

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating several recent thefts. Persons with any information on these criminal acts are encouraged to call the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911. Anonymous calls are accepted.

FELONY THEFTS

Several of the incidents are categorized as felony offenses. In each case the total value of the stolen items exceeds $300, making each incident a felony theft.

A theft from a truck parked along Fingerboard Road at the Garrett State Forest pulloff resulted in the loss of $1,400 worth of items and $550 damage to the vehicle.

The owner of the Chevrolet S-10 Blazer had parked his vehicle at the pulloff at 3 p.m. on Aug. 4. He returned from a bike ride just over two hours later, to discover the vehicle's back windshield broken out.

Taken from the vehicle were two Sears gray metal toolboxes, one containing many miscellaneous hand tools, and one containing many assorted electrician's specialty tools and a toolbelt. The value of the contents of the two toolboxes combined was estimated at $1,200. Also missing was one Fenwick graphite fly fishing rod, valued at $150, and one 3-by-5 inch black metal box containing fly fishing lures, valued at $50.

A General Electric room air conditioner valued at $350 was allegedly stolen from Treasure Island this past week in broad daylight during regular store hours, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The unusual shoplifting incident occurred as an employee working at the sidewalk sale in front of the store reportedly observed a man wheeling an air conditioner out into the lot and loading it into a car occupied by another man. The activity caught the employee's attention as he observed that there appeared to be no sales receipt in the man's hand or taped to the box.

When the employee checked with clerks inside the store, no one could recall selling an air conditioner. A check of the cash register receipts revealed that no record of an air conditioner purchase appeared to exist, nor did any of the store's cashiers recall checking one out.

day School classes make special gifts for the residents of each home. Both the visits and the gifts are greatly appreciated by the residents of both homes.

Although a very busy man, Rev. Harman always made time to visit an ill resident in the hospital or deliver a special prayer at either home. The residents and staff of both homes who knew of Reverend Harman's kindness and sincerity are deeply saddened by his passing. He will be sorely missed.

Members of the New Life Christian Church plan to continue their regularly scheduled visits to both homes; however, there will certainly be a void which only considerable time can fill.

Ritalin Effects On Children To Be Studied

In an effort to determine the prevalence of the use of methylphenidate--commonly known as Ritalin--among Maryland's school children, and the extent to which treatments for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) other than Ritalin are generally available or in use, Governor Parris N. Glendening recently announced the appointment of a 19-member task force to study the uses of methylphenidate and other drugs on school children.

House Bill #971, passed by the General Assembly during the 1997 legislative session, provided for the establishment of this new task force. Of the 19 task force members, 15 have been appointed by the governor to represent the medical community, school officials, and parents. The remaining four members have been appointed by the state legislature, the State Board of Physician Quality Assurance, and the State Board of Psychologists.

"This new task force is comprised of excellent individuals from the education and medical communities, as well as parents of school age children, who will work together during the coming months to find answers to some of the serious questions raised during legislative discussions on this issue," said Glendening.

Under the terms of the legislation, the task force will also develop educational programs and convene a statewide conference for parents, educators, and primary care physicians concerning ADHD. The task force is required to submit a report to the Governor and the General Assembly by January 1, 1999.

Maryland You are Beautiful©

"Maryland & Garrett County You Are Beautiful" CITIZEN RECOGNITION

We are looking for Maryland's Beautiful People - those special people whose inner beauty compels them to actively love their neighbors. We want to make Marylanders aware of the great things their fellow citizens are doing. The "Maryland You Are Beautiful" Citizen Recognition Ceremony celebrates and honors individuals or groups from each county and the City of Baltimore who make Maryland Beautiful. Each county will select one special individual or group to be honored as "Maryland's Most Beautiful" at a private reception with the Governor and a public awards ceremony in Annapolis scheduled for November 4, 1997. This event will be free and open to every Marylander, with entertainment provided by talented groups from every corner of the state.

The individual or group chosen for Garrett County will be recognized at the commissioners meeting September 30, 1997

EVELYN SYRUWS

In a recent obituary for Evelyn M. Syruws, 79, Corinth, W.Va., who died July 30 at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., the name of her mother should have read Virginia Lewis Riley, Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland.

Evelyn S. Light, 84, Cumberland, died Sunday, Aug. 10, 1997, at her home.

Born Aug. 23, 1912, in Finzel, she was the daughter of the late Ervin Oscar and Irene (Goldsworthy) Steinla. She was also preceded in death by one son, Richard A. "Rich" Light, on May 17, 1994.

She was a member of Centre Street United Methodist Church. She was employed by the Steinla Motor Company as office secretary and chief terminal dispatcher. She was past secretary of the El Fidel Club.

Survivors include three sons, James E. Light, Oakland, Paul E. Light, with whom she resided, and John W. Light, Cumberland; one brother, Jacob O. Steinla, Hagerstown; and one grandson.

Friends were received at the Hafer Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, LaVale, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Aug. 12, with the Rev. Adam Grim officiating. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

active role in farm work. An average day for her is to rise at 3:30 a.m. if she is needed to help milk. If she's not needed to milk, she gets up at 6:30 and cleans the barn. In the summer, she helps make hay or silage, whatever is in season. April says she is usually the person on the wagon when hay is being unloaded. She drives tractor, drives truck, rakes hay, and has even helped replace motors in farm vehicles. "I help whenever I can," the new Farm Queen said.

During the school year, April cleans stalls and beds the cows after school. While the cows are being milked, April feeds baby calves, approximately 30 or 35 of them. The calves range in age from newborn to one year old, and receive individual amounts of milk, water, hay and grain. When the milking is done, she cleans the barn again, this time walkways and walls. All this is completed by 7:30 or 8 p.m., and April can return to the house to begin her school work.

April's other home responsibilities include helping with the dishes, laundry, cooking, cleaning, making jelly and canning. April has won the Ball Canning Award three times and several best-of-show ribbons at the fair.

She attends Northern Garrett County High School, where she maintains a B+ average and is a member of Who's Who Among High School Students. She will be a senior this year.

She is a six-year member of the North Star 4-H Club, where she has held the offices of president, vice president, secretary and recreation leader. She is also a member of the Livestock Association and FFA.

The 4-H projects she has carried are steers, hogs, lambs and Junior Leadership. She has won numerous awards for her animals and other entries, including the Agriculture Award, Citizenship Award, Teen Leadership Award and the Baity Ridder Rotary Award for Outstanding Fair Exhibitor.

One accomplishment April is very proud of is being the first girl to win the Intermediate Tractor Operators Contest in Garrett County.

This year, along with serving as Garrett County Farm Queen at the fair, April will show her market hog and steer in Fitting and Showing and Market Animal classes and sell them both Saturday night at the Livestock Sale.

She has also participated in the 4-H Nutrition Bowl and public speaking at the county and district levels.

In school April is involved in FFA and Honor Chorus, and is a three-year member of the varsity track team. She has received the most valuable hurdler award twice and the student athlete of the month award. She is involved with the tobacco-free campaign, food drive for the House of Hope, fair clean-up, and fund-raising for the fire department.

Her hobbies and special interests are skiing, swimming, walking in the woods and video archery.

April's future plans include attending Garrett Community College and then transferring to a four-year college such as the University of Maryland, majoring in agriculture.

The first runner-up was Jennifer Linn Barnard, the 18-year-old daughter of William and Debra Barnard of Swanton. Jennifer lives on a 350-acre family farm, and her responsibilities are her 4-H and FFA market animal projects, helping in the hay fields, garden and yard, and cleaning the animal pens. She does regular household chores such as cleaning and laundry, and helps when canning time rolls around.

Jennifer recently graduated from Southern High School and will be entering the University of Maryland this fall. During her high school career, she was an honor roll student and maintained a grade point average of 3.8. She received the Soil Conservation Scholarship, a private scholarship from the University's Agriculture Department and a State of Maryland scholarship.

While a member of the Southern Garrett FFA, she served as president. She is also a member of a number of FFA judging teams, and will be representing the state of Maryland in Kansas City at the National FFA Convention as leader of the parliamentary procedure team. Jennifer has represented the state of Maryland in the National 4-H Fashion Revue in Memphis, Tenn., at 4-H Club Congress and at the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C. During her years in FFA and 4-H she carried beef, swine, sheep and veal animal projects.

This fall at the University of Maryland, Jennifer will major in animal and veterinary science. After finishing eight years of schooling she hopes to live in a small, rural area and have her own veterinary practice.

Also competing in the contest were Amanda Hinebaugh, the 16-year-old daughter of Rodney and Nancy Hinebaugh of Red House; and Susan Mayfield, the 16-year-old daughter of Hugh (Butch) and Debra Mayfield of Oakland.

Judges this year were Dot Workman, Allegany County Farm Bureau Women's Committee chairperson; Bill Kolb, retired engineer from Pittsburgh, Pa., originally from Garrett County; and Criss Kepple Sweitzer, attorney with Eiswert & Janes, and 1984 Garrett County Farm Queen. Scoring for the contest is broken down into four divisions: 25 percent on farm responsibility, 25 percent on public speaking, 25 percent on the contestant's knowledge of Farm Bureau, and 25 percent on appearance, friendliness and personality.

Laah Broadwater, 1996 Garrett County Farm Queen, gave her farewell address, thanking Farm Bureau and the public for making her year so special. In her speech, Laah said that once, farmers were regarded and respected as knowledgeable people in the community. In more recent years, farmers must compete for natural resources as well as gain support from legislators.

"Farmers are expected to produce quality food and fiber using limited amounts of land, water, and chemicals," she said.

"The problem," she stated, "is that the American public, as a whole, is not informed about what we, as agriculturists, really do. We are the ones who must be the strong, clear voice for agriculture in our nation."

Laah said that as Garrett County Farm Queen, she was able to interact with farmers and non-farmers alike. "There is a story agriculture has to tell, and we are the ones who must tell it," she said. "I sincerely respect those individuals and organizations who loyally battle against agricultural illiteracy. In fact, there are many people in this audience who do just that. These people are, and will continue to be, an inspiration to me. They are the dedicated farmers, ag educators, and spokespeople for our industry. You are the ones who allow me to have faith in what I do. Thank you. It means so much to have you to look to--I hope to one day give that back. Agriculture's past is our heritage. We have learned and grown from what you helped to shape, and I am proud to be a part of that heritage. I honestly have no doubt about what we can and will accomplish in our industry!

"There's one clear voice calling out for us to listen, one clear voice whispers words of wisdom."

In conclusion, Laah asked, "Will you join me in being that one clear voice for American Agriculture?"

The interviews were conducted by Garrett County Farm Bureau public relations director Rebecca DeBerry, and special guests were introduced by 1995 Garrett County and Maryland State Farm Queen Lori Evans.

Garrett County has had a Farm Queen since the fair started 41 years ago and for 10 years prior.

YOUNG PIANISTS TO PERFORM IN GLAF RECITAL - These young pianists will be given the opportunity to display their talents in a piano recital, hosted by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) on Sunday, Aug. 17, at 3 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. Admission to the event is free, according to Fred Stemple, executive director of GLAF. Twelve piano students of several local teachers have been selected chiefly by adjudicator will perform in the recital. Also playing will be New York City's Nancy McDill, a featured pianist of GLAF's Symphony at Deep Creek, which will take the GCC stage this weekend and next (see related story). The young performers invited to participate in the Sunday recital are students of various teachers in the county, including Ellinor Benedict, Marianne Flinn, Rita Hart, Neil Krebs, Lela Paugh, and Susan Peterson. The students are at varying levels of mastery, having studied from as little as one year to as long as nine, according to a spokesperson. "This is an important function of GLAF," Stemple said. "We want very much to help enhance the musical education of our young people." The performers above in the front row are Kara Rush, home school student, and Andrew Murray, a student at Broad Ford Elementary School. In the second row, left to right, are Crystal Gail Yoder, Mtn. View Christian School; Miriam Sincell, Southern Middle; Erin Neil, Northern Middle; Angie Sincell, Southern High; and Jennifer Sanders, Southern High. In the back, same order, are Cambria Baylor, Southern Middle; Gina Powell, Southern High; Nikolas James, Mercyhurst College (Erie, Pa.); Nathan Rawe, Northern High graduate headed for Towson University; and Devon McClive, Southern High (who was inadvertently left out of the submitted article last week -- sorry, Devon!). Ms. McDill will perform at the conclusion of the recital and will also talk with the students about her experiences as a professional pianist. For more information, persons may call the GLAF box office at 301-387-3082.

GCSO Seeking

The man who wheeled the air conditioner out of the store was described as a black male, approximately 25 years old, 6' to 6'3" tall, 180 to 200 pounds, with a clean-shaven face with his head shaved bald. At the time of the reported incident he was wearing a blue shirt and black pants.

The second subject, who was behind the driver's wheel of the car in the parking lot, was described as a white male, with a bushy white beard and mustache. The vehicle was a four-door sedan, medium-green in color, described as being in "rough shape."

A rifle valued at $425 was taken from an unlocked pickup truck parked in front of a Red Oak Road residence last Friday night. The rifle was described as a 788 Remington rifle, .243-caliber bolt-action, with a wide leather sling that had a picture of a deer stenciled on it and a mounted 3x9 power Tasco scope .

A theft from a locked vehicle parked along Route 219 while the owner was attending the Garrett County Agriculture Fair occurred on the afternoon of Wednesday, Aug. 13.

The complainant told deputies she had parked her vehicle at 1:30 p.m., and when she returned to it approximately three hours later she found her passenger side door ajar. She closed it and proceeded to drive home, but as she arrived she noticed that several items had been removed from the vehicle in her absence. The subsequent investigation by a sheriff's deputy revealed signs of forced entry to the passenger door.

Stolen was a total of $407 of items, including $360 worth of compact discs, a black nylon CD carrying case, and a black leather Esprit women's wallet containing personal IDs and cash.

An oak bed with a new mattress and box springs set was taken from the basement of a residence in the 500 block of Garrett Road this past week. Valued at $600, the bed frame is described as a solid oak headboard and footboard, with brown metal siderails. A junked refrigerator was stolen in the course of the same incident.

MISDEMEANOR THEFTS

Several recent misdemeanor thefts are under investigation by the sheriff's office.

A homemade wooden lawn chair, made of 2-by-2-inch treated lumber, was taken from a residence in the 300 block of Lower Penn Point Drive in the Swanton area of Deep Creek Lake in the last week of July. The chair is valued at $100.

Two 3-by-2-foot blue, red and white "Valvoline" curb signs were stolen from Southern Quick Lube in Mtn. Lake Park on the night of Aug. 12. Each sign is valued at $40.

A Coke machine was entered, possibly with a pass key, in the 5000 block of Hutton Road recently. Stolen was $70 worth of quarters.

Six audio cassette music tapes were stolen from an unlocked vehicle parked in front of a Powles Drive apartment in Mtn. Lake Park on the night of Aug. 6. Total value of the items was $54.

VARIABLE LIGHT WINDS CHALLENGE SAILBOAT RACERS
by Dan Muss

It was a weekend of light and rather unreliable winds. Saturday there was a west wind that blew from 0 to 5 knots, but on Sunday the wind came from every point on the compass and I had to sail upwind to both marks.

Conditions like we had on Sunday arise from the fact that the breeze is not really a true wind, because a true wind will prevail over an extended area. What we were experiencing were called "thermals" being generated by the difference in temperature between the lake water and the air.

On Sunday I was in second place, about 30 feet from the finish; Ted Rissell was about 30 feet behind me. The wind suddenly shifted, taking me away from the finish line. I chose to follow the unfavorable shift for a few seconds, but it kept swinging me away from the line. Finally I tacked and was able to head straight for the line on the new tack. But Ted's crew, Kathy Rubel, saw the "header" that had hit us, told Ted to tack! They slipped across inches ahead of us.

My crew on Sunday was a young woman named Liz Kingsley. I met her when she and her husband, Steve Valenti, arrived at the Turkey Neck Yacht Club and said that they were interested in learning how to sail...did anyone need a completely green crew? Several of us took them out and they are learning fast. Steve and Liz are both cardiologists from Annapolis, and Steve is a really talented guitarist and singer. Last Saturday night there was a local talent show at the yacht club and Steve sang the following words to the tune of the Beatles' song: "With a little help from my friends."

What did you do, when we wanted to crew, you said 'hop on board' and made room for three.
And then with some fear, you took us along, and we tried not to botch 'hard-a-lee.'
We got by with a little help from our friends...
We learned to jibe with a little help from our friends...
We pointed high with a little help from our friends...

Oaks Edged By Fairmont In Pen-Mar Championships

The Oakland Oaks captured the regular season title in the Pen-Mar Baseball League, but just missed getting the icing on the cake, as they were edged in the league championship series this past weekend by Fairmont, two games to one. The Oaks dropped the first game of the series on Saturday at Garrett Community College, 14-8, won Sunday's first contest at Fairmont State College, 13-6, but were then edged in the second and deciding game, 8-6.

Fairmont was the runner-up in the league last season after losing to Romney in the final series.

The loss did not, however, end the season for the Oaks, who qualified for the Maryland State Semi-Pro Tournament by winning the regular season title in the Pen-Mar and played last night at GCC against Brunswick (see separate story).

Saturday's game was knotted at 3-3 after three and one-half innings, but Fairmont took the lead for good by scoring five runs in the bottom of the third. The West Virginia team led by as many as eight, 11-3, before Oakland chipped away at the lead with two runs in the seventh and three in the eighth to make it 11-8. Fairmont then responded with three insurance runs in the bottom of the eighth.

Pacing Fairmont's 14-hit performance were Aaron Busko, who smacked a solo home run and a double, Heath King with a two-run homer and a pair of singles, Jason Sleeth with three singles, Mike Dotson with a pair of singles and two RBI, and Jacob Lowther with two singles and one RBI.

The top hitter of the day was Oakland's Jeremy Fitzwater, who collected four of the Oaks' total of 12 hits with two home runs and two singles that sent home five runs. Both of his homers were two-run shots.

Jason Sweitzer and Bobby Fritz each doubled and singled for the Oaks, while Ernie Galusky hit two singles and Josh Woods and Donnie Reeves each finished with two singles.

Earning the win on the mound for Fairmont was Andy Jeffries, who pitched the first eight innings.

The Oaks managed just eight hits in Sunday's first game, but took advantage of Fairmont's sloppy defensive play to put several runs on the board. The host team chalked up five errors in the contest.

After trailing 2-0, Oakland tied the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the second, took the lead for good with a single run in the third, and then recorded five runs each in the fourth and fifth innings.

Reeves hit a triple and a single for the Oaks, while Fitzwater drove in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly. Ryan Folk added a run-producing double, Aaron Taylor and Sweitzer each singled twice.

Kent Taylor went the distance on the mound for the win, giving up eight hits, striking out six, and walking two.

Heath King recorded a three-run homer for Fairmont, Mike Dotson hit a triple and a single, and John Chambers contributed a double.

It was the bat of Fairmont's Jacob Lowther that made the difference in the third and final game of the series, as he plated four runs with two doubles and a single. Also getting three of Fairmont's 10 hits was Todd Stevens with a double and two singles, while Jason Sleeth finished with a pair of singles and an RBI.

The Oaks trailed 3-1 after three innings, were down 7-4 after four and one-half, cut the Fairmont lead to 7-6 with two runs in the bottom of the fifth, but were held scoreless in the final frame after Fairmont added an insurance run in the top of the seventh.

Oakland also recorded 10 hits, with Folk getting three singles and Galusky hitting a double and a single.

Joe Crites, who pitched the first five innings for Fairmont, was credited with the win, while Lowther picked up the save by pitching the final two innings and allowing only one hit.

"It was a great ball game," stated Oakland player/manager Terry Helbig. "We just didn't get the hits when we needed them, and we left a lot of runners on base."

Fairmont finished the season with an overall mark of 20-9, and the Oaks concluded with a 20-8 record.

Local Club Will Host Wakeboard Contest Sunday

The Deep Creek Lake Watersports Club will host a wakeboard contest this Sunday, Aug. 17, the first-ever such event held on Deep Creek Lake. Contestants will get two 25-second passes behind the wakeboard boat to impress the judges with their various skills and free-riding ability. The contest will be held in the area of the lake along U.S. Rt. 219 across from Trader's Landing.

Registration will begin Sunday at 7 a.m. and competition will get underway at 8 a.m. Spectators are welcome and will be able to find good seats on the shore in front of the Trader's Landing complex.

For more information, persons may contact Steve at High Mountain Sports, 301-387-4199.

Rain Ends Oaks' Game; Re-Slated For Friday Night

The Oakland Oaks of the Pen-Mar Baseball League were leading Brunswick 4-0 after three innings of a Maryland State Semi-Pro Tournament game being played last evening at Garrett Community College, but that's when heavy rains forced the cancellation of the contest.

Three hours of work by Pen-Mar players that involved soaking up standing water on the GCC diamond was all for naught, as new showers halted the contest and forced its rescheduling for this Friday night. The game is set to get underway at 8 p.m. under the GCC lights.

If the Oaks are victorious Friday evening, they will depart for Baltimore on Saturday to play Harford in a state semi-final at 3 p.m. The final game of the tourney will be at 7 p.m.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

It doesn't take a lot of sausage to flavor a pasta dish. Brown ½ pound sausage meat, stirring frequently; remove with slotted spoon. Saute zucchini slices in some of the fat, add a can of plum tomatoes, then the sausage. Toss with a pound of cooked penne.

Use a melon baller to remove the fuzzy "choke" from a artichoke. It makes a clean cut without damaging the tender heart.

In Italy, day-old bread stands in for croutons in salad, and does a more delicious job, too. The bread absorbs the herb-flavored dressing and tomato juices as croutons never could.

Dress up chocolate ice cream with a sprinkle of cinnamon sugar. Add a slice of mango, dipped in lime juice, then chili pepper.

Food history: a hundred years or so ago, caviar-bearing sturgeon swam in the Hudson River in New York. A 135-pound keg of caviar sold for $6, and the dark "pearls" were given away in bars, somewhat like peanuts today.

A Little Nighttime Tale From The Makers Of Sleeping Beauty.®

The king and queen of Central Tossanturn had a perfect kingdom - except for one little problem. They were cursed with a bad mattress. That caused the queen to toss and turn and talk all night long. Which made for one very tired king.
Well, one day the royal couple got a Sleeping Beauty® mattress set by Kingsdown. So their highnesses now enjoy proper spinal alignment and a healthier, more comfortable, quieter sleep. And the whole kingdom rests better knowing there's less talk in the royal bed chamber.

Pagliaro Wins Western Maryland Tourney, Again

C.J. Pagliaro, defending champion of the Western Maryland Amateur Golf Tournament, held on to his title this year by finishing with a total score of 216 for the 36-hole tourney, held this past weekend at the Oakland Golf Club course.

The former Marshall University standout carded an even par 71 in the Friday's opening round, finished with a one-under 70 on Saturday, and, despite being four over (75) in the final round on Sunday, won the event with a five-stroke lead over former tournament champion Ron Kingora, who placed second with 221.

Larry Spotloe, who has also won the Western Maryland, was third with a 222, followed by John Evans and Bernie Wydo with 224s, Mike Marrara at 225, Eric Johnson and Slug Armstrong, 226s, John Blank with a 227, Ron Witt and Eric Snodgrass at 228, Brian Woods with a 229, Gary Wiseman at 230, Jim Hetrick with a 231, and Jason Hale, Jim Willis, Ronald Lutz, and Kane Wengerd, all with 232s.

NHS Cross Country Team Meeting Slated

An organizational meeting for the Northern High School cross country team will be held on Friday, Aug. 15, at 9 a.m. in the school gymnasium.

All students in grades 9-12 interested in joining the team are encouraged to attend.

There is currently no coach for the team, according to a school spokesperson. Any person interested in assuming that role is urged to contact Martin Green, principal of Northern, as soon as possible. The telephone number at the school is 301-746-8668.

Read. Then Recycle.

Bingo Set To Benefit Laker Volleyball Team

A special Bingo will be held at the Oakland fire hall on Saturday, Aug. 23, with all proceeds benefiting the Garrett Community College women's volleyball scholarship fund. Play will get underway at 6:30 p.m. and games will follow the same format as that used by the Oakland VFD on Thursday evenings. Payoff amounts will depend upon crowd size.

A spokesman for GCC noted appreciation to the Oakland VFD for "their support and guidance" with the project.

Traveling Team Soccer Try-Outs And Clinic Set

Try-outs for the Troubleshooters, Garrett County's under-14 traveling soccer team, have been scheduled for two dates at the Southern Middle School fields. All Garrett County youngsters (male or female) who are under age 14 as of July 31, 1997, are invited to attend the try-outs, which are slated for Monday, Aug. 18, from 6 to 8 p.m. and Sunday, Aug. 24, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Players will participate in at least one, and possibly two, fall tournaments, as well as winter indoor soccer. Members of last year's Troubleshooter team do not need to try out, but are asked to notify coaches Karl Schwalm (334-9331) or Bob Goralski by Aug. 24 to express their intentions for this season.

There will also be a free coaching clinic for youth coaches (players from under 6 to under 15), which will be held next Wednesday, Aug. 20, from 6 to 8 p.m., also at the Southern Middle School fields. Participants are asked to bring their own soccer balls.

Christian Men's Softball League Results Noted

Deer Park swept a doubleheader from St. Mark's to move into first place, and Cornerstone and Glade Mennonite split a twinbill this past week in Garrett County Area Men's Christian Softball League action.

Deer Park took two from St. Mark's by scores of 12-1 and 17-6, with Farron Hershman and Mike Ashby the respective winners on the mound. Ray Hershman smacked a pair of home runs for the winners and teammate Jeremy Crosco hit one.

Cornerstone topped Glade Mennonite in the first game of their doubleheader, 20-11, behind pitcher Rick Durst. Glade came back to win the second game, 21-13, with Todd Brenneman getting the win on the mound. Home runs for Glade were recorded by Terry Brenneman, Cody Brenneman, and Craig Cumberworth, while Dale Broadwater and Jerry Durst each homered for Cornerstone.

League standings are as follows: Deer Park, 14-6; Cherry Glade, 15-7; Glade Mennonite, 16-8; Mt. View, 14-10; St. Mark's 10-10; Maranatha, 11-13; Cornerstone, 10-14; Crellin, 6-14; and Nazarene, 4-18.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the week ending August 10 are:

Walleye, 2 lbs. 9 ozs., 21½ inches, caught by Rick Kieta, Vanderbilt, Pa.

Yellow perch, 1 lb. 1 oz., 12¼ inches, caught by James Morgan, Frederick.

Smallmouth bass, 3 lbs. 1 oz., 19 1/8 inches, caught by Joe Dobkin, Wheeling, W.Va.

Chain pickerel, 1 lb. 9 ozs., 20 inches, caught by Bradley Watkins, Ellicott City.

Northern pike, 6 lbs. 7 ozs., 30¼ inches, caught by Tom Marks, McHenry.

Largemouth bass, 3 lbs. 9 ozs., 18¼ inches, caught by Skip Spessard, Hagerstown.

Weekly winners are awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must enter their catch at Johnny's Bait House, Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Still Time To Register For Referee Clinic

Local soccer enthusiasts, including the parents of soccer players, still have time to register for a FIFA soccer referee certification and re-certification class that will be held this weekend at Garrett Community College and Will O'the Wisp.

Saturday's session, which begins at 8:30 a.m., will be held in Room 306 of the Continuing Education building at GCC. Current referees needing re-certification will meet for a review session and then take the exam, all of which should be concluded by about mid-day Saturday. The schedule for new referee candidates will be 8:30 a.m. to about 4:30 p.m. both on Saturday and Sunday, with Sunday's session to be held in the Sitzmark Room at Will O'the Wisp.

The Mountaintop Soccer Association is in need of additional referees, according to Ron Petrella, MSA president, not only for the fall season, but also for next spring when the MSA plans to have several traveling teams in competition. All certified referees are paid for their services.

Persons who plan to attend this weekend's class are requested to telephone either Ned Holloway at 301-387-9411, or Don Sincell at 301-334-3963 (W) or 301-334-3650 (H) to make their intentions known. The class will be conducted by USSF/FIFA instructors Wayne Wray and Bruce Steele.

Women's Golf Results Noted

Play for July 31 by the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club was A-D and B-C partner golf, with prizes being awarded for low gross putt-less score and low net in each group.

In the A-D group, June Bray and Vickie Regnier won low gross puttless, scoring 51, while Pat Filsinger and Karon Schnably took low net with 61. Anne Jesnak and Kaz Hamill won low gross puttless in the B-C group, shooting 58, and Cheryl Wotherspoon and Helen McHenry scored 62 low net.

The championship tournament (match-play) will start today, August 14, and will continue for the next few weeks.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Butch McGill jumped from the outside pole position to lead all 25 laps of the main event last Friday night at Interstate 79 Speedway. McGill was challenged several times by Chuck Harper and Paul Wilmoth Jr. After catching McGill, Wilmoth tried for several laps to get around the leader, but just wasn't strong enough to make a pass. This was McGill's first win at I-79 this season. During the last few laps, Harper ran a very high line and got around Wilmoth to take second place with Wilmoth settling for third. Fourth and fifth went to Mark Myers and Dave Groves. Six through ten were Nolan Dalton, Mike Hawkins, Terry McKisic, Robbie Scott, and Chad McDougal. Heat wins were taken by Dalton, McGill and Harper.

Nine wins are now in the book for semi-late driver Doug Horton. Starting each week in the back of the heat because of his points average, Horton works his way mid-way through the field to get the best starting spot for the feature event. It takes several laps, but before the checkered flag falls, Horton is at the front. Running a distant second was Kevin Wolfe followed by Kenneth Gould, Rick Strickler, and Steve Wilmoth. Wolfe and Gould were the heat winners.

Gary Tonkery picked up his third win of the season in the pure stock division. As they battled lapped traffic for the final five circuits, Jim Byers caught Tonkery and appeared to catch more breaks. But Byers had to settle for the runner-up spot after wins the two previous weeks. Brian Tonkery was third with Paul Watson Jr. and Jay Martin following to the line. Prelims were won by G. Tonkery, Danny Staggers, and Pat Frazier.

The small field of dwarf cars found a new winner this week. Only two drivers, Terry Hall and Steve Mason, have won in this class this year. John P. Cogar Sr. broke the string of eight consecutive wins by Hall. Cogar was chased by Greg Shingleton, who won the only heat, Carol Rush and Garry Sisson Jr.

Earning his first win of the year in the McDonald McModifieds was Roy Gibson. Gibson has been close several times this year but finally got the win. Louie Krushansky and Steve Cook had a good battle for the second and third spots while Ron Parrish and Shawn Davis rounded out the top five. Heat wins went to Gibson, Krushansky and Parrish.

Bike races were held for approximately 200 children under the age of 12, and "a fun time was had by all." One child won a brand new bike, Central Cab gave away a trip for two to the Goody's 500 NASCAR race in Bristol at the end of the month, and several other fans won tickets to Pirate baseball games.

This Friday, August 15, will be autograph and picture night for the fans and racing in five divisions will be sponsored by Marmon/-Keystone. August 22 will be another "Fan Appreciation Night" when admission with a coupon will be $5. This will be season championship for the late model drivers.

Coming on August 28-30 will be the season finale! Thursday, August 28, is practice night for the STARS late models and all other classes. Admission in the grandstands will be free. On Friday, August 29, the late models will run a $3,000 to win special with increased purses in the other divisions. Semi-lates will run their season championship that evening. The 8th Annual Mountain State Invitational/Mark Balzano Memorial will be held on Saturday evening, paying $7,000 to the winner of the STARS late model feature. It will be season championship night for the modifieds, pure stocks, and dwarf cars. The Hillbilly 100 follows on Sunday at Pennsboro Speedway.

For information on any events, interested race fans may call the speedway office at 304-592-3200 or the track at 304-592-0916.

U.S. Army Jazz Ensemble Will Perform At FSU

The United States Army Field Band Jazz Ensemble, the Jazz Ambassadors, will perform at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 4, in the Pealer Recital Hall of Frostburg State University's Performing Arts Center. The performance is free, but tickets are required.

This versatile 19-piece ensemble presents a package of music that appeals to all ages. Modern jazz, big band tunes, and pop and patriotic music are all part of their repertoire.

Tickets are available at Main Street Books in Frostburg, the Book Center in Cumberland, and WFWM Radio, Compton Hall on the FSU campus, 301-687-4143.

The concert is sponsored by WFWM, public radio from FSU.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

COMPLETE AHEC NURSING PROGRAM - The Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) recently recognized area young persons who completed the summer Nursing Education Opportunities Program. The program is designed for students interested in pursuing an entry level bachelor's degree in nursing. Participants attended academic classes, seminars, and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training. They also had mentor experiences with regional nurses and participated in numerous workshops at the University of Maryland School of Nursing. The participants from Garrett County, pictured left to right, were Heather Gant, Friendsville; Tammy Michaels, Accident; and Allison White, Oakland.

Street Fair

The following musical entertainment is scheduled: August 29, 4 p.m. - Jerry Haines, folk musician, 5 p.m. - Diane Hubka, jazz vocalist, and 7 p.m. - Niel Krebs and Greg Larry; and August 30, 11 a.m. - Sang Run, traditional acoustic music, noon - Jeff Gilbert's Garage Band (two hours), 2 p.m. - Men of Accord Barbershop Quartet, and 3 p.m. - Hammers & Strings.

Visual art will also be on display in a gallery setting in the building known as the old Pritts Building, which is on loan for this event by First United National Bank & Trust. The gallery is being managed by members of the Garrett County Arts Council. Liberty Street will be blocked to traffic and food vendors will have the opportunity to set up booths in that area. There may be artists present, selling their works and/or demonstrating skills. Other planned activities include massage, mimes, storytelling, and face painting. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Vendors wishing to exhibit should contact Ken Perrin at 301-334-3151. For more information, persons may also contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550-1581, or telephone 301-334-1948.

First United Adds Business Dev. Officer

William B. Grant, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of My Bank, First United National Bank & Trust, recently announced that John M. Zimowski has joined the bank as business development officer for indirect lending.

"I am very pleased to have John join the staff at My Bank, First United. His vast experience and knowledge of lending will be of great benefit to the bank and its customers," Grant said.

Zimowski started his career in banking in 1986. He has held the positions of branch manager, consumer loan officer, and consumer loan manager. He has been involved in lending since 1964 in the Hagerstown and Cumberland areas.

Zimowski is a graduate of LaSalle High School, Cumberland. Over the years he has attended Allegany Community College and has taken numerous banking courses in lending, marketing, and management.

Zimowski is a member of the finance council of the Church of the Annunciation in Fort Ashby and a past president and member of the Fort AshLy Lions Club. He resides in Fort Ashby, W.Va., with his wife Patricia. He has two daughters, Amy and Beth. Amy and her husband reside in Midland and Beth is currently a student at Frankfort High School.

ter school program. This agenda will focus on positive pastimes for the young people of the neighborhood.

Prosecution efforts in the community will be funded $12,198 to provide an assistant state's attorney who will work one day each week in the town concentrating on problem solving and criminal cases. This individual will focus on domestic violence cases.

Lt. Milburn explained that the town office in Grantsville will be available for use as an interagency meeting place. This will help coordinate the multiple facets of the endeavor.

Information on individual projects of the HotSpot program will be made available was they are completed. Anyone wishing to learn more about this initiative may call Lt. Milburn at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

relocate families who have been repeatedly forced from their homes by dangerous flash floods, as well as to finance projects designed to contain future floods. Funds under the new HUD Disaster Recovery Initiative can be used for long-term recovery efforts, property buyouts, relocations, and efforts to prevent future flood damage. The program will give communities great flexibility in meeting local needs quickly, a HUD spokesperson said.

Communities can use HUD funds for: rehabilitation of residential and commercial buildings; acquisition, construction or reconstruction of public facilities and improvements, including streets, neighborhood centers, and water and sewer facilities; homeownership assistance, including downpayment assistance and interest rate subsidies; new replacement housing; code enforcement; and assistance to business for carrying out economic development activities for job creation and retention.

"As the ranking member of the Senate's Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, I am pleased we were able to make these funds available in the disaster relief package," Senator Paul S. Sarbanes said. "These funds will provide families with the tools they need to rebuild their lives, protect their businesses and communities from future flood damage, and get solidly on the road to recovery."

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m., followed by the worship service at 11 a.m. A pig roast and covered dish dinner will be shared at noon, with an afternoon program set to begin at 2 p.m. Special music will be provided by Romans VIII, The Eisenhours, the Keefer Family, and the Dale Sines Family.

METHODIST

Mrs. Dorothy Lowdermilk entertained eight members of the Selbysport United Methodist Women at her home on Aug. 5. Mrs. Dean Vitez, president, conducted the meeting and Olive Grove, vice president, read several articles from books for her program.

Plans for the September meeting will be announced at a later date.

WOW TO MEET

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will meet at the town park on Thursday, Aug. 21, at 6:30 p.m. In addition to the meeting, a barbecued rib is also planned. All who plan to attend are asked to bring a covered dish.

PICNIC

Approximately 50 people attended the Friendsville Rod, Boat, and Gun Club picnic on Saturday evening.

REUNIONS

The Artice family reunion was held Sunday at the town park. Approximately 75 family and friends were in attendance.

Prizes were awarded in various categories, and games were played. Officers elected for 1998 are: Naomi Griffith, president and treasurer, and Christine Sines, vice president.

The next Artice family reunion is set for the first Sunday in August 1998.

Approximately 75 relatives and friends of the late Bruce and Minnie Friend gathered for a reunion Sunday afternoon at the Grantsville Park.

The Sines Homecoming will be Sunday, Aug. 17, at Friendsville Elementary School park. Dinner will be shared at 1 p.m.

The annual Orval and Nellie Friend family reunion will be Sunday, Aug. 17, at the Friendsville Town Park. Dinner will be at 10 a.m. All relatives and friends are invited.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Summer Reading Program at the Friendsville library was held Aug. 8. The Rotary helper, Janis Afable, read Mrs. Brown Went To Town. The craft for the morning was animal windmills or animal straws.

Carol Walker, a forest ranger with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, was the guest for the day. She spoke to the children about the bears in the Garrett County area, and displayed a bear skin, paws, and a skull. All those present received pamphlets and stickers from Walker. They also received Smokey Bear pins and bookmarkers from the forestry department.

ROTARY NEWS

The Friendsville Rotary Club met Aug. 11 at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant.

Guests were present from West Virginia and Canada.

Lesley Johnson, a representative of the DNR, presented a program about the wildlife in Garrett County. She focused particularly on the black bear population.

Two youths who are employed by the Rotary will give a presentation about their summer jobs during the Friendsville library's reading program next week.

SCOUT NEWS

Girl Scout Troop 5569 took first place honors for "Best Appearing Youth Entry" in the 18th Annual Friendsville Days parade on Aug. 2. Members of the troop who marched in the parade were Christi Benedict, Laura Benedict, Chelsie Bittinger, Kayla and Breann Sines, Kerri and Kelly Harding, Ashley Ross, Shawna Stallman, Angie Umbel, Emily Sisler, Jackie Smetzer, Raina Sines, and Jessica Viragh. Adults participating in the event were Belinda Benedict, Tammie Uphold, Jenny Harding, and JoAnn Ross.

During Tuesday evening's meeting, the scouts created sand art, played dodge ball, and finalized plans for an Aug. 12 trip to Kennywood Park. Five girls received their "Birthday" badges. They were: Christa Uphold, Angie Umbel, Emily Sisler, and Kelly and Kerri Harding.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rush, Connecticut, visited with friends in the area on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Jenny (Humberson) Cross, Kansas City, Mo., and her sister, Deon Humberson, Austintown, Ohio, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Humberson. Mark and Debbie Miller and their son Ross, Hudson, Ohio, were here for the weekend to visit the Humbersons.

Mrs. Lucille (Hinebaugh) Bradshaw, Mrs. Nancy Bradshaw and daughter Angie, Richmond, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Glover, Elder Hill, were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. Glen D. Frazee, Frazee Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fraser, Mrs. Anne Cain, and Mary Ann Bittingham, Newark, Del., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ward Livengood from Friday until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vic Selby, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.; Eric Metheny, Rush; and Doris Friend, Fred Humberson, Jane Fox, and Betty Davis were visitors of Ms. Jean Selby during the week.

The children and grandchildren of Bud and Bernadine Friend are visiting for week. They are Penny and Rick Bathum and sons Willis and Jon, Enumclaw, Wash.; Terry Friend, Cumberland; Tonja Dixon, Mineral, Va.; Shayne Couch, West Palm Beach, Fla.; and Sherry Friend.

It was incorrectly noted that Ms. Elizabeth Friend celebrated her 92nd birthday at the home of her grandson. Ms. Friend actually celebrated her 98th birthday.

Mrs. David Pryor spent Aug. 1-10 with her daughter, Barbara Miller, at Topsail Beach, N.C. Mark Pryor, Bristow, Va., visited his father, David Pryor, at Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, and then spent Saturday night with his mother in Friendsville.

Ms. Theresa Wells Burgess has returned to her home here after a five-day visit with her daughter in Baltimore.

Myron and Barbara Livengood, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., were Sunday visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cupp, and her sister Janice Hileman.

Mrs. Dorothy Spear, Paula, Kody, and Clint, and Ms. Margaret Shoemaker were Sunday callers of Bill and Carole Shoemaker, Greensburg, Pa. They all attended a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Bunner, Greensburg, for the latter's daughter, Mrs. Todd (Kristina Shoemaker) Bunner, for her 30th birthday. Approximately 45 relatives and friends attended the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Strawser, Reedsville, W.Va., along with Tome Leydig and Nancy Gribble, Rockwood, Pa., Jesse Ray Kreger and friend Jennifer, Somerset, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. William Burow and son Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Friend and son Richard, all of Blooming Rose, were callers of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Friend. Mr. Friend observed his birthday on Aug. 11 with dinner with his wife Doris at the Silver Leaf Restaurant, Frostburg.

D.J. Stover, Beaver, Pa., spent several days with relatives in Oakland and was a Saturday overnight guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Leota Stover. Leota and D.J. met his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Stover, on Sunday at Glisan's Restaurant, Rt. 40. D.J. then returned home with his parents. Visitors at the Stover-Friend home here were Mrs. Alice Mae Bosley and son Jacob, White Rock, Ralph Humberson, Mrs. Janice Fisher, and her nephew, Richard Johnson.

Ms. Eleanor Grove, Waynesboro, Pa., was a Friday luncheon guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schlosnagle. Monday luncheon and dinner guests were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Colin (Sandy) McGraw, and their sons Jeff and Greg, Laurel; Miss Jennifer Graner, Hyattsville; and Spencer Schlosnagle.

THEY'RE WAITING IN LINE to make reservations for the Garrett County Historical Society's fund-raising dinner and auction, to be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Thursday, Sept. 18, at 6:30 p.m. Following a home-cooked meal, donated items will be auctioned off, with all proceeds going to the society's building fund. A drawing will be held the same evening for two handmade afghans. Small new and used items are still being accepted for the auction. Persons may contact the GCHS museum in Oakland for more details. Dinner reservations, which are $10 each, may be made by sending checks to Dorothy Cathell, 550 Liberty St., Oakland, MD 21550.

Group To Study Smoke Detectors For The Deaf

Key individuals from the firefighting community, the deaf community, Maryland state government, and other concerned groups will form a new committee to design and implement a program to secure funding for the acquisition of smoke detectors for statewide distribution to individuals and families who are deaf or hard of hearing, Governor Parris N. Glendening said last week.

This special committee, to be chaired by Richard Yinger, former president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, also will be responsible for generating publicity and public awareness about the availability of smoke detectors for the deaf, deaf-blind, and hard of hearing communities in Maryland.

"My administration is committed to making our communities safer for all Marylanders, including those who are hard of hearing or have difficulty seeing," said Glendening. "We should not wait until a tragedy strikes before we do everything possible to ensure that individuals with disabilities are protected. It is vital that we get the word out immediately to those who need this information."

Although many local fire departments have programs to distribute smoke detectors to citizens as a part of their fire prevention and educational outreach efforts, generally these smoke detectors are of limited assistance to individuals who are deaf or hard of hearing.

The special committee will meet to address the fire safety concerns of the deaf and hard-of-hearing individuals and organizations in Maryland, and to develop a program to meet the needs of this community. It will also seek to achieve the following goals relating to the funding, acquisition, and distribution of the detectors: 1) Generate funding from the private sector to purchase large quantities of special smoke detectors for the hearing impaired and deaf communities, 2) establish a list of needy recipients, 3) develop a set of guidelines on how to apply for the detectors, and 4) foster a bond between the hearing impaired and the local fire services.

Miss Janoske Marries Mr. Malone In June 21 Ceremony In Virginia

Donna Mae Janoske, daughter of Ralph and Vivian Janoske, Oakland, and Joseph John Malone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Malone, Arlington, Va., were united in marriage on June 21 at Saint Anthony Catholic Church, Falls Church, Va. Father Denis Donahue performed the ceremony, and traditional organ and vocal selections were provided by the minister of liturgy/music director of the church, Donnie Isaac.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, wore a white matte satin gown that featured long sheer sleeves pointed at the hands and puffed at the shoulders, a peplum, and rounded-neck bodice, all adorned with hand-sewn pearls and sequins on Alicon lace. Hand-crocheted rosettes, hand-beaded Alicon lace and appliques accented the front skirt and long cathedral train. The gown was designed by the bride's mother, assisted by Joanne Lambert, Margaret Guthrie, Lisa Janoske, Nancy Hoffman, and Peggy Lambert.

The headpiece accented with pearls featured a three-tier sequined chapel finger tip veil, designed by the bride's mother, assisted by Peggy Lambert and Lisa Janoske.

The bridal bouquet of white roses and small teal tea roses and all the floral arrangements were created by the bride's aunt, Margaret Guthrie, Bayard, W.Va., who also served as matron of honor, and Amanda Carr, Mt. Storm, W.Va., friend of the bride, who served as a bride's maid. Also serving as a bride's maid was Ramona Thomas, Oakland, cousin of the bride. All attendants were in teal tea-length gowns. Jena Janoske, Oakland, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

Lee Carrig, Arlington, served as the groom's best man. Ushers were Neal Hileman, Alexandria, Va., and Galen Bartley, Manassas, Va., both friends of the groom.

The guest book and birdseed packets were attended by the groom's nieces, Kelly Swink and Erin Carraway.

A dinner reception was held in the Jefferson Room of the Quality Hotel in Arlington. Music was provided by Davis D.J.'s.

The cake, decorated in teal roses with several tiers, a stairway, and a fountain, was made by Joanne Lambert, Oakland, aunt of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School and the Hagerstown Business College. She is employed as a legal secretary by the law office of Daniel S. Fiore in Arlington.

Mr. Malone graduated from Washington-Lee High School in Arlington. He is employed with Park Place in Alexandria. Following a honeymoon to Paradise Island, Bahamas, the couple established residence in Annandale, Va.

Campbells Mark 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell will be celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary next month.

Jack and Debbie Campbell were married on September 8, 1972, at Maple Grove Church of the Brethren in Grantsville. They have lived in Grantsville for the past 25 years, where they raised their three children, Bobbie (Campbell) Sebree, Jackie (Campbell) Fratz, and Chad Campbell. The Campbells also have five granddaughters, Andrea Upole, Kymbra Sebree, Taylor Sebree, McKayla Cline, and Kirsten Campbell.

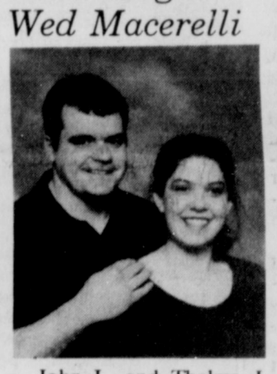
The children are hosting a second wedding and dinner for the Campbells at the Flowery Vale Senior Center on September 20 at 6 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Miss Paugh To Wed Mr. Flanigan

Mr. George Paugh, Oakland, announces the forthcoming marriage of his daughter, Anita Paugh, to James W. Flanigan, son of Jim and Sandy Flanigan, Oakland.

Both the bride and groom are employed by Nu Way Interiors of Oakland. Invitations to the September 6 ceremony will be sent.

Hershberger To Wed Macerelli



John L. and Thelma J. Hershberger, Kitzmiller, announce the engagement of their son, Todd Allen, to Lee Ann Macerelli, daughter of Amelia L. Macerelli, Greensburg, Pa., and the late Robert E. Macerelli.

Mr. Hershberger is a 1988 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. He entered the United States Air Force in 1989, where he served as a communications computer systems specialist until April 1996. He now works for Lockheed Martin as a telecommunications technician in Reston, Va.

Miss Macerelli is a 1994 graduate of Hempfield Area High School. She attended the University of Pittsburgh at Greensburg, where she took biology and psychology courses. She now attends Butler County Community College. She plans to graduate in May 1998 with an applied science degree as a physical therapist assistant. She also works per diem as a physical therapy aide at Jeannette District Memorial Hospital in Jeannette, Pa.

sesses a range of artistry that moves from poetic introspection to bold virtuosity.

The recipient of numerous prizes and scholarships, Blocker completed his undergraduate studies at Furman University. He earned both the master of music and doctor of musical arts degrees at the University of North Texas, under the tutelage of the eminent American pianist Richard Cass.

Dr. Blocker's honors include South Carolina's Order of Palmetto, Baylor University's Outstanding Professor Award, the National Piano Foundation's Artist Teacher Roster, and Artist-in-Residence at the South Carolina Governor's School of the Arts. He is listed in 15 biographical directories, including Who's Who in America and the International Who's Who in Music.

Dean of the Yale School of Music since September 1995, Blocker was previously dean of the University of California in Los Angeles School of the Arts and Architecture. He has served as a consultant to major educational institutions and agencies, is a frequent speaker at professional conferences for the arts and higher education, and has published articles in several national journals.

CAMPGROUND COFFEE HOUSE will be part of the New Germany State Park campfire program. This evening get-together will feature the music of Greg Latta, pictured above left. It will be held on Saturday, Aug. 23, 7-9:30 p.m., at the New Germany Lakehouse.

Erick Friedman is dubbed a virtuoso and a genius among his colleagues. He is an instructor at Yale and was himself a student of world celebrated violinist Yasha Heifitz. Many of the musicians who return each year come mainly for the purpose of playing with such a remarkable talent. During the festival weeks, Friedman also shares his famous technique with some of the players in master's classes.

Despite suffering a car accident seven years ago which nearly ended his performing career, Friedman continues to play the violin in his unique style. His performances have attracted many residents and visitors to the music festival repeatedly, stated a spokesperson.

Lanfranco Marcelletti Jr. is hailed as one of Brazil's most talented young conductors. He came to the United States under the tutelage of the late Maestro Eleazar de Carvalho in 1994 and attended the Yale University School of Music on full scholarship. He is the conductor of the Naugatuck Youth Symphony as well as the resident guest conductor and chamber music coach at Amherst (Mass.) College. He also serves as assistant conductor of the Norwalk Symphony Orchestra.

The Sau Paulo Association of Critics of Art recently awarded Marcelletti with the prize of Debut Artist Conductor of the Year, 1996. He was also recently appointed conductor of the Cumberland Valley Chamber Players for the 1997-98 season. He earned a master of music degree from Yale in 1996 and an Artist Diploma this spring.

This festival will mark the fourth consecutive appearance of composer/performer Neal Corwell, who recently earned his doctorate of musical arts from the University of Maryland. Commissioned to compose a piece especially for the Symphony at Deep Creek, Corwell has responded with his work Black Moon Rising, which will be performed by several members of the orchestra on Saturday, Aug. 23.

After nine years as a featured soloist with the United States Army Band "Pershing's Own" and seven years as an adjunct faculty member at two colleges teaching low brass and electronic music, Corwell now freelances as a composer and euphonium soloist. He is a member of Symphonia, a professional tuba-euphonium ensemble chosen from the nation's finest low brass performers. He has toured Japan and most of the United States as a guest euphonium artist. He will be featured as both soloist and composer at several international music conferences this year, and has recently returned from such an event in Riva del Garda, Italy.

Boris Kucharsky was born in Dortmund, Germany, in 1971, and began playing the violin at age 7 and was 9 years old when he first appeared in a public performance. He studied in Munich with Ruth Hellmann and received first prizes in the German competition for youth, Jugend Musiziert. He continued his education at the Yehudi Menuhin School in London, where he was under the tutelage of Margaret Norris, Yehudi Menuhin, and Igor Ozim.

Kucharsky earned bachelor's and master's degrees at the Musikhochschule in Cologne, Germany, continuing his studies with Ozim. He has been the featured soloist with conductors such as Menuhin, Leos Svarovsky, and Heinz Pauzer with orchestras including the European Chamber Orchestra, Vienna Chamber Orchestra, Prague Chamber Orchestra, and the Slovak Philharmonic. He has performed throughout Europe, Yugoslavia, Israel, and the United States. He has made several recordings for compact disk and has appeared on television in Germany, England, and Slovakia. He is currently studying with Friedman at Yale University.

The Symphony at Deep Creek concert schedule for this weekend is as follows (each show will begin at 8 p.m. in the GCC theatre):

Program One, chamber concert, Friday, Aug. 15: Carmen Fantasy, Sarasate, featuring concertmaster Boris Kucharsky, violin; Sonata, Debussy, featuring Friedman, violin, accompanied by Nancy McDill, piano; Quartet, a new piece by Robert Aldridge; and String Quartet in c minor, Op. 51, No. 1, Brahms.

Program Two, chamber concert, Saturday, Aug. 16: Sonata No. 1, Brahms, featuring Friedman; Romantic Fantasy, A. Benjamin, featuring Friedman and Lu Sun, viola; and Piano Quartet in E flat, Dvorak. Also featured throughout this program will be pianist Heawon Stuckenbruck.

The programs for next week will be full orchestra performances, presenting the music of Haydn, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Bizet, Stravinsky, and Corwell. Detailed information on these concerts is available at the GLAF office and will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

The Symphony at Deep Creek series is sponsored by Sincell Publishing, Inc., Coldwell Banker/Deep Creek Realty, and Friends of the Symphony.

Tickets to the concert series will be priced at $12 for adults and $6 for youth, and will be available prior to the events at the GLAF box office, located at Garrett Community College (GCC), phone number 301-387-3082, as well as at the following pharmacies: Beachy's (895-5177), Englander's (334-9455), Gregg's (334-2197), and Deep Creek (387-5300).

A Symphony Pass priced at $35-adult and $18-youth is available, providing four admissions to the classical music series. All events are handicapped-accessible (persons should call for special needs). Guests are urged to purchase their tickets in advance as organizers expect full capacity audiences. Persons who do have advance tickets are asked to contact the box office at least 24 hours prior to the show to reserve seating.

A BALLET INSTRUCTOR joined the staff of Brenda's Body Shop in Oakland recently. Wendy Snow Walker, above, has 17 years of experience in the performing arts as an instructor, dancer, actress, choreographer, designer, costumer, producer. Most recently she directed the Kinderstars Dance and Drama Academy, has directed her students in the creation of six ballets over the past four years, including Aurora's Wedding, The Little Prince, and The Giving Tree. Walker holds a bachelor of arts degree from Washington College, and a teaching certificate for the Vagonova Syllabus, the same syllabus used to train the dancers of the world-famous Bolshoi Ballet, which she earned through the Pennsylvania Academy of Ballet. "My philosophy is that if children are introduced to the arts in an interesting and creative manner, they will grow up to better understand, appreciate and support all art forms."

Representatives of the company will be on hand at the community meetings to explain how the program works and to answer questions. Brochures and other material also will be available.

Gary J. Robinson, president and chief executive officer, said the community meetings are designed to educate customers and help them make the energy choice that is best for them.

"By removing any confusion or apprehension, we want to make shopping for natural gas as easy as buying any other consumer product," Robinson said.

No matter what supplier consumers may choose, they will continue to have their gas delivered through Columbia's existing pipelines. The company will also continue to provide the traditional services, such as meter reading and answering service calls.

Cardiac Patient Support Group Slates Meeting

The Mended Hearts Organization, a support group for current and former cardiac care patients and their family members, is available for any residents of the tri-state area who are interested in participating in their monthly meetings.

The next meeting will be held in the auditorium of Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland on Tuesday, August 19, at 7 p.m., with refreshments to follow. For further information, persons may call Grace Yocum at 301-786-4530.

MDDA Releases Information On Fall Conference

The Maryland Downtown Development Association released information on the agenda for the fall conference to be held in Oakland in September.

The organization, which is dedicated to revitalizing the commercial areas of older towns in the state, offers opportunities for citizens to learn and share methods of maintaining the health of the downtown areas.

The Fall Conference and Annual Meeting of the association, Sept. 25-26, will feature workshops, speakers, and panel forums. One of the topics to be covered in the up-coming conference is the use of landscape elements in enhancing the area.

Another issue that will be explored is that of Main Street as a state highway. Maintenance of heritage areas is also scheduled for consideration as is the problems with keeping the post office downtown.

Advance reservations for this conference will cost $95 per person prior to Sept. 1. Anyone wishing more information may call 410-514-7264.

Tanker Mishap

Traffic on I-68 was detoured onto Route 40 and into Frostburg or onto New Germany Road. The eastbound lane was reopened to traffic around 6 p.m., but the westbound lanes remained closed and the detour in effect into the evening.

Bob Rowan of the SHA explained that the road was closed while awaiting the arrival of another tanker that could remove the benzyl chloride and eliminate any danger of a toxic spill.

Thank You

We would like to thank all of you who sent us cards of greetings and congratulations on our 50th wedding anniversary.

Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The next meeting of the mayor and town council will be held at Town Hall, Monday, Sept. 8, one week after Labor Day.

DEER PARK

The Deer Park mayor and town council met Monday, Aug. 11.

- The council noted that applications are still being accepted for financial assistance in connecting to the new sewer system. Information on financial guidelines and applications are available at the town hall.
- The council set new rates for rental of the town hall. The fee for hall rental will be $20. The fee for rental of the hall and the kitchen will be $25. Anyone interested in renting may contact Arlene Wilson, building manager, or call the town hall.
- The town clerk, Mary Dawson, will be available at the town hall Tuesday evenings from 5-7 p.m. She will provide information to residents, answer questions, and handle any town business.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 8.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The meeting of the town council and mayor was held Tuesday, Aug. 12.

- Lt. Pratt reported on town patrol. There has been increased vandalism, theft from cars, and complaints of loud music. He reminded all residents to lock their vehicles.
- Some complaints were heard by the council about property in town that is not maintained. Action will be pursued by the council.
- The decision was made to purchase two dump trucks. Bids have been received.
- Documents have been sent to the town from the census bureau to be completed and returned in preparation for Census 2000. Councilman Robert Damon will handle this report.
- Recent inspection revealed the need for electrical upgrades in the town buildings.
- Morgan Frantz, surveyor, and Jack Alvarez, contractor, will meet with the council Aug. 26 to discuss clean up of sewer construction work.
- The mayor reported on his meeting with the county commissioners. He said he is optimistic about arranging paving within the town in lieu of a tax differential. Deer Park Ave. will be paved and repaired by the county and then turned over to the town for future maintenance.
- Trash is being dumped at the town cinder pile. The situation will be investigated and those responsible will be contacted.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Aug. 26.

Local Student Graduates From Marymount Univ.

Jeannette Sweitzer, Oakland, recently received a M.S. degree in nursing-family nurse practitioner from Marymount University in Arlington, Va. Sweitzer was the recipient of a graduate nurse traineeship from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Public Health Service, and previously attended Garrett Community College, Frostburg State University, St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing, Nashua, N.H., and Davis and Elkins College.

An Oakland resident, Sweitzer works in the family practice office of Dr. Daniel Miller, and is also self-employed as a consultant for agencies that serve people with developmental disabilities, including Appalachian Crossroads, Oakland, and Friends Aware, Cumberland.

Sweitzer is the daughter of Bob Sweitzer of Frederick, and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Onie Sweitzer, former resident of Deer Park.

Rush Baptist Homecoming Set

Rush Baptist Church, located along Old Morgantown Road near Friendsville, will hold its annual homecoming on Sunday, Aug. 24. Sunday school will get underway at 9:45 a.m. and the worship service will begin at 11 a.m. Pastor Steve Rose will officiate.

Following worship, there will be a pig roast and covered dish dinner, after which there will be musical entertainment provided by the Eisenhowers, Romans VIII, the Keefers, the Sines family, and various other local groups.

All are invited to attend.

State, County Jobless Rates Higher In June

Employment in Maryland grew more in June than for any other month in 1997, but a surge in the number of seasonal workers seeking employment exceeded job growth, causing unemployment to increase 0.4 percent, from 4.6 percent in May to 5.0 percent.

"This slight rise in the unemployment rate is fairly normal for this time of year as students, teachers, and other seasonal workers enter the labor market," said Eugene A. Conti Jr., Maryland's secretary of labor, licensing, and regulation. "We are encouraged, however, to note that overall employment continued to grow for the fifth consecutive month."

Meanwhile, in Garrett County the jobless rate jumped from 11.9 percent in May to 13.3 percent in June, exactly four points higher than the June 1996 rate of 9.3 percent.

Nationally, unemployment was also higher in June, rising by 0.5 percentage points to 5.2 percent. Statewide, unemployment rates in June ranged from a low of 2.6 percent in Montgomery County to Garrett's high of 13.3 percent.

An additional 34,300 Marylanders found work in June, the largest increase so far this year; however, 50,000 job seekers entered the labor market leading to the shortfall in jobs. As a result unemployment rose to 141,669.

Following seasonal adjustment, the statewide unemployment rate held steady at 4.7 percent over the month.

During June, hiring activity was reported throughout the private sector. Retail trade and services led the seasonal expansion, with gains in restaurants, amusements, hotels, and general merchandise stores fueling the upturn.

Maryland Work With Pride

"AFTER THE HARVEST" is the name of this original 16x20 oil painting by local artist Sonia Pratt, which will be given away by raffle during the Artists Street Fair in downtown Oakland Aug. 29-30, and all proceeds from the raffle will go to the House of Hope. Persons may view the painting in the former Flinns' Department Store window at 102 South Second Street Aug. 18-30. Raffle tickets are being sold this week at the Garrett County Fair from Cheryl Ann MacLane's booth, "Sam's Work of Heart," and at the following local businesses: Water Street Market Place in Oakland; Just Us Styling and Tanning Salon, and Animal Crackers Pet Grooming in Accident; Pizzazz Pizzeria at the Wisp, McHenry; and through The Lake-Front magazine. They will also be available during the Street Fair. Persons wishing to make a donation to the House of Hope may send their contributions to P.O. Box 24, Oakland, or call 301-334-2357.

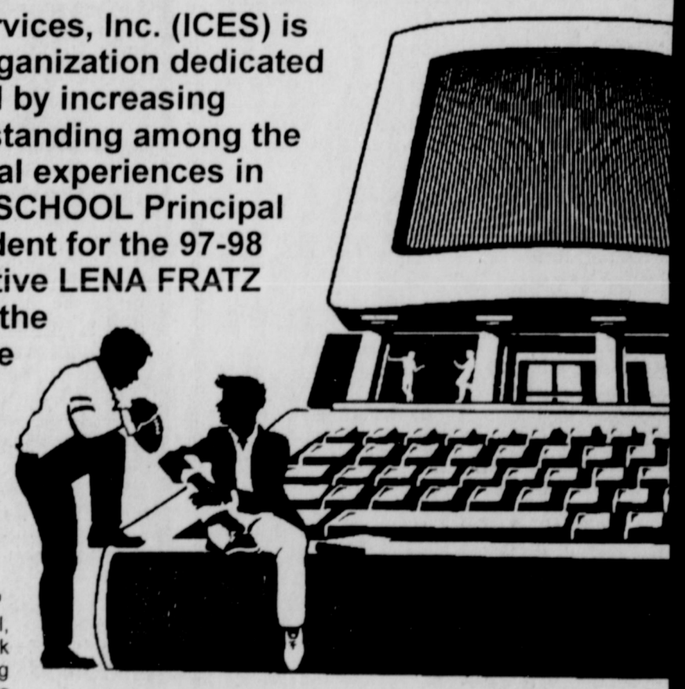
URGENTLY NEEDED:

Northern Garrett County Family!

International Cultural Exchange Services, Inc. (ICES) is a not-for-profit foreign exchange organization dedicated to promoting a more peaceful world by increasing international awareness and understanding among the peoples of the world through cultural experiences in cultural sharing. NORTHERN HIGH SCHOOL Principal Martin Green has accepted this student for the 97-98 school year. Local Area Representative LENA FRATZ is urgently needing a family to host the following young student, who will be arriving about August 23-24 and is anxiously awaiting to hear from his Garrett County family.



JEVELS, from ALBANIA, will turn 15 years old Sept. 1st.

He is an "A" and "B" student and enjoys playing basketball, football, tennis and volleyball. He writes, "After studying, I work in the house and the garden. I work a lot in adjusting and cleaning the surroundings of my house, especially looking after the flowers of which my mother is very fond." He writes that he will attend church with his host family as they wish. His parents write, "He reacts fast to the advice and is characterized by self-respect and ambition to acquire and learn as much as possible. Our son is closely linked with the family, spending most of his time with us, and listens very carefully to our advice. He studies regularly according to a well-defined program. He looks well after himself and gives much importance to the aesthetic aspect of his dressing, his appearance and communication with his friends, and especially with grown-ups. In general, he is able to cope with difficult situations." Jevels closes his letter with, "As I feel myself capable and persistent, with high requirement to myself, I think that living in an American state with an American family, I will very soon learn a lot and enhance my values, but at the same time honoring the state and the family I will live with and study, respecting all the family's rules and norms. My expectation for the future is to finish the comprehensive middle school, which will be the basis for the university studies in the area of computers, business and law."

PLEASE - HELP MAKE THIS YOUNG MAN'S DREAM COME TRUE... call LENA TODAY

Should you as a host family decide you no longer wish to host the student due to unexpected family changes, emergencies, personality conflicts, etc., you may give your area representative notice to find a replacement family. You will be shown the student's application, which consists of a letter from the student, a letter from his parents, grade transcripts, health records, and a picture portfolio. ICES students do not have to have their own bedroom, but are required to have their own bed. Students are not to be treated as a guest but instead as a member of the family, and that means helping with the household chores, mowing of the yard, taking out the garbage, assisting in meal preparation, and so forth.

ICES students are fully insured and have their own spending money.

There are four other ICES students who will be living with host families in Northern Garrett County. These students will be attending Northern High School for the 97-98 school term.

PROMOTED TO SERGEANT - Specialist 4th Class Gerald L. Wilson Jr., a resident of Kitzmiller, no longer holds that particular rank, as Wilson was recently promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Army. He is pictured above left, receiving his new rank designation. Sgt. Wilson is currently stationed in Bamberg, Germany, with the 54th Engineer Battalion. His wife Betty and two children, Tommy and Melanie, are with him.

As the newest member of the local unit, Private Gill will be a senior at Northern High School during the 1997-98 school year and will attend training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., beginning June 18, 1998, after his graduation. Gill will attend monthly drills at the local armory, as well as receive pay for his attendance.

He resides along Bear Creek Road near Friendsville with his mother.

Anyone wanting more information on joining the local unit and its benefits may contact the local recruiter Sfc. Tom Bittinger at the armory at 301-334-9794.

License Plate Covers Stylish, But Illegal

The Maryland State Police Automobile Safety Enforcement Division is reminding motorists that the use or sale of certain types of license plate covers is illegal.

A Maryland motor vehicle law passed in 1995 states the use of any "tinted, colored, painted, marked, or illuminated object that is designed to cover any of the characters of a vehicle's registration plate" is illegal. Additionally, "a person may not sell or offer for sale a registration plate cover and a person may not advertise for the purpose of promoting the sale of registration plate covers."

License plate covers inhibit the identification of a vehicle by its tag number, according to an MSP spokesperson. "This is especially important for law enforcement purposes. Criminal suspects, drunk drivers, drivers responsible for hit and run accidents, and missing persons are just some of those whose vehicle description can include a tag number. If the license tag is covered in any way, the ability of police officers, witnesses, and others to clearly identify the vehicle by its registration plate is significantly reduced," the spokesperson said.

License plates must be properly mounted on the front and rear of a vehicle, excluding motorcycles, and be free of obstructions. Maryland state troopers will continue to aggressively enforce vehicle registration plate violations, according to the spokesperson. A person who violates this law can receive a traffic citation with a fine of $50.

Complete Basic Training For Guard

Pvt. Brandon Layman

Pvt. Jason Savage

Two new members of Company B, Det. 1, 121st Engineer Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, recently returned home after completing basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Privates Brandon Layman and Jason Savage qualified in basic rifle marksmanship with the M-16A2 rifle, and received training on the live grenade range, and in land mine warfare, heavy and light demolition, map reading, land navigation, first aid, and training with the following weaponry: M-60 yank, armored vehicle launch bridge, armored combat earth mover, M-203 grenade launcher, AT-4 rocket launcher, and assault weapons.

Private Layman represented Company B at Fort Leonard Wood by presenting the colors. Private Savage also spent two weeks at Fort Dix, N.J., with the local Guard unit for annual training.

Both members will attend monthly drills at the armory in Oakland.

Persons desiring more information about the local National Guard unit may contact SFC. Tom Bittinger at 301-334-9794.

U.S. Army Private Douglas E. Mayle Jr. was sworn in on July 1 as a member of the Maryland Army National Guard, Company B, Det. 1, 121st Engineering Battalion, Oakland.

Private Mayle graduated from Southern High School and will attend station unit training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., in October. After completion of his training, he will attend monthly drills at the Oakland armory and will attend college, using the benefits that the guard offers such as the Montgomery G.I. Bill, tuition waiver of 50% and tuition assistance, as well as a monthly salary for being a member of the local guard unit.

Mayle resides along Mosser Road near McHenry with his parents, Doug and Wanda.

Anyone wanting more information about the local guard unit and its benefits may contact Sfc. Tom Bittinger at 301-334-9794.

U.S. Army Private James E. Gill was sworn in the Maryland Army National Guard on July 17 as a member of Company B, Det. 1, 121st Engineering Battalion, Oakland.

DO YOU HAVE HBP?

Have you had your blood pressure checked recently? Is it normal - about 120/80 reading? Is it low? High? Or do you know? It is estimated that over 23 million North Americans suffer from high blood pressure (HBP) and that half are not aware they have it - they do not see a doctor for periodic physical exams.

Since HBP develops without warning, it is considered "the silent killer" and thousands will die this year because of it. But, once diagnosed,d HBP can be controlled by diet or medication or both. HBP control can reduce the number and severity of premature heart attack, strokes and kidney disease.

It is so inviting, swaying slightly from a sudden breeze, beckoning to one returning home from a busy day.

"Come, let me hold you and gently ease your cares while the sun kisses your cheek and the wind brushes your hair." So soothing and always patiently waiting...the front porch swing.

It matters not whether one is small or tall, everyone needs a place to relax and push away the world if only for a short span of time; a place to indulge in a natural rhythm as old as humankind. Just as the limbs of the trees move to and fro, so does the swing, restoring the soul.

God invites you to rest with Him. Our Heavenly Father patiently waits to soothe you and restore your soul from the cares of the world. You don't have to wait until your day is through. He is with you always as close as your next prayer.

Visit the Creator at His House this Sabbath. Rest in the serene beauty of His sanctuary... "He restoreth my soul." Ps. 23:3

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SOMETHING BETTER

August 17, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 11:1-40
Devotional Reading:
Romans 4:1-15

I am a clipper of cartoons. Over the years I have assembled a whole file folder of cartoons that have made me both laugh and think more deeply about life in general and my life in particular.

One cartoon that I have had in my collection for at least 15 years was one from the "Frank & Ernie" series. A man is holding a sign that reads: "THE MEEK SHALL INHERIT THE EARTH!" And Frank says to Ernie—or is it the other way around?—"They'll have to make a better offer than that!"

What makes that cartoon so profound for me is the fact that, unlike Frank and Ernie, there are lots of people who would settle for inheriting the earth. Earthly riches, earthly power, earthly enjoyments—they believe that this is all there is to life: "What you see is what you get."

I call this 'materialism' but call it what you like, the reality is the same—very frightening! Why? Because many of those who see nothing beyond the five senses and the power of reason have already sensed that what they see in life is not enough. No wonder the world is in such a moral and spiritual malaise today. We have let material things become our whole world and are discovering that these things are not enough to make life worthwhile. Frank and Ernie are right: "they'll have to make a better offer than that!"

A BETTER OFFER

Many people grow desperate when they begin to suspect that life can't really make a better offer. Essentially, if you live only on the basis of what you can see, life is hopeless and unfair. But Hebrews is telling us that the basis of a meaningful life is to be found in what lies beyond our sight. "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen" (11:1). It is our trust in God that empowers us to make sense out of this earthly existence.

This is also what C.S. Lewis tells us, when he says, "If you read history you will find that the Christians who did most for the present world were just those who thought most of the next." We function best in this world when we are convinced there is more to existence than the world. "The Apostles, themselves," Lewis reminds us, "who set on foot the conversion of the Roman Empire, the great men who built up the Middle Ages, the English Evangelicals who abolished the Slave Trade, all left their mark on Earth, precisely because their minds were occupied with Heaven."

Essentially, the question is whether you live by the promises of God. These promises, Hebrews tells us, are things that we cannot see and, in fact, may never see in this life. The writer of Hebrews lists one scriptural hero after another who lived on promises they never saw fulfilled: Abel, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Gideon, Barak, Sampson, Jepthah, David, Samuel and the prophets. On the strength of what they hoped for but could not see, they did mighty things for God: "conquered kingdoms, enforced justice, received promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched raging fire, escaped the edge of the sword, won strength out of weakness, became mighty in war, put foreign armies to flight" (10:33,34).

BETTER THAN EARTH

Their hope in God's promise gave them the power to do all these things. But although these accomplishments were important, they were not the fulfillment of God's basic promise. That promise was of something beyond their sight. Hebrews says, "they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore... God has prepared for them a city" (10:16). A celestial city not made with hands and not visible to human eyes. It was the promise of the city of God that gave these saints the power to accomplish what God gave them to do.

COVER STORY

McRaney and Land journey to new time slot

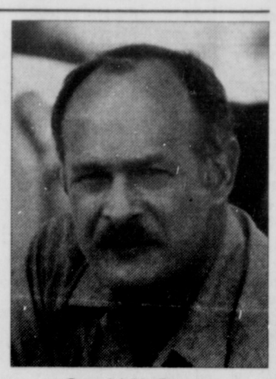
By Kelly Barclay
©TVData Features Syndicate



Gerald McRaney

Going up against NBC's blockbuster Thursday lineup might strike fear into the hearts of most actors. Not Gerald McRaney, whose CBS drama Promised Land is slated to compete with the Gen-X hit Friends this fall.

"I'm very pleased about the move," McRaney says. "Thursday night was my old stomping ground with Simon & Simon."

McRaney's latest series has the potential to match his '80s detective drama's longevity. Part of television's new trend toward feel-good TV, Promised Land is a spinoff of the hit Touched by an Angel. It tells the story of laid-off factory worker Russell Greene, who packs his family and all their belongings into a truck and heads cross-country to find work.

The series advocates family togetherness and the idea that there's more to life than money, but McRaney sees more in its message.

"If you get your priorities straight," he says, "America is truly the best of all worlds."

McRaney believes the success of his show, and of feel-good television in general, is a backlash against urban cynicism.

"I think people have flat run out of cynicism," he says. "It gets to be terribly boring."

But he does see a place for darker, grittier shows. "There is certainly room on the schedule for a balance ... of programming," he says.

McRaney says he doesn't agree with the ultraright-wing critics who bash some TV shows for what they see as immorality or unfriendliness to family values.

"In their own way, those shows deal with the nobility of the human condition," he says. "I'm against censorship of any kind. I think even comparing shows like Promised Land to different types of programming is a form of censorship."

"Different types of programming" is what second-place CBS is trying in the new season. After missing the Melrose Place boat with the failed Central Park West (which, coincidentally, also starred McRaney for a short time), CBS is trying to hop on the NYPD Blue bandwagon with Brooklyn South, one of the more violent offerings this fall.

"I don't have a problem with those shows," McRaney says. "It's a wise move for the network to have a mix."

McRaney credits his wife, actress Delta Burke, for helping him through the rigors of Hollywood. "She's one of only a handful of people in my life who understands my day. The only problem is we don't see each other much," he says. (Burke can be seen this week starring in the USA Network movie Melanie Darrow, which premieres Wednesday.)

Back at CBS, the question remains: Can Promised Land slay the NBC Goliath?

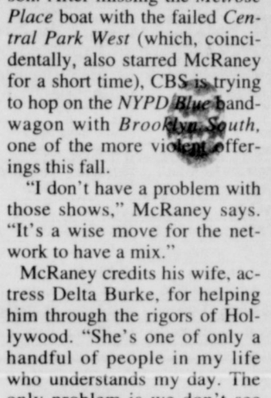
Doubtful, but there is still a whole population of viewers who aren't interested in the kvetching of young New York urbanites and would rather watch something more middle American.

Promised Land may not beat out Must See TV, but it very well may thrive in its new time slot.

IN FOCUS



Rosie Perez stars as a woman who finds romance underground in "Love on the 'A' Train," one of 10 short stories featured in Subway Stories, a film dramatizing real-life experiences of subway travelers. The HBO movie premieres Sunday, Aug. 17.

The ideas for each short story were taken from tales submitted in a contest held in 1995.

Liz Torres

Q: What was the name of the short-lived sitcom that Liz Torres (The John Larroquette Show) starred in? –Lene via e-mail.

A: There are two CBS contenders. The first, and more likely, is the January-June 1990 Valerie Harper sitcom City, set in a city government office. The other is Checking In, a spinoff of The Jeffersons in which Marla Gibbs tried to parlay her Florence-the-maid character into another series. That show ran four weeks in April 1981.

Q: I enjoy your column, but brace yourself for responses to your answer concerning Naked City. James Franciscus and Paul Burke starred not together but in different versions of the show. Franciscus starred in the original half-hour series, which ran one season. He took a year off, then returned in an hourlong version with Burke. –Stan Urankar, Sun Newspapers, Cleveland.

A: Luckily, Stan, only several readers took me to task on this, and most were as kind as you. I wish I could remember the source of the earlier, erroneous information that appeared in this column. Rest assured, I learned long ago not to trust my memory!

Thanks to all who wrote.

Q: Did Johnny Crawford (Mark McCain on The Rifleman) do any acting as an adult? What is he doing now? –Bill Grugin, Erie, Pa.

Funny you should ask, Bill.

Last month I was invited to a Hollywood party thrown by USA Network and the Sci-Fi Channel. The theme for the night was "Prohibition and the Roaring '20s," and I had been there about an hour before I recognized our evening's band leader and his musicians. It was Crawford – dressed in a white top hat and tails – and his 1928 Society Dance Orchestra.

The actor, now in his 50s, reprised his Mark McCain TV role in the 1991 TV movie Gambler Returns: Luck of the Draw, which capped a disappointing career in B movies following The Rifleman. He seems to be having more luck – and fun – as a singer-conductor.

Q: Why did the actress who played Ashley on Spin City leave the show? –Kris via e-mail.

A: Spin City originally was conceived as a romantic comedy, but soft ratings made the producers take a hard look at the series. As Michael Boatman (Carter) began scoring points with viewers, the show focused more on the workplace and less on the romance.

Ashley was written out, but the talented Gugino has several other projects in the works.

Submission Of Caring Connection Report Announced

The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College recently submitted its final report for fiscal year 1997, completing 8½ years of program operation at GCC. The Caring Connection Program provided special services to adolescent single parents and single pregnant teens ages 12 to 19. Services included career counseling, skills identification, interest testing, personal development assistance, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

Twenty-six eligible adolescents were served by The Caring Connection during FY97. Of that 26, 19, or 73.1% of total program participants, were enrolled in high school. A support system was provided by The Caring Connection intake/counselor specialist who visited the participants within the school system on a weekly basis. Resources used with target population included: Three Generation Living; Planning Life Directions; Your Pregnancy and New Born Journey; and Your Baby's First Year.

Five adolescents, four of whom had previously graduated from high school, enrolled in credit classes at Garrett Community College. These students received academic counseling from Caring Connection program staff and one received tuition assistance through the program. Eight adolescents took non-credit classes during FY97 and all received tuition assistance.

Child care and transportation subsidies enabled 13 program participants, or 50% of total program participants, to receive assistance while enrolled in high school or college.

One adolescent, a senior from Northern High school, attended and participated in the 13th Annual Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy Conference held at Hunt Valley in November 1996. She became the first single adolescent parent representative from Garrett County to attend the conference.

Another adolescent, a junior at Northern High School, was in attendance at a conference presented by the Maryland State Department of Education held in Annapolis titled "Celebrate Yourself--A Day Just For You." Attendees from across the state practiced self defense, learned stress management techniques, and gained insight on personal and professional goals from Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend and Fontelle Gilbert.

Involvement in both events linked Garrett County teen parents with resources and peers across the state.

Adolescent pregnant and parenting teens interested in learning more about The Caring Connection Program and eligibility requirements are encouraged to call Virginia Jeffrey, intake specialist for The Caring Connection, at 301-387-3103 Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Caring Connection is funded by the Maryland State Department of Education with grant funds in the amount of $20,000 made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning.

Tuition Help Available Through New Horizons

The New Horizons Program, a single parent, displaced homemaker and single pregnant women project sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College, has available for the 1997-98 funding year $6,500 in tuition assistance money to be used by eligible program participants in pursuing vocational training in both non-credit and credit areas.

Credit tuition assistance is a continuing part of the program again this funding year, along with the non-credit tuition assistance. The New Horizons staff is ready to make this money available to clients interested in credit classes in the vocational area.

Arrangements have also been made to assist program participants with the purchase of books to be used in taking classes. Between $20 and $40 is available per student per class, depending on income. A sum of $4,900 has been set aside to assist program participants needing child care and/or transportation assistance while enrolled in training. Income eligibility will be determined in providing this assistance to program participants enrolled in vocational training, credit or non-credit.

Interested persons may contact New Horizons between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. weekdays at 301-387-3071, for more information or to schedule an appointment, or they may visit the New Horizons office at the McHenry Cam-pus of Garrett Community College in the Center for Community and Continuing Education, Room 302.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90 percent of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,300, which is 10 percent of the total program budget.

First United Continues To Support 4-H

The 1997 Garrett County Fair marks the 27th year First United National Bank & Trust has supported the 4-H/FFA program through the purchase of livestock. "First United is very proud of the accomplishment that the 4-H program has brought to the youth in our farming community," stated a First United spokesperson.

Alice E. Hevner, County Extension director, stated, "There have been 47 recipients of the beef donated by First United over the years. The annual fund-raiser has collected over $39,000 for the county 4-H program. The funds have been used for 4-H promotional activities, ribbons, awards for project completion, annual recognition at 4-H Achievement Program, camp scholarships, and out-of-county scholarships for members and leaders."

On Dean's List

Southern High graduate Barry Stephens, son of Betty Stephens, Oakland, has been named to the dean's list at Berea College, Berea, Ky., for the spring term.

To be eligible, a student must maintain a 3.0 average and earn grades of B or better in at least four full-credit courses, the equivalent of 16 semester hours.

Berea is a non-denominational, liberal arts college which offers bachelor of arts degrees in 23 areas of study and bachelor of science degrees in agriculture, business administration, industrial arts, and nursing. There is no charge for tuition and each student works at least 10 hours a week to pay living expenses.

LOCAL LUTHERANS VISIT WISCONSIN - This group of 24 youth and adults from Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, and St. John's Lutheran Church/Missouri Synod, the Cove, recently traveled to Watertown, Wis., to volunteer time and talents at the main campus of Bethesda Lutheran Homes and Services, Inc. The corporation, which provides residential care and training for adults with developmental disabilities, operates facilities in 11 states. The Watertown campus is one of the largest of its kind in the United States, with over 300 permanent residents. The local volunteers were paired with residents for Bethesda's Summer Celebration, and together they listened to music, played games, and enjoyed hayrides. The corporation provides free referral services and information on agencies, programs, and services for developmentally disabled persons throughout the nation. Pictured above, from left, seated, are: Matthew Younkin, Amanda Hahn, Erika Kahl, Steffanie Kahl, and David Higdon. In the second row, same order, are: Keith Platter, Yvonne Kahl, Anna Miller, Jeannette Wampler, David Wampler, April Walsh, Stephen Bowser, Louise Younkin, Beulah Thomas, and Carrie Hahn. In the back row are: Rev. Wilfred Karsten, Sean Miller, Michael Fratz, Ruth Ann Hahn, Dave Higdon, Jane Williamson, Taylor Glotfelty, Sharon Platter, and David Platter.

Malcolm Attends Nat'l Conference

Lori Malcolm, representing Financial Computer Support, Inc., Oakland, attended the annual First Trust/DATAlynx Conference in Denver from July 28 to 30.

First Trust Corporation is a nationally known trust company built on the concepts of professionalism, complete confidentiality, and independence. It is also a leader in the retirement plan industry. DATAlynx is the technology division of First Trust, providing software for financial planners to manage client portfolios and maintain transaction activity.

Financial Computer Support, Inc., has worked together with First Trust Corporation for over five years to provide software products to First Trust advisors. Malcolm attended the conference to demonstrate the company's new Windows version of the dbCAMS+ Client Asset Management System. She was also invited to tour the national headquarters for First Trust Corporation in Denver.

Opening remarks were presented by Jim Groebe, vice president of First Trust Corp./DATAlynx. Other speakers during the conference included: Ritch Davidson of Playfair; Dave Dravecky, former pitcher of the San Diego Padres and San Francisco Giants; and Michael Price of Mutual Series. Also in attendance were representatives of various mutual fund companies.

Product presentations, operations sessions, and other activities were held throughout the conference. Financial advisors attending the sessions were awarded continuing education credits, which are required by the Institute of Certified Financial Planners.

Dinner Slated For Retirees Of Westvaco

The 46th Annual Retirement Dinner for all retired employees of Westvaco's Luke mill will be held on Wednesday, August 20, on the lawn of the company's Training Center in Piedmont, W.Va., according to an announcement by Roger A. Dandridge, vice president and mill manager. A social hour will start at 4:30 p.m. and dinner will be at 5:30 p.m.

There are currently over 800 Luke mill retirees eligible to attend the dinner. Nearly 500 retirees are expected to attend the function, along with Westvaco officials and union officers.

The dinner will be held in a 6,000-square-foot tent erected on the Training Center lawn. Two other small tents will make up the social area.

George Martin, production manager, will speak briefly at the dinner, and bring retirees up to date on Luke mill activities during the past year. Mike Heagle, personnel manager, will be master of ceremonies.

THANK YOU!

Just a note to say thank you to everyone who helped me through my recent abnormal heart beat condition.

Thanks for the various professional services:

88th Broadwater Reunion Attracts Approximately 300

The 88th annual Broadwater reunion was held recently at the Grantsville Community Park. Approximately 300 friends and relatives attended.

Howard Broadwater gave the invocation, and music was provided by Grover Broadwater and his musicians and vocalists.

Marvin Broadwater, president, awarded the gifts and prizes. Winners were: Jim Broadwater, 88, oldest man present; Cleo Broadwater, 84, oldest woman present; Dave Broadwater, Germany, traveling the greatest distance; Becky and Dave Griffith, most recently married (two months); Howard and Viola Broadwater, and Raymond and Dorcas Wampler, married the longest (61 yrs); and Joshua Thomas Mason, 6½ months, youngest.

Ailene O'Neal baked a guess cake and it was won by Margaret Broadwater. The grand prize was won by Wayne White.

Treasurer Ailene O'Neal was in charge of the gifts. Chris Tirado and Margie Garlitz registered the guests. Greg Tirado was in charge of the children's games.

The 1998 reunion will be held August 2 at the same location.

Goldstein Notes Strong Economy, Revenue Growth

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said early data on fiscal year 1997 revenues reveal "a healthy state economy with solid job and income growth and rising construction activity."

"Preliminary figures for fiscal year 1997 show that general fund revenues are up 5.8%, exceeding expectations by approximately $120 million," Goldstein said.

Personal income tax revenues, which account for nearly half of the $7.6 billion general fund revenue pie, increased about 8% during fiscal year 1997, reflecting the continued expansion of Maryland's economy. Thanks to a 1.7% growth in non-farm payrolls and nearly 5% gain in average wages, personal income tax revenues are expected to exceed estimates by $80 million for fiscal year 1997.

"Stocks were also a big factor," said Goldstein. "The extraordinary rise we saw in the stock market this year helped generate sizable increases in capital gains."

Strong consumer confidence, rising construction activity, and solid business investment helped to boost sales and use tax revenue to $2.09 billion for the year--marking a healthy 4.7% gain above the previous fiscal year.

The strongest gains appeared in building materials--up about 12%--and capital goods, which jumped 6.5%.

"Look at all of the construction activity--football stadiums, convention centers, championship golf courses. Several large warehouses have broken ground recently. Office vacancy rates are falling, more retail opportunities are opening up, and there's greater demand for distribution facilities. All of that leads to more construction," Goldstein said.

The comptroller also attributed the sizable gain in capital goods spending to strong computer sales. "Consumers and businesses continue to upgrade their PCs to make better use of multimedia applications and the Internet--driving the capital goods category," the comptroller added.

Record consumer confidence levels and improving wages spurred a 4.3% rise in sales and use tax revenues from consumer purchases. Total sales and use tax revenues exceeded projections for fiscal year 1997 by $2.2 million.

Corporate income tax revenues also rose 5.4% during the year--eclipsing estimates by nearly $26 million. Comptroller Goldstein attributed the impressive corporate revenue picture to improving productivity, low interest rates, and solid customer demand.

"Lottery revenues will also contribute to the revenue surplus. After a slow start, lottery sales grew steadily throughout the year, fueled by growing interest in the new multi-state Big Game and promotional efforts of the Maryland State Lottery Agency," Goldstein said. He noted that general fund lottery revenues exceeded estimates by nearly $22 million for fiscal year 1997.

All other revenue sources combined are expected to fall slightly below expectations. Estate tax revenues, in particular, fell $5 million below projections, in part due to a lower than normal number of large estates settled in the year.

Comptroller Goldstein stated that, while fiscal year 1997 ended on June 30, final revenue figures will not be available until the second half of August.

"Businesses had until July 21 to remit sales taxes from June sales and until July 31 to remit withholding taxes from salaries and wages. These late due dates, combined with the necessary accounting and reconciliation, delay the final figures until later in August," Goldstein said.

Critic's Corner

A SIMPLE WISH: For those of you wondering about what happened to Robert Pastorelli, so brilliant as Elvin on "Murphy Brown," look no further. After an effort at his own failed sitcom, Pastorelli reappears here and really delivers for his fans. Ah! But be warned. He is not necessarily the lead player here.

Mara Wilson, Hollywood's latest wunderkind, portrays 7-year-old Anabel Greening. Anabel wishes for a fairy godmother to help her father (Pastorelli) fulfill his dream of becoming a Broadway actor. Enter Martin Short, an inept spellcaster named Murray, who is, as he describes it, the world's first affirmative-action, mandated male practitioner!

Murray bumbles the job and turns Anabel's father into stone. Enter the evil fairy godmother, Claudia (Kathleen Turner), accompanied by her sidekick (formerly her dog), Boots (Amanda Plummer). It is Claudia's intention to dominate the world's wishes by stealing the magic wands from all the other fairy godmothers. Only Anabel and the hapless Murray can win back the wands, rescue Anabel's father, and restore the world to a place where a simple wish just might come true.

Directed by Michael Ritchie ("Fletch," "The Bad News Bears") and produced by Sid, Bill and Jon Sheinberg, "A Simple Wish" was written and co-produced by Jeff Rothberg. The flick also stars Francis Capra and Teri Garr. This is a cute family film which offers entertainment for all ages. I give it two and a half stars.

VIRUS: Jamie Lee Curtis and Donald Sutherland head the cast of this terrifying techno-thriller from the producer of "The Terminator," "Aliens" and "The Abyss," in which the crew of an American tugboat finds refuge in the eye of a typhoon aboard a top secret Soviet research vessel. But salvation quickly turns to heart-stopping terror as the American discover that the Soviet crew has been brutally annihilated by an alien life form which has infested the ship.

As the death toll rises, the crew discovers the alien's objective: it regards humans as a virus that must be eliminated and will stop at nothing in order to complete its mission.

This is a don't-miss thriller.

DRIP CATCHER — Do you have trouble with paint building up in the groove at the top of the paint can when you are painting?

Take a piece of aluminum foil about two inches wide and long enough to wrap around the top of the can with an inch of the foil above the top, then turn the extra foil toward the inside of the can and crease it down.

When you are finished painting, peel off the foil and the groove is free of paint so the lid fits the way it should. Frank B., Bronx, N.Y.

MAKING IT FIT — When we moved to a new home, the squares in the silverware basket of the dishwasher were larger than in my previous dishwasher. The handles of my flatware were always slipping through.

I cut squares of plastic canvas craft material to fit the inside surfaces and sewed with dental floss. It is stronger than any ordinary thread you can buy in the store. The unwaxed kind is best to work with. Lisa F., Brookfield, N.H.

Q. Looking through my attic I came across a comic book called "Nyoka The Jungle Girl." I don't ever remember reading it. Do you have any information on the book?

A. Several variations of "Nyoka, The Jungle Girl" comics were published between 1945 and 1957. The oldest, rarest versions by Fawcett Publications can sell for up to $300 in near-mint condition. Later versions sell for $15-$50.

Q. My mother collected figurines called Snow Babies. Are they still being made?

A. There are two theories about where Snow Babies originated.

Some people insist that the original Snow Babies were made of candy and used as Christmas decorations.

Bisque Snow Babies sprinkled with glitter sand rather than sugar were first made in 1864 by Hertwig and Co. of Germany. Other German and Japanese companies copied the figurines. Royal Bayreuth also made Snow Babies tableware.

Some say Snow Babies were made after the birth of Arctic explorer Robert Peary's daughter in 1893. The Eskimos nicknamed the little girl "Ah-Poo-Mickaninny," which translates as "Snow Baby." Peary's wife, Josephine, wrote a book called "The Snow Baby" in 1901.

Whatever the story, Snow Babies are still being made and still being collected.

Man Jailed For Violations Of Ex Parte Order

An Oakland man was sentenced to 30 days in jail after being convicted of four counts of violating an ex parte order requiring him to stay away from his former wife.

David Allan Smith, 30, pleaded guilty to the charges of violating the protective order, issued by the court system in March of this year. According to the charging statements in the court files, Smith was arrested by Garrett County Sheriff's deputies twice this past May for harassing his ex-wife. One of the arrests came after a deputy reportedly witnessed Smith repeatedly driving around the block where his ex-wife currently resides in Mtn. Lake Park.

District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett handed Smith a three-month sentence, all but 30 days of which were suspended, fined him $55, and placed him on two years of supervised probation. Additional charges of three more counts of violating the ex parte order, two counts of harassment, one count each of trespassing, disturbing the peace, and telephone misuse were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, a Grantsville man was sentenced as a result of a pre-sentencing investigation after his June conviction on a theft charge.

Stanley William Platter, 18, was convicted of stealing $101 in cash from a Westernport Road residence this spring. He was originally arrested by Maryland State Police on charges of third- and fourth-degree burglary, which were not prosecuted.

Platter received a 30-day suspended sentence, a $155 fine, one year of supervised probation, and was ordered to complete 50 hours of community service.

Steven Wayne Harris, 18, Oakland, was convicted on a theft charge, which stemmed from his June arrest for shoplifting at Treasure Island.

For shoplifting an $11 audio cassette tape, Harris received a 30-day suspended sentence, and was placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Robert Matthew Teter, 31, Terra Alta, was found in violation of probation, which he was serving for a bad check conviction. The judge ordered his probation to be continued and modified its length from two years to four years.

John Ray Lee Jr., 23, Oakland, was found not guilty of second-degree assault. The charge stemmed from his May arrest by sheriff's deputies after a domestic dispute with his girlfriend at their residence.

In a second hearing, Lee was found not guilty of charges of second-degree assault and malicious destruction of property. Those charges stemmed from a May incident on Fingerboard Road when he allegedly hit another subject's pickup truck with his pickup on purpose.

Gary Allan Wotring, 28, Oakland, was found not guilty of second-degree assault, stemming from his June arrest after allegedly assaulting his wife at their residence during a domestic altercation in June. The verdict was reached after Wotring's wife invoked her marital privilege and declined to testify against him in the hearing.

James Haywood Radford, 31, McHenry, was found not guilty of second-degree assault, and was not prosecuted on a driving while intoxicated (DWI) charge, for allegedly assaulting his wife in May during a domestic altercation at their residence. Radford then drove away with their children while he was allegedly intoxicated.

A motion to revise the sentence of Timothy Wayne Walden, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was denied. Walden is currently serving a one-year sentence in the Garrett County Jail for a February conviction on theft charges.

Charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors against John Frederick Mellinger III, 43, and his father, John Frederick Mellinger, 70, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office. The charges against the two Swanton men stemmed from their arrest after a Memorial Day weekend party at their farm, where they had allegedly allowed juveniles to consume beer on their property.

WSFS DONATES TO FOUNDATION -- WSFS Credit Corporation recently donated $1,000 to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, making WSFS Credit Corporation the newest member of the George Loar Circle. Appreciation Day For Firemen Set In Deer Park

Firemen's Appreciation Day will be held in Deer Park on Saturday, Aug. 23, at the Deer Park Town Square and Community Building. The purpose of the event is to honor all past and present members of the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department.

The celebration will begin at 1 p.m. with the welcome, followed by a memorial service for all deceased firemen and auxiliary members. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Deer Park Civic Group will present gifts to the fire company in honor of the company's founders.

A Firemen's Parade will begin at 2 p.m. and will travel down Main Street in the town. The event will feature some of the oldest fire fighting equipment in the area, according to a spokesperson. The parade vehicles will then be parked for viewing at the fire house, located along Rt. 135.

All former fire company members and descendants of former members, as well as members of the general public, are invited to attend. The event is being sponsored by the Deer Park Civic Group and the people of the Deer Park area.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-3122.

A million times we've wanted you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone would have saved you,
You never would've died.

In life we loved you dearly,
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone.
A part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

Your precious memory is our keepsake
With which we'll never part.
God has you safely in his keeping,
But we have you forever in our hearts.

READING, RIDING, AND 'RITHMETIC is the name of a unique camping program in Eglon, W.Va., developed and instructed by Dale Jarusek, as the fun of horseback riding is integrated with reading and math skills. Pictured above are the youth and some of the staff who posed for a photo prior to warming up for their July 25 exhibition, and a demonstration of their riding skills for friends and families. Campers also displayed projects, such as geoboards and books. Pictured from left, seated, are: Eric Cussins, Brian Hebb, Mike McConnell, and Paul Railey. In the second row, same order, are: Karen Michael, Bliss (the horse), instructor April Kelly, Mandy Groves, Rachel Sweitzer, Christine Saba, Ryan Sweitzer, Adam Cosner, Katie Saba, Kim Durben, Heidi Liller, Laura Hinebaugh, Nora Nichols, Prince (the horse), and instructor Stormy Schaeffer. Not present for the photo were instructors Darren Ream and Jennifer Durben, and volunteer Jeremy Gosnell.

An EMT training class of 110 hours is slated to begin at the Aurora ambulance hall at the end of August. Persons may still register by contacting Rose Ina Harsh, Jennifer Conrad, or Cheryl Stemple. They also have further information concerning time and evenings of sessions, cost, etc.

CASUAL SUNDAY AT MAPLE GROVE

Sunday, Aug. 17, at 10:30 a.m. is set for Casual Sunday at Maple Grove Assembly.

Jeans and casual wear will be acceptable. Following church there will be a picnic for which the church is providing the meat, beverages, and table service. Participants are asked to bring covered dishes to share. Everyone is welcome to this "no excuses" fun Sunday.

REVIVAL

Coming August 24-26 at 7 p.m. each evening will be a revival at the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, near Accident and Horse Shoe Run.

FALL FESTIVAL

Fall is on its way, and on August 31 the Stemple Ridge Church is sponsoring its Fall Festival at the church, located on the Stemple Ridge Road, south of Aurora. The food and fun begins at 5 p.m. and continues through 7:30 p.m. with hot sandwiches, pies, cakes, and homemade ice cream, plus craft tables and cake walks.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

A spaghetti dinner will be served at the Aurora fire hall on September 5 from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m. Spaghetti with meat balls, salad, garlic bread, beverage, and cake will be served at a cost of $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. Proceeds go toward the purchase of a new fire truck fund. A half beef is being raffled and the winner will be drawn that evening, with tickets remaining on sale also.

HAUSER REUNION

Beginning with a Friday evening picnic, food and fun on Saturday, attending church together on Sunday morning, and then a picnic lunch followed by a hayride, the children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren of Maxine Hauser and the late Wade Hauser and their families spent a weekend reunion at the farm. All of the living children were present, along with most of their families and some friends. They were Bonnie and Charles Douglas of Ashland, Ky., Pat and Adrain Stemple, Dean and Scott Sisler, all Aurora, Doris Denison and son Gary of Miami, Fla., Mary and Lester Kelly of Columbia, S.C., and Bill and Sandra Hauser and Beverly "Kitty" Myers, Aurora.

CAP AVIATION DAY

On Saturday, Aug. 16, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., the Morgantown Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol (CAP) plans an aviation day at the WV hangar at the Morgantown Airport. There will be seminars, static displays, and aviation professionals to discuss career information. Representatives from airlines, FAA, air traffic controllers, weather observers, A&P mechanics, airport operations, and military and general aviation will be present.

This day is for families, especially for those interested in aircraft or for young people seeking an aviation-related career. There will be orientation rides and guided tours. Admission is free but donations will be accepted. Rick Heis, captain and public affairs officer, CAP of the Morgantown Composite Squadron, invites all to attend. He may be called for further information at 304-864-6356.

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

Parents and members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club gathered for a picnic dinner and meeting at the Farmers' Wildlife Park on August 4. The annual picnic is the culmination of the year's project work for members. The articles and exhibits for each project are displayed and members turn in their project books and activity records for grading. The picnic dinner was followed by a business meeting.

The program for the evening was provided by LaDeana Teets, who presented a slide show of a European tour which she chaperoned last spring. The slides journeyed through France. Switzerland, and Italy.

Following the program, Jeremiah Feather led members in singing a camp song, "Wee, Wee Tot." Reports of past events were given as follows: Maria Harsh, National Wildlife Judging at Sun Valley, Idaho, where members placed well considering their age and inexperience; Jeremiah Feather on Older Member Conference (OMC); Lindsey Teets on Alpha I state camp; and Matthew Bachtel on the winning of the state championship in horticulture judging, with Tim Harsh of the Mountaineer team being highest individual in scoring.

The next meeting of the club will be held Monday, Sept. 8, at which time the club will elect new officers. The club is also seeking new members. Among the benefits that 4-H can offer are leadership, dedication, responsibility, success, and social skills. Anyone between the ages of 9 and 18 is welcome to join, and is asked to attend the next meeting at the Eglon Memorial Building on September 8 at 7 p.m., or contact leaders Linda Lewis or Elaine Roth for more information.

The members present at the meeting were: Adam Bachtel, Ashley and Matthew Bachtel, Mark Bachtel, Jeremiah Feather, Maria Harsh, Tim Harsh, Sara Lewis, Christopher and Josh Mullenax, Craig and Shawn Rembold, Becky and Sarah Snyder, Lindsey and Tom Teets, and Melinda and Tracy Teets.

The club's reporter, Tim Harsh, will leave for college in Rhode Island prior to next month's meeting.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Pvt. Christopher L. Hartman has graduated from the M1 Abrams tank system mechanic course at Fort Knox, Ky.

In addition to basic combat training, the soldiers learn to maintain tank systems, the fundamentals of components, and assemblies of engine, powertrain, suspension, and steering controls. Use of special tools and test, measurement, and diagnostic equipment is included in the instruction.

Hartman is the son of Kathy Hartman and grandson of Marcy C. Hartman, Elk Garden. The private is a 1996 graduate of Elk Garden High School.

Flower Sunday Slated At TA First UM Church

Terra Alta First United Methodist Church will "celebrate the beauty of nature" on Sunday, Aug. 17, by hosting a Flower Sunday. Members and friends are asked to bring domestic or wild flowers in containers to be placed at the altar.

After church, the flowers may be shared with others in the congregation, a spokesperson said.

THE WINEBRENNER FAMILY gospel singers will present a concert at the Pentecostal Holiness Church in Corinth this Sunday, Aug. 17, at 7 p.m. The group has performed in many states of this country, as well as Russia and Romania. Pastor Rex Coffman invites the public to attend this Sunday's concert.

Mountaintop UM Parish Plans Four-Day Revival

The Mountaintop Parish churches will sponsor their annual four-day revival Aug. 17-20. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the following United Methodist churches:

Sunday, Aug. 17, Bethel Church, near Horse Shoe Run; Monday, Aug. 18, Corinth Church; Tuesday, Aug. 19, First Church, Terra Alta, and Wednesday, Aug. 20, Lake Ford Church, Cranesville.

The guest speaker will be Reverend Brenda Shreve, Grantsville. Special music will be a part of each program.

Ministers of the parish are William Anderson, Joe Robinette, Norvell Robertson, and David Stackpole. They invite the public to participate in the four-day event.

Herman Teaches At Confratute

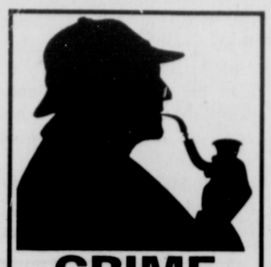
At the recent Confratute, the international conference/institute on educating gifted and talented children and youth held at the University of Connecticut, Dr. Gail Herman, Swanton, taught classes for the conference participants.

In its 20th year, the Confratute is co-sponsored by the Neag Center for Gifted Education and Talent Development, the School of Education at the University of Connecticut, and the Connecticut State Department of Education.

This event brings together parents, teachers, and leaders in the field of education of gifted children. Issues such as recognizing who these children are, how they learn, and how to develop their creative abilities are explored in depth.

This year's event was attended by about 750 educators from 44 states as well as Canada, Korea, Singapore, Argentina, China, and several European nations.

Herman teaches early childhood education courses at Garrett Community College, McHenry.



The case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers involves a breaking and entering at a local tavern.

In the early morning hours of June 10, unknown persons kicked open a side door of Billy Bob's Bar, which is located along Hutton Road. The person then removed some cash and cigarettes, according to the report. The loss is estimated to be $300.

Persons who have information about this or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 301-387-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Club met for lunch on August 5 at Silver Lake Restaurant, then adjourned to the home of marie Teets to see her recently completed quilt and enjoy dessert. They then continued to the home of Linda Lewis where they vacationed, via video, in the Netherlands.

Those who attended were Rebecca Teets, Nina Layman, Sandra hauser, Mary Rembold, Avenell Parsons, Marie Teets, Florence Minnig, Linda and Sara Lewis, and Jean Winters.

CRAFT TABLES FOR POTATO FEST

Persons who would like a craft table at the Potato Festival, set for September 13 and 14, are advised that indoor tables with electric hook-up are available on Saturday only. Outdoor tables are available for both days. The cost for each is $10. Set-up may be prior to festival opening, which is 10 a.m. each day. To reserve a space, persons may call 304-735-6104 this week to make the arrangements or to have further information.

FARM SERVICE MEETING SET

The local annual membership meeting of the Eglon Farm Service, Inc., Southern States Cooperative, is being held Tuesday, Aug. 19. The dinner will feature ham and roast beef and will begin at 7 p.m. at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Each family is asked to bring a vegetable dish and either a salad or dessert. The dealer will provide the remainder of the meal.

The business meeting is set for 8 p.m. Nominees for the Eglon Advisory Board are John W. Allman, Dave Harsh, Stanley Harsh, Terry Hauser, and Robert Strawser. Farm Home Advisory Committee nominees are Betty Bolyard, Jill Hauser, Lois Strawser, and LaDeana Teets. Members are asked to be present for the business reports and election of board members.

THE THIRD ANNUAL COUNTRY FEST AND AUCTION is coming to the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday, Aug. 23, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sponsored by the Dry Run Mennonite Church, the fest's many activities the whole family will enjoy include a display and auction of quilts, such as the one Carol Orendorf, seated above, is shown handbinding, and the Lone Star pattern quilt her daughter Denae is holding. The proceeds from the quilt auction will benefit the Dry Run Mennonite Church and the mission projects the church helps to sponsor. Below, Shaun and Clara Sanders work the apple cider press, which will be demonstrated along with quilt making, hammermill grain grinding, homemade ice cream freezing, and cow milking, separating and butter churning. The fest features many other demonstrations, activities, exhibits, gospel music performances, and various homemade refreshments. Informative Country Fest and Auction brochures are available at many area businesses and establishments.

PERSONAL MENTION

Youth of the Maple Spring Church went last Tuesday to King's Dominion in Virginia for a day of fun at the amusement park. They wish to relay to the public their appreciation for the donations and patronage at the chicken barbecue, which made the donation of more than $700 to the Allman medical fund possible.

Karen and Billy LeDet of Panama City, Fla., visited recently with her father and stepmother, Bob and Beverly Knotts, at Brookside. Guests this weekend of the Knottses were Bob's sister and brother-in-law, Vonda and Calvin Claycomb, Sandusky, Ohio.

Sunday visitors with Louella Fike, Aurora, were Peggy and Gordon Stanton, Detroit, Mich., and their friend, Lucille Ludvigsen, Oakland. Mrs. Stanton was here for her class reunion and is a daughter of the late Ted Fike. She is also a niece of Mrs. Fike. Also visiting on Sunday were Mrs. Fike's sons Norman, Belington, and Gary, Terra Alta.

Visiting with Claud and Eldean Poling, Stemple Ridge, were her daughter and son-in-law, Darlene and Charlie Boyett, their daughter Kelly and her friend Sarah, all of Ohio. Claud's daughter and granddaughter had spent a month there and he returned them home to Charles Town last week.

Word was received of the death of Juanita "Vic" Harsh, who passed away at the Cleveland Clinic on August 3. She was the wife of Dale Harsh of Uniontown, Ohio, and was a former resident of Aurora (Stemple Ridge).

Herb and Jean Starr took her aunt, Kathleen Radcliff, to Ohio last week expecting to bring Mr. Starr's mother home with them. She did not make the trip, however, and they returned on Wednesday.

Steve Parsons, Aurora, accompanied his uncle, Carlton Skipper Kingwood, on a fishing trip to Lake Erie last week.

Jessie Federow, Aurora, accompanied Maynard and Bonnylin Lantz, Aurora, to Florida, where Mrs. Federow visited her brother, Jim Myers, in Floral City and the Lantzes visited friends in Inverness. They also stopped in Statesville, N.C., for a visit with Brian Lantz, nephew of Maynard and Bonnie.

Bill and Sandra Hauser hosted a Friday evening picnic at their farm for members of his family and his employees and their families, with 180 in attendance.

Robert Scott, Mt. Grove, was admitted recently to the Clarksburg VA Hospital.

Erma Heis, Arthurdale, visited recently in Grove City, Ohio, with Carl and Jan Shaffer, her brother and sister-in-law, and was joined there by another sister, Carolyn Rhoades, Uniontown, Ohio.

Area 4-H dairy members are exhibiting cattle this week at Jackson's Mill. Among them are Tom and Lindsay Teets, Eglon, and Kim and Kaylen Fike, Aurora.

Angus cattle are being exhibited at the state fair in Lewisburg this week by the Corbin and Hayes families.

Maxine Hauser, Stemple Ridge, underwent out-patient surgery on Monday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Carolyn Laurie of Aberdeen, Ohio, was here this weekend to attend the Bachtel reunion and was a guest of her mother, Mrs. Jessie Bachtel, Horse Shoe Run.

Visiting this weekend with Kirk and Anita Lantz and family of Aurora were Mrs. Lantz's sisters, Shirleen Hinche and her son of Westminster, and Twila Watring of Woodbine.

Eugene and Bernadine Bachtel of Eglon celebrated their wedding anniversary with a Saturday trip to Lancaster, Pa., where they attended the Sight and Sound Theater production "Celebrate America" and also attended a musical variety show at a new Lancaster facility, the Music Theater.

The weather for the week ended on August 10 has done little for the crop development in Maryland. Though the early week rainfall improved moisture conditions in some local areas, dry soil conditions continued to hamper crop development, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

With another week at a close, 62% of the field corn was in either very poor to poor condition, while only 38% was in fair to excellent condition.

The potato crop harvest progressed well, but was still behind the previous year's average.

Soybeans showed a little improvement in condition. Soybeans showed the conditions of 26% very poor, 20% poor, 21% fair, 27% good, and 6% excellent. Spider mites continue to be a problem on the soybean crop.

The sorghum crop was 73% very poor, 1% poor, 1% fair, 24% good, and 1% excellent.

Pastures showed a slight improvement with its percentages being 43% very poor, 20% poor, 23% fair, 14% good, and 1% excellent.

Looking around the state, hay supplies were 16% very short, 44% short, and 40% adequate.

The orchards showed some improvement with apples at 1% very poor, 5% poor, 31% fair, 58% good, and 5% excellent. Peaches were 4% very poor, 9% poor, 43% fair, 36% good, and 8% excellent.

Although the week started off with some rainfall, the counties received only 0 inches to 2 inches. Even with the rainfall, there was an average of 6.7 days suitable for fieldwork. Though the extra moisture came at a needed time, soil conditions continued to deteriorate. This can be seen by topsoil moisture showing 46% very short, 32% short, and 22% adequate conditions. Subsoil moisture was 48% very short, 25% short, and 27% adequate.

Rep. Wynn Urges USDA To Grant Disaster Relief

Congressman Albert R. Wynn (D-Md.) sent a letter to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman urging expeditious action on Maryland Governor Parris Glendening's request for disaster relief for Maryland's farmers.

In his letter to Secretary Glickman, Congressman Wynn said, "Minimal rainfall in July, coupled with temperatures in the high 90s has made for a particularly brutal summer for our Maryland farmers. I am asking that the secretary move as quickly as possible to include Maryland farmers in all existing federal agricultural disaster programs."

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture surveys, low rainfall and high temperatures have led to predictions of losses in corn, soybean, and hay crops ranging from 30-50 percent.

Conference Set To Discuss Maryland Deer Problems

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that there will be a workshop where farmers and policy makers can discuss the growing problem of deer and their damage to the land at the University of Maryland, October 27, 1997, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The conference will be held at the Inn and Conference Center on the College Park Campus at University Boulevard and Adelphi Road.

"For many years we farmers have experienced crop damage and loss because of deer. This problem is increasing and this conference will discuss all the options available to control the deer population," Riley said.

Speakers and panels will discuss the nature of the deer damage to agriculture, vehicle traffic and the ecosystem. Then there will be a full exploration of deer management strategies and policy options including information of "lessons learned" from some public deer management efforts.

For a registration form, those interested should contact Liesl Koch, Center for Agricultural and Natural Resource Policy, 2200 Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742, telephone 301-405-0057.

Maryland Ranks High In Farm Computer Usage

The Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service and counterparts throughout the United States recently conducted surveys designed to provide information relating to computer usage on farms. In Maryland, 50% of the farms have access to computers, compared to the national average of 38%, nationwide.

Forty three percent of the states' farmers own or lease computers and 33% of the farmers in Maryland use computers in their business. Maryland farmers rank in the top five, U.S. wide, in their use of computers for farm business purposes.

Average farm computer use in the United States has reached the 20% level. Maryland farmers rank number three in the nation for Internet use, only a few points behind New Jersey and Virginia. Twenty-five percent of Maryland farmers access the Internet compared to 31% in New Jersey and 29% in Virginia. The national average farm Internet use is 13%.

Computer use for business tends to be greater on large farms. In the Northeast, nearly two-fifths of the farms with sales of over $100,000 annually used computers for farm business, while computers were used for business on only 11% of the small farms. Nationally, computers were used for business on 20% of the large farms and 12% of the small farms.

MDA To Feature Food Products At 1997 State Fair

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the Maryland Department of Agriculture will feature Maryland food products at the 1997 edition of the Maryland State Fair. The department's displays in the Farm and Garden Building will include a Retail Store Expo featuring the latest technology used in today's supermarkets and retail stores.

In addition, there will be exhibits featuring diverse agricultural commodities produced in Maryland as well as The Maryland With Pride food show booths featuring some Maryland value-added food products, such as muffin mixes, salsa and ice cream. There will be food sampling and product demonstrations. The theme of food will also highlight the Maryland Food Pavilion where a variety of delicious Maryland food products, from some of the state's major agricultural commodity groups, such as dairy, beef, pork, poultry, wine and seafood will be available.

The Food Pavilion will have daily food demonstrations and product sampling.

"Maryland has an extremely diverse agriculture. We also produce some excellent value added food items. These products are becoming more and more popular both here at home and around the world. I think it is appropriate that we show off some of these products at the 1997 Maryland State Fair," said Riley.

In addition to the food demonstrations, the Maryland Department of Agriculture will have all of its usual programmatic displays and activities that fair visitors have always enjoyed.

Also in the Farm and Garden Building will be exhibits on many Maryland Department of Agriculture programs that benefit people, such as plant protection, animal health, aquaculture, egg inspection, resource conservation, and weights and measures.

For the second year in a row, the department's booth in the Exhibition Hall will allow visitors to take a computer tour of the agency using a bank of computers offering World Wide Web pages. The Weights and Measures Section will also be on hand to guess people's weight. And, this year, an information kiosk will enable visitors to view a brief video tape highlighting the Maryland Dept. of Agriculture's many services and programs.

"Our use of internet technology at the fair was extremely popular last year. We reached a whole new audience. The response was tremendous and we are pleased to invite people back again for a computer tour of the Maryland Department of Agriculture," said Riley.

The 1997 Maryland State Fair will be held at the State Fair Grounds in Timonium from August 23 through September 1. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

Farm Numbers And Land Farmed Down Slightly

The number of farms in Maryland in 1997 is estimated at 13,000, down 700 from the 13,700 farms in 1996. Maryland farm numbers have continued to show a steady decline since 1992. Total land in farms for 1997 was 2,100,000 acres, the same as the previous year, but down 100,000 acres from 1995. The average farm size was 162 acres in 1997, compared with 153 acres in 1996 and 154 acres in 1995.

The number of farms in the United States in 1997 is estimated at 2.06 million, down less than 1% from 1996. Total land in farms is 968 million acres, also down less than 1% from last year. This decline in farm numbers and land in farms continues to follow historical trends. The average farm size was unchanged from 1996 at 470 acres.

The west and northeast regions were both up in farm numbers from 1996. The west region showed the largest increase up 2,000 farms or 0.7%, while the northeast was up 300 farms or 0.2% from 1996. The largest decrease was in the south, with a loss of 3,800 farms or 0.4%. The north central region was down 3,500 farms or 0.4%.

Texas remained the state with the most farms at 205,000, the same as a year earlier. Missouri was second with 102,000 farms, down 2,000 from last year, followed by Iowa with 98,000 farms, the same as 1996.

Eight states increased in farm numbers while 14 states decreased from a year ago. California showed the largest increase with 2,000 farms while Indiana, Montana, Ohio, and Oklahoma showed increases of 1,000 farms from last year. Missouri showed the largest decrease, 2,000 farms.

Texas continued to lead the nation in land in farms and ranches with 129.0 million acres, the same as 1996. Four states with decreases of 200,000 acres in agricultural land from a year ago were Arkansas, Louisiana, North Carolina, and New Mexico. There were nine states with decreases of 100,000 acres in agricultural land from a year ago. There were no states that increased acres in agricultural land in farms from a year ago.

The number of U.S. farms in the economic sales class between $1,000 and $9,999 increased from 1,021,110 in 1996 to 1,032,510 in 1997. Those with sales in the $10,000 - $99,999 group decreased from 705,100 to 678,500. The $100,000 and over sales group increased from 337,700 to 347,900 farms.

Estimates for the number of farms and land in farms refer to June 1. A farm is defined as "any establishment from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or would normally be sold during the year."

Ethanol-Powered Car Passes State Vehicle Inspection

It was like going to the dentist and being told you have no cavities. Or looking in the mailbox and finding newsy letters from three friends and not a single bill.

The ethanol-powered 1997 Ford Taurus sailed through a Maryland vehicle inspection without even a quiver of an emission meter needle. Toxic exhaust? Zip. Nada. Nothing. Zero.

Lynne Hoot thought it would be good. She's executive director of the Maryland Grain Producers Association. MGPA had received the car on temporary loan from the National Corn Growers Association in recognition of Maryland's long-time support and promotion of the use of the corn-based alternative fuel.

The standard ethanol fuel, known as E-85, a blend of 85 percent ethanol and 15 percent unleaded gasoline, is hyped as an energy-saving and environmentally sensitive fuel which burns cleanly and drastically reduces the toxic junk which pours out of the exhaust pipes of petro-powered vehicles.

Still, running the Taurus through a vehicle emissions inspection--putting it to the test, so to speak--was not a sure thing, like trying to reach a service station five miles down the road with the gas gauge needle on empty.

But Hoot's curiosity got the better of her. The Taurus, with 1,888 miles on the odometer, was logged into the Annapolis inspection station at 10:29 a.m. on July 3. Emblazoned on both sides with signs reading "Powered by 85 percent ethanol for cleaner air," the car immediately drew the attention, and soon the affection, of the station personnel.

Exhaust emissions are measured for hydrocarbons, carbon dioxide and oxides of nitrogen. The state standards for each are .80 grams per mile (gpm) for hydrocarbons, 15.0 gpm for carbon monoxide and 2.0 gpm for nitrogen oxide. The E-85 Taurus recorded 0.00 gpm in each case, a perfect performance.

"I knew it would be a good test," commented Hoot, with a mixture of joy and relief, "but I had no idea it would be that good."

The E-85 Taurus is listed as a flexible fuel vehicle; that is, it is capable of running on 100 percent gasoline or any blend of gasoline and ethanol up to E-85. A computer in the car determines the ratio of gasoline and ethanol and makes the necessary adjustment to the carburetor. Ford manufactured 5,000 of the alternative fuel vehicles for 1997 and plans to produce 12,000 for sale in 1998.

Additionally, starting with the 1999 model year, Ford says that all of its Ranger pickups equipped with 3.0 liter engines will be flexible fuel versions, and Chrysler Corp. also has announced that this fall its 1998 Dodge Caravan, Plymouth Voyager and Chrysler Town & Country 3.3 liter models will be capable of operating on E-85.

On the roads in the U.S. today, there are an estimated 10,000 vehicles powered by E-85. They can fill up at 40 public fueling stations that sell ethanol. Hoot's problem is that most of the service stations are in the Midwest and there are none in Maryland.

But she's solved the problem, at least for the short term. "I've got a 55-gallon drum and barrel pump," she said.

Maryland Milk Production Up

Maryland dairy operators produced 342 million pounds of milk during the April-June quarter, up 1.8% from the same quarter a year earlier. The number of milk cows was unchanged from a year earlier, so yield per cow accounted for the production increase.

Farmers fed an average of 15.8 pounds of grains and concentrates to each cow on July 1, up 1.8 pounds from the year earlier ration. In 1997 the value of this feed was $9.80 per 100 pounds, compared with the 1996 value of $10.20.

Lost? Alfalfa and Grass in Small Grains

What happened to the new alfalfa and grasses interseeded with the small grain? That's a question that many farmers have been asking. This just was not the year to inter-seed with small grains. The first obstacle that the alfalfa had to conquer was the wet, cool spring. Alfalfa does not like "wet feet"; therefore, the young seedlings had difficulty in establishing a root system and many plants died of root rot disease. Small grains like cool weather and just provided too much competition for the young alfalfa and grass seedlings. The second big factor was the high population of potato leafhoppers on alfalfa this season. Leafhoppers were everywhere this summer. Young, weak alfalfa plants cannot withstand severe damage from the hoppers.

What can you do? I would recommend that you re-seed the alfalfa or alfalfa/grass. In my opinion, late summer seeding of alfalfa is better than inter-seeding with small grains. First of all the new seedlings will not have near as much weed competition this time of the year. The soil is warm for good germination providing there is ample moisture available (moisture is the risk factor). After you harvest the grains, clean up the weed problem. Many fields following small grains can easily be no-tilled seeded or worked up slightly for the conventional seeder. Between now and the first of September is a good time to establish alfalfa.

Young Physician-Hopeful Digs In To Real Work At Bolivian Clinic

by Mary S. McEwen

A young local woman with plans to become a physician recently had the opportunity to obtain invaluable experience in real-life situations. Sarah Fike, daughter of Carl and Suzie Fike, Oakland, traveled to a medical clinic in Bolivia and spent about seven days in June in the poverty stricken area. She helped tend to people suffering from illnesses that most U.S. citizens never hear about. She watched a gall bladder surgery, checked on many sick children, and even made a house call.

Fike, a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, was alerted to the Correll Missions Ministries by an old college friend of her father's, Aubrey Knight of Roanoke, Va. Knight has organized trips for young medical students to clinics in Cochabomba, Bolivia, and other South American locations for a few years. He took over the work of the program's founder, Michael Correll, who has been diagnosed with Lou Gehrig's disease and is unable to travel any longer. Knight was aware of Sarah's interest in the medical field and extended an invitation to her.

Sarah went with a crew of one nurse, one occupational therapist, one translator, two students, and seven doctors. During her week of work, she was under the tutelage of Dr. Keith Long. While she was somewhat surprised at the conditions and even dismayed at some cases she helped handle, Fike said the experience has solidified her intention to become a family doctor.

"It was exciting and interesting and, I guess, sometimes depressing. But I know for a fact that some of those people would have died if that clinic weren't there," she said. While she hopes to practice in the United States after her schooling, the young student said she would like to make regular short visits to similar sites to lend her help.

The first patient Sarah assisted with was a month-old baby who was lethargic and too small.

"We didn't even realize the mother was bringing a baby in until she unwrapped her -- she was so tightly bound up we couldn't even see her.

"We asked the mother if the baby had been eating and she kept saying yes. Finally, after asking her the same question about six times, she admitted that her milk was not good. Then she said she had been feeding her baking soda mixed with water because it looked like milk," Sarah said.

Working to keep her composure, Fike explained that this would not do at all and that the baby would die if she didn't get better nutrition. After a hurried search of the clinic, a case of formula was located and given to the mother. Arrangements were made for the woman to get formula for as long as the baby needed it.

Observing a gall bladder surgery also gave Sarah an awakening, she said, as it was done "Bolivian style."

"It was very unsanitary. And the patient wasn't completely out. She was moaning a little bit all the way through. That bothered me more than anything else that was going on," she said. However, Sarah saw the patient just before departing the country and said she was doing well.

Fike was surprised, too, when she realized how various items are regularly "recycled" -- items that are thrown away after one use in the United States.

"They re-use tongue depressors," she said. "And a lot of other things that would never be re-used at any medical facility in this country."

The student helped to treat some children who had skin diseases and other maladies that youngsters in this country hardly ever contract.

"We handed out a lot of antibiotic creams," she said. Sarah also gave the children "salvation" bracelets made of colored beads that represent Christian tenets, clothes, and numerous stuffed animals made in the United States by other Correll Missions Ministries volunteers. Despite the impoverished standard of living, she said the children seemed very happy, laughing and smiling with their new friends.

Fike was slightly unnerved to come into contact with patients who had diseases that she had not been vaccinated against, such as typhoid. She had to be alert to this and call upon protected staff members to take over.

The young woman will enter Western Maryland

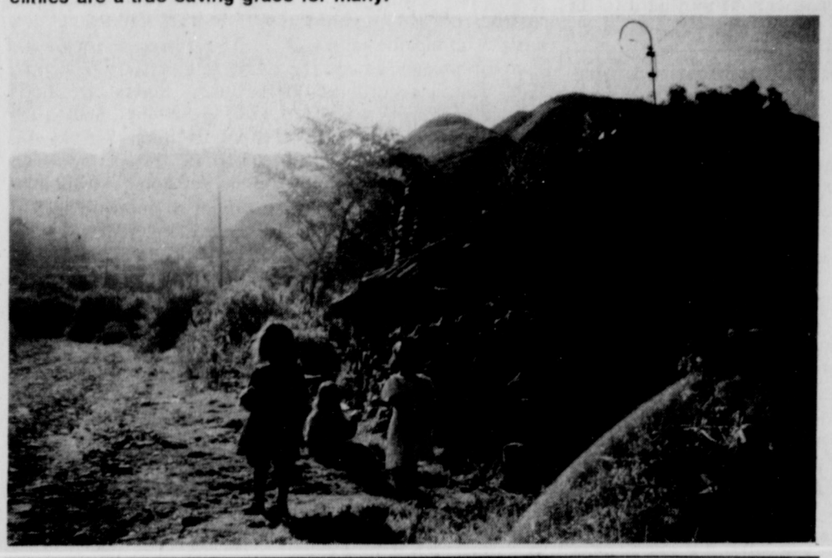
IN A PLACE FAR FROM HOME, Sarah Fike learned a great deal about her chosen profession in medicine. The young physician-hopeful from Oakland spent a week in Cochabomba, Bolivia, where she offered her assistance in a medical clinic. She traveled to the South American city with the Correll Missions Ministry, a program founded by Michael Correll, Roanoke, Va., that operates several clinics throughout the area. The living conditions are meager at best, as evidenced in the photo below, and the clinics are a true saving grace for many.



GATHERING WITH MR. CORRELL BEFORE TAKE-OFF - Just before boarding the plane to Bolivia, the medical group gathered with the program's founder, Michael Correll, pictured in the center. He initiated the Correll Missions Ministry and made excursions to South America many times until the effects of Lou Gehrig's disease stopped his traveling. Aubrey Knight, an old classmate of local businessman Carl Fike (Sarah's dad), has taken over the coordinating portion of the program and was the one who invited Sarah to join the group in June. She is pictured at right.

INVALUABLE HANDS-ON TRAINING was provided to the young student at the Bolivian clinic, where she tagged along all week with Dr. Keith Long. In the photo above, Sarah stands with Long as they discuss the bedded 12-year-old's bout with dehydration. In the photo below, Sarah checks on a baby about to be born.

College in two weeks to begin her college education in pre-med and biology. Her short time in Bolivia has most certainly given her a jumpstart on her career, having provided her a perspective that many of her classmates will not have, and, perhaps, may never obtain. The experience has also fueled her desire to learn and her eagerness to launch into the work that lies ahead.

May the best of luck follow Sarah Fike -- one of Garrett County's finest.

Evening Courses Offered At PSC

The Division of Arts, Education, and the Humanities at Potomac State College of West Virginia University will offer several evening courses during the fall semester.

Three short courses are scheduled in art: decorative painting, pottery, and sculpture. Line dancing will also be offered in physical education. These one-hour short courses may be taken for credit, or they may be taken as credit-free continuing education classes at a reduced cost.

The theater department will offer two courses for credit: acting and directed theatre activity.

Tole/Decorative Painting will be offered Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 7. Instructed by Karen Herriot, this is a beginner's class in acrylics focusing on brush control and basic strokes. Paints will be provided, and everyone will complete a project.

Introduction to Pottery will meet Wednesday evenings, Aug. 27 through Oct. 15, from 7 to 8:40 p.m. Covering all aspects of working with clay, the course is an introduction to the many techniques possible with clay, from throwing on a wheel to carving and decorating tiles. All experience levels are welcome. Instructor for the course will be Robin Teas.

Introduction to Sculpture will also meet Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8:40 p.m. The class will begin Oct. 22 and will continue through Dec. 10. Robin Teas will also instruct this course.

Line Dancing, offered Oct. 1 to Nov. 12 on Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., will teach the basics of country and western dancing. The course is for students of all ages, and the instructor will be Joy Brode.

THTR 74, Acting, three credit hours, is scheduled for Monday evenings from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The course examines the basic theories and concepts in stage acting for the beginning student. Emphasis is on the physical, intellectual, emotional, and personality languages of acting. Kathy Carvey will be the instructor for the course.

THTR 179, Directed Theatre Activity, is a one-credit hour course scheduled for Monday afternoons from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Carvey will also teach this course, which consists of assigned theatre projects supervised by her.

The college has also established a metro fee for residents of Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland, Bedford County, Pa., and Frederick County, Va.

Any questions concerning registration or any of the classes should be directed to the Office of Admissions and Records, 304-788-6820 or 800-262-7332.

Senior Citizens' Crime Prevention Academy Offered

Issues facing older citizens will be addressed at an instructional forum beginning next week. The Senior Citizen Crime Prevention Academy, to be held at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, will provide information to help seniors identify and avoid fraud and other forms of crime.

Representatives from local organizations and agencies will cover a variety of topics during the two-week course. Sponsored by the Garrett County branch of S.A.L.T. (Seniors and Lawmen Working Together), the sessions will cover estate planning, wills and probate, medical insurance fraud, new laws on domestic violence, and home security, among others.

Open to anyone over age 50, the academy will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the weeks beginning Aug. 18 and Aug. 25. Each session will run from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be included and there is no charge for admission.

Anyone wishing more information on the classes may contact Det. Patrick Kelly, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, 301-334-1911 or Bill Heise, S.A.L.T. chairman, 301-334-2484.

CELEBRATING 30 YEARS OF SERVICE to the Loch Lynn Church of God this Sunday, Aug. 17, are the church's pastor, Rev. Robert Fletcher, and his wife Jackie. The Fletchers will be the guests of honor for the day of special 30th anniversary activities, beginning with a morning service from 10 a.m. to noon, followed immediately by an anniversary meal in the fellowship hall. Associate pastor Rev. Ivan Ackerman and his wife Cindy Ackerman invite the public to the day's events, which will conclude at 3 p.m. Due to the celebration, there will be no evening service on that day.

Open House For New Southern Students Slated

Southern High School will host an open house for ninth graders and new students on Tuesday, Aug. 19, 7-9 p.m. Students and parents are invited to visit the school and acquaint themselves with the building.

Lynn H. Bell, principal, will meet for a brief welcome at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria.

School maps will be distributed so that students will have the opportunity to locate classrooms as well as the administrative office, guidance office, media center, and cafeteria. Each student in attendance will be given his or her locker number and combination. Student guides will be available to assist freshmen in locating classrooms or trying out lockers.

Some staff members will be working in their classrooms and will be able to meet students and parents and extend a welcome to the school.

Refreshments will be available during the evening. Mrs. Bell encourages all ninth graders, new students, and parents to attend.

YOUTH EXCEL IN TRAINING PROGRAM - Young people who performed exceptionally well in the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program (SYETP), hosted by the Training Place, were honored recently for their efforts. "These people had great attendance and performance," said Sue Shockey, Western Maryland Consortium supervisor. "They worked hard and were very reliable." The awardees received certificates and were treated to pizza, donated by Pizza Hut. Shockey also noted the work done by returning leaders Elmer Redinger and Doug Oxford, in addition to another eight adults in leadership positions. "They always do a great job," she said. The young people are divided into crews and work in all the county's state parks as well as at non-profit public agency sites. There were 127 youth employed in the six-week program. "This was one of our most successful summers," Ms. Shockey stated. The Employer Award this year went to Wayne Capel, supervisor of Deep Creek Lake State Park. In the front row, left to right, are Commissioner Gary Fratz, Ralph Jacks (field advisor), Elmer Redinger (coordinator), Jason Lottmann, Mike Van Bogelen, William Sachs III, Tabitha Lantz, Jackie Mayle, Commissioner Wayne Wilt, Robin Witt (SYEPT liaison), and Charles Tressler, mayor of Loch Lynn. In the back, same order, are Ms. Shockey, Jessica Lottmann, Vince Upole, Brandon Ford, Kevin Herman, William Shiflett, Donald Chapman, Ronald Chapman, Doug Oxford (assistant coordinator), and Barbara Lucas (field advisor).

Thank You!

On Saturday, Aug. 9, Ray & Rachael Miller hosted a gathering of friends and family of the late Walter N. Beckman on the old family homestead in Pleasant Valley. 150 plus family and friends attended. This was a very kind and generous gesture and was greatly appreciated by all of the Beckman families.

"Thank You & God Bless You"

INVITATION FOR BIDS
GREENBRIER STATE PARK
WATER & WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT IMPROVEMENTS
PROJECT ID# 97-04-65

BID DUE DATE: 9/8/97
BID DUE TIME: 12:00 NOON
TO ALL PROSPECTIVE BIDDERS

The Maryland Environmental Service (MES) is requesting sealed bids from qualified contractors to complete the following:

- Removal of the two existing pressure filters and appurtenances and replacement with a new pressure filtration system.
- Partial demolition of a filter building wall and construction of a new doorway to facilitate removal and replacement of the pressure filters.
- Installation of an enclosure for the existing settling tank.
- Removal and replacement of valves and the removal of air piping in the existing Biosolids Pumping Station.
- Removal of baffles and concrete repairs in the existing contact tank equalization tank and effluent box.
- Installation of a cover for the existing effluent channel and drains for the effluent metering box.
- Relocation of the automatic sampler with re-piping.

A Pre-Bid and Site Visit is scheduled for Tuesday, August 26, 1997, at 10:00 a.m. at the Greenbrier State Park Visitors Center located at 21843 National Pike in Boonsboro, MD, 301-791-4787.

The purpose of the Pre-Bid is to allow potential Bidders the opportunity to familiarize themselves with the job site and to ask any questions requiring clarification.

The contract allows 180 calendar days for completion of the project, commencing with the Notice to Proceed issued by the Service. Liquidated damages of two hundred dollars ($200.00) will be assessed for each day the work under the contract remains incomplete. Work for this project will not be subject to the prevailing wage.

When the base bid is in excess of $100,000 each bidder shall furnish bid and contract security in an amount not less than 5% of the amount of the base bid. Bid Security and Conract Security is required for this solicitation.

An MBE subcontract participation goal of 4% of the total amount of the bid has been established for this procurement. It is the stated policy of the Maryland Environmental Service to encourage subcontract and prime MBE participation on all state contracts where applicable. By submitting a response to this solicitation, the bidder agrees that this amount of the contract will be performed by Minority Business Enterprises. Copies of the Maryland Department of Transportation "MDOT" Minority Business Enterprise Directory is available on computer disk for any bidder wishing to request a copy. Copies of the disk can be obtained directly by contacting MDOT (401-865-1342). Minority Business Contractors (MBEs) certified by the Maryland Department of Transportation are encouraged to tour the site and attend the Pre-Bid. Maryland firms are encouraged to respond to this solicitation.

Sealed Bids will be received by the Maryland Environmental Service on September 8, 1997, until 12:00 Noon (local time) at which time all bids will be opened and read aloud. Bidders are solely responsible for the timely receipt of their bids.

All Bids shall be placed in a sealed envelope, marked and addressed as follows:

Attn: Juanita Singletary, Procurement Division
Maryland Environmental Service
2011 Commerce Park Drive
Annapolis, Maryland 21401
Bid For: Greenbrier State Park
WWTP Improvements
DO NOT OPEN UNTIL 9/8/97 AT 12 NOON

The right is reserved, as the interest of the Maryland Environmental Service may appear, to reject any items of any Bid.

The Bid documents may be examined or obtained upon payment of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) non-refundable fee at the MES Office during the hours of 8:30 am. to 12:00 noon and 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on August 21, 1997, at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission Meeting Room (Third Floor Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following Docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-402; an application made by Mr. Ronald C. Pulliam for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the side yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow an existing detached garage to be attached to his residence, leaving a set-back of 6.6 feet from the side line instead of the required 15 feet. The property is located on Mayhew Inn Road (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-403; an application made by Mr. Harry G. Kesecker for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard set-back requirement for detached garages. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow the construction of a garage which would extend to within 5 feet of the front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located at 952 Thousand Acres Road (Zoned LR).

3) Docket VR-404; an application made by Mr. Randolph MeLeod for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirements for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow an existing residence to remain at a set-back of 36.59 feet from the rear line instead ofthe grandfathered 37.67 feet. The property is located on Shingle Camp Terrace (Zoned LR).

4) Docket VR-405; an application made by Mr. Kazerm Mahdavi for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of a residence which would extend to within 20 feet of the front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Ridgewood Drive (Zoned LR).

5) Docket VR-406; an application made by Mr. James Knowles for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to his residence which would extend to within 1 foot of the rear property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Harvey's Peninsula Road (Zoned LR).

6) Docket VR-407; an application made by Dr. Stephen Valenti for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition which would extend to within 20 feet of the rear line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Meadow Mt. Lane (zoned LR).

7) Docket SE-274; an application made by Dr. Steve Herman on behalf of GCC for a Special Exception permit to allow the expansion of the GCC complex by installing two temporary classroom structures adjacent to the Continuing Education Building. The property is located on Bumble Bee Road (zoned LR).

8) Docket INTP-10; an application made by Mr. Joida Sherwood for an appeal from the decision of the Zoning Administrator regarding an "Order" to abandon the Snowy Creek personal water craft sales office on the Quality Marina Company property located on Deep Creek Drive in McHenry. The appeal also requests an interpretation regarding, the "Order" to establish a parking area exclusively for use by customer vehicles (Zoned TC).

Patton/Butler Families Hold Annual Reunion

The descendants of the late Roy "Kit" Carson and Bessie (Butler) Patton and those of the late Robert Hampton and Lottie Florence (Groves) Butler held their fourth annual Garrett County reunion at the Accident Volunteer Fire Department on Sunday, Aug. 10.

Present from the original Patton family were Dale Patton, Satsuma, Fla.; Doris (Patton) Broadwater, Poland, Ohio; Lottie (Patton) Kienzler, Bel Air; and David D. Patton, Eldersburg. Present from the original Butler family was Dorothy (Butler) Burow, Jennings.

Approximately 50 people attended, including those descendants of Harry Patton, Mamie (Butler) Yommer, and Viola (Butler) Campbell. The oldest person attending from the Patton family was Dale Patton, age 81. The oldest person attending from the Butler family was Dorothy Burow, age 86.

The youngest person attending from the Patton family was Alyssa Rae Patton, age 11 months. The youngest person attending from the Butler family was Scarlett Ann Fost, age 4 years, 11 months. Those who traveled the greatest distance were Fred and Helen Burow, Great Falls, Mont.

The next reunion is being planned for August or September 1998. Those relatives interested in attending and have not been able to make it in the past should contact Lynn Patton, Accident, for additional information.

VOL NO. 120 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1997 PER COPY 47¢

Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

THE VIBRATION OF MANY STRINGS coming together in wonderful harmonies is one way to describe the music being created this week on the stage at Garrett Community College. Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's Symphony at Deep Creek is back for its 11th season, rehearsing this week for the second two concerts of the four-concert series. World-renowned violinist Erick Friedman, the musical director and conductor of the symphony, is also a featured artist. He is pictured above center as he rehearses Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in e minor, to be presented during Saturday's program. Lanfranco Marcelletti Jr., right of Friedman, is pictured here in his role as guest conductor for the series. Friday night's program will open with Haydn's London symphony, followed by Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3 in c minor. This work will feature special guest pianist Dr. Robert Blocker, the dean of the Yale School of Music. The evening will close with Mendelssohn's Italian symphony. In addition to the violin concerto, Saturday night's program will include a Bizet symphony, Stravinsky's Pulcinella Suite, and a GLAF-commissioned work by Neal Corwell titled Black Moon Rising. Corwell, euphonium virtuoso, will be the soloist. Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for youth 17 and younger, and are available at the GLAF box office, located at GCC, as well as at the following pharmacies: Beachy's, Englander's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek. For more information, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Commissioners Report News Of MACo Event

The Garrett County Commissioners attended the Maryland Association of Counties annual conference last weekend, held in Ocean City, and reported this week that the event was a beneficial one for them and for the county.

"We met dozens and dozens of individuals we need to deal with on several issues," said Commissioner Wayne Wilt. "It's really very helpful to learn who these people are -- to get to know them on a first-name basis. That makes it easier when we can call upon them for their help."

Commissioner Roger Glotfelty noted that the state is reportedly "in good shape," having gained 7,600 more workers over the past three years.

"The tax breaks that have been passed will help everyone, too," he said. He also discussed Governor Parris Glendening's plans to remain focused on Maryland's children through various endeavors, such as library improvement throughout the state and an increase in teachers' salaries. Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for Garrett County, added that the governor wants all

GCHD's Deadline To Move Looms, Yet Plans For New Site Still Incomplete

Although a deadline of Sept. 2 for the Garrett County Health Department to vacate the "old" section of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital has been set for nearly a year, the actual move may not take place within the remaining 12 days. Dr. Rex Archer, health officer of the Garrett County Health Department, met with the Garrett County Commissioners this week, apparently after receiving a memorandum from Walter Donalson, CEO and president of the hospital, concerning the deadline. A new location for the health department has yet to be determined. A meeting this morning between hospital and health department officials on the subject was underway at the commissioners' office at press time.

The memo, dated Aug. 14, informed Archer that contractors will be on site on Sept. 3 to begin work on the remaining spaces still occupied by the health department.

"Should you require the additional time," the memo states, "[we] will give you through the close of day Tuesday, Sept. 2, to complete your final moves from the building."

The deadline has "been on the books" for nearly a year, with the relocation of the health department to be completed in phases. The mental health portion of the department did vacate the hospital building in March, getting out of the facility approximately two weeks past the deadline for that phase. The department relocated to a building in Oakland.

Archer and Gary Mullich, the county's general services manager, told the commissioners Tuesday that there were at least two prospective locations to be considered. A portion of the meeting was closed to the public as they apparently discussed the appraisals of the locations. Monty Pagenhardt, administrative officer for the commissioners, said today that a decision about the location will be made next Tuesday.

Donalson and the hospital officials were reportedly surprised at Archer's reaction to the memorandum, having assumed that the proper steps had been taken to vacate by the deadline. Although Archer contacted the commissioners about the memo, he reportedly did not contact Donalson to relay to him the health department's current predicament.

Archer and Mullich maintained Tuesday that bids were sent out "eight or nine months ago," but that none of them were "workable." The re-bidding process brought in five responses, Mullich said, and at least two were being considered. A size of 9,000 to 12,000 square feet is needed to house the department, according to the officials. The locations under consideration are apparently in the greater Oakland area.

"We're going to have to act very quickly here," said Commissioner Roger Glotfelty. "We want to get them out of there, but it's going to be difficult."

Pagenhardt stated in a

Old-Time Music Fest Slated For This Saturday

The Old-Time Music Fest will be held this Saturday, Aug. 23, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the Recreational Hall in New Germany State Park. Open "jamming" and getting acquainted will begin at 10 a.m., with stage performances beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Among those appearing will be: Hammers & Strings, The Steyer Family, Back Up and Push, Bethany and Joe Lewis, Grover Broadwater, Rainbow Gospel Group, the Richard Eddy family from Core, W.Va., The Eastern Shore Saturday Longs, Maple City String Pickers, Heart Strings from Morgantown, and others. The Grand Jam will take place at 5:30 p.m. to end the day's activities.

There will be food available, so persons are invited to come and spend the day. Further information may be obtained by calling Betty Mattingly at 301-334-4468.

This festival is sponsored by Hammers & Strings and funded in part by Manor Home Center, Mtn. Lake Park, the Maryland State Arts Council, and the Garrett County Arts Council.

The Old-Time Music Fest does not discriminate with regard to race, creed, or color in program selection or audience participation, and has made provisions for access to seating for the handicapped.

Course Program Guides Available For Public Input

At this month's meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, board members were given draft copies of programs of study for students of pre-kindergarten through 12th grade.

Presentations of these course guidelines were made by Maxine Miller, director of curriculum and instruction 9-12, and Brenda McCartney, director of curriculum and instruction PK-8.

Miller opened the discussion with the presentation of the high school material. The book-sized documents handed out for review contain the outcomes (broad statements of expected results of instruction), focus areas (topics of study), and indicators (clear statements of facts, concepts and processes that will lead to outcomes) for each area of study. Core learning goals, as established by the state, are identified in the syllabi, Miller explained.

The high school mathematics outline has been used in the classroom for a year. The working draft, Miller said, was originally developed last summer by McCartney and expanded for its current use. "I expect to take this program of studies to the board for approval next month," she stated.

Livestock Sale Sets Record Grand Total Of $117,742.65

The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale sponsored by the Garrett County Livestock Association was held last Saturday night at the Garrett County Fair. A record grand total of $117,742.65 was set with the sale of 161 market animals. A lively crowd of bidders purchased 63 hogs for an average of $2.19 per pound and a total of $30,873.80. An average price of $1.31 and a total of $74,387.90 was paid for 51 market steers, and the 47 market lambs brought $2.58 per pound average or a total of $12,480.95.

The Grand Champion market hog was owned and sold by Shane DeWitt, son of Kris and Connie DeWitt. His 237-pound hog was purchased by Ringer Oil Company for $3.00 a pound, and was donated to Appalachian Crossroads and Garrett County Lighthouse. The Reserve Grand Champion hog was purchased by Nicholas Sales for $2.50 per pound. The 238-pound hog was owned and sold by Diana Mayfield, daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield.

Morgan Rodeheaver, daughter of Donald and Sharon Rodeheaver, was the owner of the Grand Champion Baby Beef. Her 1,358-pound steer was purchased by the Trading Post for $3.40 per pound and was donated to the Ruth Enlow Library and Trading Post employees. The Reserve Grand Champion steer was owned and sold by Randi Rodeheaver, daughter of Donald and Sharon Rodeheaver. Her 1,234-pound steer was purchased by Phenix Technologies, Inc., for $3.00 per pound and was donated to Phenix employees.

Baltimore Man Held On $555,000 Bond, Charged With Abuse, Burglary

A Baltimore man is being held on a $555,000 bond in the Garrett County Jail after a joint investigation by the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Department of Social Services led to his arrest on a variety of child abuse charges this past Tuesday evening. The reported victim of the ongoing alleged physical and sexual abuse is an eight-month old infant, who is currently hospitalized in serious condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown.

Jerry Adam Helms Jr., 27, faces charges of child abuse, child sexual abuse, one count of first-degree and two counts of second-degree assault, third-degree sex offense, and reckless endangerment.

The incidents allegedly occurred at a mobile home camper located on Sale Barn Road in the Bear Creek Forest development, just northwest of Accident, where Helms has been residing on and off for the past several months. The child's mother was a girlfriend of Helms, and alleg-

U.S. Navy Band "Country Current" To Give Concert

The United States Navy's premier country-bluegrass band, Country Current, will appear at the Deep Creek Lake State Park on August 30 as the final concert of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival summer season. The concert, which will begin at 6 p.m., is being sponsored by Penelec and is free to the public.

Formed in 1973 as a specialty unit of the United States Navy Band in Washington, D.C., the seven-member Country Current group has toured the country each year in support of Navy recruiting. The group has performed at the Grand Ole Opry, Wheeling Jamboree, and on the Academy of Country Music Awards show. The group has also performed with such artists as Boots Randolph, Charlie Daniels, and Vince Gill, and at the Glen Campbell Goodtime Theatre in Branson, Mo., in a tribute to the citizens of Oklahoma City.

The group performed at the Nova Scotia International Tattoo in 1994 and in 1992 at the Swedish Army Tattoo in Stockholm. During Operation Desert Storm, Country Current reedly brought the infant along when she would visit him at the camper.

Helms' arrest also led to a break in several burglary cases being investigated by the State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The two agencies have charged Helms in connection with a series of home burglaries that occurred this spring on Sale Barn Road and Wagner Hill Road in the Bear Creek Forest development, and a June burglary of the Body Works beauty and tanning salon at Deep Creek Lake.

In connection with those burglaries, Helms presently faces a total of 10 various charges of burglary, felony theft, and felony malicious destruction of property. State Police also served Helms with an arrest warrant issued in Baltimore County, stemming from an April, 1996 burglary there.

The burglary investigations also led to the arrest of Helms' cousin, Robert Lee Tucker III, 18, Bel Air.

Tucker, whose father owned the lot on Sale Barn Road where Helms' mobile camper was parked, would sometimes come to Garrett County and stay at the camper with Helms and is

River Road Bridge Closing For Repairs

The Garrett County Roads Department has announced that the bridge on River Road over the Casselman River will be closed on Monday, Aug. 25, at 7 a.m. The department will be coordinating the removal of the existing structure and the building of a new timber bridge.

Lee Thorne, director of the roads department, said the work should be finished in approximately six weeks. This may vary, Thorne noted, depending on the weather and river conditions.

A MAJOR GUST of wind, accompanied by a brief, but tremendous, downpour of rain, hit Mountain Lake Park Sunday afternoon, causing this large oak tree at the corner of H Street and Oakland Avenue, as well as several others, to come crashing to the ground. The one pictured did the most damage, as power, telephone, and television cable lines were snapped or stretched to the ground. One of the utility poles lost its transformer, which is in the right foreground of the photo. A house across the street sustained minor damage by the falling tree. While there were no confirmed reports of a tornado, some witnesses described the blast of wind as unusually violent. It took utility crews several hours to restore services to the many affected residents of the Park. Photo by John McEwen

Mtn. Lake Park Man Files Suit Against Officers

A Mtn. Lake Park man has named the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and eight individuals from that office in a federal lawsuit, claiming that the defendants "deliberately conspired with one another to falsely accuse and carry out and make a false arrest" on the plaintiff.

Jerry A. Cline has named the following individuals in his suit, filed this week in U.S. District Court in Baltimore: Sheriff Randy Sines, Lt. Paul Pratt, deputies David McLaughlin, Randy Shaffer, Robert Corley, and Clark Warnick, and correctional officers James Tichnell and Deborah Taylor. He is seeking monetary damages of $2.25 million and punitive damages of $5 million.

The 13-page suit, plus a six-page addendum, alleges that Cline was arrested and jailed in June of last year without a warrant for his arrest on telephone misuse charges for "making repeated calls to the sheriff's department." The defendant claims that his repeated calls to the office were a result of his calling for assistance at his residence after an act of vandalism on his property, and that no deputies were being dispatched to investigate his complaint.

The plaintiff also alleges that several of the defendants at different times "conspired to commit crimes against the plaintiff causing harm to his safety and well being," that they "abused their official powers," that they "deliberately failed to protect the plaintiff from crimes of violence," and that they "violated the plaintiff's civil rights."

The suit states that Cline had been assisting various federal agencies, including the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, in undercover investigations at the time of some of the alleged incidents with local police.

Cline's bill of complaint calls for a trial by jury. The defendants have 20 days to respond to the complaint.

German Dancers To Perform In GLAF Event

The Schäfertanz dancing troupe, one of the oldest folk dance groups in Germany, will be coming to the United States for the first time and will perform at the Deep Creek Lake State Park on Saturday, Aug. 30, at 5:30 p.m. The dancers' performance will be followed by a concert by the United States Navy band, Country Current. The performances are being presented by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) and are free to the public.

The Schäfertanz hails from the town of Markgröninjen, near Stuttgart, which is also the hometown of Garrett Countian Ruth Beitzel. She is a former dancer with the group.

The dance troupe will arrive in Washington, D.C., on Aug. 27 and then travel to Deep Creek Lake to visit with Ruth and Wendell Beitzel at the Point View Inn for three days. After performing in the GLAF show on Saturday, the dancers will then proceed to Philadelphia, where they will perform on Sept. 1. The dancers will also visit Boston, New York, and Baltimore, ending their trip with a three-day stay in Ocean City.

For more information about the performance, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Local Scout Achieves Eagle Rank

Patrick R. Forman was recognized as having achieved the rank of Eagle Scout at a special Court of Honor held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, on Sunday, Aug. 10. Forman is a member of Troop 22 of Oakland and is the second scout of that troop to earn Eagle status. In achieving this rank, he earned 25 merit badges, served in various troop leadership positions, planned and executed a service project at the Potomac-Garrett State Forest, and appeared before an Eagle Board of Review. Fewer than 2 percent of all scouts in the United States achieve the rank of Eagle.

Forman earned the 12 required merit badges that include: Citizenship in the Community, Citizenship in the Nation, Citizenship in the World, First Aid, Personal Management, Safety, Communications, Emergency Preparedness, Environmental Science, Swimming, Family Life, and Camping. In addition, he earned 13 elective merit badges that include: Archery, Weather, Space Exploration Computers, Leatherwork Metalwork, Forestry, Wilderness Survival, Railroading, Rifle Shooting, Pioneering, Fingerprinting, and Astronomy.

One of the biggest challenges to earning the Eagle rank involves the planning and execution of a major service project. To complete this requirement, Forman involved many other scouts, scout leaders, and other persons in his project of building a trailhead sign and multiple interpretive signs for a trail at the Potomac-Garrett State Forest Youth Camping Area. He was responsible for designing the signs, generating the materials, organizing the labor, and ensuring completion of the project.

Leadership responsibilities for Forman in the troop have included the positions of senior patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, historian, and patrol leader. He was also elected into the Order of the Arrow. As a Cub Scout he also earned the Arrow of Light, the highest award in Cub Scouting.

Taking part in the Court of Honor were: Father Rick Spencer of St. Peter's; Ed Remley, scoutmaster of Troop 22; Albert Coviello, Dale Eaton, and Christian Coviello; Lee Brown, senior patrol leader; David Booz; Jim Stewart; and Tim Taylor. Rick Wakefield, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, was the guest speaker.

Additional awards received by Patrick were a congratulatory letter from President Clinton, a congressional resolution, and an American flag that was flown over the U.S. Capitol. A Governor's Resolution and a Maryland House of Delegates Resolution were presented by Delegate George Edwards. Forman also received certificates from Garrett County Commissioner Wayne Wilt and Mayor Asa McCain. A number of the attendees were other Eagle Scouts, including: Christian Coviello, David Booz, Tim Taylor, Father Rick Spencer, Paul Shogren, Robert Sincell, and Robert Stevens.

Forman has received a full scholarship to attend Virginia Tech this fall as a midshipman in the Corps of Cadets, Naval Battalion, in pursuit of a degree in mechanical engineering. He is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, where he served as class president. His hobbies include camping, hunting, and flying. He was recently qualified to receive his private pilot's license.

Patrick is the son of John and Joyce Forman, Oakland.

Immunization Clinic Slated For Grantsville

The Garrett County Health Department will hold a free walk-in clinic at the Grantsville Plaza office next Tuesday, Aug. 26, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Children must have a valid immunization record and be accompanied by a parent.

The health department encourages all parents to check their children's immunization records to make sure each child is protected against deadly diseases, and to take advantage of this free service should the need exist.

Oakland Police Arrest Man On Multiple Counts

A report of power lines being down led to the arrest of a truck driver recently.

Oakland police reported the arrest of Justin Scott Burns, Aug. 14, around 2 a.m., after notification came from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office that power lines were down on Bradley Lane.

When the investigating officer arrived at the scene he found a telephone pole and cable lying in the parking lot of Beachy Lumber Co. He also saw a tractor-trailer with its engine running. The side of the truck was scratched, the officer reported.

On closer examination, pieces of the telephone pole were allegedly found embedded in the truck's paint and pieces of the pole were on top of the trailer.

The driver was reported sleeping in the vehicle and could not be awakened. The employer, who is the owner of the truck, was contacted. He came to the scene, identified the driver, and gained access to the vehicle.

Police said there was an odor of alcohol and Burns was argumentative. He refused to produce his license or to get out of the truck. Burns then attempted to drive away, the report said.

Charges filed against Burns included resisting arrest, failure to report an accident involving property damage, and DWI.

NEGLIGENT DRIVING

An early morning incident on Third Street led to an arrest yesterday by Oakland police.

The officer reported spotting a red Dodge pickup driven by Charles T. Warnick as it was southbound on Third Street at Memorial Drive around 1:15 a.m. The truck was traveling down the center of the road.

The officer followed the vehicle onto Oak Street but was unable to stop it until it reached Weber Road, he said.

A smell of alcohol led to field sobriety tests. Warnick was arrested and charged with negligent driving, DWI, and failure to drive right of center. He was taken to the sheriff's office and later released after signing his citations.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

A goal of 200 units has been set for this Friday's visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland. Donors will be welcomed at the National Guard armory from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

This visit is being sponsored in part by the Garrett County Farm Bureau, which made a donation to cover the cost of the canteen. Lakeside Creamery will provide ice cream at the canteen, according to Elizabeth Huxford, blood services chairman for the Garrett County Chapter of the ARC. She said that others helping promote the visit are the members of the confirmation class of St. Peter's Catholic Church, who have placed informational posters around the community. Jean McConnell contacted local churches to ask that announcement of the visit be placed in bulletins and announced from the pulpit. WKHJ Radio will provide a live remote broadcast from the armory during the visit.

"We are a community that cares," Huxford said. "We have wonderful support from so many people."

Huxford said that the visit of the bloodmobile one year ago netted 201 units of blood that was used to help possibly as many as 800 people. "This year we'd like to match that goal to help those in need," she said, noting that at least one of every 10 hospital patients in the country needs a blood transfusion.

Huxford said that all types of blood are needed, but during the summer months with increased potential for accidents, hospitals experience a great shortage of types O-positive and O-negative, the universal blood types.

Individuals who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health are eligible to give blood every 56 days. Those with specific medical questions are invited to contact the ARC at 1-800-54BLOOD.

"Those who cannot give blood are invited to help out in other ways," Huxford said. "We are always looking for more volunteers and sponsors, because without these people, our bloodmobile program would not be possible."

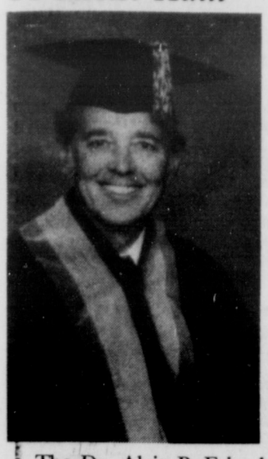
Friend Memorial Fund Established To Assist Haiti



The Dr. Alvin P. Friend Memorial Fund has been established by the board of directors of Grace Mission, Inc., in memory of the late dentist's faithful ministry to the people of Haiti.

Dr. Friend, once named Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person, was a prominent member of the local community until his death this past March. His skills and care extended far beyond western Maryland, as in 1978 he and his wife Ann completed the first of 12 mission trips to Haiti, providing dental treatments and education in oral hygiene to many people who had never been seen by a dentist before in their entire lives.

Persons interested in making a tax-deductible donation to the Dr. Alvin Friend Memorial Fund may send a check payable to Grace Mission, Inc., Dental Fund, at 636 Wilson Avenue, Dallastown, PA 17313.

All donations will go to the purchase of a portable dental unit, which will be used to provide dental care to residents of Haitian villages. Excess future gifts will be used to support and advance dental ministry in the island nation, the poorest country in the western hemisphere.

School Policy Changes Noted In Handbooks

Rules and procedures for Garrett County public school students will be found in the new handbooks that will be available before the end of the first week in school.

Wilda Massi, director of pupil services for the board of education, said the manuals are at the printer and should be ready next week.

The updated book contains changes in 25 or 30 places. Some are replacements of single words, others are more extensive.

Massi pointed out that some major areas of change are found in the attendance requirements.

Stipulated under "Lawful Excuses" is the 5-day limit on days of school missed for circumstances which are not emergencies. These absences must be for sufficient cause and have prior approval from the principal.

In the section on "Procedures," the policy states that an investigation shall be conducted for any student whose total absences for illness exceeds: elementary school -- 10 days, middle school -- 8 days, high school year-long classes -- 8 days, high school semester classes -- 4 days.

The policy continues with explanation that any middle school student shall not be promoted if the number of absences coded unlawful exceeds 8. A high school student will loose credit for unlawful absences exceeding 8 in year-long classes and 4 in semester classes.

Any elementary school student exceeding 25 days of total absence for the year will not be promoted. Any middle school student missing more that 20 days for the year will not be promoted.

Students in high school will loose credit if total absences in year-long classes exceed 16 days; 8 days total absences in the case of semester classes.

Monitoring procedures for attendance include changes. Habitual truancy will be referred to the Department of Juvenile Justice when unlawful absences of students under age 16 are in excess of: elementary -- 6 days, middle school -- 5 days, high school year-long classes -- 5 days, high school semester classes -- 3 days.

The handbook also describes the appeal processes available on the issue of loss of credit or retention.

Some changes will also be found in the "Suspension" section. Possession of a portable pager on school property will result in a 5-day suspension. Any use of tobacco products on school property, or at school sponsored functions, will result in a 3-day suspension and notification of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

A student may be excluded from school for failure to abide by health regulation regarding immunizations and other health related policy until compliance is met.

GRAND CHAMPION 4-H/FFA MARKET LAMB--The Grand Champion 4-H/FFA Market Lamb at the Garrett County Fair was purchased by Doug's Auto and Truck Repair, Loch Lynn, for $8.50 per pound and donated to the Shepherds 4-H Club. The 111 pound lamb was shown and sold by Sarah Rexroad, daughter of Kenneth and Susan Rexroad, Swanton. Sarah is a member of the Country Kids 4-H Club. Man Charged With Assault At County Fair

An assault that occurred in the county fairgrounds parking lot this past Saturday night resulted in the arrest of a Mtn. Lake Park man.

Jack Alfred Kight, 19, faces three counts of second-degree assault after he reportedly approached another man in the parking lot and allegedly began hitting him in the head with his fists. No apparent reason for the action was readily indicated by either Kight or the victim in the report.

Following his arrest Kight was released on his own recognizance.

A Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested by sheriff's deputies after he was found blocking traffic by sitting in the middle of Broadford Road on Wednesday evening.

Eric Scott Aronhalt, 23, reportedly told deputies he was "protesting" when they asked him why he was sitting in the road, blocking traffic in both directions and drawing the attention of curious bystanders watching the scene from their front yards. Aronhalt added that he had argued with his girlfriend earlier in the evening, and that his actions were a way of "getting her attention."

Described in the sheriff's report as having an odor of alcohol about his person, Aronhalt was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

James Joseph Nolan, 49, Oakland, was released from jail after posting a $5,000 bond recently. He had been arrested earlier in the week on charges of fourth-degree burglary and trespassing.

Richard Scott Becker, 20, a Corpus Christi, Texas resident is currently being held in the Garrett County jail as he awaits extradition to Texas. Sheriff's deputies recently served him with a fugitive warrant issued by the Texas judicial system.

Several Oakland residents were recently arrested on bench warrants charging them with failure to appear (FTA). John Mark Finch, 30, is currently being held in jail on a $2,500 bond. James Lee Nicholas, 32, was released after posting a $5,000 bond. After her arrest, Deborah Ann Estill, 39, was released on her own recognizance. Also arrested on an FTA warrant recently was Franklin Lee Sanner, 23, Terra Alta, W.Va. He is currently being held on a $10,000 bond.

Tucker faces various burglary, felony theft, and felony malicious destruction of property charges, and is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail on a $30,000 bond.

A Symbolic Passing?...

The passing of two well-known local businessmen this week is perhaps symbolic of an even greater passing currently underway in our nation, and one which ultimately could have devastating effects on our society at large.

There are several similarities in the lives of Joseph L. Matthews, who died Friday at age 85, and Fred E. Beachy, whose long life on earth concluded Tuesday at age 97. It was 52 years ago that Matthews purchased what is today Matthews Grocery in Accident, and it was 45 years ago that Beachy purchased what is today Beachy Lumber Company. Both of these men worked extremely hard to make their respective businesses successful. Each provided significant services to their communities, not only in the form of the products they made available, but also in terms of the employment provided to local residents, particularly with Beachy Lumber, which has many employees. Each recognized the great importance of small, local, privately owned businesses.

With Mr. Matthews' death may well come the death of Matthews Grocery, as so many customers have slowly but steadily in recent years gone to the malls and chain businesses to purchase their goods and services. Because the chain stores deal in such huge quantities, there is absolutely no way that the small, free-standing businesses can offer the same low prices.

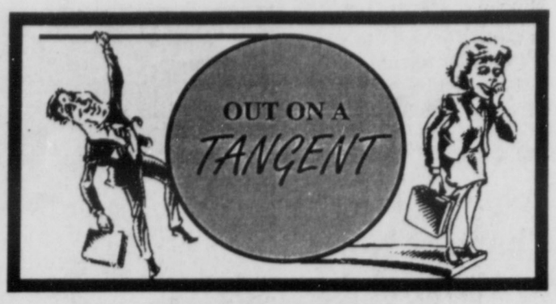
While Beachy Lumber certainly is showing no visible signs of struggle, it, too, in recent years has been forced to go into difficult competition with much larger, high-volume, chain businesses. Beachy's faces a similar problem in price competition, but has wisely concentrated on providing the absolute best customer service to offset some of that difference.

There are a few other major chain businesses that are planning to locate in Garrett County, the knowledge of which has a number of residents quite excited. But too many of those folks who are so anxious for the presence of a huge, nationally known department store in their home town are forgetting, or not caring, about the small, locally owned businesses that have been here for many years, which provide jobs to so many people and have contributed to the Little League teams, school projects, rescue squads, and scores of other worthy efforts, not to mention the tax base of our county, for a long, long time. These are the businesses that are being destroyed by the chains, and entire downtowns are subsequently being left in ruins.

Yes, competition is in many ways a good thing; it forces all businesses to work harder and to do a better job. But when that competition takes place on un-level playing fields, and the ultimate outcome is thus pre-determined, it is not a good thing in the long run for the community.

Small business has always been accurately described as the backbone of society, but we fear that backbone is beginning to crack, as the "mom and pop" operations are being gobbled up and/or eliminated by big-business predators.

We greatly admire people like Joe Matthews and Fred Beachy, we truly regret their passing, and we thank them for doing so much for their communities.



Traveling with the Trio
by Mary Sincell McEwen

One has to be about a half-bubble off level to take a bonafide vacation with three children, and this one unbalanced moron has to have the willing cooperation of his or her spouse to even think about undertaking such an escapade. I claim both things. John or I could interchangeably be considered slightly uneven and the other fully supportive of whatever whim strikes . . . like a real trip, for instance, with our little sons.

Off to Pennsylvania we went a few weeks ago to explode onto the Idlewild Park/Storybook Forest scene. We first stopped off at my old college friend's house in Greensburg, where she and her husband fed us and provided a room. They talked of having children soon, but after 24 hours of Rob, Alex, and Michael together, along with John and me, who often resemble war casualties by mid-day, they were thinking a bit differently. They cautiously waved goodbye from their locked door, smiling valiantly through their PVT (Post-Visit Trauma). Okay, okay, that's a tad exaggerated, I suppose. I guess. Maybe.

Drizzle was in the air when we got to the park, but our dismay was short-lived as we realized how few people were there. We didn't have to stand in line at all, and the quickly marketed ponchos were only a buck and a half each -- a whole lot cheaper than other places we've visited. The boys were perfectly happy to wear the bright orange plastic tents -- they cheerfully stumped along, looking like those Halloween leaf bags come to life.

I believe we were quite the spectacle, piling these three wriggling blonds onto various rides that took them in circles or spirals or flew them in the air. Each time they would come around, John and I would wave at them like imbeciles, smiling and yelling. They would wave back, occasionally getting disoriented and waving at another giddy parent. I did enjoy the parents there -- we all seemed to be getting a huge kick out of our kids' delight. (It was a sight better than seeing other parents in the grocery store, for example, where things often get distressingly ugly.)

The beloved red trolley of Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood was a favorite -- the boys were absolutely enchanted. The trolley "ding-dings" through the Land of Make Believe where a "hug and song" party is being planned. At each stop, the trolley driver asks pre-arranged questions of the life-sized robotic regulars of the show, and they, appearing alarmingly huge compared to the TV's puppets, answer. Then everyone on the trolley is to invite them to the "hug and song." The boys loved it -- John and I were starting to gag by the third time through. We amused ourselves by conjecturing what the young trolley drivers might say to the robots when there is no one aboard to hear them.

A wild time was had by all at the "Jumpin' Jungle." Robert took off up a mesh webbing and worked harder to get to the top than he has in all his five years. John and I stood on the ground as our small boy got smaller as he climbed higher. I kept blurting out -- "Go after him. He's struggling. He's going to cry." John just kept watching and saying quietly, "He's fine, Mary. Give him a chance." And he was right. Life lessons come at the oddest times.

Michael zoomed up a smaller mesh and I did follow him. He was fearless, clawing his way along. I was unnerved by the creaking and swaying of the canvas bindings. We made it to the top and I didn't get a chance to breathe before my tireless 20-month-old darted across a swinging bridge and headed for a slide -- a long tubular slide. "Surely he'll stop now," I thought. Nah. We went down that slide three times, fast. In the meantime, Alex was triumphant, having discovered his idea of nirvana -- a giant vat of plastic balls into which he rolled over and over and over, his blond curls flopping and his bare toes wiggling. With a slight kick of his foot, he could completely disappear. Getting him out of there was a true challenge.

A whole day of dizzying fun without naps does begin to take its toll. We finally got to the Storybook Forest section and began to walk through. All three boys were straggling along, now somewhat disinterested. I pointed out the Rock-a-Bye Baby to Alex and he flipped his hand slightly. "Dumb baby," he mumbled, and walked away. He then went AWOL at the seven dwarves' house and tried to pull their laundry off the line. Michael dozed in the stroller, waking only to point half-heartedly at something and then slump back down. Rob had a hard time leaving the place -- not because he so loved it, but because there was a jack-in-the-box at the end of the tour that was just way too big, scarily grinning down on passers-by. That thing really was freakish -- no wonder Rob had the willies.

That was only the first day. We went back for another full day, this time thoroughly enjoying the water park -- a story in itself. The trip was mostly fun, surprisingly. Like childbirth, we do tend to forget the difficult times, such as getting all three boys down to sleep in one hotel room (YIKES!), eating for three days basically out of a cooler, counting to three every five seconds to keep track of everyone, and having our dream dashed of all three kids sleeping in the car -- at least one always managed to stay awake, no matter how tired. Michael even got in the habit of screeching during one long trip. One would have thought he was in pain, but he was simply enjoying the piercing sound of his own voice. Gee, we liked it, too.

It was the first vacation we've taken with the boys and I hope it is followed by many more. Maybe next time, though, we will have forgotten all about diapers. What a dream.

To the Editor:

I am adamantly opposed to making Rt. 219 an interstate highway. My husband and I chose Garrett County as our place of retirement because of its rural environment and natural beauty. The easy pace of living and friendliness of the people provided an atmosphere for living that was very appealing. We've had a place on Deep Creek Lake for 27 years, but chose rather to live on woodland acreage surrounded by state forest where we could enjoy the wildlife and the quiet away from the noise and frenzy of the lake.

Following are the reasons I feel an interstate is the wrong choice for Garrett County. The proposed route would divide the county in half, robbing farmers and residents of much land. If they take away farmland, it will no longer be a farming community. We are located 2½ miles as the crow flies from Interstate 68. At times during the winter I now hear a continual drone all night from the traffic on that road. Rt. 219 is just 1¼ miles from us, so we'd hear that all the time, both day and night, effectively ruining our investment here. Dividing the county in half would greatly hamper the wildlife in their movements or get them killed. All that interstate travel would pollute with exhaust fumes a very pristine mountain environment that now has clean air. We left the Washington area to get away from interstates, noise, pollution, traffic, concrete, and crime. I would hate to see all that come here.

Interstate 68 has not provided a lot of long-term jobs or industry for our county. Why would anyone think Rt. 219 as an interstate would be any different? If the state takes all the land required for this project, the county loses the taxes now generated from that land. That won't help Garrett County. I feel the residents like our county the way it is. Progress in the name of big roads is not the answer.

Sincerely,
Eleanor H. Bookout

To the Editor:

As acting secretary of Conservative Action for a Rural Environment (C.A.R.E.), I have received numerous requests, in writing and speech, to keep the readers of The Republican informed of developments as they unfold on the issue of a proposed $400 million (a "preliminary estimate") international federal trade corridor (NAFTA) superhighway (known to C.A.R.E. members as Operation Dash for Cash) in Garrett County. I can assure readers of The Republican and C.A.R.E. will keep them informed. I also mention once again that this proposal is not yet a "done deal." However, U.S. Congressional funding for the project may come as early as Sept., according to our Washington contact. Therefore, please keep your support coming.

Readers of The Republican who wish to assist C.A.R.E. in preventing this superhighway from being built may continue expressing their concerns by writing to C.A.R.E., P.O. Box 780, Grantsville, MD 21536. You can also call me at 1-800-735-2258 ext. 301-895-5615, or call C.A.R.E. member Jaime Alvarez at 301-334-8842 for more information.

To the Editor:

What annual event provides one of the few opportunities available to Garrett County citizens to chat informally with government officials, aspiring candidates, and agency representatives? The annual picnic sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Garrett County does just that. And next Wednesday, August 27, the League will hold its annual picnic at Broadford Park, Pavilion 1, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Following the picnic, government and agency representatives, as well as candidates for next year's elections, will be introduced and given a chance to talk briefly about pertinent events and issues, plus answer questions from the group.

The picnic is open to the public, and entire families are welcome. Those interested in attending are asked to bring a covered dish (side, salad, dessert, etc.). The League will supply cold-cut sandwiches, drinks and table service. The League would appreciate knowing who and how many plan to attend, so please call Ginny Grove at 301-334-8269 or Donna Aspinall at 301-334-1804 by Monday, Aug. 25.

The picnic will be held rain or shine, but in case of really inclement weather, tune in to WKHJ for announcements.

Cordially,
The LWVGC Board of Directors

To the Editor:

In response to David Moe's guest editorial on July 31, 1997, that endorses the construction of a proposed new IS 219 in Garrett County. Let's have public hearings! Let's have public hearings so that everyone concerned has the opportunity to present his or her ideas.

First, let's acknowledge the excellent job that the State Highway Administration continues to do in Garrett County. Not only do they keep the roads passable in the winter, but are also adding 10' shoulders and drainage ditches for water runoff that produces longevity of SHA roads that are already in place.

Here are some important questions that require discussion and solutions: The feasibility of construction through terrain of Western Maryland and West Virginia? Annual maintenance costs for a MD-WV road? Alternate routes such as IS 220, or a Skyline Drive over a mid point route? What about land presently committed to farm and timber resources? How would this

"COMING OF AGE--THE SECOND TIME"

Twenty-one years ago I came of age. On only a few of my birthdays have I not been at home, and that was one of them. That summer I served as the summer student assistant at the First Presbyterian Church in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The only detail I remember from the day itself was the arrival of a German chocolate cake at the church offices. My mother had arranged with a Tulsa bakery to make and deliver the traditional culinary finale to my birthday feast.

We were trying to figure out the other night (when the family gathered to sing "Happy Birthday" to me) which year the menu had become set for the annual celebration of my birth. For a certainty by my mid-teens the full menu was complete: fried chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, cream gravy, and German chocolate cake (and as much milk as needed to wash it all down).

Though only the memory of the cake remains from my 21st birthday, I have many other memories from the summer appropriate to coming of age. It was a summer of taking stock of my life.

I received my call to ministry as an 8-year-old, but my understanding of that call altered--I hope it matured--as the years passed. At the beginning of the summer in Tulsa I was on the path "ever upward until the glorious mountain peak of success is achieved."

I expected to become the pastor of a small church, and then of a medium-sized church, and finally of a big church from which august station I would take my place among the Presbyterian worthies of the day.

In Tulsa I got an intimate, inside view of what that kind of success looked like. The senior pastor of the 3,000-member church (more than 20 people were on the staff) used his portable dictaphone to dictate messages to his wife, which his secretary typed and returned to him. He then put the messages in the pocket of his suit jacket, which his wife was supposed to find when she went through his clothes.

His relationships with staff members were usually just as remote. He gave his personal attention as senior pastor mostly to the millionaire members of the congregation, of which there were quite a number. The half-dozen pastors on the staff were assigned hierarchically to the rich (sr. pastor), to the comfortable (associate pastors), to the poor (assistant pastors), to the teenagers (summer student assistant).

I drove home from Tulsa the long way round. I wanted to see the Rocky Mountains before heading east. Believe me, driving across Kansas gives a fellow plenty occasion for thinking. I had looked success in the face, and did not like what I saw.

How seven years later I wound up at a hundred-member church is another story. The fact that I have remained the pastor of that little church for nearly 15 years is largely due to the experience I had in Tulsa during the summer of '76. Over the years I have redefined success in ways which--I hope--are consistent with what God requires of me as a human being.

Now I have come of age again. If any one thing has grown in me during this second 21 years it is the awareness of original sin in the world around me, but especially in myself. It is an awareness which has proven as foul and as fertile as manure. What grows out of it is a longing for goodness which, for me, is indistinguishable from a longing for God.

St. Augustine wrote in his Confessions how he reached a point in his life when he prayed, "God, make me good, but not yet." I have lived that prayer, but at 42 I feel ready for the goodness of God. I feel hungry for it. I long for goodness as an insomniac longs for sleep. The sweet does not satisfy, and success is fleeting. The best things in life point to something more. Having kept the vigil of my own darkness, I long for the dawning of the light.

Music At Penn Alps To Close With Ensemble

The Music at Penn Alps (MPA) summer series of concerts will close its fifth season on Saturday, Aug. 23, with a presentation by the Windemere Ensemble. The group of approximately 15 musicians will play chamber music in the style of The Music from Marlboro and the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Penn Alps, near Grantsville.

The Windemere Ensemble's first professional performance was in the fall of 1989. The group has since performed widely in the Annapolis, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., areas. Members of the group to play here will be Jose Miguel Cueto, violin; Julius Wirth, viola; David Drosinos, clarinet; David Shumway, cello; Clay Purdy, violin; and Nancy Roldan, piano.

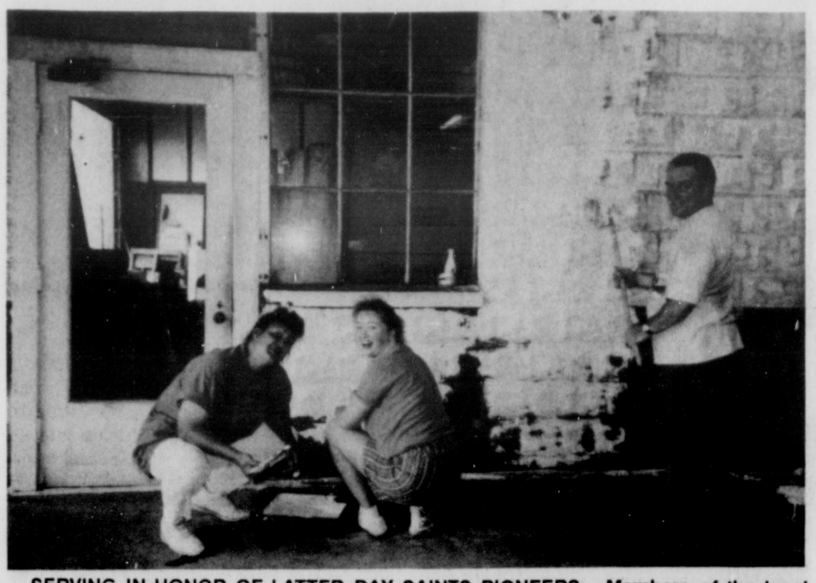
Members David Shumway and Clay Purdy are new to this season of Music at Penn Alps. Shumway, a graduate of Kansas University, the Peabody Conservatory and The Catholic University, teaches at the College of Notre Dame of Maryland. He is the principal cellist of the Baltimore Opera, the Virginia Chamber Orchestra, the Washington Concert Opera, and the Choral Arts Society of Baltimore.

Clay Purdy is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music and has performed chamber music since a child. Both of his parents were professional musicians as well. He was the concertmaster of the American "Phantom of the Opera" orchestra that toured the United Kingdom and Australia. Purdy is currently a member of the Baltimore Opera Orchestra and the Baltimore Chamber Orchestra.

Musicians who have performed during this MPA season and are returning for the final concert ensemble are members Cueto and Roldan, David Drosinos, and Julius Wirth. These individual members of the Windemere Ensemble have been featured in the August concerts.

The program will include the quartet of Cueto, Wirth, Purdy, and Shumway, being joined by Drosinos to play Mozart's Clarinet Quintet and then being joined by Nancy Roldan for the Piano Quintet by Brahms.

For information about tickets, persons may call MPA at 301-895-3332.



SERVING IN HONOR OF LATTER DAY SAINTS PIONEERS - Members of the local Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints have recently offered their help in several civic endeavors as part of a commemoration program of their church. This year marks the 150th anniversary of the pioneer migration of the church to the Great Salt Lake Basin in Utah, where church members finally found a place of religious tolerance and peace. There have been over three million service hours donated in communities around the world to honor the memories of these early pioneers. The Oakland branch of the LDS church gave 163 hours of community service in and around the town of Oakland, picking up litter, weeding alleys, and working an entire day to paint the inside walls of the former Pritts Garage on Liberty Street. Pictured left to right are Vai Hamrick, Melissa Friend, and Gary Galloway. This work was done to help the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) transform sections of the garage into the Mountain Arts Pavilion. It will be the site of a series of events, beginning with the Artists Street Fair on Aug. 29, 2-4 p.m., and Aug. 30, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The pavilion will then be open on weekends through the Autumn Glory Festival, with art displayed and sold. Artists will demonstrate their crafts on Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Sundays, 1-4 p.m. A reception in honor of various artists is slated for Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. Admission is free to all events.

Driver Injured As Motor Cycle Hits Gravel

A motorcyclist was injured Saturday when he encountered loose gravel on the road.

According to a report filed with Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Patrick Kilcoyna, 55, Cumberland, was traveling northbound on Lower New Germany Road near Twin Churches Road, around 8:30 p.m., his vehicle slid on gravel and hit an embankment.

Kilcoyna was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Grantsville VFD also responded to the accident.

No charges were filed, police said.

GARRETT HIGHWAY

Garrett Highway, near Fox Den Road, Deep Creek Lake, was the scene of an accident last weekend in which two people were injured. Police responded to the accident shortly after midnight, Sunday, Aug. 17.

The police report stated that Carless M. Crosco, 20, Leesburg, Va., was southbound on Garrett Highway at the same time that Shawn M. Gatto, 21, Pittsburgh, Pa., was northbound on the same stretch of road.

The Gatto vehicle, allegedly, had no lamps lit at the time. He crossed the double lines in the road and struck the Crosco vehicle, the report stated. Both Crosco and his passenger Christopher DeWitt were injured.

Gatto reportedly fled the scene and has been charged by police on multiple counts.

Southern Rescue, which responded along with Deep Creek VFD, transported Crosco and DeWitt to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

THEFT

Malicious destruction of property and theft were charged in an incident that occurred on Westernport Road sometime between 4 p.m., Aug. 13, and 7 a.m. Aug. 14.

The police reported that an unknown suspect or suspects shot the lock off the gate at M&S Stone Quarry, entered the property, and stole various tools. They have not been recovered.

PATROL CAR DAMAGED

Police filed charges of destruction of property against an unknown suspect or suspects in an incident last weekend involving a MSP patrol car.

According to the report, the police vehicle was parked outside the south gate of the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday between 4:15 and 11 p.m. Sometime during the demolition derby, the paint on the passenger side of the vehicle was scratched with a key.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to contact Cpl. James L. Meyers at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

DRUNK/DISORDERLY

A Grantsville man was arrested Tuesday and charged with being drunk and disorderly, and disturbing the peace.

Police reported that Michael W. Wilburn, 36, was accused of screaming obscenities and making threats in front of a Grantsville residence at about 3:40 a.m.

After investigating, police found Wilburn at the home of relatives and arrested him. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail and later released after posting a $500 bond.

DWI

ceived national acclaim for an original composition titled "We Are With You," which aired on ABC's "Good Morning America" as well as more than 500 U.S. and Canadian radio and television stations. Country Current has appeared on the Department of Interior's "Salute to America" Independence Day radio program.

Country Current is directed by Senior Chief Musician Robert E. Sullivan III, guitarist and vocalist.

An added feature of the concert will be the performance of a dance troupe from Stuttgart, Germany.

Persons are invited to bring lawn chairs and picnic baskets to the early evening concert. All Garrett Lakes Arts Festival events are funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Special Meeting Scheduled For School Board

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet in special session on Thursday, Aug. 28, 6 p.m., at the board office, Oakland.

Immediately after the meeting is called to order, the board members will hold a brief executive session.

The agenda for the meeting will include personnel matters, review of the capital improvement program for FY99, and the awarding of the bid for the construction of the Southern High School connecting corridor project.

METTIKI DONATES TO GORMAN VFD - The Mettiki Coal Company recently made a significant donation to the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department in the form of three pieces of equipment, including a saw, hydraulic jack, and air bag. According to Michael Steyer, chief of the GVFD, the equipment will be placed on the department's rescue vehicle. "Not only our company, but our entire running area benefits from donations such as these," Steyer said. The chief noted his appreciation to Mettiki and to Greg Savage, a member of the Gorman VFD and an employee of Mettiki, who helped bring about the donation. Steyer is pictured above center with Tom Wynne, vice president of operations for Mettiki, and Helen Neel, a member of the Gorman VFD.

Broadford Park Again Scene Of Thefts From Cars

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating several incidents of thefts from parked vehicles that occurred this past week, which come on the heels of a series of similar incidents over previous weeks.

Six thefts from parked vehicles occurred at the parking lot of the Broadford Park ballfields. In each sheriff's report, five concerning thefts that occurred this past week and a report of an additional report of a theft which occurred the previous week, there was no indication of forced entry to the victim's vehicles.

Four mens' wallets, at least two of which were hidden from plain view, were taken from four vehicles, and women's purses were taken from two other vehicles. Each item contained cash, credit cards, driver's licenses, various other forms of identification, and family photos. Each purse contained a checkbook as well.

A theft from a vehicle parked in the lot of the Garrett County Fairgrounds occurred this past Saturday evening. A women's purse was taken from a vehicle, without an apparent forced entry. The purse contained a brown leather wallet containing cash, credit cards, driver's license, other IDs and personal items, and a checkbook.

Last Thursday night, a vehicle parked in front of its owner's residence in the 1100 block of Oakland Drive in Mtn. Lake Park had several items stolen from it. Among these was a pair of black iridium-style Oakley sunglasses, valued at $120.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office reminds all citizens to lock their vehicles whenever and wherever they park, no matter how long they may leave the vehicle. While leaving valuables in an unattended vehicle is discouraged, stored valuables should be locked away securely and out of sight.

In other recent sheriff's news, a burglary from a Mtn. Lake Park apartment this past Saturday resulted in a loss of $400 in cash.

The missing currency was reportedly lying on top of a dresser, and the ground-floor apartment located in the 400 block of H Street was apparently entered through an unlocked bedroom window. The occupant also noted that a mason jar containing $5 in coins was taken from the kitchen.

A theft of $100 worth of lawn ornaments from a front yard in the 100 block of G Street in Mtn. Lake Park occurred this past Saturday morning.

The home owners reported that they were dozing outdoors on their porch because of the hot weather when the sound of a loud vehicle exhaust momentarily roused them around 2 a.m. Thinking nothing of it, they went back to sleep, only to awake in the morning and find their lawn statuettes had been taken. Stolen were several figurines, three of small men described as "goines," one of a duck with seven little ducklings, and one of a boy with a fishing pole.

A bug-zapper type light was stolen from the 200 block of Second Avenue in Loch Lynn early this past Saturday morning, within an hour of the lawn ornament theft in Mtn. Lake Park.

After being alerted by his barking dog, the home owner reportedly observed a Geo Tracker or a Suzuki Samuri type of vehicle leaving the area shortly after he heard the sound of the light being pulled down. Stolen was a Stringer Bug Whacker bug light, valued at $50.

Any citizen with any information about these or any other crimes under investigation by sheriff's deputies or any other law enforcement agency is encouraged to call the sheriff's office at 310-334-1911, or the Crime Solvers line at 301-334-1975. Anonymous tips are accepted.

GCC Schedules Fall Orientation For New Students

Garrett Community College has scheduled an orientation for new students for the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 2.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. in the college auditorium, where students will be welcomed by GCC President Dr. Steve Herman and Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell. Following the welcome, information will given about financial aid, student loans, and tuition reductions for active members of the Maryland National Guard.

New students will meet their academic advisors beginning at 10 a.m., in a "get acquainted" session, where they will hear about expectations for their chosen academic program, support services available, college activities and procedures.

Following the meeting with academic advisors, students will be free to visit various campus stations to learn more about financial aid, get acquainted with the technology available in the GCC library, have their student identification cards made, and sign onto the GC Network. Representatives from student clubs will be stationed in the Lakers Café during this time.

The orientation activities will conclude with a free picnic lunch on the college green, followed by pickup volleyball and badminton matches, and frisbee tossing.

Millers To Meet

The 63rd reunion of the Joel B. Miller family will be held beginning at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 31, at the Oak Dale Mennonite Church, Oak Dale Road, near the village of St. Paul. The Oak Dale Road intersects with Rt. 669. All relatives and friends are invited to participate in a carry-in lunch, group singing, and an introduction to the newly revised book of the Miller genealogy and historical events, which will be available at the reunion.

Hymn Sing Set At Webb's Chapel

An old-fashioned hymn sing will be held at historic Webb's Chapel, located on the Friendsville Road near Hazelton, W.Va., this Sunday, Aug. 24, at 2 p.m.

Special guest singers will be the Koinonia Fellowship ensemble of Uniontown, Pa.

A free-will offering will be collected for a project at the church.

The public is welcome to attend, and more information may be obtained by telephoning Loveda Evans at 1-304-379-3403.

Benders Will Celebrate 40th

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bender will be celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Aug. 31.

Paul Bender and Mary Louise Hershberger were married on Aug. 31, 1957, at Springs Mennonite Church in Springs, Pa. They have four children: Teresa (Bender) Cheong, Bakersfield, Calif.; Geoffrey, Grantsville; Regina, Accident; and Eric, Swanton. They also have four grandchildren: Jessie Storey, Brittany & Brandon Cheong, and Clarissa Bender.

The children will be hosting an open house celebration on Aug. 31 at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church from 2 to 4 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Beitzel Couple To Observe 30th

Gary A. Beitzel and Betty J. (Fazenbaker) Beitzel will celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary August 26.

They were married Aug. 26, 1967, at the Maranatha Assembly of God, Grantsville, by Rev. William Ferguson. Standing for them were Larry and Mary (Fazenbaker) Suter. A reception was held following the ceremony at the Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club, Grantsville.

Mr. Beitzel is the son of Alice V. (Durst) Beitzel and the late Warren E. Beitzel. He is employed by Belt Paving, Cumberland.

Mrs. Beitzel is the daughter of Marie E. (Wilt) Fazenbaker and the late George J. Fazenbaker. She is employed by Meyersdale Manufacturing, Meyersdale, Pa.

They are the parents of three children: Scott Beitzel, Gary Beitzel Jr., and Tina (Beitzel) McKenzie.

In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes its hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly Missed By,
Mom & Dad, Sharon, Tammy,
Tommy, Michael

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef
Francesco G. Pisano

The key to delicious grilled vegetables is a flavorful marinade. We like equal parts olive oil and wine vinegar with lots of chopped fresh tarragon, then salt, pepper and a touch of sugar.

To keep basil a few days, trim the stems and place the bunch like a bouquet in a glass of water. Cover the leaves loosely with a plastic bag to protect from the cold; store in the refrigerator.

Ever made sun tea? It takes 4 to 6 bags (or 4 to 6 teaspoons of loose tea in a tea ball or cotton cheesecloth bag) and 1½quarts of water in a tall glass pitcher. Cover and let stand in sunlight or at room temperature for 2 to 3 hours. Serve over ice.

Be sure to use tongs to turn meat on the grill. A fork would pierce the meat, allowing juices to escape.

Who says frozen desserts have to be rich? Super "latte" starts with a cupful of cold, extra-strong coffee and a scoop of vanilla ice milk. Blend, pour into a glass and top with more ice milk.

Who says the food's great here? Just ask your friends who've enjoyed a terrific meal here.

Whitehair-Gift Couple To Wed

Linda Mae Whitehair and Timothy Russell Gift have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Ms. Whitehair is the daughter of Erma Hauser of Oakland and the late Edgar Hauser. She is a 1975 graduate of Southern High School and is employed through Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Health Department, and Garrett County Social Services. She is also self-employed.

Mr. Gift is the son of Paul and Betty Lou Gift, Westernport.

He is a 1981 graduate of Bruce High School and Allegany Vo-Tech, where he acquired an apprenticeship in graphic arts. He is also a graduate of Advanced Computer Technologies, Fairmont, W.Va.

A former employee of Bausch & Lomb Inc., Mr. Gift is now self-employed as owner and operator of an upcoming computer sales, programming, upgrading, and repair company, ACCENT ON!, located in Oakland.

The wedding ceremony will take place at Swallow Falls State Park in Oakland Aug. 29 at 6:00 p.m. Some invitations will be sent, but all friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Miss Duran To Wed Mr. Rice

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Duran, Washington, D.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Jay W. Rice, Oakland, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Ximena Lila Duran and Brett Alan Rice.

Miss Duran is a graduate of Bluefield College, Bluefield, Va., with a degree in psychology.

Mr. Rice is also a graduate of Bluefield College with a degree in health and exercise physiology. He is employed at Princeton Health and Fitness Center in Princeton, W.Va., as a fitness counselor.

The wedding will take place at the Montrose Baptist Church in Washington, D.C., on September 6 at 5:30 p.m. A buffet reception will follow at the Jewish Community Center of Greater Washington, Rockville. Invitations are being sent.

The couple will reside in Bluefield.

Glotfeltys Mark 40th Anniversary

An open house was held on Saturday, April 5, in honor of the 40th wedding anniversary of JoAnne and Roger Glotfelty. Held at the Oakland Fire Hall, the open house was given by their children, Paul Glotfelty, Valinda Hile, Susan Shockey, and Roger Glotfelty Jr., and their families.

JoAnne Glotfelty was presented and pinned with a red rose corsage by Lindsay Glotfelty, the youngest granddaughter. Roger Glotfelty was presented and pinned with a red rose boutonniere by the youngest grandson, Daniel Shockey. Among the many other family members who participated in the celebration, granddaughter Corey Hile honored the couple with a keyboard solo of "Swans on the Lake," and grandson Ethan Hile played "Ode to Joy" and "Heart and Soul" on guitar. The Glotfeltys were honored with a champagne toast by their sons, Paul and Roger Jr.

JoAnne and Roger Glotfelty were married on April 6, 1957, at the Bethel United Methodist Church in Mtn. Lake Park, by Rev. Randall Prince. They are the parents of four children and have ten grandchildren. Approximately 150 guests were in attendance for the open house.

WVU Parents Club Chapter To Form Here

The West Virginia University Mountaineer Parents Club was established in 1995 as one of five student life initiatives of then-new WVU President David C. Hardesty Jr., and plans are underway to establish a Garrett County chapter of the 4,000-member organization.

An organizational meeting, open to all parents and family members of current, former, and future WVU students, as well as all other interested supporters/fans of WVU, will be held Sunday, Aug. 31, at the residence of Don and Suzie Sincell, 510 G Street, Mtn. Lake Park, beginning at 7 p.m. The Sincells have agreed to chair the Garrett County chapter after meeting with Susan Hardesty, wife of President Hardesty and overall chair of the organization.

The Mountaineer Parents Club was established to foster success by connecting parents and family members with the West Virginia University student experience. Local clubs design programs to support student activities and also hold "get-acquainted" summer picnics for students and parents, host speakers from WVU, publish newsletters, represent the Parents Club at "college nights" in area high schools, and form a network of support among students and parents in the form of car pooling for WVU events, transporting needed items to students, and arranging for transportation of students to and from the university.

The Parents Club chapters are not asked to raise and/or donate money to the university, and each determines the scope of its own organization, its own projects, and how often it meets.

"We have some chapters who meet monthly, and others who meet only two or three times a year," Mrs. Hardesty said. "It's entirely up to the members.

"We are excited about the overwhelming response to the effort," she said. "Parents, faculty, alumni, and friends of the university have all expressed support for the club, which provides an opportunity for increased involvement with the WVU community."

Members of the Parents Club also benefit from the "Parent Perks" program, which offers discounts from Morgantown merchants, hotels and motels, and the WVU Bookstore.

More information about the organization will be shared at the Aug. 31 meeting at the Sincell residence. Persons desiring more information about the meeting are invited to call 301-334-3650 after 5 p.m.

READY TO RIDE across the state of Maryland on his bicycle is Tom Ruckert, of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust near Grantsville, who will be one of five bikers making the five-day trek to raise money for the Trust home, which serves disadvantaged youth. The 1997 OutSpokin' for Maryland Kids project will draw attention to programs that are working for children, youth, and families throughout Maryland. Supporters of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust are asked to "pave the way" for the 300-mile bicycle marathon by sponsoring Ruckert or any of the bikers with per-mile monetary pledges. The ride will begin Monday, Sept. 8, at the home in Garrett County and conclude in Ocean City on Sept. 12. The Salem board hopes to raise $15,000 from the project. Persons desiring more information and/or wishing to make a pledge may telephone the Salem Trust at 301-689-8176.

Oaks Eliminated From State Event By Charles County

By virtue of a forfeit win in the Maryland State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament, the Oakland Oaks of the Pen-Mar Baseball League advanced to the semi-finals of the tourney on Saturday, but were eliminated by an outstanding team from Charles County.

The Oaks were awarded a forfeit Friday after Brunswick was unable to field a team at Garrett Community College for a quarter-final game. The contest was to have been played last Wednesday, but it had to be called after three innings because of rain, with Oakland leading 4-0.

Oakland traveled to Baltimore Saturday morning, leaving Garrett County with the temperature at about 68 degrees, and then having to take the field against the Charles County Raiders in humid, 102-degree weather.

The contest remained close until the seventh inning. With Oakland trailing by a 12-8 margin, a costly error on what would have been an inning-ending double play led to eight more Raider runs. The final score was 23-9.

Josh Woods led the Oaks' hitting with a pair of home runs, while Joey DiSimone and Ron Palmer each hit one.

"I lost five pounds just coaching the game," stated manager Terry Helbig. "We really played well through most of the game, but the heat took a huge toll on us. We had guys with rubbery legs and blurred vision before it was over.

"The Raiders are a barnstorming, extremely talented team, whose players probably average 27 to 29 years of age," Helbig said, "and they are far more accustomed to the heat than we are. After we lost control of the game the way we did in the seventh, we just wanted to get it over with, get in our cars, and come home."

Oakland wrapped up its season with an overall record of 21-9.

HOT STOVE CHAMPS - The baseball team sponsored by Sisler Lumber Company recently captured its second straight Hot Stove League championship. The local team, coached by Ed Carr, won the 1997 American League West Division title with a 14-2 mark and then defeated Document Solutions, Barton Mining, and Western Garrett in the league playoffs to finish with an overall mark of 20-3. Their two-year record in the 34-team league is 39-8. "This was a team of 13 boys who worked very hard," Coach Carr said. "They believed in what the coaches were trying to teach, and they would execute what we asked of them to manufacture runs. This team did not have an 'I' in it, and that's why we are the champs." Individual pitching records on the team were an 11-2 mark by Jeff Carr and a 9-1 performance by Josh Hook. Pictured from left above, front row, are: Josh Hook, Adam Brenneman, Allen King, Guy Beitzel, Paul Beitzel, Trey Brenneman, Coach Carr, and Ed Sisler of Sisler Lumber Co. In the second row, same order, are: Rick Brenneman and Jeremy Brenneman, assistant coaches; B.A. Sisler, Jeff Carr, Taylor Glotfelty, Nathan Ellis, Ryan Brenneman, Levi Schmuck, and Daymond Schmuck, assistant coach. Not present for the picture was Greg Whitemore.

St. Mark's Wins Two, Loses Two In Men's League

St. Mark's Lutheran won a doubleheader and then lost one this past week in the Garrett County Area Men's Christian Softball League, as the team took a pair from Oakland Church of the Nazarene, 12-10 and 9-4, but then dropped two games to Cherry Glade Mennonite, 12-8 and 13-6.

Will Roszell was the winning pitcher in the games against Nazarene. Dan Swartzentruber paced St. Mark's offense with a grand slam, while Bill Roszell and Todd Slaubaugh also hit homers.

Beryl Moser and Ben Maust were the winning pitchers for Cherry Glade, as they overcame a three-home-run afternoon by St. Mark's Bill Roszell. Hitting round-trippers for Cherry Glade were Terry Beal, Melvin Schrock, and Sheldon Maust.

Cherry Glade finished first in the regular season standings, followed by Glade Mennonite, Deer Park Prophesy of God, Mt. View Mennonite, St. Mark's, Maranatha Assembly of God, Cornerstone Assembly of God, Crellin Assembly of God, and Oakland Nazarene.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the week ending August 17 are:

Friday League Holds Roll-Off; Guthrie Winner

The Friday Summer Singles Bowling League held its final night of regular season competition, as well as its final roll-off at the Par-Matt Lanes Aug. 8. Quintin Guthrie, who was named the league's Most Improved Bowler, was the winner of the roll-off.

The roll-off included the top three point winners for the season, plus the bowler with the highest handicap three-game set of the competition as a wildcard entry. These included: Butch Spurrier, Rocky Smith, Guthrie, and, as the wildcard entry, Bob Sines with a 504 scratch set and a 627 handicap set.

Guthrie first defeated Sines by a 173-161 score, then rolled a 212 to top Smith's 163, and finally defeated Spurrier by a 204-183 mark in the final match.

Other individual award winners in the league, besides Guthrie as Most Improved, were: Gary Friend, High Set Handicap (771) and High Average (206); Hugh Schrier, High Set Scratch (650); Norman Guthrie, High Game Handicap (274); and Spurrier, High Game Scratch (255).

Girls' Traveling Soccer Team Now Being Organized

A meeting to organize a girls' traveling soccer team for this fall will be held this Sunday, Aug. 24, at 4 p.m. in the Community Services Building at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The team is open to girls ages 11-15 who register with the Mountaintop Soccer Association and pay a $10 traveling fee.

The team will meet each Sunday afternoon during September and October for either a practice session or a match with an out-of-area team. Both home and away matches will be scheduled, with away games played primarily in Grantsville, Frostburg, and Cumberland.

MSA will provide insurance coverage and a set of bi-color reversible jerseys for the games. Each team member will be responsible for supplying her own black shorts, long socks, shin guards, and soccer shoes.

According to the team coaches, there will be no try-outs; all interested girls will be accepted onto the team and the coaches will try to provide equal playing time for each girl. Girls of this age from all MSA teams are welcome.

The goal for the fall season, according to the coaches, is to continue to demonstrate and maintain interest in girls' soccer at this age level. MSA plans to present this interest to the Garrett County Board of Education with a request to establish a girls' junior varsity soccer program at both Northern and Southern high schools for the fall 1998 season.

Coaches for the team are: Kathy Menker (334-5906), Ron Petrella (334-1174), and Bill Pope (334-4908).

"CATCH A WAKE and you'll be standing on top of the world," might be the motto of these competitors shown in action at the "Bust Largness" Wakeboard Contest held on Deep Creek Lake this past Sunday. Passing motorists were reportedly pulling off to the shoulder of Garrett Highway to catch a glimpse of the competition, and curious boaters lined the contest area as the wakeboarders flew through each of their two 25-second passes, throwing jumps, spins, flips, and other moves. Above left, women's division champion Julie Bortz, Olney, is shown in the middle of an attempt of a difficult sweet flip that she just missed successfully pulling off. Below left, McHenry's Bjorn Shogren is airborne as he executes a one-handed wake-to-wake jump. Above right, Dustin Swiger, McHenry, soars through a move known as a "nosegrind." Below right, E.J. Scofield, also of McHenry, is inverted as he flips above the water. Not pictured are men's adult division winner Adam Petrillo of Indian Lake, Pa., and youth division winner Grant McDonald of Oakland. The first wakeboard contest ever held at the lake, Bust Largness was sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Watersports Club, with assistance from High Mountain Sports, Rouse's WaterSki School, and the Department of Natural Resources. Guides Available

The working drafts for high school science include earth and space science, principles of technology, chemistry, biology, and chemistry in the community. These programs of study, she explained, will be introduced into the classroom this year. "As the teachers work with them, they will comment on the strengths and weaknesses," she said.

Miller complimented the staff members who worked together to develop and produce the programs.

A copy of the guide for the mathematics program will be on display at the board office in Oakland through Sept. 8. The public is invited to review it and comment on the contents prior to the vote next month.

The guide for the science program will be available at the office also for comment during the 1997-1998 school year.

Mathematics and science 6-8 programs of studies were presented by McCartney. These, she explained, have been in classroom use for a year. Teachers' comments have been received and responded to.

In addition, the manual has been available in the school board office. "It has been open for public comment for one year. Only one person reviewed it and responded with 'no comment'," she said. The Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) has also reviewed the plan.

"The programs of studies are outcome-based," McCartney said. They address the question of what the students are expected to be able to do as a result of instruction.

When asked by Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, if these outcomes were sufficiently specific to ensure consistency among schools, McCartney explained that the specificity is found in the indicators.

A science textbook series was also presented to the board. Science Plus, published by Holt, Rinehart, and Winston, has been recommended for use with middle school children.

The board will be asked to take action on the program of studies for science and math 6-8 at the meeting month. The guide for the program will be available for review and comment through Sept. 5.

The working draft of the mathematics program of studies K-5 was also presented to the board by McCartney. It will be in use during the 1997-1998 school year, she said, and will be available to the public at the board office.

Programs and texts can be seen at the board of education office, Oakland, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. For further information, persons may contact the office at 301-334-8901.

Deadline Looms

later interview that the hospital officials "have done their part" and that the commissioners want to honor the deadline. Archer said Tuesday that the employees are not presently packed to move, but can be ready to move quickly. He said the department's service to clients is the top priority and hopes to have as few disruptions to that service as possible.

The health department has been housed in the older section of the hospital for several years, having been lent the space by the hospital in an agreement. The allotted time was for 15 years, although officials from the agencies disagree on whether the agreement was verbal or written. The hospital administration has expressed the need for over a year to have the space back in order to expand the facility's services and adjust to the changing needs in medicine. The issue eventually ended in court proceedings two summers ago, with the judge declaring that the hospital had the right to reclaim its space.

As explained by Pagenhardt, the county commissioners' responsibility with the health department is to provide a location for the "core services" offered, including the clinics, public and environmental health agencies, and the administration. The housing of addiction services, mental health, home health, and services that are funded with grant monies are not the responsibility of the county.

If the contractors scheduled to start work on Sept. 3 are delayed, the hospital will apparently be charged a fee.

children to be covered by insurance, at least up until they enter school.

"He recognizes that the early years of growth are extremely important and he want to help protect children from illnesses and other problems that may interfere with their development," Archer said.

The commissioners all agreed that the Bausch & Lomb situation continues to be a priority for state leaders.

"They are truly bending over backwards to help us," said Commissioner Gary Fratz. Apparently Secretary James Brady of the state's Business and Economic Development Department spoke at length with the commissioners on the subject, giving them some optimism about the now vacant building.

"We were more than pleased with that discussion," Wilt commented.

Fratz noted his pleasure at meeting up with members of the Maryland Farm Bureau, with whom he has been acquainted for years.

"I was not aware that the legislative affairs committee of the bureau regularly attended the MACo Conference," he said. The issues of the drought affecting much of the state as well as dairy prices were discussed, he reported.

"It was a very successful conference, and very well-attended," Glotfelty said.

affect the Deep Creek Lake Watershed? Do we really want international traffic?

There will be many more good questions from all those who will attend public hearings and the list will grow into a plan that is usable for all agencies. Let's do our homework!

Sincerely,
Chip Evans

To the Editor:

Since all I have heard and read about lately is the negatives of Rt. 219, I have finally decided to remind people that there are positives. Quite a few of them, actually.

What about the moving of heavy traffic outside of the small towns of this county? What if we get a few big corporations to move to Garrett County? Oh my God, we might get some decent paying jobs, and we won't have to wait forever to pull out at an intersection without a stop light. In other words, we wouldn't have anything to gripe about. So let's bring up the nature aspect. Well, my question to the three men who wrote the column titled "Operation Dash For Cash," is, when you built your home did you not disturb the nature that lies right where your home is now?

It's not all about what you want! Don't you think the youth of this county would like to stay here when they graduate? Don't you think the existing businesses in the county would like to have steady cash flow all year round instead of just the summer months? My point is, do you really think that Deep Creek Lake, Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, The Casselman Bridge, and New Germany State Parks, to name a few, make enough money to support all of the year-round residents of Garrett County forever? I don't think so.

What people need to realize is that growth in this area is inevitable, but if we come together and plan the growth, we can control it.

Jamie Ashby

To the Editor:

To all Dennett Road Elementary students, past and present, I am writing this letter to let you know that I will not be teaching at Dennett Road Elementary. I will miss each and every one of you. You have made my 4½ years of teaching a wonderful memory that I will always cherish. Even though I won't be there to do all of the neat things we've made or to change the art room into a crazy, far-off place, I want you all to work extra hard to show the new art teacher all that I have taught you.

Please keep a place in your heart for me, because I'll always have one in mine for each one of my "Road Runners." Have a wonderful school year. I hope to see a beautiful float in this year's Autumn Glory Parade.

Lots of Love and Memories,
Maggie Murphy Pike

To the Editor:

I have shared my objections and concerns about the proposal to bring another four-lane interstate highway through Garrett County in a short series of letters over the past few weeks. I had hoped to hear from an overwhelming number of people echoing a resounding "No Way!" Only a handful of people responded.

A name was made up for this small, informal group. A meeting was scheduled, but not advertised, for fear of disruptive hecklers. We met, discussed, and all nine agreed that another four-lane would be a bad idea for a number of reasons. This number, however, is not enough to affect a change in the plans of well organized and well funded political and business interests behind this project. Even a majority of Garrett County residents voicing opposition to this project might not change things.

The most important thing to me right now is to know what people think about this. Do the majority of people want this to happen or not? It is worth it to me to buy the space in the paper to offer a "clipout and mail in" survey to try to find out what other people think about this. Please see page A6.

Also, we are holding our second meeting of Conservative Action for a Rural Environment tomorrow night (Aug. 22) at 6 p.m. in Room 314 in the Continuing Education building at Garrett Community College. Anyone who thinks that this proposed highway is a bad idea is welcome to attend.

To be absolutely clear ahead of time, anyone who is "pro-highway," who wishes to "change our minds," or disrupt our meeting is not invited and will be politely asked to leave. We need to find out now if there is substantial opposition to this, or if we are only a few backward Luddites peeing in the fan, so to speak.

Whatever your opinion is, please clip, fill out, and mail in that survey. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Jaime Alvarez

To the Editor:

I just received my taxes and got the news like everyone else that our taxes have been raised again. I have no idea what they need more money for, but if it has anything to do with building larger schools or needing more buses, I have a question? Who is paying for the Pre-K classes that are being offered in some of the schools in Garrett County? I would also like to know if these teachers are paid the same as a regular school teacher and if they earn tenure and how many schools in the state offer Pre-K? For taxpayers who don't know what Pre-K is, it is a grade for 4-year-olds. These students ride our school buses and attend a regular class just as if they were in kindergarten. If this is a program funded by a federal or state grant, I feel we the taxpayers are actually paying for it.

If we need more classrooms, more buses, and more teachers, why do we continue to offer Pre-K in our schools in Garrett County? This is not a grade that the State of Maryland requires children to attend, so if our schools do not have the room, why do we offer it here?

I feel if schools do have room to offer Pre-K classes, it should be a class that the parents be responsible for the expenses. They should have to pay the same amount as a person would if their child were attending a regular day-care facility. They should also be responsible for the transportation to and from school. The monies realized from these Pre-K classes could pay the county for the teachers and any extra could go to the school for the use of the building.

This may not keep our taxes from increasing, but at least our taxes would be used for students that are required by law to attend school. I feel it's not fair that we would be required to pay for students that their parents choose to send them to school at the age of 4.

To the Editor:

As many Oakland residents already know, with the closure of the local Bausch & Lomb plant, we are moving to a new area, Lynchburg, Virginia. After being here for twenty-six years, it's not easy leaving a place you call "home" and that you love. We were very fortunate to meet many nice people that we now call friends. In the stepping stones of life, friends and faith can help you through difficult transitions.

Being afraid that we may inadvertently omit a teacher's name, we would simply like to thank those teachers who influenced our children positively. Their success was largely due to those teachers who strived for excellence in the classroom. We have also appreciated the excellent services of many of the local businesses. I'm sure we're going to miss some of the special Oakland hospitality. I want to share one of those services with you.

When we moved to Oakland in 1971, I went into Marvin's to look for Allen a gift but I wasn't quite sure of the correct size. Jack said that I could take a few items home and return what I didn't want. I was totally amazed that he would be that trustworthy of a newcomer to the area. Needless to say, I did buy something from marvin's and it has become one of Allen's favorite places to shop as well as one of my son's. As I told Jack and Blair, I may need to call them sometime to ship something to Lynchburg! I bet most Garrett Countians didn't know that you already had "southern hospitality" right here in Western Maryland.

Working in the local B&L plant has been an unforgettable experience for Allen. He truly appreciated all the support during the difficult months of closure. He will never forget the dedication and loyalty of so many people who will always be special to him. If possible, he would take many of them with him to his new job. Certainly the closure of the B&L plant will have many negative aspects for many Garrett Countians. However, we recognize that for a quarter of a century, B&L helped to feed, clothe and fulfill dreams of many that worked there. For that special time and many unique experiences, we are forever thankful.

As for me, I will never forget the fifteen years that I worked at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Being a rural area, Oakland is extremely fortunate to have the modern technology and expertise of the local hospital, it's physicians and employees. For the past seven years, I consider myself blessed to have been able to participate in the medical care of the patients of Dr. Donald Richter. It was a very rewarding experience for me to learn and observe the professional, caring services of a truly dedicated physician as well as his friendly and efficient staff. I met many nice patients who have touched my life positively, and I can assure you, I will not forget those special people.

During our recent transition, we also want to express our appreciation to the local First United National Bank and Trust. Everyone was not only professional, but understanding and friendly as well. Our short term goal is to look for a "FUN" bank in Lynchburg. I think a new branch bank in southern Virginia is a good idea, don't you?

Yes, we are leaving Garrett County and all its autumn splendor with much sadness, but we also have many, many fond memories that will enhance our future. There are some advantages to living in a southern area. In the upcoming months, we are looking forward to listening to the weather channel, calling for "blizzard conditions in Garrett County" and cheering when we don't have 12-15 inches of snow to remove from the driveway. Rest assured that some of our local friends will receive a phone call just to let them know that it is "warm and sunny in Lynchburg." May God bless all our friends in Garrett County!

Sincerely,
Nancy, Allen, and Jason Barr

WHAT A FASHION STATEMENT - An unusual looking group of eight Garrett County senior citizens are traveling to the Maryland State Fair, Timonium, Thursday, Aug. 28, to participate in the Senior Talent Competition. The group, which originally performed at the Garrett County Senior Health and Fitness Festivals, is being sponsored by Community Action's Area Agency on Aging. "Treasures from the Attic," as the group has named itself, will present an unorthodox fashion show. According to the group's leader, Bette Jo Hudnall, "The act is really a fashion for fun skit. Our senior models depict what the well-dressed woman will not wear from morning to night. Mikie Minnick, my AmeriCorps teammate, and I had a lot of fun with this project in Garrett County and now plan on livening up the folks at Timonium." During a recent dress rehearsal the group took time to pose. Left to right are Ruth Lenhart in evening wear, Jackie Brady in a 24 karat gold gown, Betty Teets in a late afternoon tea dress, Ireta Sweitzer, belle of the beach, Ellen Zimmerman in an outfit for sports, Edna Rollo in a pencil slim skirt, Maxine Ross wearing a waffle piqué duster, and Catherine Gibbard in a nylon box jacket suit.

Historic Business To Be Sold

Store To Close; Rosie To Retire; An Era Will End For Accident

By Peggy Santamaria

A piece of Garrett County history may be slipping away. After more than 157 years of continuous operation, the grocery/general store in Accident is closing.

Matthew's Grocery, owned since 1945 by Joseph L. Matthews, was originally opened in 1839 by Richard Fairall. With the death of Joseph Matthews last week, the long line of store proprietors comes to an end.

Area residents and those passing through town who have stopped in the market on Main Street are usually delighted by two things: the quaint old-fashioned feel of the market, and Rosie -- not necessarily in that order.

For as long as Matthews owned the market, and even before he bought it, Rosie (Smith) Moon stood behind the counter to wait on customers. She had been employed by the previous owner of the store, Noah Humberson, several months before Matthews purchased it.

In her book, Flowery Vale, A History Of Accident, Maryland, Mary M. Strauss made this comment. "Most of the local children refer to it as Rosie's Store in honor of the treats Rosie has become famous for handing out."

"Some of the children who stood in line for those treats are now grandparents," said Diana Deal, Accident resident. She spoke of her son, now a parent himself, stopping in the market recently after many years. "He hadn't been in there since he was a kid. Rosie just looked at him as he came in and said 'Hi, Jason,' and gave him a candy bar," Deal said.

Children have always been special visitors in Matthews' store. On Halloween, little tykes in costumes crowd the store and line up on the sidewalk in front of the store waiting for treats. Rosie would buy special sweets just for the purpose of handing them out to her young visitors. "Children are very important here," she said.

Rosie also reflected on the changing nature of the business and of the customers over the years. "We use to serve a lot of families, big families. Now most of our customers are older. Families are smaller now, too," she said.

Lifestyles have changed over the last 50 years and these changes are reflected in the stock that lines the shelves. "People use to can all the time, you know. They just don't do it so much now. You can go into a store and buy fresh produce all year," she shrugs as she acknowledges this fact of life. "We stocked canning supplies. Just don't need to anymore," she continued.

In recent years the market has offered a line of drygoods, fresh meats, and an assortment of grocery items. It was not always that way. "We used to sell everything, not just groceries -- clothes and shoes and sheets and blankets -- in here. We had it all. The back area was just full," she explained.

But the day of the general store in Garrett County had passed. People started to travel other places to buy their clothing, shoes, and household needs. So Mr. Matthews (she always called her employer Mr. Matthews, never Joe, she is quick to explain) and Rosie changed with the times. The clothing section of the store was restocked with food products that were more in demand.

If area residents think it seems like Rosie has always been in the shop, it is because she almost has. "In the 52 years I've been here I've had three vacations," she explained.

But now Rosie looks toward retirement. The store is to be sold. "We made a living here, Mr. Matthews and I. And I really liked what I did," she said, adding, "It was my life." She spoke with warmth and admiration about Mr. Matthews. "You couldn't ask for a better person to work for. He was loved by many people," she said sadly.

Rosie doubts that a new owner would keep a store in this historic location. "It would take a patient person to do that. You have to marry this kind of business you know," she explained. Besides, the veteran businesswoman acknowledges, people can travel anywhere they want these days to do their shopping.

At this turning point in her life, what are Rosie's "d'ruthers"? "If I had my d'ruthers I'd turn the clock back and start another 50 years," she replied without hesitation.

When Matthew's Grocery closes its doors, the town and the county will be bidding adieu to two famous landmarks: the market and Rosie.

Vincent To Lead Revival Services At Maranatha AG

The Maranatha Assembly of God Church, Grantsville, is hosting Evangelist Rod Vincent for a series of revival services which will continue through Sunday. Services are being held each evening at 7 p.m. through Saturday, and will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. this Sunday.

Evangelist Vincent is a native of Louisiana who was reared as a Catholic. He has been an evangelist for 15 years and has ministered in 20 states and five foreign countries, preaching at revivals, camp meetings, youth camps, singles retreats, and youth rallies. He has also ministered on numerous television and radio programs.

All are invited to attend the services at the Maranatha church, which is located at 176 Springs Road. Persons desiring more information may call 301-895-5300.

Training Session Held; Classroom Substitutes Attend

Teachers, school personnel, and substitute teachers are among those in Garrett County preparing for the start of the school year on Monday, Aug. 25. Those who will substitute as teachers and instructional assistants recently attended a required inservice training.

The training was conducted by Henrietta Lease, director of personnel for the Garrett County Board of Education. She was assisted by Margaret Hockman, behavior support teacher, who explained the STAR program -- Students Taking Active Responsibility -- which is operating in all elementary schools in the county.

Hockman also discussed behavior management strategies with the substitute teachers. Other topics covered at the meeting included board of education policies and procedures.

A four-year degree, a criminal background check, a pre-employment drug test, and a tuberculin test are required for all individuals who wish to serve substitute teachers or instructional assistants for the Garrett County public school system.

Any individuals who would like more information regarding becoming a substitute teacher may call Henrietta Lease at 301-334-8904.

Thank You

We would like to thank everyone who has been there for us during the past two months, from the time of Rob's accident and during his recuperation. Thanks to the rescue squad, various doctors, nurses and therapists at various hospitals and rehabs. A special thanks to Hazel Stewart for taking time to talk to us at the emergency room, and to Dr. Perry for his swift action at the time and for the several calls made to check on Rob's progress. To our friends who provided us with gas, food and hugs. To Greig Johnson, Mr. Delligatti, the Tungate family and Art Rooney for all the special things they did for Rob. To all of Rob's friends from the store, and to all the people of Garrett County, some who we knew well and many we didn't, for their love, care and prayers. This is what gave us as a family the strength to get by day by day and what brought about Rob's recovery. Such a simple thing as faith and prayer and yet the reward is so great. Although our community is small, every church was praying here, in other states and over seas. The hearts of Garrett County are large in so many ways. Thank you. Today is a beautiful day, Rob is home, God is good.

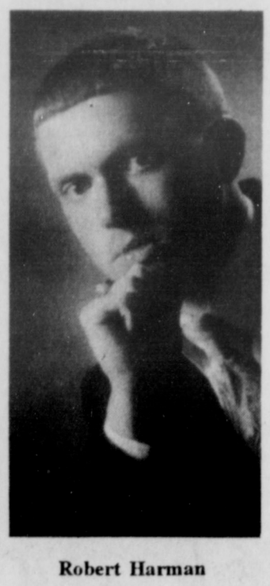
Cousins To Attend Anderson College

Michael Calhoun



Robert Harman

Cousins Michael Calhoun and Robert Harman will both be beginning their studies at Anderson Bible College, Indiana, this coming fall.

Calhoun, a 1996 graduate of Northern High School, is the son of Donald Sr. and Joyce Calhoun of Oakland. Harman, a 1997 graduate of Vinson High in Huntington, W.Va., is the son of Bob and Rev. Cathy Harman, who was recently installed as pastor of the Laurel Run Church of God in Friendsville.

Maternal grandparents of both young men are Revs. Joseph and Louise Goudy, retired ministers of New Martinsville, W.Va.

Calhoun's paternal grandparents are Chauncey and Thelma Sisler of Friendsville, and Harman's paternal grandparents are John and Eldora Harman of New Martinsville, W.Va.

The cousins are majoring in Christian Ministries, with Robert being involved in ministry in South America and both are active on various church witness teams in Indiana.

Advantage Florist

Advantage Florist has moved to a new location in the 1884 Train Station in Mtn. Lake Park. Owner Tim Cosner offers the public over 15 year's experience in floral arranging and cake decorating.

After establishing his business two years ago in this area, the new location opened two months ago and continues to provide a full-service floral shop with top quality fresh and silk arrangements for funerals, weddings, birthday, etc. Cosner also offers helium balloons, stuffed animals, cards, and gifts.

Making the shop unique is the fact that it also offers custom cakes for weddings and birthdays, including airbrush drawings and the latest cake kits.

ADVANTAGE FLORIST offers a full line of cakes and flowers, and has just opened at its new location in the 1884 Train Station in Mtn. Lake Park. Advantage Florist can be reached by calling 301-334-3838.

Cosner says his goal for Advantage Florist is to be the areas first choice in floral arrangements and custom cakes. Advantage Florist can be reached by calling 301-334-3838.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town council meeting was held on Tuesday, Aug. 19.

- The town meeting originally scheduled for Monday, Sept. 8, has been canceled.
- DeeDee Ritchie of the regional office for Maryland's Program Open Space met with the council and mayor to discuss use of the recent $40,000 grant to further develop the Friendsville Community Park.
- Members of the community offered suggestions for the park such as tennis courts and black top area for roller blading. Mayor Schlosnagle encouraged those present to present any thoughts they had in this brainstorming session. He also said there will be more such meetings in the future to provide ample opportunity for community participation.
- Residents present discussed uses of the community building in the park that houses Head Start and is being expanded for senior and general community programs.

The next regular town meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 16.

GRANTSVILLE

The mayor and council met on Monday, Aug. 18.

- The HotSpot team reported to the council about its meeting last week.
- The committee responsible to submit ideas for community activities to be sponsored by HotSpot funds spoke to the members present. No firm plans have yet been set.
- There was discussion of town personnel issues.

The meeting that would be held the first week in September has been canceled in recognition of the Labor Day holiday.

Man Sentenced For Destroying Apartment Door

A Mtn. Lake Park man will spend 10 days in jail after being convicted on charges of malicious destruction of property and trespassing on posted property in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings.

The charges against Harold Hebb, 45, stemmed from his July arrest by the Oakland Police Department. The complainant, an aquaintance of Hebb's, alleged that Hebb came to the door of his Oakland residence in a drunken and disorderly state, and kicked his front door repeatedly in an attempt to gain entry, breaking the door frame in the process. Hebb's actions were also in disregard of several "No Trespassing" signs displayed along the driveway and the at house.

Hebb, who pleaded not guilty on all charges, was handed a four-month sentence, all but 10 days of which were suspended, fined $300, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to pay $225 in restitution to the complainant in the case. An additional charge of trespassing on private property resulted in a not guilty verdict.

In other district court news, a Grantsville man was convicted on an assault charge stemming from a May incident in Friendsville when he allegedly began beating another man for no stated reason.

Lonnie Edwin Folk, 21, who pleaded not guilty to second-degree assault, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $355, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Several cases resulted in a ruling of a probation before judgment (PBJ) after the respective defendants pleaded guilty as charged. The PBJ ruling means that the case will not reflect a criminal conviction if the subjects comply with all terms of their probation.

Christopher Alan Glotfelty, 23, and Frances Elizabeth Perry, 18, both of Oakland, were handed PBJs by the court after each pleaded guilty to trespassing on private property. The pair had been arrested in June by Garrett County sheriff's deputies for loitering on the premises of Browning's Foodland and Southern Car Wash after being warned not to by the sheriff's office.

CUBS "ADOPT" TRAIL - Den 2 of Cub Scout Pack 70 has "adopted" a trail at Potomac State Forest by making a commitment to maintain and clean the trail, which was designed and developed by Patrick Forman, a member of Boy Scout Troop 22, Oakland. Forman, who recently received the rank of Eagle Scout, selected the trail effort as his Eagle Scout special project. Pictured from left to right above are: Brett DeWitt, Den Leader Debbie Crabtree, Taylor Crabtree, Drew Betz, Drew Taylor, Den Chief Brian Crabtree, and Jason Wakefield.

Glotfelty and Perry were each placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Glotfelty's probation specifies that he not be found on the premises of the Car Wash except when using the facility as a paying customer. He is also prohibited from the premises of Browning's Foodland, Treasure Island, and Midway Discount Beverages.

Perry's probation bans her from the Car Wash premises, and requires her to complete eight hours of community service.

Glotfelty was acquitted of a charge of willfully disobeying a lawful order of a police officer, and Perry was not prosecuted on the same charge.

In an separate trial, the same Frances Elizabeth Perry was acquitted of second-degree assault and malicious destruction of property stemming from an altercation between her and Shane Patrick Davis at Broadford Lake Park. In turn, Davis, 22, Oakland, was acquitted of a charge of second-degree assault which stemmed from the same Fourth of July incident.

Joseph Warren McGowan, 56, McHenry, was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a charge of selling alcohol to a minor at the Pawn Run Tavern in May.

Several cases were placed onto the stet docket, meaning that they can be recalled for trial within the next 365 days if the court so or-ders.

Second-degree assault, reckless driving, and negligent driving charges against Sandra Jean Lewis, 29, Oakland, were stetted. Lewis is accused of using a motor vehicle to run over a pedestrian on purpose during the course of a verbal altercation between the two this past April.

Charges of indecent exposure and creating a public nuisance while being intoxicated in public against Jason Noel Powell, 26, McHenry, were stetted, with a condition that he complete 20 hours of community service. Last month he was arrested by a sheriff's deputy, who allegedly witnessed Powell jumping into Deep Creek Lake, leaving all his clothing behind on the Route 219 Bridge.

Charges of fourth-degree burglary and trespassing against Terry Lee Garlitz, 40, Mtn. Lake Park, were stetted. Garlitz was arrested in March by the Oakland Town Police for an incident at Yough West Apartments.

The court found that Jeffrey Marc Priapi, 24, Cumberland, violated the terms of the probation which he agreed to after previous convictions on two counts of writing bad checks and one count each of resisting arrest and malicious destruction of property. Sanctions were withheld, and Priapi's probation will continue.

Bjorn Paul Shogren, 33, McHenry, was found in violation of probation stemming from a previous theft conviction. The court reimposed the sentence of his original incarceration period, and he will spend two days in jail.

A motion for sentence revision requested by John Scott Powers, 21, Oakland, was granted. His previous conviction on a fourth-degree sexual offense charge for having sexual relations with a 15-year-old female was revised to reflect a PBJ.

A previous conviction for marijuana possession against David Lawrence Soaper, 18, Glen Burnie, was revised to reflect a PBJ.

The court denied a motion for sentence revision requested by Michael Allen Corby, 22, Oakland, who had previously been convicted of second-degree assault.

A charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against Betty Jean Mink, 43, Deer Park, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

A theft charge against Robert Mark Gentry, 37, Lonaconing, was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) cases were heard in district court recently.

James Everett Kent, 46, Kitzmiller, was convicted of DWI and fined $555, given a one-year sentence, six months of which were suspended, and placed on two years supervised probation.

Michael Allen Corby, 22, Swanton, was convicted of DUI and fined $155, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Robert Mark Gentry, 37, Lonaconing, was convicted of DUI and fined $155, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Jeffrey Scott Elmore, 38, Dundalk, was convicted of DUI and was handed a PBJ, fined $155, given a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

David Francis Moon, 41, Mtn. Lake Park, was found to be in violation of his DWI probation and given a two-day sentence. His earlier PBJ was stricken from the record and a guilty verdict was re-entered.

Larry Blaine Stemple, 35, Friendsville, was found to be in violation of his DWI probation, and sanctions were withheld.

Charles French Stinson, 41, Oakland, was found to be in violation of his DWI probation, given an 18-day sen-tence, and his probation was revoked and terminated. Stinson also had a motion to revise his DWI sentence denied by the court.

A motion to revise sentence filed by Joseph Russell Evans, 25, Swanton, was granted, and his DWI conviction was revised to reflect a probation before judgment (PBJ).

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Nina Marie Wolf, 32, McHenry, charging her with failure to appear (FTA) for a DWI hearing. A new bond was set at $10,000.

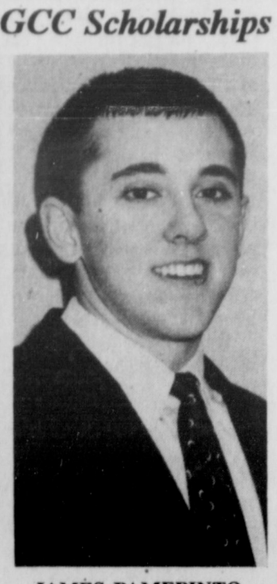
Four More Earn GCC Scholarships

TERRI JO FRIEND



JAMES PAMEPINTO

BETH ANN MARONEY

KISTA DAWN THOMAS

Four students have recently been awarded scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation to attend GCC this fall.

Terri Jo Friend, daughter of Karen and Joseph Friend of Mtn. Lake Park, has received the Patience W. Grant Scholarship. Her goal is to attend a bachelor's degree in nursing. The mother of two children, she is also a part-time foster parent and is employed at Appalachian Crossroads.

James Pamepinto, son of Diana and Morris Pamepinto of Deep Creek Lake, has received the Bell-Atlantic-Maryland Scholarship and the GCC general scholarship. A graduate of Southern High School, where he played both basketball and baseball, Pamepinto is currently a member of the Garrett Lakers basketball team. He is majoring in business administration and plans to eventually own his own construction business.

Beth Ann Maroney, daughter of Linda and John Maroney of Oakland, has received the Maryland Municipal League Scholarship and the GCC general scholarship. She is a graduate of Southern High School where she was a cheerleader and a member of the track and field team, the Spirit Club, journalism staff, and health explorers. At GCC she is studying business administration and hopes to own a business of her own in the future.

Kista Dawn Thomas, daughter of Sharon and Sam Thomas of Accident, has received the Junior Women's Civic Club Scholarship. She is a 1996 graduate of Northern High School where she was in Who's Who Among American Students, a member of the basketball and track teams, a member of VICA, and an honor roll student for four years. At GCC she is majoring in office technology and intends to become a medical secretary.

Special Interest Courses Set At GCC This Fall

Several special interest courses are being offered at Garrett Community College during the fall semester. These courses are available to full-time students in any academic program and to part-time students not enrolled in an academic program.

Two classes, both taught by Professor of Art Ron Skidmore, cater to persons interested in developing their artistic talents. Painting will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Students will experiment with various stylistic approaches to painting, using water color, acrylics, and oils. A ceramic course is scheduled from 5 to 6:30 p.m. on Wednesdays for students who want to learn to manipulate clay through hand-building, glazing, and throwing.

A special interest English course, creative writing, will be taught by Joan Crawford on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. This course is designed to help students perfect their writing skills and develop their personal styles in the short fiction, poetry, and creative non-fiction genres.

For those who prefer the oral tradition, creative storytelling will be taught by Dr. Gail Herman on Tuesdays from 3 to 4:30 p.m. In this course students will learn to use movement and mime to tell real and imaginative stories. The class will also participate in the Autumn Glory Tall Tales session.

Students may register now for these and other courses at the Student Assistance Center of GCC weekdays until 4 p.m. Beginning August 25, registration hours will be extended until 6:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Fall semester classes begin September 3. For further information interested persons may call 301-387-3044.

Thank You

to all who contributed to making the celebration of our 30th Anniversary as Pastors at Loch Lynn Church of God such a special day. Special thanks to our associate Pastors, Ivan & Cindy Ackerman, church clerk, Helen Ackerman, members of the Men's Council, all the ladies who helped serve the wonderful meal, and decorated the church. Thanks to all who attended and gave cards or gifts. It was a very special day that we will always remember and treasure. May God bless you all.

Love, Rev. Bob & Jackie Fletcher

Registration For Evening High School Offered

Individuals who wish to enroll in evening high school classes in Garrett County may register Aug. 27-28, 7-9 p.m. Registration will be held at both Northern and Southern Garrett high schools on those evenings.

Southern High is currently holding registration only for the first semester courses, which are expected to include only integrated algebra and special education offerings. A greater variety of courses is planned for second semester and registration for that semester will be held at a later date.

Evening high school classes begin Monday, Sept. 8. Typically, classes start at 5:30 p.m. and last until 8:30 p.m. At Northern High, classes meet once a week throughout the school year. The courses at Southern High are scheduled two nights a week and last only for one semester.

Transportation to evening classes is not offered by the school system.

Persons who have not completed high school requirements and wish to take required courses for credit may do so through evening high school.

The courses offered in this program are selected according to graduation requirements and are subject to sufficient enrollment. The classes usually will include those meeting the general requirements for English, mathematics, and social studies.

Courses such as physical activity are offered when there is sufficient need expressed.

Anyone wishing more information on this program may contact the guidance office at either high school or the Garrett County Board of Education.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE 10,000 PRESCRIPTION DRUGS?

Some of these medicines are identical, some differ slightly in chemical structure, and many are combinations of drugs. But, one thing is for sure, that your physician and pharmacist have to keep up with a tremendous number of products that are available to help fight illness.

And, each drug product has an identity all its own. The place it is stored, the container that it is kept in, how long it remains potent, its relation to other medicines, how it must be handled, regulations guiding its use and many other factors. Being your family pharmacist is a full-time job.

The Ticket to Happiness

Invisible and unheard by those on the streets of many metropolitan areas throughout the world are the Metro systems, powerful trains transporting those from all walks of life to every area of the city. Systematically swishing beneath pedestrians and rush hour, they efficiently speed to each station. Those walking along the wide city thoroughfares above, just feet from exhaust fumes and blaring horns are unconscious of this "other world" just under their feet, which is available momentarily for the small price of a ticket.

Another power, both invisible and unheard, is available anytime and anyplace. It costs nothing. It is available upon request and can take us to places of which we have not even dreamed. God is that Power.

Why exist in confusion and chaos when peace and happiness are so near? It is only a short distance to your local house of worship. Visit this week. God is waiting for you there.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE YOU 'HALFWAY THROUGH'?
August 24, 1997

Background Scripture: Hebrews 12:1-11
Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 4:7-17

Bennett Cerf, in The Sound of Laughter, tells of a youth by the name of Tommy Noonan who was having considerable success one summer mowing the lawns of people in the neighborhood. One afternoon, his mother thought he was taking his good old time about getting started, but Tommy replied: "I'm waiting for them to start themselves. I get most of my work from people who are halfway through."

I'm tempted to add, "So does God!" A lot of the work God is called upon to do is what we've transferred to him when the going gets tough for us, although I suspect that often we're considerably ahead of 'halfway through.'

I'm told that about 100 steps below the summit of Mt. Washington is a marker dedicated to a woman climber who, lost in a storm, lay down and died. She had no idea that a shelter hut was just 100 steps away. On a clear day the dimensions of the tragedy are starkly discernible. She died, not because she had to, but because she didn't realize how close she was to the end of her struggle. What she needed was not more strength, but the perseverance to go on when her strength seemed to fail her. Perhaps this woman's story can serve as a reminder to all of us that often we are much closer to our goal than we realize and we need to continue on, even though we cannot see the finish line. As the writer of Hebrews tells us, "let us run with perseverance the race that is set before us..." (12:1)

THE LONELY RUNNER

Many years ago there was a fine motion picture entitled, The Loneliness of the Long-Distance Runner. It is true that often we feel that we are all alone in running the race of life, but the writer of Hebrews reminds us that "we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses." The patriarchs and people of faith he has enumerated in Hebrews 11 are those who watch us run and they cheer us on, reminding us that as they persevered, so must we.

When running a race, my high school track and field coach always admonished us, "Don't look back!" Looking back may give us accurate information about what's behind us, but it is likely to cost us the race. He told us that looking back could hurt us in three ways: (1) we could easily break our stride, (2) we could stumble and even fall, (3) we might become disheartened and fail to do our best.

He was talking about running a race, but much of what he told us applies to life. Looking back is often the beginning of the end of our best efforts. Instead, we need to keep looking ahead toward the goal. Along the course there are obstacles as well as a goal. Obstacles are the things we see when we take our eyes off the goal. In any endeavor we must choose between being obstacle-oriented or goal-oriented.

THE PACESETTER

But some will say that the goal is always beyond our sight. So Hebrews says that we need to look "to Jesus the pioneer and perfecter of our faith ..." (11: 2). Maybe we can't see the goal but we can focus our attention upon Jesus who has run the very same course before us. Hebrews calls him "the pioneer and perfector of our faith." Keeping the analogy of the race, another term comes to my mind: Jesus the pacesetter. If we focus on how he ran the race and try to run it in the same manner, we can leave the goal to God.

In 1916, the great Irish Republican leader, Eammon de Valera, was arrested by the British while he was delivering a patriotic speech to his constituency. Sentenced to death, de Valera was sent to ill-reputed Wakefield Prison to wait for his execution. But, later the order was stayed and he escaped from prison. About a year later he returned to the very spot where he had been arrested and gathering his constituency about him, he began with these words: "Now, as I was saying when I was so rudely interrupted...."

Like him, we may be interrupted but that doesn't put us out of the race.

Tennis greats remember Arthur Ashe at U.S. Open

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Tracy Austin

When Arthur Ashe started playing tennis, there were tournaments he couldn't enter and courts across the country where he wasn't welcome to play, solely because of the color of his skin.

So it's both ironic and fitting that on Monday, Aug. 25, in front of a sell-out crowd, including dozens of tennis greats, and a prime-time viewing audience in the millions, the new, $234 million, 23,000-seat United States Tennis Association stadium in New York's Flushing Meadows will be named for Arthur Ashe.

Airing exclusively on USA Network, the half-hour ceremony, part of the opening day activities at the U.S. Open tournament, will include a trumpet fanfare, a performance by Whitney Houston and a fireworks display. Among those scheduled to attend are John McEnroe, Ken Rosewall, Stan Smith, Billie Jean King, Chris Evert and Virginia Wade.

"There was a time when the USTA was thinking it would be called the USTA National Stadium," USA executive producer Gordon Beck says. At a time when stadiums are being renamed for their corporate sponsors, he adds, "to name it after a player is pretty unique."

But Ashe himself was unique. In a world where celebrities wax and wane every quarter-hour, many are eulogized, but few are truly great. On and off the tennis court, Ashe was great.

In 1968, as an U.S. Army lieutenant, Ashe became the Open's first men's singles champion. Over his 12 years as a pro, Ashe earned 50 additional singles and doubles titles. He played on five Davis Cup teams and later coached two of them. He encouraged those who came after him, founding or helping to found the National Junior Tennis League, the USTA Player Development program, the Ashe-Bollettieri Cities Tennis Program and Arthur Ashe Kids' Day, a warm-up event for the Open.

"Two or three times," retired pro Tracy Austin recalls, "he wrote me a note about my career and wished me good luck at Wimbledon, things like that."

Ashe was known for his emotional control, an unflappable calm that helped him face bigotry in the tennis world. Away from the courts, he spoke out for Haitian rights, and he was arrested for civil disobedience while protesting the United States' relations with segregated South Africa. His decision to play an exhibition match in that country is credited with helping end apartheid.

Ashe's final battle was with AIDS. He contracted HIV through a blood transfusion and died in 1993 at age 50, but not before establishing a fund for the defeat of AIDS.

"Arthur Ashe was an outstanding tennis player," USTA President Harry A. Marmion says, "but we are naming our new stadium in his honor because Arthur Ashe was the finest human being the sport of tennis has ever known."

The Open continues through Sunday, Sept. 7, with daily coverage through the quarterfinals on USA, which has built a new studio in Ashe Stadium for its announcing team. Labor Day and final-round coverage airs on CBS.

IN FOCUS

Sigourney Weaver discovers who's the fairest of them all when she stars as a beautiful but treacherous stepmother in Snow White: A Tale of Terror Sunday, Aug. 24, on Showtime.

Lilli (Monica Keena) is unhappy when her widowed father (Sam Neill) takes a new wife, Claudia (Weaver).

At odds with her husband's attractive daughter, Claudia devises a plan to have her killed, but Lilli escapes into the woods, where she is taken in by seven friendly outcasts.

Jason Bateman

Q: Whatever became of Jason Bateman? I remember reading a magazine article a few years ago that described him as a major talent, but apart from his sitcom last year that went nowhere, he seems to have dropped out of sight. Is he married? –Janie Post, Philadelphia.

A: We must be on the same wavelength, Janie, because when I chatted with Bateman during rehearsals for his last ill-fated sitcom, Chicago Sons, I asked him point-blank: How do you go from co-starring with Katharine Hepburn (in the TV movie This Can't Be Love) to co-starring in Simon, a WB Network situation comedy almost no one saw?

"Hey, my goal is just to be a working actor," he replied. "That's getting harder and harder, but I do whatever work is available."

Q: Why is Tom Bergeron off Fox After Breakfast? They take a great show off the F/X network, change everything and create a flop. Now they add Vicki Lawrence. Morning TV did not need another routine show, but the powers that be just never seem to learn: If it ain't broke, don't fix it! –"Seaturtle" via e-mail.

A: When I answered a similar question about Bergeron's former co-host, Laurie Hibberd, a few weeks ago, I noted that he was not happy with the wholesale changes the Fox network made after moving the show from its sister cable channel.

You said it best: Fox took a delightful show and ripped out everything that was unique about it. Ultimately, Bergeron just reached his limit and decided to leave.

Q: Recently, I saw a T.J. Hooker rerun featuring Victor Jory. Can you help me remember a TV series long ago in which he played some kind of a cop? Is he still alive? –Jack B. Evett, Charlotte, N.C.

A: Jory starred as San Diego Police Lt. Howard Finucane in a 1959 syndicated program called Manhunt. The Canadian-born actor died at 79 on Feb. 12, 1982.

Q: Please help me remember the name of a 1970s TV movie in which Nancy Walker played God. –Anne M. O'Neill, St. Petersburg, Fla.

A: Walker co-starred in Human Feelings, a 1978 comedy in which God vows to destroy Las Vegas unless a fledgling angel (Billy Crystal) can find six virtuous people in the city.

Immunization Project Kicked Off By Governor

Governor Parris N. Glendening last week kicked off Project Immunization '97, to encourage parents to have children properly immunized on schedule.

The governor and Lieutenant Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend were joined by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the University of Maryland School of Nursing, the Maryland chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Maryland National Guard, and the Office for Children, Youth, and Families.

"Maryland's children are our top priority," said Glendening. "Making certain they have their full array of immunizations on time is one of the most important steps we can take to start them on the right path. This aggressive, cooperative effort will help to ensure that significant numbers of Maryland children will have access to the immunizations they need."

"With just a few vaccinations we can save Maryland's parents and their children from a whole host of ailments, from headaches to heartaches," said Lt. Governor Townsend.

Almost 14,000 children in Maryland (about 20 percent) are not fully immunized by the time they are 2 years old. By this age, children should have received four doses of DTP (diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis), three to four doses of HIB (haemophilus influenzae type B), three doses each of polio and hepatitis B vaccine, and one dose each of MMR (measles, mumps, rubella) and chickenpox vaccine. Booster shots of DTP, MMR, and polio are due at 4-6 years of age.

"Once again we are mobilizing our front line troops--health care providers and our local health departments to go the extra mile to make sure EVERY child is immunized on time," said Dr. Martin P. Wasserman, state health secretary and a pediatrician.

Parents are urged to contact their child's pediatrician or family health care provider to schedule an immunization appointment.

The Governor's Wellmobile provides primary and preventive care to families in medically underserved communities and links these patients to permanent medical homes.

"For too long, children's health has been an afterthought. We are all fortunate to live in a state in which the governor has made children his top priority," said Dr. Barbara R. Heller, dean of the University of Maryland School of Nursing. "The University of Maryland School of Nursing is proud to mobilize our forces to join Governor Glendening in this important work."

All local health department clinics statewide will have extended hours on Tuesday, Aug. 26, from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. to provide vaccinations for children. Parents may call 1-800-456-8900 for information on nearby clinic sites and hours of operation.

Thousands of volunteers from the National Guard, community-based groups, service organizations, churches, and schools will help distribute statewide a new brochure that helps answer questions regarding immunizations and the diseases they protect children against.

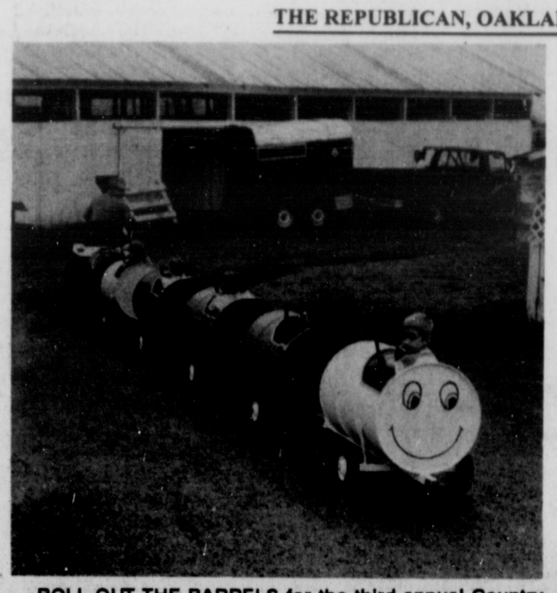
"The Maryland National Guard is a community-based organization always willing and ready to support the citizens of this great state," said James F. Fretterd, Maryland's adjutant general. "We join with Governor Glendening and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene in support of this effort to immunize our children."

"The American Academy of Pediatrics is committed to providing our resources to immunize children throughout Maryland," added Dr. Daniel Levy, a member of the American Academy of Pediatrics. "We strongly support this initiative to protect children from some of the most preventable illnesses, and I want to encourage my colleagues to work harder to help our children stay healthy."

"We know that when children have equal access to the same resources, they enter school healthy and ready to learn," added Dr. Linda S. Thompson, special secretary for Children, Youth, and Families. "By combining our knowledge with action, we can ensure good results for all our children."

Project Immunization '97 brochures will feature "Baby Blue" and "Betty Lou"--the blue heron mascots who will appear on the project's promotional materials.

"The blue heron has long been a proud symbol of the great quality of life we enjoy in Maryland," said the governor. "It is a quality of life we want for future generations."



ROLL OUT THE BARRELS for the third annual Country Fest and Auction, slated for this Saturday, Aug. 23, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Sponsored by the Dry Run Mennonite Church of Swanton, the day-long event features gospel music performances, craft exhibits and sales, demonstrations of old-time farm activities, refreshments, and horse and buggy rides, pony rides, hay rides, and more. Proceeds from the Country Fest are designated for the expansion and building programs of the Dry Run Mennonite Church and School and for selected mission projects. Above, the "Barrels of Fun" ride pulls out of the station for another run, as the brakeman in the caboose takes a look back to see where he's been. New Dimensions Program Accepting New Participants

The New Dimensions Displaced Homemakers Program of Garrett Community College is now accepting new program participants for FY98. New Dimensions is a displaced homemaker program designed to help the homemaker deal with immediate crisis, increase self-confidence, and develop the skills needed to support herself and her family.

To be eligible, one must be a Maryland resident over 30 years of age; must have performed primarily as a homemaker; must have depended for support on the income of a family member and lost that income because of separation, divorce, death, or disability of that family member; must be underemployed, not gainfully employed, or would have difficulty finding employment; and must have depended on AFDC and no longer be eligible for AFDC or must currently be receiving AFDC and have been receiving AFDC for 24 months or longer.

New Dimensions can offer program participants the following services: individual and career counseling; Career Path class; ca-reer development workshops; assistance in obtaining education and training; monthly support groups; and referral to community agencies.

New Dimensions can also help program participants obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options; identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college; and review employment options.

New Dimensions can provide the following financial assistance for program participants who are income-eligible: tuition/books, child care/transportation, emergency car repairs, work uniforms, and other emergency expenses.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The program is funded by the Department of Human Resources, Women's Services Program.

On Dean's List

Shawn Williams, Mtn. Lake Park, has been named to the dean's list of Allegany College, Cumberland, for outstanding academic achievement for the spring 1997 semester. Williams earned a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Williams is also an assistant manager at BFS in Mtn. Lake Park. He is the son of John and Joyce Williams.

Local Longaberger Associate Honored

The Longaberger Company recognized Victoria Insley as a 1997 National Sales Award winner, at its annual convention held in Columbus, Ohio, for generating annual sales of more than $45,000. Insley, from Oakland, received, among other gifts, an exclusive Longaberger basket with a special brass tag and engraved lid as well as on-stage recognition as one of only 373 sales associates nationwide achieving this level of sales.

The four-day national convention, known as the "Bee," attracted more than 10,000 Longaberger independent sales associates from around the U.S. Attendees had the opportunity to network with other associates from around the nation, attend a full range of "Longaberger University" training sessions designed to assist sales associates in refining their booking, selling, and sponsoring techniques, and participate in the awards and recognition ceremonies, like the one conducted for Insley.

MVA Providing More Hours Of Telephone Help

If residents had trouble in the past contacting the Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) by phone, now they can take advantage of extended operator-assisted hours and find it easier to get answers to their questions. The MVA's new Customer Service Center (CSC) hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. The toll-free number from Maryland, Northern Virginia, and D.C. is 1-800-950-1MVA.

"We encourage customers to call after 5 p.m. and on Saturdays until 1 p.m. The number of calls is down during those times and the customer service representatives, at the current rate, are available immediately or within seconds to answer customer questions," said Tom Walsh, director of policy and communications for the MVA.

The MVA's Customer Service Center was established on February 1, 1988, and is located in Cumberland, where representatives average about 6,000 calls daily. Additional employees have been hired to staff phone lines during early evening hours and on Saturdays to meet the demands of customers who were experiencing longer "hold" times than the MVA felt were acceptable.

"With the public's help in using the 'off hours' phone capabilities, all customers will benefit," said Walsh. "The more people we can convince to call during the extended hours, the better it will be for them, as well as for our customer service representatives."

The TDD phone number for the hearing impaired is 1-800-492-4575.

Caregiver Class For Hospice To Begin Sept. 4

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will sponsor volunteer training classes for volunteer caregivers. These classes will begin Thursday, Sept. 4, in the Community Service Building at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Classes will be held each Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. through October 30.

Topics scheduled are: "Listening Skills" with Pastor Greg Cummings; "Working with the Volunteer Coordinator," Ida Maust; "Physical Therapy Skills" at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, with Tracy Umstot, PT; Eric Cvetnick, RN, will teach the class "AIDS Awareness"; "Family Dynamics" will be presented by Patricia Yoder, MSCP; "Universal Precautions," "Infection Control," "Confidentiality," "Personal Care," and "Signs and Symptoms of the Dying Person" will be taught by Molly Lilly, BSN, director of clinical services; and "Hospice in Review" will be presented by Brenda Butscher.

The class will travel to Grantsville to tour the Newman Funeral Home and learn about the skill of funeral arrangements. A program on "Children and Death" will be presented by Willis Beitzel, and Jane Sealing, director of bereavement, will do a program on "Hospice Bereavement Services." Shirley Fitzwater from the First United National Bank & Trust will present a program on "Legal and Financial Planning."

Mrs. Butscher, executive director, stated, "Hospice is extending an invitation to you to become part of the Hospice team and to be a volunteer caregiver. You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding. Keep in mind, that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or for more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, and for the Grantsville area, 800-521-5252; or TTY 800-735-2258.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The schedule of activities for this coming week at Deep Creek Lake State Park is as follows:

There will be a canoe trip on the Meadow Mtn. Cove this Friday, Aug. 22, beginning at 10 a.m., Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 1 p.m., and Friday, Aug. 29, at 10 a.m. The fee is $2 per person, with registration at the park office.

At 1 p.m. this Friday, a sandcastle-building competition will be held on the park beach.

A guided hike on the Meadow Mtn. Trail will depart the park office on Saturday, Aug. 23, at 3 p.m, and a campfire program titled "Moon and Stars" will be presented in the amphitheater at 8 p.m.

Non-denominational services will be held at the amphitheater on Sunday, Aug. 24, as well as the following Sunday, Aug. 31, at 7 p.m. each evening.

On Tuesday, Aug. 26, the Junior Rangers will meet at the park office at 6 p.m.

A hike to the historic Brant Mine will begin at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27, and at the same time on Saturday, Aug. 30. A sunset hike to the fire tower will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

Activities for Thursday, Aug. 28, include a hike on the Indian Turnip Trail beginning at 10 a.m., and a boat ride to the dam at 2 p.m. The fee for the boat ride is $5 per person.

On Friday afternoon, Aug. 29, there will be a presentation on "Animal Habitats" at 2 p.m.

A campfire program at the amphitheater at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 30, will feature a video on Deep Creek State Park.

All programs at the park are open to the public. For further information or reservations, persons may call the park at 301-387-5563.

New Horizons Career Planning Class Scheduled

The New Horizons Program, the New Dimensions Program, and The Caring Connection, three grant-funded programs sponsored by Garrett Community College providing services for single parents, homemakers, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant and parenting adolescents, will offer a class titled "Career Planning" Tuesday, Sept. 2, through Wed., October 1. The class is offered twice a week over a five-week period from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the McHenry campus of GCC. The class normally meets on Mondays and Wednesdays, but the first class will be held on Tuesday because of the Monday holiday.

This career assessment course is designed for individuals to identify their training needs and to prepare for employment. Topics to be covered during the five-week course include: personal assessment complete with interest, skills, and career testing, learning style evaluation, career information, training or retraining opportunities, resume writing, job applications, job search strategies, and interviewing techniques.

Participants of the three grant programs, as well as the public in general, are encouraged to take this class before pursuing other vocational training. Tuition assistance is available to those qualifying for any of the three grant programs. Transportation/child care assistance may also be available to income-eligible single parents, displaced homemakers, and pregnant and parenting teens through the three grant programs.

Interested persons may register for the Career Planning class through the New Horizons office. Information on eligibility for the three programs and their services, as well as tuition availability, may be obtained by calling New Horizons at 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3102, or New Dimensions or The Caring Connection at 301-387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The three grant programs are located at the McHenry campus of GCC in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room 302.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and GCC. Grant funds made available to the program through Career and Technology Education comprise 89% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing 11% of the total program budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Women's Services Division.

Antiques

When Dr. Edwin H. Land announced the "instant" camera in 1947, many people proclaimed that the Polaroid Land camera was the first instant camera ever made. It WAS the first camera to use a paper roll to produce pictures right after they were taken, but there were earlier inventors who were able to make other types of "instant" pictures.

W.H.F. Talbot suggested a daguerreotype camera in 1839 with extra parts to hold mercury. The mercury was vaporized to develop the image almost as soon as the picture was taken.

One camera in 1855 had a built-in "darkroom" so the photographer could reach inside to develop the photographic plates.

The first successful instant camera was patented in England in 1864 by G.J. Bourdin. It was called the "Dubroni." The developing fluids were put into the camera back with a small tube. The Dubroni was made in at least five sizes.

It is very rare. A complete camera with the entire developing kit would sell at auction for $10,000 to $15,000.

Home Tips

WEIGHING IN — I have a digital scale in my bathroom that sits underneath the towel rack. I put a piece of plastic wrap over it to keep it from getting wet. When it gets dirty, I just replace it with a clean piece. It keeps the scale looking new. Helen H., Gaffney, S.C.

HARD TO REACH — When cleaning between the refrigerator and the cabinet (or any narrow area), wrap paper towels around a yardstick, anchoring them with tape or a rubber band, then saturate the towel with ammonia or soapy water. Insert the covered stick into the narrow area and clean away! Gina R., Astoria, N.Y.

CLEVER IDEA — I remove the extra miniblinds that gather at the bottom of the window and use them as garden and flower markers. They work great! Wendy T., Boynton Beach, Fla.

DRIP CATCHER — I use the plastic lid from an eight-ounce tube of margarine on the shelf for drippy bottles such as oil.

That way, it keeps my shelves clean. Susan C., Ft. Smith, Ark.

JIMMY STEWART

It was no play acting for Jimmy Stewart — not when the bullets flying at him were real. Stewart — star of dozens of movies — could have dodged active service during World War II and opted for a cushy assignment in entertainment. But that wasn't in his character.

Instead, he was commander of a squadron of bombers flying through flack and Nazi fighter attacks over Europe. He survived 20 combat missions — some of them just barely — and earned the Distinguished Flying Cross twice for his courage.

Jimmy Stewart, who died July 2, embodied much of what is good about America. Just as he would never dream of shirking his duty to his country, neither would he do less for his family. After the war, though he was a Hollywood star of the highest level, he often returned to his home town of Indiana, Pa., to help in the family hardware store. Jimmy's father, Alexander Stewart, continued to operate that store until he was in his late 80s. And it was in the store window Stewart's Best Actor Oscar was displayed for 20 years.

"This is where I made up my mind about certain things — about the importance of hard work and community spirit, the value of family, church and God," he said on his 75th birthday party in his home town. Nor did he succumb to Hollywood's notorious disrespect for marriage. He was married once.

Stewart was always a lanky kid who put on plays in the family basement and first acted in a Boy Scout production. Although he received his degree in architecture from Princeton in 1932, he followed his first love — theater. Soon he was a star in movies, including such classics as "It's A Wonderful Life," "Vertigo" and "The Philadelphia Story," for which he won an Oscar. In 1985, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor.

This American Hero stayed true to himself — and to us.

Critic's Corner
by Michael Greene

NOTHING TO LOSE: I have to say, Tim Robbins is one heck of a versatile actor. He more than proves that in this latest offering.

Robbins portrays Nick Beam, a guy whose life is seemingly perfect. He's got a great job as an advertising account executive (although realistically, I think he's shown as making more money than these folks actually get). He's married to a beautiful woman (Kelly Preston), and has a to-die-for home in fashionable Beverly Hills.

One day, upon coming home from work, he catches a glimpse of something through his half-opened bedroom door which convinces him that the missus is being unfaithful with his jerk of a boss (Michael McKean). Reeling from the shock, he jumps into his new jeep and heads on out to downtown Los Angeles. Unfortunately for him, this really isn't his day at all. In jumps a carjacker (Martin Lawrence), T. Paul, who is promptly told by Nick, "You picked the wrong guy on the wrong day!"

With "nothing to lose," Nick recklessly drives into the desert, leaving the two of them at the mercy of the wild. They have no money (Nick's impulsively thrown his wallet away) and are forced to rely on each other to survive. To make matters worse, they're being pursued by two highwaymen (Giancarlo Esposito and John C. McGinley).

During the course of the film, it takes some curious twists and turns, some of them a bit too violent for me, considering the overall comedic tone. For instance, Nick displays a mercurial temper which takes flight as he and his newfound friend plot revenge against Nick's wife and boss. For his part, T. Paul comes off as a hard-nosed punk with a problem toward women until we find out he's a Mama's boy at heart!

All in all, I'd have to give this one two stars.

Drug Possession Cases Heard In Circuit Court

Two local men faced drug possession charges in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Both men are currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail. Judge James Sherbin presided over the proceedings.

Robert W. Sweitzer, 29, Oakland, entered a guilty plea to the charge of possession with intent to distribute marijuana, according to a report from the state's attorney's office. Other possession charges were dismissed.

The defendant is currently serving a one-year sentence in the local jail for a previous conviction on a drug possession charge. Sherbin revoked bond and ordered Sweitzer to remain incarcerated until sentencing.

He was arrested in February when members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force searched his White Church Road residence and apparently found about one pound of marijuana packaged for sale.

Wilton L. Ensor, 42, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of marijuana and was sentenced to six months in jail, five months suspended. He was also fined $500. Upon his release from jail, Ensor will be on supervised probation for six months.

Ensor was arrested following a search of his house in March, during which task force members apparently located the illegal drug.

Firemen's Day To Feature Open House Of Station

An open house of the Deer Park fire hall will be a part of the Firemen's Appreciation Day, slated in Deer Park on Saturday, Aug. 23. The celebration, sponsored by the Deer Park Civic Group, is for the purpose of honoring all past and present members of the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department.

The open house at the station will take place from 2:30 until 4 p.m. The events of the day will begin at 1 p.m. with the welcome, followed by a memorial service for all deceased fire fighters and auxiliary members. A 21-gun salute will be given, followed by a performance of the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums. A special presentation to the fire department from the civic group will then take place, involving the work of local artist Chip Evans.

The Firemen's Parade will begin at 2 p.m., traveling down Main Street in the town. The vehicles will then be parked at the fire house and the open house will begin.

All former fire company members and descendants of former members, as well as members of the public, are invited to attend the day's events. For more information, persons may contact Jerry Browning, president of the civic group, at 301-334-3122.

Harold F. Forsyth, Oakland, has been appointed to the board of directors of Maryland Salem Children's Trust.

Maryland Salem is a Christian group home, with 28 children in residence. The program offers counseling, a family environment, and a rural campus complete with stables, gardens, and educational facilities.

Stephanie Cupler, board president, said Forsyth replaced the Rev. William Lee of Deer Park as one of the nine board members.

For the past two years, Forsyth has been a houseparent at Maryland Salem, located off Lower New Germany Road. As a director, he will expand his work for the home for abused and neglected children. "I am pleased to be able to do what I can for Maryland Salem," said Forsyth, a former soil scientist, who also handles title searches in Garrett County.

Forsyth and his wife Edna have been full-time residents of Garrett County for more than 12 years. He holds a bachelor's degree from Montana State University and a master's degree from Duke University, both in forestry. He has worked for the Soil Conservation District in Montana and also purchased mineral rights for various Exxon oil companies.

Forsyth has handled national political campaigns, mostly in Montana, and he ran for a Garrett County commissioner's seat in the 1994 primary election.

Broadwater Clan Has Third Reunion

The Jonas "Jonie" Broadwater family met recently for its third annual family reunion at the old homestead in the Savage River Valley. The three-day affair brought together approximately 60 descendants and family friends.

Musical entertainment was provided by family members Harold Harris, Hollis Wilt, Hazel Goff, and award-winning local fiddler Grover Broadwater. Games, swimming, and other activities were held throughout the three-day period.

It has become a tradition of the reunion that the family also attend church services on Sunday morning at the Broadwater Chapel, which was founded in 1911 by Jonas Broadwater and still serves an active congregation with services twice monthly.

Next year's event will again be held on the 4th of July weekend at the homeplace of Jonas and Edith Broadwater.

Kitzmiller School To Hold Reunion

A reunion has been planned for Kitzmiller School Alumni and friends. The occasion will be celebrated at the American Legion Post, Westernport, Saturday, Sept. 20.

The get-together will begin with a dinner served at 5 p.m. Reservations are required for those who wish to attend. Early reservations are encouraged.

Joy Rae Brown will handle the arrangements. Her mailing address is 813 Braddock Road, Cumberland, MD 21502. She can be contacted by phone at 301-724-3411.

Oakland Crime Watch Joins In Nat'l Night Out

Oakland Neighborhood Crime Watch recently sponsored a get-together as part of National Night Out.

The evening started with a community picnic at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion, some crime prevention tips, and then a return home for neighbors to visit with each other and increase a sense of community.

As chairman of the town's crime watch committee, which was organized in 1993, Glenda Grubb explained that this was the first time that Oakland had taken an active role in the event. "It is one night a year that is set aside all over the country for people to get to know their neighbors," she said.

Grubb went on to talk about the purpose of the Neighborhood Crime Watch movement. The concept behind its development is one of taking preventive measures against crime by people becoming more aware of and concerned with what is going on right next door or across the street. "The idea is to prevent crime before it happens. If you see it starting, you can stop it," she said.

The emphasis on members of a community keeping an eye out for each other sets the crime watch program apart from some other crime deterent efforts.

Other communities in the county have established Neighborhood Crime Watch committees or are in the start-up phases of doing so, Grubb explained.

Anyone who wishes more information about Neighborhood Crime Watch may contact Det. Patrick Kelly at Garrett County Sheriff's Office, 301-334-1911

Coviello Named To Bucknell Univ. Honor Societies

Christian Coviello, Mtn. Lake Park, has been named to Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma honor societies at Bucknell University.

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national scholastic honorary society for first-year college students. Phi Eta Sigma recognizes first-year and sophomore students who have achieved a 3.5 cumulative grade point average.

A first-year student majoring in electrical engineering and a dean's list student, Coviello is the son of Jean and Albert Coviello. He is a graduate of Southern High School.

Bucknell University is a liberal arts institution that also offers professional programs in engineering, management, and education.

WALNUT BOTTOM

The Bray family reunion was held at the Kitzmiller pavilion on Aug. 10. It was attended by 56 family members, who traveled from Florida, New York, Pennsylvania, Colorado, West Virginia, and Maryland.

Dale Tasker and daughter Crystal, Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey and son B.J., Mr. and Mrs. Rick Tasker and son Jasper, Jerry Lewis, and Michael Byrd returned from Ocean City, Monday.

A birthday party was held at Mrs. Elva Tasker's Sunday in honor of her granddaughter, Belinda Harvey. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey and B.J., Mrs. and Mrs. Rick Tasker and Jasper, Dale and Crystal Tasker, Kelly Seeders, Paul Vennes and Darlene Otto.

Some members of the community attended the all day meeting at Mt. Zion on Sunday.

GCC To Offer Computer Course

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College will offer an Introduction to Windows Software: Microsoft Windows 95 course on August 26 and 28 at the McHenry campus from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

This course is for students who have completed the Basic Windows 95 or have had equivalent experience. The sessions will cover the Windows operating system with easy-to-pull-down menus, and applications with text, numbers, and graphics.

For additional information and registration, persons may contact the Continuing Education Division at 301-387-3069.

Insurance Agent Course Available Through GCC

Life and health insurance agents preparing to take the state licensing exam may gain a solid foundation through a Maryland Insurance Commission-approved course offered in three Western Maryland locations over the Maryland Interactive Distance Learning Network.

Principles and Practices of Life and Health Insurance, which starts Monday, Sept. 15, is available via the closed-circuit television system at Allegany College, Garrett Community College, and Hagerstown Junior College.

The 12-session course provides in-depth information on specific life and health insurance topics and on the industry in general. It discusses features of health and life insurance as well as current information on state insurance law. The course is required for those interested in becoming licensed to sell life and health insurance in Maryland.

The instructor will be H. Burt Hiester, a chartered life underwriter, chartered financial consultant, and certified financial planner. He has been in the life insurance and financial planning business for 23 years, specializing in business insurance and estate planning.

Hiester is a past president of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association and has won numerous quality and sales awards in the industry. He is also a regular columnist for The Cumberland Times-News.

The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays, through Dec. 1.

Because there is a significant amount of reading and homework associated with the course, participants are encouraged to purchase their textbooks early and read ahead before the class starts. For information about book availability, participants may contact the course coordinator or director at the college they will be attending.

Coordinated by AC's Institute for Professional Development and Extended Learning, a unit of the Center of Continuing Education, the course is offered in cooperation with GCC and HJC. For more information, including fee schedule, local persons may call GCC's Tom Kierstead at 301-387-3084.

Farming In Maryland.....

Drought Brings Health Danger For Cattle

Many dairy and beef cattle producers in the Mid-Atlantic region face a double whammy this year. Not only is there a growing shortage of forages, but feeding drought-stressed crops could be deadly for their cattle.

So says Lester Vough, forage crops specialist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service.

The problem, Dr. Vough explains, is nitrate poisoning, particularly in severely drought-stunted corn. Some animals already have died from this malady in central Maryland, he reports, and producers should be aware of the potential danger.

Excessively high levels of nitrogen are likely to occur in corn and other forages that have been growing under stress conditions, such as when corn has been fertilized for high grain yield and becomes stunted by drought.

Vough notes that some soil moisture is necessary for plants to absorb and accumulate nitrates. On the other hand, the resumption of normal plant growth after a heavy rainfall will reduce nitrate accumulation. So harvesting a crop for forage should be delayed three to five days after the rainfall.

How can farmers cope with nitrate toxicity? Vough suggests these management practices:

* Cut the forage for silage. The fermentation process will reduce nitrate levels. Delay feeding the silage for about four weeks to make sure the fermentation process is complete.

* When chopping corn for silage, include only the top two-thirds of the plant. The bottom third always has the highest nitrate accumulation.

* Before feeding forage, have it chemically analyzed for nitrate content.

On this last point, the Maryland Department of Agriculture now offers free nitrate testing to farmers in drought-stricken counties of the state. Samples should be taken to county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service throughout Maryland. They will be forwarded to the MDA state chemist in Annapolis for testing. Farmers should contact their local Extension office for details on submitting the samples.

County Extension offices in Maryland also have fact sheets available free of charge that pertain to nitrate poisoning of livestock, as well as procedures for feeding drought-stressed corn.

State Fair Dairy Exhibitors Given Practical/Timely Advice

The following letter is being sent to all youth and open class exhibitors who have indicated that they will be taking dairy cattle to the Maryland State Fair, August 22-September 1. The advice, however, is appropriate to dairy showmen at all county fairs as well.

The letter is a joint effort of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association (MDIA) and the Maryland Purebred Dairy Cattle Association. It was drafted by the MDIA promotion and public relations committee and signed by Maryland Purebred Dairy Cattle Association President David Patrick.

Dear Dairy Exhibitor:

Thank you for taking the time to exhibit your dairy animals at the Maryland State Fair.

The proposed "Fairness in Milk Marketing" legislation in Annapolis was the most discussed bill of the 1997 session of the Maryland General Assembly. Consumer awareness and interest are much greater at this time than ever. We have an excellent opportunity to promote the dairy industry through consumer education.

It's hard to believe how little some people know about dairy cattle; however, many are eager to learn.

We know that you spend countless hours caring for animals on the show circuit. So please caution everyone involved with your show animals to be mindful of the image that is being portrayed in the dairy barn, milking parlor and show ring during the fair.

Non-farm parents may not appreciate why you may come running when their three-year old goes near a cow. They do not realize that a cow will kick if startled; so they might perceive your actions as offensive, when in fact you are trying to protect their child.

Also be aware that someone may be watching your every move and action. This could be due to curiosity and sincere interest, or an animal rights activist seeking evidence on which to base accusations.

We have much to gain in the consumer education arena by taking a small amount of time to communicate openly and honestly in helping urban consumers adopt a positive attitude toward a dairy farmer's way of life.

Thanks for your perseverance and hard work on the show circuit. We sincerely hope the fair is an enjoyable, rewarding experience for you and your family. The Maryland Dairy Industry Association joins the Purebred Dairy Cattle Association in saluting you.

David Patrick, president

Crops Improve Little From Scattered Rain

The weather for the week ending August 17 did little for the drop development in Maryland, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. With another week at a close, 59% of the field corn was in very poor to poor condition, with only 41% in fair to excellent condition.

Soybeans showed a little improvement in condition, with 33% very poor, 18% poor, 30% fair, 17% good, and 2% excellent. Spider mites continue to be a problem on the soybean crop.

The sorghum crop was 20% very poor, 2% poor, 59% fair, 15% good, and 4% excellent.

Pastures showed a slight improvement, with its percentages being 48% very poor, 22% poor, 14% fair, 15% good, and 1% excellent.

Looking around the state, hay supplies were 25%very short, 33% short, 41% adequate, and 1% surplus.

The orchards showed some improvement, with apples at 1% very poor, 4% poor, 36% fair, 54% good, and 5% excellent. Peaches were 4% very poor, 11% poor, 45% fair, 32% good, and 8% excellent.

Although several counties received some rainfall, there was an average of 6.7 days suitable for fieldwork. Though the extra moisture came at a needed time, soil conditions continued to deteriorate. This can be seen by topsoil moisture showing 46% very short, 24% short, 28% adequate conditions, and 2% surplus. Subsoil moisture was 43% very short, 37% short, and 20% adequate.

U.S. Hog Numbers Remain Stable Last Two Years

The March-May 1997 U.S. pig crop at 25.5 million head was 2% more than 1996 but 3% less than 1995. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 2.95 million head, slightly below last year. Litter rate increases continue at a record level, with an average of 8.65 pigs saved per litter for the March-May period. Last year the litter rate averaged 8.47 pigs per litter. Pigs saved per litter by size of operation ranged from 7.60 for operations with 1-99 hogs to 8.80 for operations with more than 2,000 hogs and pigs.

April Enlow To Compete For State Farm Queen Title

This weekend, April Leigh Enlow of Friendsville, will be one of 22 young women from across the state vying for the title of 1997 Maryland Farm Queen at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

The competition on August 23 and 24, which includes formal and informal interviews, will culminate in a public contest at 7 p.m. Sunday in the fairground Cow Palace.

At this time, Miss Enlow and the other young women--each selected in a county contest earlier this year--will be asked to give a one-minute speech and answer a "fish bowl" question concerning their knowledge of agriculture and Maryland Farm Bureau policies. Each young woman is also judged on her poise, ability to speak and her community involvement.

Sunday's event--which will be emceed by Sandra Pinkney, an anchor for News Channel 2--also marks the end of the reign of Gina Rende of Denton, Caroline County, as 1996 Maryland Farm Queen.

In addition to making appearances and presenting prizes at the State Fair, the Farm Queen represents Maryland agriculture at various events throughout the year. Her duties also include making presentations to service clubs, school groups and other organizations interested in presentations on Maryland agriculture.

As Garrett County's Farm Queen, Miss Enlow will be performing similar duties in her home county during the next year. The 17-year-old will also be attending Northern Garrett County High School as a senior this year.

Garrett County Farm Queen Lori Evans was crowned Maryland State Farm Queen in 1995.

AFT Accepting Nominations For Second Annual Steward Award

American Farmland Turst, a national farmland conservation group, is now welcoming nominations for its second annual Steward of the Land Award. The $10,000 award recognizes outstanding efforts by an individual farmer or farm family in land stewardship, agricultural conservation policy, or the use of environmentally and economically sustainable farming practices.

The award honors the memory of AFT's late founding board member Peggy McGrath Rockefeller. Throughout her life, Mrs. Rockefeller dedicated herself to conserving the nation's agricultural resources. AFT's board of directors established the Steward of the Land Award to salute farmers who exhibit the same deep-seated commitment to farmland conservation and protection as Mrs. Rockefeller.

The award includes a $10,000 cash stipend, special memento inscribed with the award recipient's name, and a plaque on permanent display at American Farmland Trust's national office in Washington, D.C. AFT's board of directors will review the nominees and select the winner.

The award will be presented early next year at a special dinner or luncheon of AFT's board of directors. Travel expenses for two family members to the ceremony will be borne by AFT.

Nominations must be received at AFT's national office by 5 p.m. on December 1. For an award brochure and a nomination form, individuals should contact: Shannon Weller, Award Coordinator, American Farmland Trust, 1920 N Street, N.W., Suite 400, Washington, D.C., 20036, phone 202-659-5170, ext. 3034, or fax 202-659-8339.

Farm Bureau Gives Wynn 100% Rating

Congressman Albert R. Wynn (D-Md.) has announced that he received a 100% voting-record rating from the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF). Although Wynn represents a suburban congressional district, he hails from a family of farmers, spent summers as a youth on farms, and is a strong supporter of agricultural issues.

Wynn's interst and support of small farmers also stems from his advocacy for small businesses--one of his top priorities in Congress. Although modern farming is often viewed as only big business, there are still hundreds of thousands of small family farmers in America. "Family farmers are essentially small and minority business people in rural areas. They create jobs and face similar problems of other small business people as well as unexpected emergencies at the hand of mother nature," he said.

Wynn voted with the Farm Bureau on major issues such as the market-access program because it promotes U.S. agricultural exports in the global economy. Other countries such as France provide much more support for their agricultural businesses than the U.S. "I appreciate the importance of the American farmer in our society as a source of food not only in our communities, but also for people throughout the world. Agricultural jobs in this country should be supported in order to maintain a sound economy. Although we are not an agrarian society, we must not forget that successful farms are the foundation of our prosperity," said Rep. Wynn.

Many Factors Impact Cattle Prices

Consumers eat beef, not live cattle. Research shows that at the peak of the most recent cattle cycle, we were producing more cattle, and more beef per animal. Production last year (1995) was the highest it had been since 1986--even when you subtract beef from imported cattle. Production for 1996 was the largest since the late 1970s.

Imports are not a major factor. Net imports as a percent of U.S. production during the last 10 years were highest during 1990 and 1993--years when steer calf prices averaged $103.22/cwt. and $103.15/cwt, repectively. Cattle prices have declined while total cattle and beef imports declined. If it were a factor, reducing imports would probably require reducing exports. Research shows that beef producers are better off by a $10-$11 per calf when international trade is conducted.

Research shows packer concentration is not conclusively linked to low cattle prices; some economists believe packer efficiencies lead to higher prices.

Overwhelmingly, the primary factors for the drop in cattle prices are cost of grain (cost of feed), increased beef supplies and an increase in total meat supplies.

A rule of thumb is that calf prices decline by $1-1.20/cwt. For every $.10/bu. increase in the price of corn, feeder cattle prices decline by about $.70/cwt. That means May 1996 calf prices would have been about $25/cwt. higher and feeder cattle prices $15/cwt. higher if corn prices had been at May 1993 level.

WORKS OF KUHN AND WILLIAMS ON DISPLAY - Art in the forms of wood carvings, linocut prints, and paintings, all the work of Morgantown, W.Va., artists Jeannie Kuhn (above) and Randy B. Williams (right), will be on display at the Windrush Gallery in Friendsville from Aug. 12 through Sept. 29. The two both express their appreciation of nature through their work. A reception for the artists will be held on Saturday, Aug. 23, 7:30-9:30 p.m., at the gallery, located at 720 Morris Avenue, Friendsville. The public is invited to attend. See story.

Gallery Spotlights Paintings, Linocut Prints, Wood Carvings

The wood carvings, linocut prints, and paintings of Morgantown, W.Va., artists Jeannie Kuhn and Randy B. Williams are currently on display in Garrett County.

Both artists have won awards for their work and have had showings regionally and nationally. The Garrett County Arts Council commissioned them to install an outdoor sculpture at Swallow Falls State Park. The piece is 15 feet high and 6 feet wide.

Their current show, "Whispering Ways," focuses on their vision of the natural landscape. Kuhn's linocut prints are in vivid colors and produced through a technique that involves sketching, carving, painting, and pressing.

Williams' paintings are a collection of landscapes often expressing speed and motion. He carves fish, birds, and plants from pieces of chestnut that he finds.

The work by Kuhn and Williams is on display at the Windrush Gallery, Friendsville, through Sept. 29. A reception for the artists will be held at the gallery on Saturday, Aug. 23, from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

TOWN & COUNTRY WOMEN TO MEET

Mrs. Carolyn Humberson will host a picnic for the Friendsville Town and Country Women at her home on Friday, Aug. 22, beginning at 1 p.m.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Summer Reading Program at the Friendsville library ended Aug. 14 with a "Fun Day." Bookmarkers and clown coloring sheets were made by the children. Egg relays and wet spong throws were also included in the day's events.

Ice cream cups were furnished by the Friendsville Rotary Club, and cupcakes were provided by Carolyn Humberson. Each child received a certificate and gift from McDonald's restaurant.

Sixty children and 18 mothers, along with James Afable, Rotary helper; Angela Sessa, volunteer; Michele Duda, branch manager; and Dorothy Spear, coordinator, spent the past six weeks at the library's summer program.

ROTARY NEWS

The Friendsville Rotary Club met Monday, Aug. 18, at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant.

Guests for the evening were Professor Marilyn Moors who donated funds and implemented the Friendsville Rotary's reading program, and Janis Afable, a student paid by the Rotary club to ensure the program ran efficiently. Also present was Ina Hicks, representing the Friend Family Museum, who spoke about the success of the youth employed there.

Next week's program will focus on literacy and numeracy.

MATTRESSES by KINGSDOWN
Judge Your Mattress From the Inside Out!
LESS TOSSING & TURNING. The Sleeping Beauty® System innerspring coil has been engineered to provide total edge-to-edge surface coverage resulting in more comfortable sleep.
NO "COIL FEEL." The Sleeping Beauty® unit has no gaps in support between coils. You enjoy at least 49% more surface support area than common innerspring mattresses.
PROPER SPINAL ALIGNMENT. A totally responsive coil-on-coil support system conforms to body shape and concentrations of weight to maintain proper postural alignment in any sleeping position.
ALLERGY FREE, BACTERIA RESISTANT. Our patented Flexatron® padding, baked in ovens at over 400°F, is non-allergenic and will not attract musty odors.
NO "ROLL TOGETHER" FEELING. The Sleeping Beauty® System supports varying degrees of weight while alternating left and right hand turned coils eliminate any partner disturbance.
EXTRA STRENGTH SUPPORT. Extra wooden slats have been added under the torso area for 27% more support where body weight is concentrated.
COIL ON COIL
LONGER MATTRESS LIFE. Our unique Sleeping Beauty® System utilizes more wire and there are no support gaps to cause undue wear. Sleeping Beauty® mattress sets hold their firmness and responsive resilience.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

REVIVAL

The Rev. Joseph E. Chamberlin, a native of New York State, will be conducting Revival Fires Crusade at the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, Horse Shoe Run, Aug. 24-27, with a Sunday service at 10:30 a.m. and nightly services beginning at 7 p.m. The pastor, Rev. Dave Parker, invites everyone to attend.

"The Rev. Chamberlin believes that the practical experience he gained from pastoring churches, along with his growing up in a pastor's home, has enhanced his understanding of the pressures of everyday life. He comes with a message of hope for salvation, divine healing, baptism by the Holy Spirit and brings encouragement to meeting everyday problems," said Pastor Parker.

FALL FESTIVAL

The annual Fall Festival will be held at the Stemple Ridge Church on Aug. 30. Food will be available from 5 until 7:30 p.m., including hot sandwiches, pies, cakes, and homemade ice cream. There will also be craft tables and cake walks. The church is located south of Aurora on the Stemple Ridge Road. Everyone is welcome.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

A spaghetti dinner will be served Sept. 5 at the Aurora fire hall from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m. Menu includes spaghetti with meat balls, salad, garlic bread, cake and beverage. Donations asked are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under. Proceeds will go toward a new fire truck.

Raffle tickets for half beef are being sold. Persons may contact any member to purchase tickets. The winner of this half-beef will be drawn on Nov. 14 at a planned elimination dinner, for which tickets are also being sold.

REUNIONS

Sunday, Aug. 24, is the date for the annual Harsh reunion to be held at the Farmers' Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run. Dinner will be served at 1 p.m. All are asked to bring a picnic dinner and join friends and family there.

The annual Gnegy family reunion will be held at the Gnegy Church farm home of Dale and Mary Jane Gnegy on Sunday, Aug. 24. Friends and family are invited to bring a covered dish meal and join in the fun there at 1 p.m.

FIKE REUNION

The children of Elda "Sue" Ball Fike, Mtn. Lake Park, and the late Earl Fike gathered on Aug. 2 at the Aurora fire hall for a dinner as part of their weekend reunion. Attending were Elda "Sue" Fike; Eugene and Ruth Fike, and Eric, Kim, Brittany and Zack Fike, all of Zanesville, Ohio; Mike, Tammy, Misty, and Amber Wilt of Chillicothe, Ohio; Robert and Carolyn Harsh, and Alan, Patty, Ashley, and Anthony Wilt, all of Eglon; Carl, Cynthia, and Mark Bachtel, and Brian Wilt, all of Horse Shoe Run; Bonnie and Alton Currence, and Jeffrey, Mindy, Adam, and Ben Currence, and Brent, Debby, and Tyler Currence, all of Lancaster, Ohio; Calvan and Barbara Radcliff, Randy and Michelle Asbury, and David, Leslie, and Rene Hall, all Parkersburg; and Gary Fike of Shawnee, Kan. Unable to attend were Adam, David, and Vickie Fike, and Adam Bachtel.

The Terra Alta Public Library concluded its summer reading program Friday with a party for the patrons who had enrolled. Pizza, chips, cookies, and drinks were served and games were played by: Kristopher Elliott, Jason, Justin, and Chris Kelly, Sarah and Laura Martin, Alecia Kope, Matt Shaffer, McKella Duckworth, Shaley Miller, and Lydia Delauder.

"Spin A Tale" was the theme for this year, with reading and reporting on 20 books, which earned the children a special reward. Plaques with the picture of the theme, a congratulatory note, and their names were presented. Completing this were: Stephanie Kisner, Ashley Miller, Laura Martin, Alecia Kope, McKella Duckworth, Jason Kelly, Justin Kelly, Kristopher Elliott, Sara Chroussis, Amanda Cline, and Matt Cline.

A trophy was presented to Ashley Miller for reading the most books and writing the reports. She turned 40 reports. A new award was presented this year to Lydia DeLauder, third grader, for being named the Most Aggressive-Hardest Worker. She read and reported on 17 books as she was the youngest participant.

Donating books or periodicals to the library recently have been: Debbie Parsons, Barbara Quinton, John Posthumus, Lori Himelrick, Floyd Teter Jr., Albert Ossman, Tim Peters, and Kaye Garlitz.

Special Services Planned At Terra Alta UM Church

The Terra Alta first United Methodist Church has announced two special services to be held this month.

On Aug. 24, Rev. Norvell Robertson will conduct a service of joy and praise. The hour of goodwill and corporate worship begins at 10 a.m.

A service to be held Aug. 31, Labor Day Sunday, will honor the employed members and friends of the church. The tribute will also include all local as well as national laborers. Rev. Robertson will also conduct this service.

Aurora Church Slates Fall Fest

The Aurora Stemple Ridge Methodist Church, Stemple Ridge Road, will host its annual Fall Festival on Saturday, Aug. 30, beginning at 5 p.m.

The festival will feature hot sandwiches, homemade pies, and ice cream.

Antique Show Set In Romney

The Friends of the Library's eleventh annual Antique and Collectible Show and Sale will be held at the Hampshire County Public Library in Romney, W.Va., on September 5, 6, and 7. Dealers from four states will display a variety of items.

Former County Student Works On City Mural

Amy Evans, a former Garrett County student, was among the five student-artists who worked on the Rochester House Mural in Hagerstown.

A televised dedication of the work was held recently in the city parking lot, where the mural is located on a wall.

Production of the mural was sponsored by the Washington County Arts Council and the City of Hagerstown. The work is to help preserve the memory of the Rochester House on its original site and to contribute to the beautification of Hagerstown.

The Rochester parking lot, on the corner of West Washington and South Prospect streets, is situated on the original site of Mount Prospect, also known as The Rochester House.

Nathanial Rochester built the house in 1789 on ground which once belonged to Jonathan Hager, the founder of Hagerstown. The home was used as a way station during the Civil War for battlefield casualties from both the North and the South.

One of the wounded soldiers treated there was Oliver Wendell Homes, Jr., who fought at the Battle of Antietam. He later became a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Rochester, formerly a colonel in the Continental Army, was the owner of a nail and lock factory, the first president of the Hagerstown Bank, a member of the state legislature, a postmaster, a sheriff, and a judge of the Washington County Court. In 1810, he left Hagerstown leading a caravan of settlers to the Genesee Valley where he founded Rochester, N.Y.

The mural was designed and directed by artist Bettina Messersmith.

Amy, an honor student, will be a sophomore at Clear Spring High School this fall. She is the daughter of Van and Mary Lynn Evans, former Garrett County residents. Her grandparents are Chester and Earlene Evans, Kitzmiller, and Willard and Virginia Schroyer, Mtn. Lake Park.

A former student of Marcette Danner at Southern Middle, Miss Evans was also one of the students who worked on a stained glass window project that won 1st place among the entries from 13 states in the Appalachia 2005 Project. The students won a $10,000 grant for their school.

MURAL ADDS TOUCH OF CLASS - A beautification project in Hagerstown gave some art students an opportunity to participate in painting a mural with historical significance to the city. The Rochester House is the subject of the work, which spans a wall in the city parking lot. One of the young artists who worked on the project is a former Garrett County student. Amy Evans, center, is pictured above standing in front of the mural with her parents, Mary Lynn and Van Evans.

Northern GOP Women To Meet

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club will meet Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 7 p.m. at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville. The guest speaker for the evening will be Lisa Thayer-Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County.

The fund-raiser fruit basket will be provided by Louise McKenzie, Stella Edwards, Laura Turner, and Cleda Baker.

All interested Republicans are welcome to attend.

SWANTON

Hugh and Helen Friend, Palisade, Colo., are visiting Helen's mother, Mildred Fitzwater, and other relatives and friends in this area.

Chris, Rob, and Ellen Riley of Denver are visiting relatives and friends here.

Orval Teets attended the August meeting of the National Assn. of Retired Veteran Railroad Employees, Unit # 103, in LaVale last Wednesday.

Dotty Beckman, accompanied by Delores Beckman and Lois Meyers of Mtn. Lake Park, motored to Warren, Ohio, last Tuesday where they visited Thomas and Pam Chieffo and family; Harold and Peggy Friend and family; and Leslie and Tracey Beckman and family. They returned home Thursday.

Bonnie, Rob, and John Robert Major have returned to their home in Amarillo, Tex., after visiting relatives and friends here and in nearby Pennsylvania.

Among those attending the Riley Reunion at Broadford Park last weekend were: Mildred Fitzwater, Tim and Cindy Wagner and children Khara, Kent, Karissa, Kelly, Kaitlyn, and Kaleb, Swanton; Bruce and Ada Van Horn, Waldorf; and Hugh and Helen Friend, Palisade, Colo.

"BACK UP AND PUSH" is the name of this group, headed by Ed Rafferty, which will provide music for an evening of round and square dancing at St. Ann's Hall in Avilton on Saturday, Sept. 6. The cost for admission will be $3 per person and $5 per couple. All proceeds will benefit the Avilton Community Fund, used for maintenance of the hall and other purposes. Time for the dance will be 8 to 11 p.m., and refreshments will be available for sale.

BITTINGER NEWS

The Bittinger volunteer firemen and the Women's Auxiliary held their las chicken barbecue of the season and the annual Bittinger Picnic at the fire hall on Saturday. Grover and Bernice Broadwater provided music with their fiddle and guitar. Jeannie Ross of Friendsville sang several songs. Approximately 400 chicken dinners were served. The winner of a muzzleloader, made by Bob Brenneman, was Herman Nessline. Many area residents entertained the large crowd with Karaoke music. Besides the chicken dinners, hot dogs, hamburgers, soda, pies, and other food were available. Mrs. Cindy Stanton operated the toy booth once again this year.

The next meeting of the Bethesda Church of the Brethren youth group has been scheduled for September 13. They will be having a "Hallelujah Hop" from 3 to 6 p.m. Crossroads Revival along with Lewis and Garrett will be performing. The public is welcome to attend.

Ms. Lillian Moats was a Sunday visitor of Martha Glotfelty. Monday visitors of Martha were Matilda Seaman, Darlene Smith, Crystal Smith, and Melissa McKeener.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish will celebrate communion at all three churches this Sunday, Aug. 24: St. John's at 8:45 a.m., Emmanuel at 10 a.m., and Zion at 11:30 a.m.

Karmen Carey, Ida Reckner, and Donna Glotfelty recently returned from vacation in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Sunday dinner guests of Rob and Meredith Vagnetti were Lenny and Sally Poholsky and son Torrey, Sam and Cindy Stanton and daughter Leah, Kyle and Valerie Morrison and children Rick, Jenny, and Scott, and Mark and Leslie Klawonn and children.

ELCA WOMEN MEET

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on Aug. 11 at the church.

The study theme, Hope in God's Peace, was led by Leota Baker. The lesson was a bible study based on the Letter to the Ephesians. It emphasized that the starting point for inner peace is hope created through faith in God.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

The West Virginia-Western Maryland Synodical Women of the ELCA convened Aug. 8-9 at Mineral Wells, W.Va. Although Zion's unit was not represented by a delegate, a love offering was sent to the convention.

A gift offering was received as a tribute to the memory of Verta E. Durst on her birthday anniversary. This offering will be forwarded to Women of the ELCA Churchwide for specific ministries. It will be designated for supporting children at risk.

The annual washcloth shower is being held until September. All donations will be sent to Lutheran Youth and Family Services in Zelienople, Pa.

The meeting adjourned with the group praying the Lord's Prayer.

becca Wotring and Anita Britner, and the latter's daughters, Nicole and Julia.

Recent donations to the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department have been made by Ken and Peggy Evans, Douglas Green, Nancy Feather, Charles Wiles, Deerwood, Amboy Sunday School Class in memory of Mae Ark, Millstone Lodge, Inc., Kelly Kowalkoski, Calvin and Betty Knotts, and Alton Auvil.

Hancel and Mildred Teets of Aurora visited recently in Dayton, Ohio, with Jake and Lona Sell.

Clara Spaid returned Saturday evening to her home at Elgon after visiting last week in Florida with her brother, Darrell "Willy" Kirk, who is hospitalized there from complications from cancer, and his wife Juanita, who suffered a heart attack while visiting her husband. She is also hospitalized there.

John and Nancy Stout of Conshohocken, Pa., were Wednesday to Friday guests of David and Wilma Mae Teets at Horse Shoe Run. Visiting them this week is their daughter, Mary Lou Miller, of Goldsboro, N.C.

Guests this weekend of Herb and Jean Starr were Shirley and Danny Thomas of Cumberland; Billy, Chris and Meghan Thomas; Nancy and Ed Nichols, Roberta and Shannon Hedrick, and Dale Harsh.

Shirley Blamble fell recently at her Stemple Ridge home and suffered an arm fracture. She was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Connie Harsh is recuperating at the home of her parents, Clyde and Shirley Harsh, Stemple Ridge, from injuries received to her elbow and knee while helping with Southern Ambulance Squad's yard sale.

Bertha Jeeter and son Dick of Winchester, Va.; Ross and Kathryn Harvey of Clarksburg, Paul Stemple, Frank and Wilda Stemple, and Jim and Elsie Stemple all met for a picnic together at Trotter Park on Saturday.

The George and Ada Wotring family met Sunday for a reunion at their old home near Aurora. All of the living children were present.

Madeline Wotring has returned to Cortland Acres Nursing Home but her physical condition reportedly appears unimproved.

Amelia Friend was notified Monday that she was the winner of the child's stereo given away by the Woodmen of the World at the Garrett County Fair. She is the daughter of George and Bonnie Friend, Aurora.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

City of Oakland

The Purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Oakland.

On or about August 22, 1997, Oakland will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Name of Project: Overlook North

Purpose of Project: Aquisition of site and structures known as HighView Apartments by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., for the purpose of reconstruction of rental housing and single family bulding lots.

Location: High Street, Oakland, Maryland

Notice of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the Town of Oakland has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said project will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of Overlook North is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of Overlook North is available for public examination at the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee during the time from 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. Mondays through Fridays.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the Overlook North to the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than August 22, 1997, at the Garrett County Community Action Committee Offices at 104 East Center Street in Oakland or the Department of Housing and Community Development offices in Crownsville, Maryland. All comments will be considered and the Town of Oakland will not request the release of funds nor take any action on the project prior to this date.

Request for Release of Funds

The Town of Oakland will undertake the project(s) described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This Notice also certifies that Asa McCain, serving in the official capacity of mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action brought to enforce responsibilities has been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Town of Oakland may use the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under that National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objections to Release of Funds

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the Town of Oakland's Environmental Review Record for the project(s) indicated omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 35 CDR Part 800 (d) Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., and to the SCCDBG Program Manager, MD Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland 21032-2023. All such comments must be received no later than September 15, 1997.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland hereby give notice that they will hold public hearings on Ordinance No. 097-08, which has been introduced before the Town Council, prohibiting the use of engine brakes or "jake brakes," designating such use to be a misdemeanor and setting penalties therefore.

A fair summary of the Ordinance is as follows:

AN ORDINANCE to repeal and re-adopt Ordinance No. 094-02 prohibiting the use of engine brakes, also known "jake brakes," within the Town of Oakland, designating a violation of this Ordinance as a misdemeanor rather than a traffic violation and making no other additions or changes thereto.

This notice is in accordance with the policy adopted by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for the adoption of ordinances, and gives notice of the date and time of the scheduled public hearing of said Ordinance.

The full text of Ordinance 097-08 is available at City Hall Monday through Friday during business hours.

The Mayor and Town Council shall hold a public hearing on the said Ordinance on the 8th day of September 1997, at 7:30 P.M., at City Hall, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE PROPERTY LOCATED AT DEEP CREEK LAKE, GARRETT COUNTY, MD. TIME SHARE INTERVALS.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a time share instrument and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 465, folio 64, et seq., the holder of the liens secured thereby having appointed W. McCauley Arnold, Assignee, by document duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. At the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Assignee will sell, in fee simple, at public auction, on the premises located at Lakewood Resorts, Rt. 219 at Bridge, Deep Creek Lake, McHenry, Maryland, on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1997, AT 10:00 A.M.

All those time share intervals located in Election District No. 6 (Tax District No. 18) of Garrett County, Maryland, and being described as follows:

Reference is made to the plats of Lakewood Resorts as recorded at Plat Book 2, page 182 of the Land Records of Garrett County and the Declaration by Lakewood Resorts, Inc., dated October 23, 1985, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 465, folio 64; the time share instrument dated June 30, 1986, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 477, page 598, et seq. (Phase II); the time share instrument dated March 11, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 492, page 16, et seq. (Phase III); time share instrument dated June 15, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 496, page 295, et seq. (Phase IV) as amended by Amendment dated July 31, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 499, page 55, and the plats described in said instrument and recorded as aforesaid in Plat Book 3, page 7; and the time share instrument dated July 27, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 536, page 583, et seq. (Phase V) and plats referred to therein as recorded in Plat Book 3, page 7.

The property being sold at foreclosure sale are the time share intervals listed below situate in the Lakewood Resorts Time Share as duly recorded as follows, to wit: Unit 1, Time Interval 52; Unit 2, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 4, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 9, Time Interval 52; Unit 10, Time Interval 36; Unit 11, Time Interval 30.

The above described real estate will be sold subject to all conditions, liens, easements, restrictions, rights of redemption, covenants, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the same.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash deposit, certified check or cashier's check in the amount of thirty percent (30%) for each unit will be required at the time of sale, except that if the lienholder or its assigns is the purchaser, no deposit or interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase price will be required. The balance is to be paid in cash at settlement, which shall be fifteen (15) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, unless the period for settlement is extended by the Assignee, time being of the essence. The properties will be sold in "AS IS" condition with the purchaser solely responsible for any and all other statutory or regulatory violations, if any, and without express or implied warranty as to the nature, description or condition of the title, land and/or improvements as contained thereon. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be limited to the refund of the deposit. In the event that the purchaser fails to complete settlement as required for any reason other than the Assignee's inability to convey good and marketable title, the deposit will be forfeited and the property or properties shall be resold at purchaser's risk and expense. Cost for any and all recordation and transfer taxes and document preparation shall be borne by purchaser. The Assignee and Lienhholder does not make any representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy of this information.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY

This property will provide affordable housing and may be suitable for a young couple just starting out, or as a rental property. It is located at the bottom of Backbone Mountain, 2 miles east of Red House, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Mortgage dated April 24, 1995, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 652, page 281, default having occurred under the terms of said Mortgage and it having been duly assigned to the undersigned Assignee for purposes of foreclosure, notice is hereby given that on at the hour of 11:00 A.M.

In the Rotunda of the Garrett County Courthouse in the Town of Oakland, Maryland, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, that improved real property situate in Garrett County, Maryland, which is described as follows:

Description of Property. The property is situate in Election District #8, Garrett County, Maryland, and contains 2.49 acres, more or less, and being more fully described in a deed to Earl W. Railey Jr. dated March 29, 1990, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County in Liber 545, page 598.

THE PROPERTY IS IMPROVED with a one and one-half story, 24' x 36' log home with a full basement. It has 2 bedrooms, 1 bath with electric base board heat with wood stove, with a large porch on a 2.49 acre lot.

Terms of Sale. A deposit of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($1,000.00) will be required from the purchaser at the time and place of sale, to be paid by cashier's or certified check or in such other form as the Assignee may in his sole discretion determine provided arrangements are made prior to the sale, except that the Mortgagee, if a successful bidder, shall not be required to make a deposit. The balance of the purchase price shall be paid by cashier's or certified check at settlement, which shall be on or before fifteen days after final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County unless said period is extended by the Assignee for good cause shown, time being of the essence. The purchaser or purchasers shall pay interest at the rate of nine percent (9%) per annum on the unpaid balance of the purchase price from the date of sale to the date of settlement. Taxes and all other public charges and assessments, if any, shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser, and costs of any Agricultural transfer taxes, documentary stamps, transfer taxes and recordation costs shall be paid by the Purchaser. The above-described property will be sold subject to all restrictions and covenants of record and without warranties of title. The improvements are being sold in an "as is" condition and without warranty as to the accuracy of information furnished to and/or by the Assignee and provided to prospective bidders.

Interested parties may contact the undersigned during regular business hours.

Gnegy (Liber No. 277, folio 360,) thence leaving said southerly right-of-way limrts and with a new division line of the lands of Helen K. Wolfe (Liber No. 410, folio 431) South 01 degrees 32 minutes 30 seconds East, 351.82 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, thence continuing with said new division line, South 83 degrees 09 minutes 25 seconds West, 387.61 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, 2 feet from an 18 inch double cherry on top of the bank of a private drive, said point also lying 17.0 feet easterly of the centerline of said private drive, thence with a line parallel to the centerline of said private drive and 17.0 feet easterly thereof, North 01 degrees 32 minutes 30 seconds West, 344.58 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, in the southerly right-of-way limits of the Gnegy Church Road, thence with said southerly right-of-way limits, North 89 degrees 19 minutes 50 seconds East, 151.64 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod set, thence continuing with said right-of-way limits, North 77 degrees 30 minutes 10 seconds East, 238.68 feet to the place of beginning, containing 3.00 acres, more or less.

Being the same property conveyed by Helen K. Wolfe to Donald K. Wolfe, Jr., et ux, by deed dated April 18, 1986, and recorded in Liber No. 471, folio 589, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition, with all faults, and with no warranty, express or implied, as to the condition or description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certifed check or other form as the Assignee determines acceptable. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. The Assignee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, with time being of the essence as to the purchaser's payment. If the purchaser defaults, the deposit will be declared forfeit, and applied as required by Maryland law, with the remainder, if any, to be applied at the discretion of the Assignee. In addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to the Assignee or noteholder, the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Further, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for any deficiency resulting from the resale, as well as all costs and expenses of the resale including, but not limited to, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Assignee. Unless the property is purchased by the noteholder, the purchaser shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate stated in the Mortgage Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Assignee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, water rent, condominium fees, and/or homeowner association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. A cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Assignee assumes no responsibility for security deposits, or other moneys paid by the tenants to anyone. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property is sold subject to all easements, conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable fee simple title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be the refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Assignee or the noteholder. The property will be sold without any express or implied warranty or representation with respect to the sufficiency of the recorded legal description, fitness of the property for any particular purpose or use, its structural integrity, construction, extent of construction, materials, workmanship, habitability, applicability of zoning and subdivision laws and regulations, if any, environmental condition, compliance with building codes or other laws, ordinances, regulations, or other similar matters. The Assignee, his attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be personally liable for any matters relating to the sale and/or the property.

Department of Environment
Water Management Administration
160 South Water Street
Frostburg, MD 21532
Notice of a meeting to be held on 28 August 1997 at the Friendsville Town Office
Issue Date: 21 August 1997

The MD Water Management Administration is reviewing the following application for a State Nontidal Wetlands and Waterways authorization and Water Quality Certification. A meeting will be held on 28 August 1997, between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., at the Friendsville Town Office to discuss regulated activities associated with the project described below. Any/all interested parties are invited to attend the meeting. The application and related information are on file at the Nontidal Wetlands and Waterways Division, 160 S. Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532, 301-689-8150. Arrangements may be made for inspection and copying of file materials prior to the meeting. Written comments will be accepted in advance of the meeting in lieu of attendance. If requesting to be placed on the interested persons list, please clearly state this request in written form. Attendance at the meeting will automatically place you on the interested persons list. Any further notices concerning actions on this application will be provided by mail to those persons on the interested persons list. On all correspondence, please refer to the tracking number which identifies the application. Correspondence should be addressed to the Nontidal Wetlands and Waterways Division, 160 S. Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland, 21532.

GARRETT COUNTY ASSIGNED STAFF: Sean McKewen

199665148 / 96-NT-0729: Use III-P Waters. Applicant, Terry Spear, proposes to construct Funny Farm Convenience Store and gas station on the south side of Maryland Route 42, 0.25 miles west of Frlendsville and the Youghiogheny River. The project impacts an unnamed tributary to the Youghiogheny River, known locally as Minnow Creek. The following proposed work requires a State Nontidal Wetlands and Waterways authorization, a federal authorization from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and State Water Quality Certification (under authority of Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution control Act and its amendments) : 1) installing an outfall from a stormwater management pond into Minnow Creek; 2) placement of an 80 foot culvert in Minnow Creek to gain commercial access to the site; 3) placement of 20 linear feet of outlet protection at the culvert; and 4) construction of a sewer line through a nontidal wetland. The sewer line will result in temporary impacts to 120 square feet of regulated nontidal wetland. The following activities require only a State Nontidal Wetland and Waterways authorization (they are not federally regulated and therefore are not subject to the requirements of the State Water Quality Certification regulations): 1) constructing a stormwater management pond in the floodplain of an unnamed tributary to the Youghiogheny River, known locally as Minnow Creek; 2) grading and filling in the floodplain of Minnow Creek associated with construction of the access road; 3) temporary impacts to 2,798 square feet of wetland buffer and permanent wetland buffer impacts of 1,449 square feet associated with construction and grading. Garrett County is applying separately for authorization to construct the majority of the sewer line which will connect this business to the sewer main.

PERSONAL

PERSONAL -- May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help for the hopeless, pray for us. Say the prayer 9 times a day for 9 days; then publish. Your prayers will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Thank you St. Jude. PS. 25-1t*.

PERSONAL -- Prayer of the Blessed Virgin. (Never known to fail) Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh star of the sea, help me and show me here you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God. Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish it and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks. SL. 25-1t*.

Trader's Landing Offers Challenge Gift To Theatre

Jane Avery, owner and director of Our Town Theatre, Oakland, announced this week that Trader's Landing owners Paul Sprenger and Jane Lang have offered a challenge gift to the new theatre organization. If the theatre's board of directors can raise $10,000 in donations by Dec. 31 of this year, Trader's Landing will match that amount, Avery said.

"I am absolutely delighted by this," Avery said. "It's a wonderful thing for Jane and Paul to offer to us."

In response to the offer, Avery said the board has already initiated an intense fund-raising drive.

"We are working on a mass mailing, and we have planned a fund-raising event for Sept. 13," she said. Details about the fund-raiser will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Our Town Theatre is a non-profit organization, spearheaded by Avery. She purchased the building that until recently housed the Garrett County Museum (which is now located in downtown Oakland on Second Street). She is currently involved in extensive renovations to the facility. Performances in the theatre cannot be staged until some specific renovations are completed.

Play readings have been

THE RULES OF THE PLAYGROUND are good ones to live by -- don't push other people, don't crowd in line, keep yourself in control, share your lunch once in a while, and be nice. Lots of guidelines and instructions have been given out anew this week, as public schools opened for the year on Monday. Teacher Adrian Ingram is pictured above at Kitzmiller Elementary School, perhaps reviewing the Golden Rule with her second grade class before letting them loose on the playground. Drivers, please be aware of the youngsters out and about in the mornings and afternoons, and be alert to the school buses' flashing lights. Kids, always look both ways -- and quit leaving your backpack on the kitchen table!

Bloodhound Assists Police In Night Arrest

After a helicopter search had been tried, the assistance of Jonathan, the bloodhound, was needed by police officers in order follow through on a retake warrant.

The Department of Corrections had issued the warrant for the arrest of Percy Redman, Piedmont, W.Va.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that Tuesday night around 11:40 p.m. they attempted to stop a vehicle on Westernport Road. A brief chase ensued, the report said. When the vehicle did stop, Redman slipped out the passenger door and fled into the woods.

Reinforcements in the form of the bloodhound Jonathan, accompanied by Deputy McLaughlin of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, arrived on the scene. Redman was reportedly tracked down and arrested with no further incidents.

He was taken to the Garrett County Jail and later transported by state police to the Department of Corrections facility.

Group Seeks Input, Finds Common Ground On Interstate Proposal

A Garrett County citizen's group opposed to the well-organized push by politicians and businessmen for construction of a new $300 million north-south interstate highway bisecting the county began holding public meetings recently.

Garrett County Conservative Action for a Rural Environment, also known as G.C./C.A.R.E., has positioned itself as the only entity on either side of the issue to actively solicit input from the general public to this point. The group has advertised invitations to its meetings in print and on the radio, and has mounted an effort to gauge the average citizen's opinion through a mail-in survey. (Published again this week in The Republican on page A-5.)

At its latest meeting this past Tuesday evening, the growing G.C./C.A.R.E. group, founded just over a month ago by Craig Speicher of Grantsville and Jaime Alvarez of Oakland, adopted this mission statement: "G.C./C.A.R.E. is opposed to the building of another four-lane interstate highway in Garrett County, Maryland, in order to sustain and preserve our natural, agricultural and rural heritage."

Characterized in a headline in other print media as "dissenters" and referred to in that same article as a "special interest group," the citizens who attended the G.C./C.A.R.E. meetings were a very diverse group of both the young and the not-so-young, workers and retirees, native-born and relocated Garrett County citizens.

"G.C./C.A.R.E. represents a cross-section of the local populace from all corners of Garrett County's geographical and political spectrum," said Dana Shimrock of the seven-member steering committee. "While we are still 'in the womb,' we are definitely growing each and every day.

"A number of different people have come to each of the meetings to express their concerns," she continued, "and even more have called for information. While as a group we have taken a definite stand against the building of a NAFTA Trade Corridor cutting the county in two, we do not require that people come to the meetings with their minds made up. G.C./C.A.R.E. welcomes those who are just trying to gather information and educate themselves. It's a big issue, and it will take informed citizens to make a final decision that we all can live with.

"Still, it's obvious that have the active support lot of people," Shi continued. "That's tant in order to pr we're not a special group or a radical f our own creation. T grassroots moveme people who are con about the future of County and how its can contribute to that future," she

"G.C./C.A.R. have been ex couraging," sai Alvarez, also a the group's pul team. "We a from a wide ra area's populatio amazing and gra see different types of ple who are sitting and working together have a few die-hard c vatives, we have a fe cal liberals, and ev in between, but

GCC RECEIVES MAJOR GRANT - Governor Parris Glendening announced this week the awarding of a $340,000 grant to Garrett Community College and Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, for the purpose of developing an advanced technology center. The award was announced at a meeting Tuesday that was attended by Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president; Lowell Bender, associate dean of continuing education; and Jim Hinebaugh, county director of economic development. The funding is a result of a grant written by Terry Norris of GCC, which will be used to design and develop training to benefit employees in this area. GCC's efforts will focus on three major areas: alternative agriculture/aquaculture, eco-tourism, and information technology. Allegany College will develop training in health care, telecommunications, and tourism. Dr. Herman expressed his appreciation to Gov. Glendening, saying, "We want to thank the governor for his generosity. This grant will be very helpful in training a new workforce to meet the needs of the new century." Pictured above are the GCC faculty members and administrators who will be involved with the technology center. Seated are Lowell Bender, left, and Dr. Herman. Standing, from left, are Jim Allen, director of technology at GCC; Willie Lantz, agriculture instructor; and Don Storck, GCC director of information systems. More detailed information about the program will be released later.

Rt. 42 To Be Closed Sept.4, Opened Sept. 13

The State Highway Administration (SHA) will replace two small structures along MD 42 (Friendsville Road) between I-68 and U.S. 219 in Garrett County beginning September 4. MD 42 will be closed to traffic between I-68 and U.S. 219 in the immediate work zone area from September 4 at 8 a.m. through September 12.

Detour signs, advanced warning signs, and variable message signs will alert and guide motorists along the detour route. Motorists traveling along the eastbound and westbound I-68 will be detoured to exit 14, southbound U.S. 219 (Keysers Ridge), which connects with U.S. 219/southbound MD 42, south of the town of Accident. Motorists along northbound U.S. 219 wishing to access I-68 will stay on northbound U.S. 219 through Accident to I-68 at Keysers Ridge.

The closures are necessary to ensure worker safety and reduce the potential of low-level flooding and drainage problems by replacing two shallow structures with larger, drainage pipe structures, according to an SHA spokesperson.

Construction will occur around-the-clock in order to expedite the work in a timely manner. SHA has conducted public meetings with all involved parties including local elected officials, businesses, and the Garrett County School Board to ensure there will be minimal impact to the surrounding community, the spokesperson said.

Questions regarding this project should be directed to the SHA's District Office in LaVale at 301-729-8440. SHA reminds motorists to reduce speeds, stay alert, and use caution while driving the detour route.

County Purchasing G.W. Plaza To Permanently House Health Dept.

The Garrett County Commissioners announced Tuesday that the county will purchase the Graham Weeks (G.W.) Plaza, located along Rt. 135 just east of Mountain Lake Park, to permanently house the Garrett County Health Department. The health department is to be out of its current location in Garrett County Memorial Hospital by early September. While the department will not meet the original deadline of Sept. 3, the offices on the third floor will be out by Sept. 8. The second and first floor will be out by Sept. 30, according to the commissioners. This arrangement was met with satisfaction by the hospital administration.

"We are very pleased with attention that has been paid to this issue," said Joyce Bishoff, chairperson of the hospital's board of governors. "We appreciate the cooperation and the concern. This is the way things should be handled."

The third floor health department offices at the hospital will be moved temporarily to the vacant Buchmann Optical building, also located along Rt. 135 about a half mile beyond the G.W. Plaza in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park. This move will allow the hospital's plans of asbestos removal to proceed only a few days later than originally planned.

"There is no problem with a delay of a few days," said Walter Donalson, CEO and president of the hospital. "We can certainly work with this arrangement."

The G.W. Plaza is being purchased at a price of approximately $285,000. Because the commissioners set aside a contingency fund for the past two years, the money is available, Commissioner Roger Glotfelty said. The county's fiscal authority is respon

The purchase of the new building will add an item to the county budget, but the commissioners agreed that it must be done.

"This is simply a responsibility of the county," said Monty Pagenhardt, administrative officer for the commissioners. "It is workable and it will be budgeted."

The commissioners stated that they hope to even-

Celebration Set For 200th Anniv. Of Stanton Mill

Spruce Forest Artisan Village of Grantsville will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the opening of Stanton's Mill at Little Crossings with a special program on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 2 p.m. The event will take place on site (weather permitting) and will include historic narration, impersonation, vocal solos and duets, and a bicentennial choir of more than 100 voices from all parts of Garrett County, directed by Nancy Learey, director of the Garrett Choral Society.

According to Dr. Alta Schrock, founder of the village, the Little Crossings Pageant was presented in 1963 to celebrate the sesquicentennial (150 years) of the Casselman River Bridge, the longest single-span bridge in America when it was built in 1813. The pageant was presented again in 1968 to celebrate the sesquicentennial of the 1818 Little Crossings Inn and Stagecoach Stop (now Penn Alps Restaurant). "Now, in 1997, Western Maryland residents within a 30-mile radius are joining together to celebrate the 200-year history of an early industry vital to our pioneer ancestors - the grinding of grain for man and

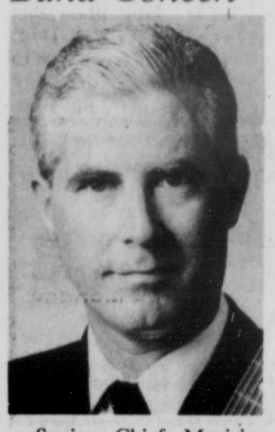
Sullivan To Head Up Navy Band Concert



Senior Chief Musician Robert E. Sullivan III is unit director, guitarist, and vocalist with Country Current, The United States Navy Band's country-bluegrass group from Washington, D.C., which will present a free concert on Saturday, Aug. 30, at 6 p.m. at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The concert is the last offering of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's summer season.

A San Diego, Calif., native, Sullivan began studying guitar at age 20 and, a year later, was performing on guitar and bass, and singing with professional Latin, blues, and pop music bands in San Diego. He joined the Navy in 1975 and was first assigned to the Navy Band in San Diego as a guitarist, vocalist, and arranger. During this assignment, he made a 90-day South Pacific cruise on the USS Horne (CG-30) to Fiji, Samoa, Australia, New Guinea, and Tahiti. He also studied with jazz guitarist and studio artist Bill Coleman.

He was assigned to the Navy's Port Authority rock/jazz group as a guitarist from 1979 to 1986. For the next two years, he was a ceremonial percussionist, performing state honor and arrival ceremonies at the White House and Pentagon, and chief-in-charge and performer for the Navy band Combo.

He joined Country Current in 1988 as electric bassist and was string bass instrumentalist with the group's bluegrass unit. He was designated unit director in 1992.

Sullivan comes from a proud Navy family, a spokesperson said. His grandfather, the late Robert Emmett Sullivan Sr., served on the USS Leviathan during World War I, and was on the USS Vincennes during the battle of Guadalcanal in 1942. His father, Robert Emmett Jr., was on the USS Ranger (CV-4), and with the Amphibious Force Pacific in Borneo and the Philippines during World War II.

Known for his versatility and flexibility in performance styles, Sullivan's talents give added dimension to Country Current, the spokesperson said.

For more information about the concert, which is being sponsored by Penelec, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

GLAF SEASON TO CLOSE WITH "COUNTRY CURRENT" CONCERT - The United States Navy Band, Country Current, will present a free bluegrass concert this Saturday, Aug. 30, as the final event of this year's Garrett Lakes Arts Festival series. The concert, sponsored by Penelec, will begin at 6 p.m. at the Deep Creek Lake State Park. Guests are invited to bring picnic suppers, lawn chairs, and blankets. (The park entrance fee will be lifted after 5 p.m.) Prior to the music, a dance group visiting from Germany will perform. Their show will begin at 5:30 p.m. Country Current was formed in 1973 and has toured the country in support of Navy recruiting. They have performed with such artists as Charlie Daniels, Vince Gill, and Boots Randolph. They have also traveled abroad extensively. The director is Senior Chief Musician Robert E. Sullivan III, who is also a guitarist and vocalist with the band. For more information about the show, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Plans Being Finalized For 30th Annual Autumn Glory

Garrett County's 30th Annual Autumn Glory Festival will be held October 9-12 in downtown Oakland and the surrounding area. The festival will begin Wednesday, Oct. 8, with the Kick-Off Reception and crowning of Autumn Glory Queen Chelsea Frickey at the McHenry House at Wisp Golf & Ski Resort at Deep Lake.

Thursday, Oct. 9, events will begin with special hours at the Garrett County Historical Museum and the Fireman's Parade and Oktoberfest Meal and Celebration at the Oakland fire hall. Other festival events include the "Official" Maryland State 5-String Banjo and Fiddle Championships; a Sport Card, Comic Book, and M...bilia Show; Mt. ...show and sale, a 5-K run, Garrett County turkey dinners, a 5-K Run/2-Mile Walk for Sight, a "No Hands" Sundae Eating Contest, and the annual Gortner Airport Fly-In are still other events of the festival.

The sponsor of this year's Grand Feature Parade is First United National Bank and Trust. The Official Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle Championships are funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council. Bell Atlantic Maryland and GPU Energy are patron sponsors of the festival.

Shuttle service will be available Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to and from downtown Oakland, the arts, crafts, and antiques ...turkey dinners.

For more information or a free brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550-1581; telephone 301-334-1948; E-Mail GCTourism @garrett.ncin.com.

Garrett Schools To Benefit From Technology Fund

Six Garrett County schools are listed among those to benefit from the State Information Technology Fund.

Accident, Bloomington, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Route 40, and Swan Meadow elementary schools were named this week as participants in Governor Parris Glendenning's initiative, Maryland Connected For Learning."

Through this program, selected schools will receive either hardware, software and/or Internet services.

The schools applied for state assistance from a menu of options which included wiring kits, routers, computers, telephone network and Internet services, and software for a value not exceeding $3,000.

Outdoor Concert In The Park Set At Spruce Forest

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, has scheduled an Outdoor Concert in the Park, Saturday, Sept. 6, rain or shine. In case of inclement weather, the concert will be held inside the Village Church.

The concert will begin at 7 p.m. and concert goers are encouraged to bring blankets or chairs. A concession stand will be available throughout the evening.

The first musician to perform will be Greg Latta, an award winning multi-instrumentalist, singer/songwriter and recording artist from Frostburg. He plays an eclectic mix of Irish, traditional and contempory folk, Broadway, bluegrass, and original music.

Latta plays a variety of instruments including hammered dulcimer, guitar, banjo, harmonica, recorder, and Appalachian dulcimer. He is a three-time Mid-eastern hammered dulcimer champion.

Using both 6-string and 12-string guitars, Latta plays old coal mining, whaling, and children's songs.

Following Latta, the Sodabread Trio will perform songs and dance tunes in the Celtic tradition, using a variety of instruments. The trio's music ranges from traditional to more progressive, and blends sounds of fiddle, guitar, piano, mandolin, flute, and banjo, among others.

In 1987 the group released an album entitled "Sodabread - On a Roll." Trio members are Dennis Botzer, Angela Botzer, and Marc Glickman.

The concert is sponsored in part by Byco Enterprises and the Maryland State Arts Council. There is an admission charge for those age 13 and over. Tickets are available at Spruce Forest Village Office, Penn Alps Crafts Shop, both in Grantsville; The Book Center, Cumberland; and Main Street Books, Frostburg.

Tickets will be available at the gate but will be limited in case of inclement weather.

Proceeds from the concert benefit the nonprofit Spruce Forest Artisan Village, which is open to the public year-round, Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anyone wishing more information may contact Trish Morgan, administrator, weekdays at 301-895-3332.

In Memory of
who passed away on April 6, 1986 & on Aug. 20, 1996.

I was in my bed feeling sad all alone one night.
I saw two angels flying , both were dressed in white.
They came over to me both were free of pain.
I was really glad to see my Dad and Mom again.
Mom said Heaven is so beautiful everything's aglow.
It's such a peaceful feeling that only angels know.
Then Mom smiled, took my hand and said don't you be sad,
Jesus takes good care of me and I am with your Dad.
As they started talking the tears poured from my eyes.
Then Dad and Mom both hugged me and said
"Michael please don't cry."
They said they love me very much, more than words can say.
And I would be with them again
one very special day.
Dad said you'll understand it more
when you get older.
But we are with you all the time,
we're the angels on your shoulder.
Now have good thoughts throughout your life and aim right for the sky.
And when things get rough and you think we're not here.
"Remember Angels Fly."

I love you Dad and Mom.

Commissioners Host Monthly Staff Meeting

The monthly staff meeting of all Garrett County directors took place Tuesday at the office of the Garrett County Commissioners. Among the many reports given, the elected officials were told of a new employee in the state's attorney's office, the opening of the public schools on Monday, and the progress of the Shallmar warning system as well as the Army Corps of Engineers' road work in that town.

State's Attorney

Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County, announced that the position of state's attorney investigator for the her office has been filled by Patrick Kelly, formerly a detective with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Welch also noted that her office has received a fully funded community service grant. This is the third year the money has been granted to the county and Welch noted that it is the final year as well, since the grant is available for just three years. The money helps sustain the community service program for individuals convicted of crimes. The county will be responsible for the program costs next year.

Public Schools

Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, reported to the commissioners that the opening of schools on Monday went "smoothly," with the head count at approximately 5,057 students. Teets said he expects that number to increase by a few more after Labor Day. He said the school facilities are generally in excellent condition for use.

Teets also noted that the results of the CTBS tests were announced recently and that Garrett County students who took the test performed well.

"Our scores were outstanding -- above the national average at all levels," Teets said. "We are very pleased about these results."

Emergency Management

Brad Frantz, director of the county's office of emergency management, reported that he had attended last week's Flood Summit in Allegany County and was able to obtain useful information. He said there is hydrological data available over the Internet, which he hopes to obtain in order to make more beneficial judgments in the event of flooding emergencies.

Frantz also updated the commissioners on the early warning system being installed in Shallmar. The system will alert citizens of the town in the event of a high water emergency so that they can evacuate before a flood arrives. The system is chiefly to be used if the Mount Storm Power Plant would experience a dam failure. If this happens, the citizens of Shallmar will have very little time to escape. The alarm system, which is currently being installed, will sound early enough for them to get out, Frantz said.

Social Services

Henry Brown, director of the department of social services, thanked the commissioners for their work in helping to obtain a new vehicle for his agency.

Brown also reported that the formation of the Family Violence Coalition is nearly complete and he will be presenting the formalized bylaws of the group soon.

Roads Department

Lee Thorne, director of the county roads department, told the commissioners that the Army Corps of Engineers should be finished with the work in Shallmar on about Sept. 15. The original finish date was Aug. 30, but various delays have caused the workers to extend the date. Thorne added that at the completion of the army corps's work, the county staff will tar and chip the roadway for the winter.

Planning, Zoning

John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning, said there were 300 building permits issued in July, as individuals made the effort to obtain the permits before the Aug. 1 building code deadline. In August, the office has issued just 25 to 30 permits.

Nelson also announced that another $30,000 in grant money has been obtained by the new building permits and inspections office, bringing the total in grant funding to about $57,000. This constitutes about two thirds of the entire budget, Nelson said. These are start-up funds, he explained, as the office should become self-sustaining after its first year.

Extension Service

Alice Hevner, director of the county extension service, announced that an open house event will be held at the service's new building on Oct. 7 from 2 until 5 p.m. The new office is located along Rt. 135 just east of Mountain Lake Park.

She also noted that the county fair was a successful event for her office and all those involved, and that she and her staff are now engaged in the Maryland State Fair, taking place this week.

Theft Reported By Kayakers On Sang Run Road

Kayakers reported personal possessions were stolen from their vehicle while it was parked along Sang Run Road.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, John Warner, Bolivar, Ohio, Gregory Flery, Lansing, W.Va., and Jerry Chesterfield, Fayette, W.Va., had left their vehicle on Sang Run Road about 12:30 p.m. and went kayaking on the river.

When the men returned from the trip about 5 p.m. they found that a backpack containing clothes, and a wallet with cash in it had been taken.

Police report the items were removed by an unknown suspect or suspects through open windows in the vehicle. The items were valued at over $1,000.

B&E/THEFT

A case of breaking and entering and theft reportedly occurred at the Diesel Institute of America, Grantsville.

A report filed with the police states that sometime between 11 p.m., Aug. 20, and 6 a.m., Aug. 21, an unknown suspect or suspects broke a window and entered the office of the business. A locked safe was forced open and a cash box and money bag were taken.

The damages and cash taken total $652.

4-WHEELER STOLEN

Theft of a 4-wheeler from a residence on Stanton Friend Road was reported Saturday.

The 1997 green Honda TRX400 belonged to Tim Artice. According to the police report an unknown person or persons used bolt cutters to remove the lock that secured the vehicle.

The investigation continues.

tually consolidate the entire health department at the new location, except for the various facilities located in the northern part of the county. The current building is not big enough for the entire department, but there is room to expand, the commissioners said.

"It's not the perfect place," said Commissioner Wayne Wilt. "There just aren't very many large buildings available in the area. We have to settle for what we can find and we feel this is the best choice out there right now."

The 9,100 square foot facility will house the clinics, such as WIC, child health, family planning, and other general public services. The offices temporary lodged at Buchmann Optical will be vital records and the outreach services.

The hospital administration plans to move the nonclinical functions into the renovated "old" hospital, including data processing and medical records. Donalson said his staff hopes to be finished with the work and the move by June 1998.

We're Against It...

We were pleased to hear on the radio this morning that the Garrett County commissioners and the county office of economic development now support the idea of a public information forum on the issue of the proposed four-lane, north-south highway through Garrett County. So far the push for this project has been led by a handful of individuals, but opposition is mounting rapidly, and it is time, right now, to find out if the majority of our citizens support the project.

With this column today, we wish to join the ranks of the opposition, a decision that came only after weeks of research and careful thought. The focal point of this consideration has been: What is best for Garrett County?

Proponents say that a four-lane super highway will enhance our economy by bringing new jobs to Garrett County. We believe that it could bring new jobs, but at the high cost of severely damaging the landscape and the appeal of our county. Even though Bausch & Lomb was one of the top two or three employers in the county, our primary industry is not the making of eyewear, or any other product. Our bread and butter is the recreation and tourism industry, as the employment of thousands - and not hundreds - of our residents is directly or indirectly connected to this form of commerce. Many of our visitors come here, purchase property here, and keep coming here, to get away from urban sprawl, which includes four-lane highways.

Also, with the many advancements in technology, there are numerous industries and job-providing companies that do not depend upon a super-highway system for the delivery of their products. The people who would most benefit from this corridor are truckers and other through-traffic drivers, not county residents.

We believe Rt. 219 in its present form is perfectly adequate as an access route to central and southern Garrett County. Traffic jams simply don't happen on 219, except maybe during fair week and immediately following the July 4th fireworks. Yes, there is a good argument for constructing some kind of through-traffic by-pass around Oakland, but even that would not have to be a four-lane highway.

It is absolutely incredible to us that public hearings are not required for this kind of project prior to the congressional vote on the funding package for it, because once Congress approves such a package, it is extremely difficult to halt these projects. When an individual who resides in an area that is zoned, for example, files for a special exception to the zoning laws, all of neighboring residents are contacted and invited to a hearing. If the residents are opposed, then the exception generally is not granted. Yet the same is apparently not required for a super highway that will slice and slash through scores of properties, and affect the property values and quality of life of hundreds of contiguous residents. We don't understand that.

We were also recently given the opportunity to vote on a proposal to allow limited Sunday sale of alcohol in Garrett County. The majority of our residents said no, so it was not approved. Surely the impact of this highway project is at least as significant on the lives of our citizens as the Sunday blue laws.

We wish that our county commissioners, who have certainly not come out strongly in favor of the project, would take a far more proactive role in this matter. So far they stayed out of the fray, claiming that the control/outcome of it is "not really in their hands" right now. As our commissioners, surely they do have a lot of influence on this issue, and we would like to see them get more aggressive and involved, quickly.

Finally, we also believe that persons including Jim Hinebaugh (economic development), David Moe (chamber of commerce), Delegate George Edwards, and others who are spearheading this effort are doing so entirely for what they believe is in the best interest of Garrett County, and for that attitude, we thank them. They have put a lot of time and effort into this; we just happen to disagree with their stand.

Responses to a community survey are coming in three-to-one against the project. Let's have that informational meeting and try our best to find out once and for all if the majority of our residents want, or do not want, this highway project. The clock is ticking.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recently I read a newspaper article about the town of Grantsville wanting a new library for its community. The news article was very funny, yet what the author said pulled at my heart strings. After reading some of the comments concerning the proposed new Rt. 219 highway, I must state that I am angry.

The politicians, both state and local, can fund a new road for out-of-state travelers, but cannot afford to build a new library for the children of this Garrett County community. How pathetic! So this is what our political leadership is all about -- greed instead of service to one's community.

This isn't economic development; this is an immoral crime to the citizens of Garrett County.

To the Editor:

Once again our survey regarding the proposed four-lane interstate highway dubbed "Continental One," which would ultimately run from Canada to Miami, is in the paper on page A5. Do not confuse this proposed highway with the seprate issue of "upgrades" to existing Rt. 219, or bypasses of Oakland and Accident. These are different issues, and should be treated as such. The local traffic associated with the lake will not be "fixed" by another four-lane interstate highway running through our county.

Please take the time to fill the survey out, mail it in, and let your opinion be heard.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

Time constraints compel this warning to every farmer, property holder, resident, and friend of Garrett County: You are in imminent danger of eminent domination!

The more I research the international trade corridor, Continental One, the more alarms scream. I believe that Continental One has been "railroaded" ("pushed through quickly to prevent careful consideration and objection") through the U.S. Congress. The sheer number of variables or parameters that must be considered to properly evaluate this project, those variables' complexities, and the infinite inferences that could be drawn by the free citizenry overwhelm me.

This master plan (biased though it might be) should be available at every library in the county! Why isn't it?

Folks, I believe you are being blind sided! I encourage you to contact Conservative Action for a Rural Environment (C.A.R.E.) representatives at 301-334-8842 (Jaime Alvarez), 301-746-8619 (Dana Shimrock) or 301-999-4171 (myself) immediately. Please do it for your children's future.

Then God blessed Noah "... Every beast of the land, every bird of the air, all that creeps upon the ground and upon all the fishes of the sea. Into your hands they are delivered. Just as I gave you the green plants. ..." (Genesis 9:1 ff.)

To the Editor:

This year a crisis has arisen in the form of sudden ecological changes at Deep Creek Lake. Within one short summer, the lake has been taken over by massive amounts of vegetation to the extent that it could shortly become unusable. There are large patchy areas throughout the lake where plant growth has surfaced or come to within a few inches of the surface. This is not just a shoreline problem. Even many areas of deep water in the central portions of the lake have become obstructed. Consequently, boats of all sizes, including rowboats and sailboats, as well as motor boats, are having trouble functioning. In some areas even swimming is affected. Business owners and lake residents and county citizens should be equally alarmed.

There have been gradual and periodic changes in the lake environment over the past 40 or 50 years, some from natural causes and some from lake management policies. Lakes and rivers throughout the country have experienced similar onslaughts (the Potomac, for example), and various methods have been effective in solving the problem. One would assume the DNR is the agency to which we should turn for answers. However, the DNR is noted for measuring, counting, "monitoring" and setting up studies to evaluate rather than taking action. We have an emergency, a potential disaster which could destroy the economic and the recreational use of Deep Creek Lake. What can we do?

To the Editor:

I am opposed to making Route 219 into a four-lane, limited-access "international trade corridor" through Maryland and West Virginia. This road will divide farms, make barriers between neighbors, friends, and playmates, and it will open areas which should remain intact in order to protect the beauty, the birds, and the wildlife from unnatural predation.

I believe we can as easily attract industry and business without this highway as we can with it. Route 68, a major east-west corridor, has contributed little additional industry to our communities in Garrett and Preston counties. Although we can offer good, decent people who are willing to work, industry is looking elsewhere, whether it is in Mexico or just in a more hospitable climate.

It is my hope that we can educate our young people for jobs that may be available in the future so they do not need to move away to find work, perhaps in the wide range of computer related opportunities or medical fields or something else. Historically, as the young people have grown up, many have had to move away to find employment. In my mother's family there were seven children who grew up on a farm in Preston County. Five of them had to move to urban areas to be able to find work. Those who lived to retirement age (four of them), moved back to the Preston-Garrett county areas to enjoy the benefits of living here. Perhaps as more and more people retire to this area there will be businesses developed to fill their needs.

Route 219 is not a pana-

THE UPS STRIKE AND LABOR DAY

My first post-strike UPS package arrived last Friday. The romance surrounding the men and women in brown in their brown trucks has a Santa Claus aspect to it. Mailmen, too, bring good things, but they also bring me all my bills, lending an ambiguous quality to their arrival.

As a variant of an old saying, every silver lining has a cloud. That proved no less true with UPS than with any other sweet endeavor. Some Grinch must always try to steal Christmas. In the case of UPS it was the UPS management.

Polls have shown that the typical American attributes the success of UPS to the friendly efficiency of the men and women in brown. The conclusion of that typical American is that UPS executives were acting like hogs, and the folks on the front line of the business deserved what they were asking for: more full-time jobs, a raise, and continued control over their pensions.

The Teamsters' strike against UPS could have been just one more armwrestling match in the history of labor relations. Many factors set it apart, one of which I want to comment on.

Going on two decades now, I (and the rest of the country) have been listening to anti-government propaganda. Even the current Democratic president has informed us that the era of big government is over. Providing the amplification system for this message has been corporate America.

Chambers of commerce and big money interests have told us that if government would just get out of the way, then the market would provide a new era of prosperity. Without so much as a public blush, just as soon as a strike is hinted at, the executives of UPS--joined by other business leaders--called on the president to intervene.

I should like to have seen headlines on the front pages of major metropolitan daily newspapers like this: "Corporate America Reverses Position on Government Intrusion" or "Business Leaders Invite Government to Interfere With Free Markets." Perhaps there were such headlines, and I just missed them. If so, someone please send them to me.

I did hear comments like this from a few journalists on the radio, but their observations were brief and peripheral. The major dailies are part of corporate America, and they are not likely to point out too clearly the contrast between their overt commitment to democracy and their less obvious but more potent business practices.

What big business means it they cheerleads for getting government out of our lives, is that it should be able to do as it pleases. So if someone gets in its way, even a group of citizens acting democratically to withdraw their labor, then big business cannot do as it pleases, and therefore its rights are being infringed.

It is like big brother telling Mom and Dad to stay out of it when he is beating the living daylights out of little brother, but crying "foul" when little brother fights back. During the UPS strike corporate America showed themselves to be classic bullies: belligerent when strong, cowards when weak.

That same corporate America has been steadily brainwashing Americans for two generations to identify with management against the workers. They want us each to own two shares of stock so we will identify with the owners against the employees. They want us to identify with the big shots--by some perverted logic--being taken advantage of by all the little guys actually doing the work.

Americans need to rethink things, to realize that the Teamsters of today are much like the Minutemen of old, fighting for the freedom of the many against the privilege and wealth of the few. Labor Day is as good a day as any to remember that the wealth of any nation is built on the backs of those who labor.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

By Melodee Hill

If you've ever played the card game Hearts you know that you can't lead with a heart until hearts have been "broken," or played during a trick. Well, it's sort of like that with vacation stories: if you tell me about yours, I'll tell you about mine. Now that Mary McEwen has started the trend of writing about vacation, I think I'll continue with a column about our vacation, barring literary zigs and zags of one sort or another. We did recently vacation in Ocean City, Md., for a few days, and I would like to share some of our experiences and observations about the trip.

First of all, it is a long drive. If you've ever driven to California, driving to O.C. would seem like a day at the beach (eventually), but for someone who is content to curl up on the back porch with a good book and who logs about 25,000 miles a year just driving around "town," that drive is about six and a half hours too long.

However, if you can stay awake there are usually some interesting things to look at on the way. I was awake for part of the trip, mainly because it's easier to drive that way, so I took note of the more peculiar and puzzling road signs along the way. One that we have seen many times is near my parents' home near Westminster. It is an advertisement for the Boring Fire Department in the town of, you guessed it, Boring. What were the founders thinking when they named this town? We have never ridden through it for fear of falling asleep, but you can just imagine the storefronts and street signs. I don't even want to think what the mayor's name might be, since the surname Dull is known around those parts.

Then there were the highway signs, particularly one for the Monacacy Scenic River. Where were they hiding the Monacacy Unsightly River? That's what I want to know. Not that I want to go there or anything. Farther along our route was Sixty Foot Road. Why bother? I can probably see all the way to the end and could hardly get my van turned around on a road that short. Maybe that's where the unsightly river lay in wait for curious tourists. Hopefully this road name was not referring to some strange occurrence among 24 men, 1 horse, 2 three-legged dogs and a chicken that happened there long ago. Sometimes, it's better not to know.

We also passed a homemade sign reading "Barnyard Produce." What's the first thing that comes to mind when you hear the word barnyard? It's not peaches and tomatoes. Eggs, maybe, but that's a stretch you really have to think about. Another home-grown sign proclaimed "Thinking Man's Market." Okay then, let's think about this. The building is in serious need of repair and could collapse at the drop of a zucchini, it's located along a notorious tourist strip (ergo, double prices) and I'm a woman who does most of the marketing. Thanks, but I'll pass.

Once we got to Ocean City many more sights awaited us. (Watch this slick, literary move.) Bare belly buttons abounded on the beach and the boardwalk. (Alliteration can be hazardous to your career.) Many people, not just women, were seen taking their navels for a stroll on the boards in the evening. Now, my own belly button has not seen the light of day since the Eisenhower administration, and that's the way it should be. Besides, I try to make friends, not scare them away.

Quite a few navels were pierced with exotic looking rings of silver and gold, and I thought that maybe some of the stores or bars could start putting hitching posts back up outside their establishments with short lengths of chain hanging from them. Let's say a wife wanted to go look inside a store or one spouse wanted a drink and the other one didn't. They could just say, "Now, honey, you just wait here, I'll be right back." Then they could hitch that chain to their spouse's bellybauble just like Roy Rogers hitching up Trigger. The time they save by not having to look all over for each other they can use to go get another body part pierced. Thankfully, no one has thought of using this technique on toddlers, yet.

Speaking of toddlers and bare bottoms, I won't even talk about "the beach's most beautiful couple." Or, as I referred to the bronzed, fitness magazine centerfolds in the thong bikinis, (watch out, more alliteration) "the bare buns on the beach." We were treated to their presence for only one day, although we searched in vain on the other days. There was also a woman who had a tattoo of a twisting vine that started (or ended) near her belly button, encircled her waist and disappeared into her bikini bottom. I try not to think of where that ivy was planted.

You are perhaps wondering if you will read anything about the actual vacation part of our vacation. I guess not (I did warn about zigs and zags), but it would hardly be a trip to the ocean or a story about the ocean without the ocean. The problem is that I find the ocean so magical, so soothing and just so there, it is hard for me to talk about it or describe it without becoming maudlin and practically teary-eyed. And to think that's salt water, too.

WESTERN MARYLAND BOOTH WINS AT MACo - At the recent Maryland Association of Counties Convention, held in Ocean City, Governor Parris Glendening presented the first place certificate for the best booth to the Western Maryland display. The three western counties -- Garrett, Allegany, and Washington -- joined forces to build on the theme "Western Maryland or Bust." The display consisted of numerous photographs taken along the Old National Pike, as well as covered wagon memorabilia, all arranged with a "frontier" motif. Pictured with the governor are Pat and Jim Light, local residents and volunteers at the booth.

"Net Weekend" Slated To Wire School Computers

Maryland's second "Net Weekend" has been announced by the office of Governor Parris Glendenning.

The Net Weekend, Sept. 26-27, is a designated time when thousands of volunteers statewide will help equip and wire schools to the Internet.

"Come out and help," the Governor urged, emphasizing that every pair of hands will be put to good use. "We need thousands of volunteers from all walks of life and from all across the State," he said.

Governor Glendenning added that he hopes Net Weekend '97, like the event one year ago, will help more people to become involved in their local schools.

During last September's inaugural Net Weekend, almost 8,000 volunteers helped wire more than 500 schools across the state. The volunteers provided the labor that saved the State and local school systems $5 million.

Net Weekend '97 is designed to assist 450 Maryland public schools.

In a separate part of this initiative, schools applied for goods and services to help them provide high speed, networked, Internet workstations.

The Governor announced Bell Atlantic will be the lead sponsor for the September effort. Individuals and organizations can register for Maryland's Net Weekend '97 online at http://www.mec.state.md.us/mec/mdconnect or by calling 1-888-828 0048, a toll-free number.

Volunteers will begin working Friday afternoon, Sept. 26. Wiring activities will continue Saturday, September 27.

Paradise Point Cove Scene Of Boating Accident

Natural Resources Police (NRP) issued three warnings to a juvenile who was operating a personal watercraft that collided with a boat in the Paradise Point Cove area of Deep Creek Lake this past Saturday afternoon. The accident also led to a citation being issued to the adult owner of the personal watercraft for letting the juvenile operate the craft before his sixteenth birthday.

The accident occurred when the personal watercraft struck the starboard side of a 1990 Supra boat, owned and operated by Roger Robinette, a Cumberland resident. Robinette transported the injured juvenile to the docks at Bill's Service Center, and from there the juvenile was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, treated for a bruised hip and released.

In addition to the citation issued to Jamiel J. Ambrad, who was hosting the juvenile as a guest at his Paradise Point Road home, NRP issued three warnings to the juvenile as well, for operating a personal watercraft in a negligent manner, operating a personal watercraft within 100 feet of another vessel in excess of six knots, and operating a personal watercraft without having a boating safety certificate.

Seatbelt Data Indicate Use Saves Lives

Seat belt usage is a key factor of saving lives in motor vehicle accidents, according to recent data from Maryland State Police.

"More than 100 people killed in traffic crashes during the first half of 1997 might have been alive today if they had been wearing a seat belt," the report stated.

From January through June 1997, 298 people died in traffic crashes on Maryland Roads. Preliminary review of the crash data shows that 199 people were not wearing seat belts. Of those 199 people, police officers who investigated the crashes believe 110 would have survived if they had been wearing their seat belts.

Of the people killed in traffic crashes so far this year, 37% would probably have survived if they had simply buckled their seat belts, the police reported.

MSP Superintendent Col. David B. Mitchell has ordered all barrack commanders to focus on increasing public awareness and enforcement efforts. "Seat belt use is clearly a matter of life and death," Col. Mitchell said. "It is a real tragedy to think that more than 100 people would be alive today if they had only chosen to wear seat belts. Our goal is to raise compliance by reminding people of the life-saving benefits of seat belt use," he stated.

Under Maryland's new primary enforcement seat belt law, effective Oct. 1, motorists can be stopped and cited by a police officer for not wearing a seat belt even if no other traffic violation is being committed.

Col. Mitchell is promising immediate and strict enforcement of the new law, as soon as it takes effect, to help increase compliance. "Increased compliance with the seat belt law means lives will be saved and people will be spared from serious injury," he said.

So far this year 373 people have died on Maryland roads. This is a 6% increase over this time last year, according to the police report.

Maryland State Police are preparing seatbelt and child safety seat educational enforcement efforts this holiday weekend as the final wave before Maryland's primary seat belt law becomes effective. Each traffic contact will provide an opportunity for troopers to remind motorists to wear their seat belts and also to offer assistance in proper installation of child safety seats.

"EVERY BUNNY SHOULD BE BUCKLED" is the slogan on the T-shirt worn by the four-foot plush rabbit lovingly clasped by his new friend, Sara Cavalier, of Mtn. Lake Park. The nine-year-old Cavalier won the bunny at the Garrett County Fair, where the Garrett County Health Department offered fairgoers the chance to win it all week long. Persons visiting the Health Department booth were reminded that Maryland law requires that all children under the age of four and weighing less than 40 pounds travel in an approved child safety seat. The booth workers also provided information on the governor's special immunization initiative, which stressed the importance of having all children protected from preventable diseases by their second birthday.

Local Student Leaves Permanent "Voice" At WMC

A GARRETT COUNTY VOICE IS . . . BUILT? Chester Stacy, a county resident and recent honors graduate of Western Maryland College, is pictured above next to a work of his own design -- and the college's first permanent artwork. The Voice Wall was designed and produced by the 22-year-old Garrett Countian, who is the son of Marshall and Cindy Stacy, Swanton. It will remain a permanent fixture on the campus, which is located in Westminster. A dedication ceremony is slated for this fall. See story.

Western Maryland College's first student-designed permanent work of art -- a brick wall spelling out the word "voice" -- has been completed. The work was designed and produced by Garrett Countian Chester Stacy, son of Marshall and Cindy Stacy, Swanton. A 1997 graduate of the college, Stacy did the work as his final honors program project. A dedication ceremony is slated for this fall.

The work is built with 1,512 bricks, approximately the number of students attending WMC last year. The word "Voice" is formed with 77 of the bricks, protruding in the front, capturing Stacy's idea that "each of us is a brick in the wall. Together, we are strong; together, we can be heard."

Now known as "The Voice Wall," it is located on the main campus near West Main Street in Westminster. Its completion came after a great deal of struggle on the part of the young man, who doggedly met time after time with college administrators about the idea and then was disappointed repeatedly by masons who reneged on promises to build the wall. He poured the footer in April of this year, but contractors were not secured until July. The work was finished on July 31.

To honor his home, Stacy incorporated a few "pieces" of Garrett County in the wall. The cinder block that provides the inner support was brought from this county, and he added some local sand to the mortar mix. In another published report, Stacy said the 18-foot by 6-foot wall is proportionate to the dimensions of a brick and is built of brick to represent the transition of people from a nomadic to an agricultural society.

Stacy graduated in May, earning a bachelor of arts degree with honors, with a specialty in graphic design. The dedication ceremony slated for this fall will be attended by several college, town, and state officials, as well as the young man's parents.

Seeks Input

found a common ground on this issue because it affects all citizens of the county," he said. "It's a wonderful thing to see people come together, willing to drop labels and participate in the democratic process."

Alvarez noted that in speaking with local residents, G.C./C.A.R.E. members have noted that "one issue appears to be a misinterpretation by many people who could possibly benefit from a bypass around a congested area. In fact, that is a completely different matter than a Continental Trade Corridor."

G.C./C.A.R.E. members stressed in a press release that they are not actively opposed to improvements to roads in areas where such a need can be proven to exist, such as the addition of a passing lane in traffic-congested areas of the existing Route 219.

"There is a big difference between targeted road improvements that are designed to benefit people who live here, versus the concept of putting a restricted-access, four-lane highway right through the middle of the county to make it easier for interstate traffic to pass through without stopping, except at a McDonald's or an Exxon," a member stated.

G.C./C.A.R.E. members also clarified that they are not against economic development and better jobs for the future. Progress and change were viewed by the group as inevitable, but members stressed that local residents should have the opportunity to provide input regarding the definition of what progress means for Garrett County as a whole.

The group contrasted the concept of building a four-lane interstate to attract outposts of large national and foreign-based companies and trucking warehouses with the promotion of small locally owned businesses that would serve specific needs of the community or a specific marketing niche both locally and globally.

Furthermore, the emergence of technology-based businesses that could capitalize on various initiatives promoted by Garrett Community College and the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative was discussed.

G.C./C.A.R.E. members also voiced concern for the future of the agricultural base of the county, sharing anecdotes of farms being split in two by I-68, with farmers having to transport machinery long distances to reach fields on the other side of the interstate that are within sight of their homes.

G.C./C.A.R.E. members indicate that they feel that the responsibility for providing information on the highway proposal has fallen to their group by default.

"We are getting numerous questions and calls from many people looking for information on the building of a new interstate highway in the county," said Shimrock. "People are telling us that they feel that they've been left in the dark without being informed by their elected officials, and they want to know where they can get information on 'the concept' that their town councils voted to approve without any public notice," she said.

"The citizens of Garrett County want to be informed and have input into the decision-making process, which hasn't occurred to this point," Shimrock stated. "That's sad because the vote on federal funding is coming up in September, and public meetings and public input should have been gathered in an on-going fashion long beforehand."

Shimrock said that G.C./C.A.R.E. intends to proceed by holding a steering committee meeting this coming week, then it will announce the date and location of their fourth public meeting shortly thereafter in newspapers and on the radio.

G.C./C.A.R.E. will also be sponsoring an informational public meeting in the near future where officials and citizens on both sides of the issue can exchange views, comments and concerns.

Between now and then, the group encourages citizens with questions and comments to contact either Dana Shimrock at 301-746-8619, Jaime Alvarez at 301-334-8842, or Craig Speicher at his toll-free number, 301-999-4171.

Shimrock encourages Garrett County residents "to educate themselves about this highway proposal. Read the coverage in The Republican, and the letters to the editor. Then, no matter what stand you decide to take, take the time to respond to the newspaper survey and attend the public meeting that G.C./C.A.R.E. will be sponsoring in the near future. We also invite the general public to our G.C./C.A.R.E. meetings, even if only to come and listen."

Shimrock stated her conviction that "reaching a decision is not enough - then you need to share it. Write and call your federal, state and county elected officials and even the Chamber of Commerce, letting them know your concerns," she said. "Write the newspapers, too.

"The bottom line," Shimrock concluded, "is that Garrett County belongs to all of us. Planning for its future is not only our right, but our responsiblity. We live in a special place that has been passed down to us, and which we will pass on to our children and their children."

In a related item, the highway controversy has begun to attract state-wide attention. A column published in the Wednesday, Aug. 27, issue of The Baltimore Sun, written by Sun columnist Dan Rodricks bore the title "Road To Ruin?"

Rodricks, whose article contained quotes from local Chamber of Commerce President David Moe defending the proposal, came out solidly against it by saying, "It's hard to imagine a highway 'improvement' of this dimension improving the quality of life in Garrett County, which has a wise history of not depending on industry for economic stability."

Ray Owen Will Perform At MFA Awards Banquet

Ray Owen, national recording artist, award-winning songwriter and entertainer, will appear at the Maryland Forests Association's Awards Banquet and Silent Auction Friday evening, Sept. 26 at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. He will present "From Buffalo Chips to Microchips," a "reverently irreverent" performance of satire, humor, and musical comedy "that cuts through the craziness of our modern age," according to a spokesman for the event. "The show dispenses a veritable cure for the terminally earnest, the humor impaired and the chronically cool," the spokesman said.

The event is open to the public. Dinner tickets may be purchased by contacting the MFA at 301-895-5369.

Owen has toured with many legendary entertainers including Willie Nelson, Arlo Guthrie, Hank Williams Jr., and Bob Hope. Having previously performed at MFA's 1995 Annual Meeting in Baltimore, he was chosen to return and help set the stage for this year's meeting theme of "From Landowners to Loggers: The Challenges of Logging in the 21st Century."

The Association's annual meeting will continue Saturday, Sept. 27, from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Wisp. Speakers will include Dr. Harry Haney Jr. of Virginia Tech and Society of American Forester's president Dr. Harry Wiant. A five-member panel discussion, and a question and answer session with representatives from key state departments will also occur. For further information, persons may contact Karin Miller at the MFA's office, 301-895-5369.

Many Thanks
Betty L. DeWitt & Family

would like to thank all the relatives and friends who sent flowers & cards for my mother's funeral, Mrs. Edith P. Rodeheaver. Thanks for the many friends who came to the funeral home, and to the funeral, for their many words of comfort and kindness. Thanks also for the wonderful meal at Lakeside Assembly of God Church, and the women who prepared it. My mother was a very faithful member of the church until her illness. Thanks also to Stewart's Funeral Home, Rev. Robert Shank and Rev. Charles Teets for a fine sermon and for their many words of comfort. Thanks to Brian Browning for the beautiful song he sang at the funeral. Also many thanks to so many others who helped with her care.

God bless all of you,
Betty L. DeWitt and husband Stanley & all their Children, Grandchildren & Great Grandchildren
